THE REFORM CLUB DINNER.

Many Able Speakers, Among Them Ex-President Cleaveland.

New York, N. Y.—The annual dinner of the Reform Club, which was given Saturday night in the new ballroom of the Hotel Waldorf, was a notable gathering. Representative men of the gold wing of Democracy from all parts of the United States who played a prominent part in the recent campaign were present. It was the first occasion on which President Cleveland has delivered a public speech since his retirement from office. When the list of invited guests was made public it was generally understood that the speeches which would be delivered would, in a large measure, indicate the policy of the gold wing of the Democratic party in the next Presidential campaign.

John DeWitt Warner presided. At his right sat Ex-President Cleveland, and on his left was Ex-Postmaster General, William L. Wilson. Mr. Cleveland was the central figure in the dining hall, and his speech, in response to the toast "Present Problems," the chief feature of the occasion. The toasts and those who responded to them were as follows:

"Present Problems," Grover Cleveland.

"Sound Currency," John G. Carlisle.

"Tariff Reform," William L. Wilson.

"Municipal Administration," Edward M. Shepard.

"The New South," Donelson Caffery.

"National Democracy,'" William D. Bynum.

"The Political Outlook," Henry G. Turner.

"Andrew Jackson and the Restoration of the Gold Currency," Josiah Patterson.

Five hundred and eight persons sat down to the feast. They were distributed about ten long tables.

UNDERGROUND TRAIN WRECKED.

Ten People in a Precarious Condition.—Was It a Bomb?

London, Eng.—A tremendous explosion occurred on the underground railway at 5:30 o'clock this evening as a train filled with men from the city was making its usual stop at Aldersgate station. The glass roof of the station was blown out. Many of the gas lights in the waiting rooms and on the platform were extinguished. A general panic ensued. When comparative quiet had been restored it was found that a first-class ccoach had beeen completely wrecked and that its occupants were lying about moaning and bleeding. Ten figures were found to be in a precarious condition and were removed to hospitals. A number of persons who were standing on the platforms were also hurt. Much of the wreckage was hurled across the station.

The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is believed to have been the result of an accumulation of gas which became ignited in some way. Many persons, however, believe that the disaster was not due to accident, but was caused by the explosion of a bomb which had been placed in the station with the intention of wrecking it.

HARD FIGHTING.

Insurgents and Spaniard Have a Tussel in Havana Province.

AFTER THREE LONG HOURS

The Insurgents are Overcome and Spaniards Take the Camp.

AN AMERICAN'S "FISHY" STORY

His Hair-Raising Story.—In the Insurgents' Camp.—He Was Captured By the Spaniards After a Chase.—Dinner to Consul General Lee.

Havana, Cuba.—Lieutenant-Colonel Alfen, with the Maria Christiana battalion, engaged the insurgents at Purgatorio, Havana province, his advance guard pursuing them to the Province farm. Here they were entrenched and three hours' fighting followed. The Spaniards captured the camp and important documents. The fleeing insurgents left sixteen killed on the field and many wounded. The regulars lost none, but had sixteen wounded,

Orders have been given for expulsion from the island of Guirre, a naturalized American. He was captured in a boat near Havana. Enrique Palma and Mizard, Italians, and a French lady, Mariana Flandana, have been lodged in jail in Santiago de Cuba on a charge of assisting the insurgents.

An American named Kelly, who left Havana a short time ago for the insurgents, and was strung up on the charge of being a spy, was interviewed on his arrival here today. He admits the adventure, but is reticent as to details. He denies, however, that he had any understanding, or compact with the Cuban junta in New York.

He says he went out from Havana alone and joined the insurgents as an electrician. A few days after he was sent with a sergeant and eleven men on an alleged mission to meet Sylvester Scovell, who, the insurgents said, would soon land. They halted by the side of an old well stripped Kelly naked shot him and, believing him dead, tied a rope around his neck and threw him into the well. The water was up to his armpits. The insurgents then dropped stones on him, but fortunately these missiles did not hit him. They then went away. He escaped from the well about midnight, and arrived at the Spanish outposts, where he presented himself entirely naked with a view of surrendering under the amnesty decree. When the commandant called on the guard to receive him he was frightened. He ran and was fired at. The Spanish started in pursuit and he was finally caught and taken into custody. They asked him why he ran off, and, after hearing his story, treated him, Kelly says, with all consideration, gave him food and clothing, furnished him with a bed and kept him until an orred of his release arrived.

Mr. Kelly's head was grazed in several places by bullets, his face and eyes are burned and punctured with powder and his hair, formerly an auburn, is now most white. He says the insurgents robbed him of a money belt containing $600, but this latter statement is discredited here because when he originally left Havana, en route for the insurgent camp, he neglected to settle his hotel bill. He intends to return to the United States next week. He says the Spanish officers treated him much better than he could have expected under all the circumstances.

Several of the newspaper correspondents who will leave Cuba tomorrow, gave a dinner this evening to Consul General Lee at the Hotel Inglaterre. Among the American journalists present were Mr. Springer, Dr. Burgess and Mr. Childes.

PROMINENT MAN FOUND DEAD.

A Well Known Birmingham Contract Suddenly Summoned Away.

Birmingham, Ala.—Dr. J. J. Clapp, aged 53, was found dead in the hallway of the old Southern Railway building on the corner of First Avenue and Twenty-second Street, Saturday night about 7 o'clock. Death resulted from apoplexy. The remains were interred Sunday afternoon from the family residence at Woodlawn.

Dr. Clapp had the contract from the Caldwell Real Estate Company to remove the debris from the old hotel site on the corner of Twenty-second street and First Avenue, and Saturday afternoon about the time when the men quit work he was missed.

Mr. A. T. Mason, an employe in the Southern Railway building, saw Dr. Clapp enter the building and go to a room in the rear about 5 o'clock. When Mr. Mason returned from supper a couple of hours later he saw the inanimate body of Dr. Clapp lying on the floor. Officers Goggan and Eagan were summoned and an ambulance called.

Will the Chattanooga Southern, a railroad now runnig between Chattanooga and Gadsden, be extended to Birmingham, is a question that is being frequently asked. A rumor to that effect has been printed more than once and again it is going the rounds. It comes from Chattanooga now, and is said with a high degree of authority. It is given out that for some time the new reorganization committee has had in contemplation the extension of this line, and now, from indications, it appears that the plan is to be carried out. The story comes that civil engineers are now in the field surveying a line between Gadsden to Montgomery and Birmingham. General Manager M. F. Bonzano is credited with failing to deny the rumor and is said to have uttered the remark to a reporter: "There may be something that I can give out in a few days."

A Cheerful Landlord.

"I stopped at a very small town in Kansas a few weeks ago," said L. M. Martines, of Chicago, at the Raleigh. "I had been in the place once before and knew where the hotel was. It was late at night when I got off the train and went to the hotel. After repeated knocking and shaking the door the landlord came down and ' me in. The next morning breakfast was not ready when I got up, bt the landlord was in a good humor about it, saying, 'Everybody is sick about the house. You are the only guest, so I didn't get breakfast ready.' He went out into the kitchen and in half an hour served a very good meal for me. I found that my customer was out of town, so had nothing to do but stay around the hotel all day. The landlord got dinner and supper for me and I asked, 'Who is sick?'

"'My wife, two children, the cook, the waiter and the porter.'

"'I should think you would get some one else.'

"'Can't. They won't come.'

"'Why?'

"'They are all afraid of the smallpox. I'm the only one who hasn't got it, and I feel the symptoms. I'll be in bed to-morrow, but I think the porter will be well enough to run the hotel by that time. He is sitting up to-day.'

"I paid my bill very suddenly and put myself under medical treatment when I reached the next town."

PINCHING TO PROSPER

C. P. HUNTINGTON'S VIEWS ON THE PRESENT CRISIS.

A Monopolist's Rusty and Ridiculous Remedy for Rampant Roguery and Ruinous Restriction—There Can Be No Wealth Created by Saving.

Mr. C. P. Huntington, in donating $100 to the San Francisco boulevard relief committee, accompanied the same with some remarks doubtless regarded by him as original and "practical," but which to us appear (mostly) rusty and out of date, when not truisms. He said: "there ought to be enough work, either in the city or country, to keep constantly employed the 2,600 men who you say, have registered their applications." He is "dead right" there; but we respectfully suggest to him to investigate and ascertain why they don't get that work. He thinks that in the eastern cities the greater part of those tramping the streets "don't want work at all, but the wherewithal to keep them from the necessity of work," and that many others will only work in the city. He is "inclined to believe ("inclined" is good) that the great majority of those who really want to work can get it somewhere," and if such want "to work with an honesty of purpose," "making a point of living on less than he makes, he will not, in one case out of a hundred, ever need again to seek employment."

Now, if Mr. Huntington will put a brake on his "inclination" and look at things just as they are today, instead of as they were when "I was a boy," and "never had any difficulty in finding plenty to do," he will greatly alter his conclusions. Laborers and mechanics, especially those with families, know very well that precarious as are the opportunities for work in cities, they are still more so in the country; for, while a man in a city may seek work in a hundred places in a day, in the country especially in the artificial deserts of the west (which Huntington and other owners of land grants, etc., have helped to make), it takes a man all day to apply for work at half-a-dozen places, more or less, or sometimes at even one place; discouraged by failure, he becomes a "tramp;" his manhood is nearly gone; he is emasculated physically and mentally, wrecked beyond hope.

But they should "reduce their desires to the level of their needs until they can afford to indulge in them." Hundreds of millions, in China, India, Poland, Hungary, Egypt, etc., have been doing that for centuries, some of them, perhaps, for thousands of years, with the result of chronic hunger and frequent famines. One million human beings a year are, it is estimated, absolutely starved to death in India, in ordinary years; over half the population of those countries never have enough to eat for a year together; all of them "reduce their desires to the level of their needs," and the more they do this the less they get. This is Asiastic semi-barbarism, and to this condition, seemingly, Mr. Huntington desires to reduce Americans.

"Men and women require, as a matter of necessity, very few things to make them comfortable." How few? We suppose, even Mr. Huntington would admit that they need some house room. Should the "very few things" consist, in the Chinese manner, of a dozen bunks in a room, wives and families to be regarded as unattainable luxuries for "common folks?" "One can well afford to sacrifice the pleasures of a few of his early years for the sake of that freedom from anxiety which he will find such a boon and comfort in his declining days." That is, he can deprive himself of all beyond the necessities of a bare subsistence until he gets to be a mere "stick," like Huntington, incapable of rational enjoyment, bent only on money making.

But how many would be successful even on such a miserable line as this? Not one in a thousand. That people get wealthy by saving is disproved by the common experience of most wealthy men in this country and of hundreds of millions in Asia and Europe. And even in our own country, in the seed farms of San Jose, men are paid but 80 or 85 cents a day, and employment uncertain at that. How much can they save?

But where Huntington is out of date is in totally ignoring the difference in conditions of labor between today and sixty years ago, when machinery, including railroads, had hardly begun to act in its work in this country—certainly not west of the Alleghanies. Not that labor saving devices are in themselves injurious; they are such only because the natural resources which should be open to laborers so displaced are made artificially scarce. Huntington himself, levying toll on millions of acres for which he rendered no more equivalent than did the robber barons, besides charging exorbitantly for services actually rendered in transportation to and from these same lands. Witness the Mussel Slough, where the Southern Pacific exacted $40 an acre for land not worth a cent until the settlers reclaimed it from aridity by following exactly the line of action he recommends—"reducing their desires to the level of their needs," and even much below that level, that the Southern Pacific highwaymen might snatch from them the result of their labors.

Of course Huntington could reply that if the systems are bad, the people make them so. But he very well knows that one railroad magnate has more influence in legislation than a million of ordinary citizens, else the Union and Pacific railroads would be today government institutions.

JAMES H. BARRY.

Send this paper to one of your neighbors. It will do him good.

POVERTY IS UNNATURAL.

You Must Wish for the Solution of the Problem.

We seldom hear of any person starving to death, though sometimes it does happen. But life was intended to be something more, something higher, than a mere existence. No one can believe God to be good and just and at the same time believe that he intended that any man, capable and willing to earn a living should be reduced to the humiliating, miserable and painful condition of dependence on the bounty of others for the very existence of himself and his family. No one will pretend to deny that but for charity thousands and thousands would starve every year in this land of plenty.

On every hand is heard: "Yes, it is plain there is something wrong, somewhere. But what can we do? We are not responsible for it. We give in alms all that we can afford to. What more can we do?"

There is this you can do. You can honestly and conscientiously study the problem. You can give a patient hearing to social reformers. You can keep your mind open to conviction instead of meeting every proposed remedy with a sneer or a bit of sarcasm. You can read books written by men who are devoting their lives to this great social problem. You can encourage free speech and promote education. But first of all you must get rid of the idea that the problem cannot be solved. You must tear out of your mind the blasphemous thought that God intended such conditions. You must wish for the solution of the problem, and then it will not be long before you hope for the solution, and then we are quite sure it will not be much longer before you find the solution and become earnest advocates of it.—York, Pa., Gazette.

Fundamental Finance.

According to its definition and to common sense, money is a medium of exchange, but according to Shylock-Republicanism money is a thing to loan and draw interest on.—Pittsburg Kansan.

The only reason in the world that Cuba is not free is because Spanish bonds would be worthless the moment that this island was no longer tributary to Spain.—Chicago Sentinel.

A great many measures are being ventilated in Congress for the improvement of the National banking system. The death of the entire scheme affords the only hope of a substantial reformation.—Bee.

It is as ridiculous to demand that money should be made of gold or silver as to demand that slop-buckets should be made of Harveyized armor plate.—Cumberland, Md., Uncle Sam.

I undertake to affirm, without fear of contradiction, that a paper issued by the government with the simple promise to receive it for all dues, would be as uniform in its value as the metals themselves.—John C. Calhoun.

The first issue of greenbacks were redeemable in neither gold nor silver, and yet they stood at par with the gold dollar. France has a purely fiat paper dollar. It is irredeemable and is not a promise to pay. It circulates freely both in France and bordering countries; it has always been at par with silver and gold, and it was with this dollar that France lifted herself so rapidly out of her war debt and into comparative prosperity as to excite the admiration of all civilized nations.—Cumberland, Md., Uncle Sam.

A St. Louis chemist announces that he can make gold out of clay. A short time ago a chemist announced that he could convert silver into gold. This the St. Louis chemist also claims. Verily the chemists will settle the vexed single gold standard yet. We hope they will succeed in making both gold and silver too cheap to be desired as money metals.—Commonwealth.

Unequal Distribution.

Philanthropist—Well, my little man, what is the trouble; will you not confide in me?

Little boy, crying—Trouble never comes singly—there's another pair of twins at our house—and—and—we didn't have enough to eat before they came—I don't know what we'll do now.

Philanthropist—The Lord will provide—God always provides bread and butter for each mouth.

Little boy—Oh, yes, I s'pose so—but the trouble is that he sends the mouths all to our house—and the bread and butter to your house!

A Theory of Japanese Cuteness.

It is said the government of Japan have concluded to have a gold standard. Why not? In order to bring it about, however, they have not contracted the currency, but changed the value of their silver currency. That is, they have passed a measure equivalent to changing the value of half dollars in silver to one dollar! Heavens, how could they do that? Why, by an imperial fiat. It is perfectly simple. Some learned professor has told us that the Japanese and Chinese race have bigger heads—heavier brains—than Europeans. This may account for their action.—J. D.

Republics May Deteriorate.

To what low and base conditions even a republican government may fall is illustrated in this description of ancient Athens, when her people thought themselves enjoying the blessings of political liberty: "The great men were only too prone to regard their fellow citizens as a rabble, mere things to be played off against one another, and to consider that the objects of life were dominion over the property and rights of their fellows; that love, self-sacrifice and devotion are fictions; that oaths are good only for deception."—Farm, Stock and Home.

Swinburne.

Lest, perchance, your reckoning on

Halt and hearken, lords of land and

Ere the tide be full that comes with blessing and with curse.

Leo Tolstoi.

The government, as well as the ruling classes, know, in their secret hearts that the land question contains all social questions; that, with its solution, all special privileges would disappear, and that this question is the leading subject of the day. Yet, while they pretend to care for the well being of the masses, and while they raise for them benefit societies, factory inspection, income taxes, aye, and-eight-hour working days, they carefully ignore the land question.

La Salle.

Industry is now wholly under the control of capitalists, speculating for profit. No one now makes things first of all for his own use—as mythologizing economists relate—and then exchanges what is over for the like redundant work of his neighbors. Men make everything first of all and last of all for other people's use, and they make it at the direction and expense of a capitalist who is speculating for money, and, in the absence of systematic statistics, is speculating in the dark. Chances and social connections make him rich—the same make him poor.

Women to Assist in Silver Agitation.

A "Woman's Department" has been formed under the American Bimetallic Union, with headquarters in Chicago. Some of the most prominent women of the nation are to engage in the work. It is a non-partisan organization for carrying on educational work in the interest of bimetallism. Their plan is to create an interest among thinking women, encourage organization, invite men to membership, establish libraries, circulate bimetallic literature, and in other ways instruct and arouse public opinion throughout the Union, as to the necessity of our government returning to bimetallism before its people can again be prosperous. Mrs. M. E. Walker has been selected as the general secretary of the department. Her great abilities as an organizer, writer, and speaker, warrants the belief that she will soon make her influence felt in the silver cause, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Mrs. Walker was a recruit in the Bryan campaign, from the republican ranks of whom the advocates of silver may feel justly proud. She is a life-long bimetallist, having interpreted the planks in the various republican platforms, to mean true and immediate bimetallism, and having held to that hope until the fiasco at the St. Louis convention, when her party, falling into the hands of the money power, repudiated all former declarations and bowed to the gold standard. She has already associated with her many of the ablest women in the country, and the work of organization is reaching out to every state. When women rally to the support of a principle, they are sure to meet respectful recognition. It will have the effect of causing men to stop and think, and it is a pretty well established fact that when men investigate the monetary question, they soon become converted to bimetallism, except in the cases of money lenders, and interest gatherers of whatever nature. Friends of bimetallism can greatly assist the cause by placing themselves in touch with the Chicago office, 705 Journal building, by means of correspondence with the secretary.

A GREAT BATTLE

In Which Turks Were Repulsed With Enormous Losses.

THE GREEKS BEHAVE WELL.

Volo Surrendered.—Europe Will Not Intervene.—Greek Subjects in Turkey.—Turkey's Terms.—Situation at Athens.—Greece Wants Mediation.

The Paris La Patrie publishes a dispatch from Rome, saying that Admoral Canevarro, the Italian commander in Cretan waters, has been ordered to consider Col. Vassos, who commands the Greek army of occupation in Crete, as a belligerent, and to no longer oppose Greek attacks on the Turkish troops there.

Europe Won't Intervene.

It is semi-officially stated that there is reason to believe that European intervention between Turkey and Greece in the present position of affairs is regarded as wholly impracticable, both Turkey and Greeece having resolved to continue the war. The powers are thus obliged to stand aside until one of the combatants is entirely defeated.

Greek Subjects in Turkey.

In response to notes from the French, Russian and British Ambassadors, the Turkish Government has announced that the expulsion of Greek subjects from Turkish territory is postponed to a period of eight days from May 3.

Meanwhile the French consulate is issuing certificates of protection, and by this act is causing general comment in official circles, as the porte has not yet recognized France as the protector of Greek Catholics in Turkey.

Turkey's Terms.

The terms of peace which Turkey has offered Greece have reached the Washington legation. They are as follows: Restoration of the boundary fixed by the treaty of 1831 which gave to Turkey all of Thessaly, including its extensive sea coast; the evacuation by Greece of Prevesa and other points in the province of Epirus, the withdrawal of the Greek troops from Crete and the acceptance of the plan of autonomy offered the island by the porte, the payment of a war indemnity large enough to cover the expense of the mobilizing of the Turkish troops.

Greece Wants Mediation.

A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, to Gaulios, dated May 1st, alleges that M. Ralli, the Greek Premier, has semi-officially intimated that Greece will gratefully accept the mediation of the powers, and that Turkey has intimated that she will be satisfied with payment of war indemnity, guaranteed by the temporary surrender of the Greek fleet.

The Gaulols adds: "The Sultan, now conscious of his strength in consequence of the successes of the Turkish forces in Thessaly, is resolved to claim sovereignty over Egypt or obtain more effective recognition thereof."

Situation at Athens.

The storm which threatened to break in Athens seems to have passed. The new Cabinet contains several men of excellent talent and the election is generally well received. Nevertheless, angry mutterings are still heard and the sky may soon redarken.

On the whole, the new ministry is well received by the newspapers. The Asty observes that the Cabinet has a formidable task and hopes it will do its duty "without heeding the inconsiderate clamors of the street."

The Acropolis expresses the opinion that King George ought to invoke the mediation of Europe in person.

The more advanced newspapers term the ministry the "royal defense Cabinet."

Volo Surrendered.

A telegram received at Athens, Friday night, says that a great battle has been fought at Velestino between a Turkish force of 8,000 and Gen. Smolenski's brigade. The dispatch states that the Turks were repulsed with enormous losses.

Gen. Smolenski has asked the crown prince to congratulate the troops.

It is said the Greeks behaved well, the third brigade and artillery particularly distinguishing themselves under Gen. Smolenski. The Turkish losses were heavy; the Greek much lighter. Col. Jannicosta, with the Eighth Regiment, pursued the Turks several miles.

Full grown and mature men, well armed, though without uniforms, are arriving at the scene of battle with every train. They are supplied with ammunition.

A dispatch to the London Times from Larissa says: "Vola has surrendered to a force of Turkish cavalry. The garrison yielded up its arms without resisting.

"The railway between Vola and Larissa is being restored, the Greeks having torn up the rails during their fight on Saturday. Eleven large guns were captured by the Turks on their way to Vola, and all the war material in the town has fallen into their hands."

JAPS AROUSED

Incensed Against Hawaii and the United States.

According to advices by steamer the Japanese Government is aroused over the refusal of the Hawaiian Government to permit Shin Shiu Maiu immigrants to land there and has ordered warships to Honolulu to enforce what the Japanese immigrants consider their rights.

Grave complications have arisen, according to Japanese official newspapers, over the action of the United States Government in sending the Philadelphia to Honolulu. Japanese official organs claim the cruiser has been sent as a menace to the Japanese Government and is significant in that it foretells annexation of the islands to the United States.

Japanese official newspapers are full of war talk. The Chowie states that a telegram had been received by the Japanese authorities to the effect that England has sent an intimation to the United States Government that she objects to the intended annexation by the latter of the Hawaiian Republic.

Industrial Convention.

At the close of the session of the Alabama Industrial and Commercial Association which met in Huntsville last week, President McKee named the following committee on immigration Wilson R. Brown, Sheffield; H. C. Davidson, Montgomery; E. Lesser, Birmingham; W. S. Wells, Huntsville; C J. Hildreth, New Decatur. The nominating committee suggested the following named gentlemen for Vice-Presidents, which were unanimously elected by the Association:

First District—E. L. Russell, Mobile.

Second District—J. D. Roquemore, Montgomery.

Third District—S. H. Dent, Eufaula.

Fourth District—T. G. Bush, Anniston.

Fifth District—Peter A. Brice Wetumpka.

Sixth District—A. R. McGehee, Tuscaloosa.

Seventh District—R. A. Mitchell, Gadsden.

Eighth District—R. E. Pettus, Huntsville.

Ninth District—F. Y. Anderson, Birmingham.

During the session T. W. Pratt offered a resolution embodying a memorial to Congress to appropriate sufficient money to complete the work on the Colbert shoals and thereby open up the Tennessee river to commercial traffic

L. L. Gilbreath, of Montgomery, offered the following, which was also adopted:

Whereas, Alabama has had a representative on the rivers and harbors committee of the House of Representatives continuously for the past fifteen years, and, whereas, new committeees of the House are now being appointed, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Alabama Commercial and Industrial Association respectfully request Hon. Thomas B Reed, Speaker of the House, to appoint a member of the Alabama delegation to a place upon said committee.

Resolved, also, That all the civil bodies of the State be requested to make similar requests upon the honorable Speaker.

Noted Outlaw Killed.

A telegram from Santa Fe, N. M. says United tates Marshal Grant has received word that the outlaw Black Jack was killed last week in Arizona. Shereloe Billy Ned Leavel eighteen miles west of Clifton, by a posse of deputy marshals.

It was at first thought that the man killed was Sid Moore. The body is identified as that of Black Jack. The big rewards offered for the arrest of Black Jack will be paid to the posse.

Startling Testimony.

At Chicago Miss Sarah Louise Ervin, private secretary and stenographer to President Spalding of the defunct Globe Savings Bank, testified before the Senatorial Investigating Committee in Chicago. She testified that Spalding had given her about $75,000 with the understanding that he was some time later to secure a divorce from his wife and marry Miss Ervin Found Two Dead Infants.

A box containing the bodies of two dead infants was found in a deserted stone quarry near Bellevue, Pa. The box was securely fastened, and a membership card of the Canton, (Ohio) branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, was tacked on the lid.

Family Exterminated.

A message from Bar Mills, Me., announces that John L. Lane, wife and child, were found dead at Bony Eagle five miles from Bar Mills, this morning. All had been shot. It is supposed that a double murder and suicide was committed.

Sentenced to Hang.

H. S. Perry, of Atlanta, who killed Bely Lanier, at Decatur, March 8th, alleging that Lanier had been guilty of an assault upon the person of Perry's wife, was convicted of murder in the first degree last Friday morning and sentenced to hang May 21st.

Women Take Part.

Three thousand persons marched in the social labor parade Sunday in New York. Conspicuous among them were 400 women. The procession disbanded at Union Square and listened to addresses.

A great many people are now in the civil engineering business. At least, they are damaging the Mississippi.

STATE OF TRADE

A Falling Off in the Volume of Transactions.

COTTON MILLS ON FULL TIME

Continued Slow Collections and Unfavorable Conditions in the Iron, Steel, Cotton and Some Other Industries. The Outlook in the Pittsburg District Bad.

Bradstreet's weekly review is as follows: The more conspicuous features of trade are less satisfactory, including moderate reaction in prices of staples, a falling off in the volume of transactions in various lines, continued slow collections and less favorable conditions in the iron, steel, cotton and some other industries. There is less demand for staple varieties of iron and steel, makers reporting trouble in securing specifications for contracts on hand. Southern pig iron has secured lower rail rates to points west of Pittsburg and Buffalo, all of which saving has been given the purchaser. The outlook is for the shutting down of some furnaces in the Pittsburg district. Sales of wool have declined sharply, but receipts of foreign have brought up the week's movement to a fair total. Nearly a year's supply has been imported during the first four months of the year. The movement of cotton goods is slow and prices are low, buyers purchasing in large lots only where inducements are offered. Woolen manufacturers are fairly supplied with orders and are inclined to ask an advance on new business. The three months' restriction of output in cotton goods has ended and mills will now run on full time. The price and movement furnished little basis for encouragement, the only advance on general recognized conditions being those of pork and cotton. Higher prices for woolens is an effort to anticipate the tariff.

Exports of Indian corn have also fallen off this week, amounting to 3,057,465 bushels, against 4,769,000 bushels last week, 2, 413,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 1,016,000 bushels two years ago, 889,000 bushels three years ago, and as compared with 4,040,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

There is a moderate increase in the commercial death rate, there being 244 business failures throughout the United States this week, compared with 216 last week, 254 in the week one year ago, 206 two years ago, 179 three years ago and as contrasted with 248 in the last week of April, 1893.

There are 31 business failures reported from the Canadian Dominion this week, against 22 last week, 26 in the week a year ago, 36 two years ago and as compared with 33 in the corresponding week of 1894.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY

Pressed the Key and Set the Wheels of the Exposition in Motion.

In compliance with the request of the Executive Committee of the Nashville Centennial, the President opened the Exposition by wire from the White House at 1:13 o'clock Saturday.

The arrangements were very simple in detail. The circuit was made up by the Western Union officers, under the supervision of Mr. Montgomery, Executive Clerk in charge of telegraph, and Manager Marean, of the Western Union.

The wires went direct to Nashville, by way of Richmond, Va., and Asheville, N. C., repeaters being used at the former place. The circuit was a little over 2,700 miles in length.

Immediately upon completion of the circuit into the Exposition grounds, the President was notified by Secretary Porter, and at once walked across the hall to the telegraph room, where, under the guidance of Mr. Montgomery, he stepped up to the desk, placed his finger on the Morse key and slightly pressed it, which action instantly gave the signal to the Nashville end and put in motion the wheels of the Exposition.

The members of the Tennessee delegation in Congress, Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans and several other prominent Tennesseeans, witnessed the ceremony.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS.

They Will Meet This Year in Wilmington, North Carolina.

The Baptist people all over the Southern States are just now greatly interested in their annual gathering, the Southern Baptist Convention, which convenes May 7, in the beautiful North Carolina city of Wilmington. The convention this year is looked forward to as giving promise of one of the most successful in years. The church has greatly prospered in the South during the past twelve months, and the delegates will have reports to make that will be the just pride of every Baptist in the country.

The Baptist Young People's Union auxiliary to the Southern Baptist Convention, will hold their convention at Wilmington the day before the church gathering, May 6.

A special dispatch from Athens says that M. Ralli, the new Greek Premier, has announced his intention of calling to arms every able-bodied man in Greece.

JOKER'S BUDGET.

Jests and Yarns by Funny Men of the Press.

CRUEL.

Father—That young man who comes to see you, Ethel, is a brick.

Ethel (delightedly)—Oh, papa!

Father (unfeelingly)—A regular gold brick.

JUST ONE WORD.

"A word with you, my friend," said the polite applicant for assistance.

"Good-by," said the man, granting his request.

NO FLIES ON HIM.

X—You, a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty, dock your horses' tails! Is it possible?

Z—Why, of course. I want to protect the flies.

A TRIFLE ENLARGED.

"Sawyer seems to think a good deal of himself."

"I should say so; he has had a Moorish arch cut over his office doorway so he can get his head in and out."

AVOIDED THE QUESTION.

"Are you a drinking man?" said the kind-hearted lady at the door.

"Say, really, missus," replied the tramp, with a smile, "yer didn't take me for a lady, did yer?"

NO BLAME ATTACHED.

Weary Waller—Do you believe in working for a meal when you are starving?

Ragged Ruffles—When a man is in extremities he may do anything without being blamed.

CONSIDERATE.

"Did you ever do anything for charity, my man?" asked the kindly old lady of the tramp at the back door.

"Yes'm, that's what I'm tryin' to do you for now, 'm."

SAD OCCASION.

First Tramp—Didn't I see you sawin' wood yesterday?

Second Tramp—Yes. Dat was one of dem sad occasions when a man what's lazy finds he can't afford to be idle.

DISARMED.

"Have you heard, Count, how Mr. Jones had his arm taken off?"

"No, mees; ees it possible?"

"Yes; he put his arm round Cissie's waist last night, and, of course, she took it off at once."

COMFORT.

Wandering Willie—Yer must be crazy, axin' everybody fer a job.

Weary Raggles—No, pard. When dey all say dere's no work to do it makes me feel dat dis aint sich a bad world arter all.

THE OPPORTUNITY GRASPED.

"It was your fault that our son has turned humorist," said the wife.

"I admit it," said the husband.

"Ah!" said the son in question. "One blames the father and the other fathers the blame."

It was voted a joke all around.

NOT PARTICULAR.

"I suppose," she said acridly, "that you would turn up your nose at cold victuals."

"No, ma'am," replied Meandering Mike. "You'd be surprised to see how good-natured I'd take it if you was to offer me a Roman punch or champagne frappe.

HER REPLY.

"It's a strange thing," said Willie Wishington, "every time I try to sing my dog howls."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "I have always thought that dogs ranked almost with human beings in intelligen

HIS LITTLE JOKE.

"I am glad to see," said the new boarder, "that you have something outside of eggs on the table this morning."

"But we haven't," said the landlady.

"Oh, yes, you have—shells! Please pass the condensed milk!"

OF COURSE.

The militiaman was undergoing an examination for a non-commissioned office.

"What do the army regulations make the first requisite in order that a man may be buried with military honors?" was the question fired at him.

"Death," he promptly responded.

And after mature reflection the examining committee held that he was right.

HE LOOKS AHEAD.

Gummey—What makes you look so solemn, Spatts? What are you worrying about now?

Spatts—I am afraid that my daughter will marry an English lord.

Gummey—What a ridiculous idea! You have no daughter. You are not even married.

Spatts—I know that, but I am accustomed to look ahead.

AN ALLURING SCHEME.

Moneybags—You want me to engage in a speculation whereby I can make half a million. Explain the scheme.

Cholley Cheekly—Your daughter is to receive a million from you if she marries with your consent?

Moneybags—Yes! but what has that to do with it?

Cholly Cheekly—Everything. You consent for her to marry me. She gives me the million and I give you half. See?

Passing of the Drum Major.

"The drum major as he used to exist, the pride of the band and the glory of the procession, is a thing of the past," remarked a bandmaster. "In his place, freaks of all kinds are now popular, from small boys with their twirling baton to fellows who carry a musket and go through all kinds of fancy evolutions while the band plays on. The drum major plays but little part in a band except for show. Though the small boys thought he led the band in its music as well as otherwise, he had no more to do with the music than has the letter P as far as sound goes in the word pneumatic. The brass band is led by its leader, and the only thing that was expected of the drum major was to look as important as he could. The fellow who led the Pittsburg band in the inaugural parade drew a larger salary for his ability and skill at handling the musket he carried than did any of the players in the band outside of the leader, who is always the financial as well as the musical manager of the band.—Washington Star.

OUR county executive committee, in preparing for next year's campaign, should not overlook the fact that the new settlement at Thorsby is probably composed of Republicans, and while they are small in number it brings a new element into our home politics which has to be taken into consideration.

PARIS, the gay and brilliant capitol of France, is in mourning. While the elite of Parisian society was holding a charity bazaar the building caught fire, and one hundred and nipeteen dead bodies of the aristocracy of France have up to the present been taken from the ruins. It is one of the most terrible calamities on record.

SINCE the state has a state examiner and two assistants, why cannot some of these black belt counties be given a little investigation? Some of these have not made a publication by which the tax-payers could see where their money goes in a decade, despite the fact that the law requires a semi-annual publication of the treasurer's report.—Monitor.

AT the annual meeting of the Alabama Commercial and Industrial Association at Huntsville last week, Mr. McKee, chairman of the constitutional convention committee, reported that the work done by his committee had been apparently fruitless, but that a strong public sentiment had been aroused in favor of having a constitutional convention called. The committee urged every business organization in the State to go to work and compel the next general assembly to call a convention.

CHILTON county, despite the depressed condition of affairs throughout the country, is steadily forging ahead. In recognition of this fact and in order to more readily meet the requirements of this section, commencing next Monday, a daily afternoon paper, known as "The Mid-Ala. Daily News," will be published at Clanton. At the start it possesses at least one unique feature, in that it is the first daily paper in the world published at five cents per week, less than one cent per copy. In our State news, in another column, the intelligent compositor makes the price six cents instead of five, but that is an error. We wish the new daily unbounded success.

IF you need any proof that the Populist party is growing in this State the Montgomery Advertiser furnishes it. It says:

"Alabama will have Populism and Populists to fight next year, notwithstanding the letting down of the bars last year, the nomination of a ticket of their dictation, the picking up of the free-silver issue, and all the other tubs thrown to the Populite whale."

Only a short time ago the Advertiser would not acknowledge the Populist party to be as big as a minnow, now it admits it is as large as a whale. The next election will demonstrate its capacity, but the Advertiser need have no fear of its ever being swallowed by the whale.

Wilson, administrator, vs. Crawford Thomas, this is a case concerning payment of a debt to the estate of the late Robert Wilson; Ala. Mineral Land Co. vs. J. H. Shoults, an ejectment suit; A. L. Wambean vs. Concordia Colonization and Improvement Association; Ala. Mineral Land Co. vs. T. J. Hand, Hand Bros. and the Jemison Lumber Co., three suits involving from $2,000 to $10,000 in each case; W. H. Merritt vs. Merritt & Bond Lumber Co.

One of the most unique National Conventions ever held in this country, will convene in Philadelphia, the first week in May. It will be that of the working women's societies and good results as to better wages and more careful observation of the laws regulating ventilation, hours of labor, and providing seats for sales-women in stores, are hoped for.

Senator Allen, of Nebraska, has introduced a resolution in the Senate directing the President to express the sympathy of the American people, with Greece in her troubles with Turkey, which resolution has been referred to the foreign relation committee.

Coopers.

An all-day singing at Chestnut creek was very much enjoyed by the people of that community last Sunday.

Mrs. Rada Fowler has charge of a music class at Coopers.

The young people had a very nice time last Sunday, especially Mr. D. B. Moore.

A musical entertainment was enjoyed last Saturday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daniel. After which four young men escorted their best young lady friend home and returning they were very much frightened by a terrible noise, as they reported, sounding like a lion roaring! They began to run; one fell into a brush heap, one started to climb a fence and broke a rail, one gathered a long pole, and the fourth burnt the wind. Hurrah, boys, you must keep that a secret or your girls will go by themselves next time, but cheer up and remember the old saying to "every sweet there's a bitter."

Some of the young people of Coopers are anticipating a nice time next Sunday at Mt. Pisgah.

We are glad to see our friend, E. B. Deason, looking much improved since his return from Florida.

There will be song service at Mt. Pisgah the second Sunday in May, conducted by Profs. Veazey and King. You are requested to come and bring dinner.

We notice some one sent a letter to the BANNER on roads. He seems to direct most of his talk to overseers and apportioners. There is hardly a good road in this county. All are third grade roads. Let us have some second and first grade roads. Let the commissioners say they shall be first grade roads and they will be. Because you know the men and means are here to give Chilton county good roads. Will some one else say something on roads in this county? Those we have will be traveled, however, as long as there is all day singings in the country.

The passing of the small banks of the country is now assured. Bankers admit that the days of small banking institutions is almost at an end and that consolidation is the general trend in banking circles. This is only another evidence of the spirit that makes this an age of pooling.

A State Convention of the People's Party of Pennsylvania has been called to meet at Altoona, July 1st.

A convention of the Silver Republicans of Iowa will be held in Des Moines, May 11, at which time delegates to the Bimetallic meeting to be held at Chicago, June 8th, will be selected.

The "Populists" in some sections of Indiana have begun the work of expelling members from the party on account of their fusion proclivities. There is no evidence on record that the Indiana Populists are any too numerous, and how such action is expected to swell the ranks of reformers, is a question that can be answered only by that particular class of Populists.

Ex-President Harrison recently made himself conspicuous by arguing a case in an Indianapolis, Ind., court against the constitutionality of a three cent street car bill. All such plutocrats hail from Wall street and they all return back to Wall street. "The ox knoweth his master's crib."

Mrs. Lease has donated a library of Juvenile books to the State Reform School at Topeka, Kans.

It is reported that "Cyclone" Davis, of Texas, is soon to remove to Parkersburg, W. Va. Mr. Davis deprecates the extreme action of the radical elements in the People's Party. It is also rumored that Thomas A. Proctor, of New Jersey, author of "A Canker's Dream," and other reform books, will soon start a shoe factory at the same place.

The latest absurdity of the McKinley administration is the sending of Major-General Miles to witness the fighting between Greece and Turkey. He will be accompanied by a number of aides de camp, servants, etc. The people pay the freight.

"What to do with our ex Presidents" was further demonstrated on April 24, at a "reform club" dinner in New York, by Grover Cleveland, making an hour and a half speech on "present problems." The merriment of the hearers at some of the most serious points, was so ill-timed as to call for a rebuke from the speaker. Grover is always prone to take himself too seriously.

W. J. Bryan, when pressed for an opinion as to the Cleveland speech, called attention to the fact that it showed clearly that the money-question was the question of the day, and had not in the least been settled by the last campaign. He also deprecated any effort of amalgamation between the two elements of the democratic party, and after scathingly referring to the absurdity of 130,000 voters calling 6,500,000 voters "either designing agitators or the dupes of designing agitators," closed with the apt paraphrase, "in the lexicon of Cleveland's maturer years there is no such word as fail."

Col. Henry Watterson may be, as his enemies allege, a mental wreck and may have but one eye, but he sees in this banquet the launching of a Cleveland third term boom, and having, as usual, the courage of his convictions, states the facts in a manner highly gratifying to all of us who have had enough of Grover. He refers to Cleveland's "protection gibberish" and concludes by asserting that the ex-president "differs from the riff-raff of his class only by his high pretensions and profound stupidity."

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N.Y.) Register

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had ever used did her as much good. Rockymount.

The health of the community is very good at present. The farmers are somewhat discouraged on account of so much cold weather.

Rev. J. A. Webb preached an excellent sermon here last fourth Sunday.

Rev. G. W. Hullet's appointment is on the fourth Sunday in each month.

The missing man spoken about in last week's BANNER who went out to fast has not yet been found.

Two Mormon preachers recently made their appearance here and have been trying to get to preach. This makes eighty-one that have come south since January, we have read their articles of faith and studied their religion and we regard it as dangerous to our sacred institutions, and therefore warn the public against the same. We know whereof we speak.

ONE OF THE BOYS.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The farmers are moving right along with their work since the weather has become favorable, and we are glad to see them making such marked improvements. They have been preparing for test acres and experimenting, and I think they will find that more and better proportioned fertilizers are needed, potash especially. There is being a great deal of cotton planted in this section as usual. Corn is looking well considering the damp cool weather; there being some frost on the 21 inst. is making young cotton look badly.

There was a good crowd attended Maple Springs last Sunday. There was singing by Mr. Henry Driver and services by Elder R. H. Long, of Jemison. There will be singing again on the third Sunday in this month.

Mr. A. P. Vinson's baby has been very sick. Mr. A. M. Rollins also is on the sick list.

Miss Susie Crow returned to her home in Perry county after spending some time with Elder J. M. Dykes and family; she is expected to return soon to make this her home. Miss Susie gained many friends during her stay, who will be very proud to see her return.

Mr. Henry Driver conducted a nice singing at the residence of Mr. G. W. Wilson on the first Sunday evening which was attended by a good crowd, we hope to see the people turn out and take renewed interest in vocal music.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR

is the greatest Labor Organization the world has ever seen.

It is the only organization which, while striving to secure for wage-workers the best possible terms as to wages, hours and conditions, aims at reforming the causes of industrial injustice.

It secures to each trade and locality absolute control over its own trade or local affairs, yet its perfect organization enables its members to act unitedly, promptly, and therefore, effectively when concentrated action becomes necessary to remedy injustice or to resist oppression.

It is pledged to work for the overthrow of the capitalistic system of production and exchange, yet, realizing that reforms can only be beneficial and permanent when they rest upon the convictions of a wisely-educated people, it seeks to accomplish its objects only by appeals to reason and conscience—never by force.

It is a secret organization only so far as secrecy is necessary to protect its members from wrong and persecution, and can never be used to shield wrong-doing.

Its doors are open to all who labor honestly and usefully either by hand or brain, without question or discrimination on account creed, race or nationality.

THE Senate killed the arbitration treaty with Great Britain, and probably it was the best thing they could do with it.

CUBA has been granted some reform laws by the Spanish government. Whether they are acceptable to the Cuban patriots remains to be seen.

OUR county executive committee, in preparing for next year's campaign, should not overlook the fact that the new settlement at Thorsby is probably composed of Republicans, and while they are small in number it brings a new element into our home politics which has to be taken into consideration.

PARIS, the gay and brilliant capitol of France, is in mourning. While the elite of Parisian society was holding a charity bazaar the building caught fire, and one hundred and nineteen dead bodies of the aristocracy of France have up to the present been taken from the ruins. It is one of the most terrible calamities on record.

SINCE the state has a state examiner and two assistants, why cannot some of these black belt counties be given a little investigation? Some of these have not made a publication by which the tax-payers could see where their money goes in a decade, despite the fact that the law requires a semi-annual publication of the treasurer's report.—Monitor.

AT the annual meeting of the Alabama Commercial and Industrial Association at Huntsville last week, Mr. McKee, chairman of the constitutional convention committee, reported that the work done by his committee had been apparently fruitless, but that a strong public sentiment had been aroused in favor of having a constitutional convention called. The committee urged every business organization in the State to go to work and compel the next general assembly to call a convention.

CHILTON county, despite the depressed condition of affairs throughout the country, is steadily forging ahead. In recognition of this fact and in order to more readily meet the requirements of this section, commencing next Monday, a daily afternoon paper, known as "The Mid-Ala. Daily News," will be published at Clanton. At the start it possesses at least one unique feature, in that it is the first daily paper in the world published at five cents per week, less than one cent per copy. In our State news, in another column, the intelligent compositor makes the price six cents instead of five, but that is an error. We wish the new daily unbounded success.

IF you need any proof that the Populist party is growing in this State the Montgomery Advertiser furnishes it. It says:

"Alabama will have Populism and Populists to fight next year, notwithstanding the letting down of the bars last year, the nomination of a ticket of their dictation, the picking up of the free-silver issue, and all the other tubs thrown to the Populist whale."

Only a short time ago the Advertiser would not acknowledge the Populist party to be as big as a minnow, now it admits it is as large as a whale. The next election will demonstrate its capacity, but the Advertiser need have no fear of its ever being swallowed by the whale.

"It is the Best on Earth."

That is what Edwards & Parker, merchants of Plains, Ga., says of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, for rheumatism, lame back, deep seated and muscular pains. Sold by J. S. Johnson, Druggist.

CIRCUIT COURT.

THE spring term of circuit court, commences on Monday next. There are 43 cases on the civil docket, the most important of which are, Ala. Mineral Land Co. vs. E. E. Jackson, involving $45,000; Wm. M. Wilson, administrator, vs. Crawford Thomas, this is a case concerning payment of a debt to the estate of the late Robert Wilson; Ala. Mineral Land Co. vs. J. H. Shoults, an ejectment suit; A. L. Wambean vs. Concordia Colonization and Improvement Association; Ala. Mineral Land Co. vs. T. J. Hand, Hand Bros. and the Jemison Lumber Co., three suits involving from $2,000 to $10,000 in each case; W. H. Merritt vs. Merritt & Bond Lumber Co.

For the criminal week there is at present 36 cases on the docket, the principal of which are Cil Whatley and Lula Garner, charged with miscegenation; Robt. Latham and Paralee Clenner, adultery; Wiley Garner (col) rape; Ben Dobbs, assault to murder; Wm. Martin, murder. There are six prisoners in the county jail, three white and three colored.

One of the most unique National Conventions ever held in this country, will convene in Philadelphia, the first week in May. It will be that of the working women's societies and good results as to better wages and more careful observation of the laws regulating ventilation, hours of labor, and providing seats for sales-women in stores, are hoped for.

Senator Allen, of Nebraska, has introduced a resolution in the Senate directing the President to express the sympathy of the American people, with Greece in her troubles with Turkey, which resolution has been referred to the foreign relation committee.

Coopers.

An all-day singing at Chestnut creek was very much enjoyed by the people of that community last Sunday.

Mrs. Rada Fowler has charge of a music class at Coopers.

The young people had a very nice time last Sunday, especially Mr. D. B. Moore.

A musical entertainment was enjoyed last Saturday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daniel. After which four young men escorted their best young lady friend home and returning they were very much frightened by a terrible noise, as they reported, sounding like a lion roaring. They began to run; one fell into a brush heap, one started to climb a fence and broke a rail, one gathered a long pole, and the fourth burnt the wind. Hurrah, boys, you must keep that a secret or your girls will go by themselves next time, but cheer up and remember the old saying to "every sweet there's a bitter."

Some of the young people of Coopers are anticipating a nice time next Sunday at Mt. Pisgah.

Farmers are through with their planting, and now ready for cultivation; rain is needed to bring the young cotton up.

We are glad to see our friend, E. B. Deason, looking much improved since his return from Florida.

The matrimonial atmosphere is hanging heavy and low not far up the road. Seems like we smell the fragrant orange blossoms now, and hear a far sweet sound like wedding bells.

The Sabbath-school at the Davis school house is well attended.

Mulberry was well represented at the singing at Shiloh last Sunday.

There will be song service at Mt Pisgah the second Sunday in May, conducted by Profs. Veazey and King. You are requested to come and bring dinner.

We notice some one sent a letter to the BANNER on roads. He seems to direct most of his talk to overseers and apportioners. There is hardly a good road in this county. All are third grade roads. Let us have some second and first grade roads. Let the commissioners say they shall be first grade roads and they will be. Because you know the men and means are here to give Chilton county good roads. Will some one else say something on roads in this county? Those we have will be traveled, however, as long as there is all day singings in the country.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., May 5, 1897.

The passing of the small banks of the country is now assured. Bankers admit that the days of small banking institutions is almost at an end and that consolidation is the general trend in banking circles. This is only another evidence of the spirit that makes this an age of pooling.

A State Convention of the People's Party of Pennsylvania has been called to meet at Altoona, July 1st.

A convention of the Silver Republicans of Iowa will be held in Des Moines, May 11, at which time delegates to the Bimetallic meeting to be held at Chicago, June 8th, will be selected.

The "Populists" in some sections of Indiana have begun the work of expelling members from the party on account of their fusion proclivities. There is no evidence on record that the Indiana Populists are any too numerous, and how such action is expected to swell the ranks of reformers, is a question that can be answered only by that particular class of Populists.

Ex-President Harrison recently made himself conspicuous by arguing a case in an Indianapolis, Ind., court against the constitutionality of a three cent street car bill. All such plutocrats hail from Wall street and they all return back to Wall street. "The ox knoweth his master's crib."

Mrs. Lease has donated a library of Juvenile books to the State Reform School at Topeka, Kans.

It is reported that "Cyclone" Davis, of Texas, is soon to remove to Parkersburg, W. Va. Mr. Davis deprecates the extreme action of the radical elements in the People's Party. It is also rumored that Thomas A. Proctor, of New Jersey, author of "A Canker's Dream," and other reform books, will soon start a shoe factory at the same place.

The latest absurdity of the McKinley administration is the sending of Major-General Miles to witness the fighting between Greece and Turkey. He will be accompanied by a number of aides de camp, servants, etc. The people pay the freight.

"What to do with our ex-Presidents" was further demonstrated on April 24, at a "reform club" dinner in New York, by Grover Cleveland, making an hour and a half speech on "present problems." The merriment of the hearers at some of the most serious points, was so ill-timed as to call for a rebuke from the speaker. Grover is always prone to take himself too seriously.

W. J. Bryan, when pressed for an opinion as to the Cleveland speech, called attention to the fact that it showed clearly that the money question was the question of the day, and had not in the least been settled by the last campaign. He also deprecated any effort of amalgamation between the two elements of the democratic party, and after scathingly referring to the absurdity of 130,000 voters calling 6,500,000 voters "either designing agitators or the dupes of designing agitators," closed with the apt paraphrase, "in the lexicon of Cleveland's maturer years there is no such word as fail."

Col. Henry Watterson may be, as his enemies allege, a mental wreck and may have but one eye, but he sees in this banquet the launching of a Cleveland third term boom, and having, as usual, the courage of his convictions, states the facts in a manner highly gratifying to all of us who have had enough of Grover. He refers to Cleveland's "protection gibberish" and concludes by asserting that the ex-president "differs from the riff-raff of his class only by his high pretensions and profound stupidity."

A free employment bureau has been established in connection with the Nebraska bureau of labor, for the benefit of those seeking employment.

Miss Pauline C. R. Stone, the well known reform writer of prose and poetry, and A. Rozelle, Editor of the Lamar Daily Leader, and Chairman of the People's Party State central committee of Missouri, were married at St. Louis, on April 21st.

50 lbs. of Coal

A day would keep your rooms warm in winter. But that small stove will burn only twenty-five. Hence, discomfort and misery.

A certain amount of fat, burned daily, would keep your body warm and healthy. But your digestion is bad, and you don't get it from ordinary fat-food. Hence you are chilly, you catch cold easily, you have coughs and shivers; while pneumonia, bronchitis, or consumption finds you with no resistive power.

Do this. Burn better fuel. Use SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil. Appetite and digestive power will revive; and soon a warm coating of good flesh will protect the vital organs against the cold and the body against disease.

Two sizes, 50 cts. and $1.00

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR

is the greatest Labor Organization the world has ever seen.

It is the only organization which, while striving to secure for wage-workers the best possible terms as to wages, hours and conditions, aims at reforming the causes of industrial injustice.

It secures to each trade and locality absolute control over its own trade or local affairs, yet its perfect organization enables its members to act unitedly, promptly, and, therefore, effectively when concentrated action becomes necessary to remedy injustice or to resist oppression.

It is pledged to work for the overthrow of the capitalistic system of production and exchange, yet, realizing that reforms can only be beneficial and permanent when they rest upon the convictions of a wisely-educated people, it seeks to accomplish its objects only by appeals to reason and conscience—never by force.

It is a secret organization only so far as secrecy is necessary to protect its members from wrong and persecution, and can never be used to shield wrong-doing.

Its doors are open to all who labor honestly and usefully either by hand or brain, without question or discrimination on account creed, race or nationality.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardul has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardul requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

McELREE'S

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. L. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardul extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

Bicycle Repairmen's Woes.

Bicycle repairmen are in a position to judge the merits of the different kinds of tires brought to them for repairing. They are generally unbiased in their opinion as to which tire is the best until they try to repair it; then they soon find out which is the easiest to repair, and which stays repaired when it has been fixed. The following from a dealer and repairman in Clarksville, Tenn., may be of interest to riders:

Single-tube tires are not at all popular here, for nobody can repair them when they have trouble. I consider myself a pretty good repairman, and I have never been able to plug one of them so it would hold any length of time. Nearly every rider of single tubes here has changed for Morgan & Wright.

Here is another from a repairman in New York city:

I have used M. & W. tires for the last three years, and the more I handle them the better I like them. I repair, on an average, about one M. & W. tire to five single-tube tires. It is not that there are only a few M. & W.'s in this district, but because when they are once repaired they don't break out again in the same place, like a single-tube.

A Cambridge City, Ind., man also says:

I think I am a pretty fair workmen, and believe I can repair a single tube tire as often as any one, but I meet with failure oftener than success, and, indeed, find that the single-tube is generally unsatisfactory. I don't see what any one can see in a tire of this type that recommends it.

Still another from a Terre Haute, Ind., bicycle firm:

They can say what they want about single-tube tires, but we notice they give up and come back for the M. & W. when they want a tire that will give good satisfactory service. We had no trouble at all with the Morgan & Wright tires, and are going to use them this year.

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE

and their marvelous cure. Scientists of the 19th Century look on with amazement at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Limeburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan. 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 9th of January, 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism; so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was absolutely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours

J. P. LIMEBURNER.

Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and I had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so poorly that I lost the use of my legs and arms, and could not move without pain. I was so crippled, that I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable, and I believed him. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child, for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It wards off Croup and cures the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.

Yours respectfully, WM. M. KELLEMS,
Siberia, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published, wrote Mr. Kellems, asking if his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwarded us.

MR. J. J. WILSON.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published my testimonial just as I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain. Dr. S. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

MR. W. M. AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS
Sept. 21, 1896.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and Kindred Diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle prepaid by mail 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardul has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. L. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

Bicycle Repairmen's Woes.

Bicycle repairmen are in a position to judge the merits of the different kinds of tires brought to them for repairing. They are generally unbiased in their opinion as to which tire is the best until they try to repair it; then they soon find out which is the easiest to repair, and which stays repaired when it has been fixed. The following from a dealer and repairman in Clarksville, Tenn., may be of interest to riders:

Single-tube tires are not at all popular here, for nobody can repair them when they have trouble. I consider myself a pretty good repairman, and I have never been able to plug one of them so it would hold any length of time. Nearly every rider of single tubes here has changed for Morgan & Wright.

Here is another from a repairman in New York city:

I have used M. & W. tires for the last three years, and the more I handle them the better I like them. I repair, on an average, about one M. & W. tire to five single-tube tires. It is not that there are only a few M. & W.'s in this district, but because when they are once repaired they don't break out again in the same place, like a single-tube.

A Cambridge City, Ind., man also says:

I think I am a pretty fair workmen, and believe I can repair a single tube tire as often as any one, but I meet with failure oftener than success, and, indeed, find that the single-tube is generally unsatisfactory. I don't see what any one can see in a tire of this type that recommends it.

Still another from a Terre Haute, Ind., bicycle firm:

They can say what they want about single-tube tires, but we notice they give up and come back for the M. & W. when they want a tire that will give good satisfactory service. We had no trouble at all with the Morgan & Wright tires, and are going to use them this year.

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE

and their marvelous cure. Science of the 19th Century looks on with astonishment at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Limeburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan. 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 9th of January, 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism; so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was absolutely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours

J. P. LIMEBURNER,
Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and I had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so poorly that I lost the use of my legs and arms, and could not move without pain. I was so crippled, that I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable, and I believed him. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child, for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It wards off Croup and cures the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.

WM. M. KELLEMS,
Yours respectfully, Siberia, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published, wrote Mr. Kellems, asking if his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwarded us.

MR. J. J WILSON.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published my testimonial just as I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain.

Dr. S. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

MR. W. M. AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS
Sept. 21, 1896.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and Kindred Diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle prepaid by mail 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

Cork has become one of the most valuable components of a city's refuse. Great quantities of discarded corks are now used again in the manufacture of insulating covers of steam pipes and boilers, points to be protected from the influence of heat. Powdered cork is very useful in filling in horse collars, and the very latest application of this material is the filling in of pneumatic tires with cork shavings. Mats for bathrooms are made of cork exclusively, and it also goes into the composition of linoleum. Cheap life preservers are now filled exclusively with bottle stoppers, cut into little pieces.

It was told to a certain king of England that Lord Blank was his politest subject. "I will test him," said the king, and showed Lord Blank to the royal carriage, holding the door for him to enter first, which he did. A much cleaner lot of paper money is in circulation now than formerly, a bank cashier states. The banks now send their soiled notes to the United States Treasury to be destroyed as soon as a sufficient quantity accumulates to justify it, and new notes are issued in their place. This has been rendered not only possible, but advisable, owing to the increased facilities for printing banknotes. One never sees a soiled banknote in London. They are all crisp and white and new, simply because the Bank of England never lets a note go out a second time. The average life of a Bank of England note is said to be five days.

Swallows.

One of the traditions which the early Romans cherished as to swallows was that they were the spirits of dead children revisiting their homes, and therefore the birds were treated with love and reverence. The swallow is still, if not a sacred, at least an honored bird in different parts of the world. It is the "bird of consolation" in the North. They style it in the South "the bird of the happy beak." It is greeted as the "bird of the hearth" in the West; and, when it flies to the East, the advent of the "bird of God" is announced.

At a meeting of one of the large English insurance companies it was shown that more than six hundred thousand dollars had been paid out for deaths due to influenza.

It Meant Everything.

The man in the bicycle suit laughed heartily.

"Very funny," he said.

"What?" asked the man with a large section of skin gone from his nose.

"Why, these 'Don'ts' for bicyclists," replied the man in the bicycle suit.

"Let's see them," said the man who was short of skin.

The man in the bicycle suit handed him the paper.

"The best one isn't there," said the man with the fantastic nose, shortly. "If it was the rest wouldn't be necessary."

"What do you consider the best one?" asked the man with the bicycle suit.

"Don't ride," answered the man whose nose stood in need of grafting, and then he carefully put a large piece of court plaster where it would do the most good.—Chicago Post.

Improving.

A celebrated German physician was once called upon to treat an aristocratic lady the sole cause of whose complaint was high living and lack of exercise. But it would have never done to tell her so; so his medical advice ran thus: "Arise at 5 o'clock, take a walk in the park for one hour, then drink a cup of tea, then walk another hour, and take a cup of chocolate. Take breakfast at 8 o'clock."

Her condition improved visibly, until one fine morning the carriage of the Baroness was seen to approach the physician's residence at lightning speed.

The patient dashed up to the Doctor's house, and, on his appearing on the scene, she gasped out:

"Oh, Doctor, I took the chocolate first."

"Then drive home as fast as you can," directed the astute disciple of Aesculapius, rapidly writing a prescription, "and take this emetic. The tea must be underneath."

The grateful patient complied. She is still improving.

TENNESSEE'S EXPOSITION

Was Opened to the World Last Saturday Morning.

The Tennessee Centennial Exposition was thrown open to the world Saturday last under auspicious skies and impressive ceremonies. The day dawned cloudless and cool, after a rainy night, which threatened at one time to interfere with the festivities of the inaugural day. At 8 o'clock the gates of the Exposition were opened and the people began to arrive. By 11 o'clock, the hour fixed for the exercises in the auditorium, that building holding 6,000 people, was filled. The brief, simple, but impressive program was carried out before one of the most brilliant gatherings ever assembled in Tennessee. On the platform were the Exposition officers and committees, Governor Taylor and his staff, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, members of the Woman's Board, the Mayor of Nashville, United States Senator W. B. Bate, Hon. J. W. Gaines and hundreds of prominent citizens. President E. W. Thomas, at 11 o'clock, with a historical gavel, rapped for order, and Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Co-Adjutor Bishop of Tennessee, offered prayer.

The opening of the Exposition marks the 100th year of the admission of the State into the sisterhood of commonwealths.

The members of both houses of the Legislature and their wives assembled at the Union Street depot of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway at 9 o'clock, and were conveyed in special trains to the handsome terminal station at the west side of the Exposition Park. The place of rendezvous was the administration building, whence the officials, legislators and distinguished guests, including the Governor of the State, Hon. Robert L. Taylor, Gen. Ignacio Garfia, Postmaster-General of the Republic of Mexico, and suite, escorted by a vast concourse of citizens, proceeded to the auditorium which in a few moments was filled with about 7,000 people, while a perfect multitude was unable to obtain admission, and contented itself with listening to the inspiring strains of Bellstedt & Bellenberg's superb military concert band, of Cincinnati. The ceremonies were opened with prayer by Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, Co-Adjutor Bishop of Tennessee.

Conservative estimates place the day and night attendance at 30,000. Perfect order prevailed.

ANOTHER GOLD BRICK ARTIST.

A Georgia Planter Swallows the Bait and Takes Three.

A special from Macon, Ga., to the Atlanta Constitution says:

A swindler from the North reached Macon a few days ago and soon after his arrival met by appointment one of Georgia's wealthiest planters. Neither the swindler nor the planter is here now. The swindler has returned to his eastern haunts wearing a happy smile and carrying $6,300 of the planter's money, while the planter has gone home to hide three gold bricks he bought and to secrete, if he can, the knowledge that he was duped. No one seems to know who the swindler is, but it is a well known fact the planter is Chil Packson, probably the wealthiest of Sumter county.

A few days ago Packson was summoned to Macon by a letter advising him of a "good investment," and here he met the plausible stranger, who exhibited three gold bricks. Packson swallowed the bait, and after carefully examining the gold bricks paid the stranger $6,300 in cold cash and a check for $5,000 for the bargain. Of course the bricks were only brass, and now the victim is endeavoring to keep the affair a secret instead of reporting it to the authorities and making an effort to convict the manufacturer of the scheme.

The gold brick artist told the usual story of an Indian finding the mine in a secluded spot in Nevada and that samples were only sold to get money with which to develop it.

HE HAD COURAGE.

A Negro Loses His Life in Attempting to Prevent Robbery.

Hardaway, a small station on the Savannah, Florida & Western Railway, was one day last week the scene of a bold attempt at robbery which, though unsuccessful, ended in the death of a brave negro, whose courage no doubt saved the lives of several others from the bullets of the robbers.

Three clerks and the negro porter, William Grass, were preparing to close the general store of F. F. Putney about 9 o'clock, when an unknown negro walked in and began to trade with Duncan Forester, one of the clerks. While waiting for the supposed customer to conclude his trading, another man with a pistol in each hand stepped in the door and called out: "Hands up!" He and the other negro covered the clerks. Grass was the only one uncovered. He was sweeping and dropped his broom and drew a pistol which he carried and began to fire.

"Kill the d—d nigger!" the robbers shouted, and turning their attention to him began firing. During the melee the clerks escaped. Later Grass was found dead near the door. The robbers escaped.

CAPITOL NEWS.

General Miles to Visit the Seat of War in Europe.

ALGER MAKES A STATEMENT

Senator Turple, of Indiana, Will Probably Succeed Senator Voorhees as a Member of Committee on Finance. Other Interesting Items.

Minister Dupuy de Lome has received an official dispatch from Madrid confirming the press cable that the Queen has applied reform law to Cuba.

Gen. Miles has been notified of the President's approval of his projected visit to the seat of war in Europe. He will leave Washington early in May, probably on the St. Paul from New York.

The indications point to the selection of Senator Turple, of Indiana, to succeed Senator Voorhees as a member of the Committee on Finance, and Senator Chilton, of Texas, to succeed Senator Hill on the Judiciary Committee.

It is very probable the Secretary of the Treasury soon will recommend to Congress a material reduction of the internal revenue tax on distilled spirits, and an increase in the tax on beer. This action will be taken on the ground that the present tax of $1.10 per gallon is above the revenue producing point.

Senator Kyle will return to his old place as Chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, and Senator Carter will become Chairman of the Census Committee, to succeed Senator Chandler, who goes to the Elections Committee. Under the new system the silver Republicans will hold the balance of power in fourteen committees and the Populists in eleven.

Phillip McElhone, formerly employed in the Congressional library, was found guilty in the criminal court a few days since of feloniously taking and carrying away from the library certain valuable historic documents. Notice of a motion for a new trial was given. The defendant was subsequently released on $3,000 bond. The section of the revised statutes under which McElhone was convicted provides a penalty not exceeding ten years in the penitentiary or a fine not exceeding $5,000, or both.

The farmer element in the Senate have an amendment which they will offer at the proper time to the tariff bill, which will cause some trouble and delay to the measure. Senator Tillman is the father of the scheme. It is to provide a bounty on all farm products. "A bounty on all farm products is a logical outcome of the Republican policy," he said. "My amendment will ask that the Government pay a bounty on all products exported. We will hold the bill in the Senate until August or September if they do not pass my amendment. The grangers of Pennsylvania and the West are with us in this fight."

Secretary Alger has made the following statement of the policy of the war department as to chapels on the military academy reservation: "Much has been said about the building of a Catholic chapel on the grounds of the United States military academy at West Point. This was a privilege accorded these people by my predecessor, who said that similar privileges would be accorded to others. You can state that any other denominations wishing to build a chapel on the grounds upon the same conditions will be given an equally advantageous site for the building. No favoritism will be shown to any denomination and others will be accorded a site equally as good as that of the Catholic chapel."

The Senate committee which has undertaken the investigation of the workings of the civil service law, held its second meeting last Saturday. Senators Pritchard, Lodge and Chilton conducted the investigation. The civil service committee was represented by President Proctor and Mr. G. Walter. A report from Secretary of the Navy Long and Postmaster-General Gary was read, recommending that the civil service laws should be continued, but giving the opinion that they should be modified, although they recommended no changes. F. W. Palmer, the public printer, said:

"As applied to this office, which is simply a great manufacturing plant involving varied branches of skilled labor of high grade, the civil service rules are an obstruction rather than an aid to efficiency and economy. The civil service rules as promulgated for enforcement here should be modified radically, suspended or repealed."

A number of witnesses testified to alleged irregularities in dismissals. The inquiry will proceed until next Saturday.

Crushed His Skull.

At Jacksonville, Fla., the body of Police Lieutenant W. E. Gruber was found in a clump of bushes with the skull crushed in. Near the body was found a woman's belt and handkerchief. The officer's pistol was gone but nothing else was missing from the body.

Cubans Reforms.

The queen regent, at a cabinet meeting, signed a decree providing for the application of the agreed-upon reforms for the island of Cuba. Her majesty's action was due to the receipts of a cable message from Capt. Gen. Weyler announcing that the western part of the island is completely pacified.

WOUNDED IN THE WAR.

SHOT IN THE ABDOMEN AT CUMBERLAND GAP.

Blind, Rheumatic and Dropsical—A Union Colonel is Given Over to Die—How the Old Soldier Gave Azrael the Slip.

From the News, Barbourville, Ky.

In the year 1863, while in command of a Union regiment at Cumberland Gap, Colonel Messer, now of Flat Licks, Kentucky, received a severe gunshot wound in his abdomen. In a few months he was again in the saddle, but soon was obliged to undergo further medical treatment, and his condition became so serious that in the winter of 1863 he returned to his home, and was never again fit for active service. During the years that have since passed, Colonel Messer has been a confirmed invalid from the effect of his wound, and has been under the constant care of the local physicians, not improving, but growing worse as the years rolled on. His condition eventually became deplorable. Almost blind, legs swollen, so that he was unable to walk, the doctors who could do nothing to arrest the progress of the disease, diagnosed it as dropsy, and said recovery was impossible.

The old soldier did not half believe his physicians, but said that since they could do nothing for him, he would, upon an old friend's strong recommendation, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The first box was taken by Col. Messer according to directions, and by the time that was gone, he felt so much easier and more comfortable, that several other boxes were procured, and he continued to take them faithfully. Soon the swelling in his legs disappeared, and with it the fierce rheumatic pains with which he had long suffered. Strangest of all, his eyesight, which for so many years had been useless, was restored.

In all, Colonel Messer took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills six months, and then was thoroughly cured. He now is a healthy looking man, rides on horseback, and stands as much fatigue as any man of his age.

The Colonel, since his recovery, is never tired of descanting on the virtues of these pills, and every advertisement that he finds he carefully clips, and sends to some sick friend or neighbor, with the assurance that they will cure him.

The high standing of Colonel Messer, and his remarkable recovery, makes this report more than usually interesting, and when it was received at the office of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., it was referred to Messrs. Phipps & Herndon, the well-known druggists, of Barbourville, Ky., for verification. We append the reply:

BRADSTREET'S

Weekly Review of Trade Reports a Better Demand for Staples.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS BUSY.

Low Temperature Has Retarded the Growth of Cotton and Corn in Texas, and in Kentucky the Leaf Tobacco Crop Will Be Short.

Bradstreet's Review for the past week says:

Favorable business features include the continued decline of water in flooded districts of the Mississippi river valley in a portion of which planting has begun, better demand for staples at Baltimore, St. Louis, Omaha, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Sioux Fa'ls, larger sales of iron ore to western furnaces and a revival of activity among country merchants in some central western States. Favorable trade features include the further decline of prices for Bessemer pig iron and steel billets, with production of pig iron in excess of consumption and the prospects favorable for blowing out a number of stacks. Cool weather west has checked the retail trade and complaints are received from wholesale dealers in shoes, clothing and dry goods. Low temperature has retarded the growth of cotton and corn in Texas and in Kentucky the leaf tobacco crop will be short. The lake trade outlook is not satisfactory, the movement of building materials is slow, mercantile collections show no improvement and the spring trade in general continues disappointing.

Exports of wheat from both coasts of the United States and Canada this week (flour included) amount to 1,799,322 bushels as compared with 1,555,000 bushels last week, 1,882,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 2,805,000 bushels two years ago, 2,815,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 2,712,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Exports of Indian corn amount to 3,127,781 bushels in this week, compared with 3,657,000 bushels last week, 1,811,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 933,000 bushels two years ago, 730,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 1,046,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

The total number of business failures throughout the United States this week does not vary materially from what may be regarded as the average in recent years for a corresponding period, amounting to 228 against 244 last week, 267 in the week one year ago, 224 in the week in 1895 and 198 in 1894 and 219 in 1893.

There are 39 business failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week, compared with 31 last week, 38 in the week one year ago, 27 two years ago and 30 in the like week of 1894.

BURYING THE VICTIMS.

Twenty Funerals in Paris Last Friday.—Deepest Sympathy Displayed.

Twenty victims of the Paris fire at the charity bazaar on the Rue Jean Goujon were buried Friday. The churches where the funeral ceremonies took place and the routes traversed by the corteges were thronged with people. The crowds displayed the deepest sympathy for the relatives of the victims.

With the exception of Socialist newspapers, the whole press associates itself with the profound sorrow which has overtaken the upper classes of French society.

The papers point out that the question of the responsibility for the fearful fire at the charity bazaar must be fixed. They reproach the prefecture of police for not having taken proper precautions.

The Government has ordered all the subsidized theaters to be closed until Saturday as a mark of respect for the dead.

The report that the Countess Castellane, formerly Miss Anna Gould, was among the missing, is pure invention. The Castellanes were not even in the vicinity of the fire.

Only five bodies now remain unidentified.

The remains of the Duchesse d'Alencon were placed in a coffin Thursday afternoon in the presence of Prince Louis and Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria, Baron Lambert and Colonel de Percival, who signed their names and sealed the coffin. The Duc de Vendome, son of the deceased Duchesse, was also present.

EXPECT PROSPERITY.

In View of It Texas Railroads Will Spend Millions.

A telegram from Austin, Tex., says: According to the testimony adduced before the Railroad Commissioner in the investigation which has just closed, the railroads of Texas expect in the very near future to make improvements, the aggregate cost of which, taking their own statements and figures, will be about $4,000,000. If these statements are true and there is no reason to doubt them, the roads evidently anticipate an early era of prosperity in this State, and propose to help good times along by expending large sums of money, which will be scattered among the people.

THE ENGLISH ARE MAD

Because the Senate Rejected the Arbitration Treaty.

The London afternoon papers are bitter at the rejection of the arbitration treaty by the United States Senate.

The St. James Gazette publishes a long article headed "Free Trade and Brotherly Love," in which it says:

"Great Britain has removed every hampering tariff and thousands of square miles of American territory, scores of her cities and millions of her citizens thrive by virtue of the English market alone. Yet the Senate committee has just piled up the most vexatious, harassing and impenetrable wall of tariffs any nation ever formed against another, while the Senate itself has decided against a permanent machinery for the peaceable settlement of the disputes. The much-abused diplomats were advised that the treaty would be accepted, but the politicians preferred to listen to the counsels of an ex-convict and sworn enemy of England, who, having taken the oath of allegiance to the Queen, spends his vacation in Washington advising the Senators to hope and work patiently for an opportunity to twist the British lion's tail. We rejoice at the new Canadian preferential tariff for many reasons, not the least of which is that it restores to us a weapon with which to fight our rivals in the future. Free imports at any price deprived us of that weapon."

TO WITHDRAW.

Greek Troops to Be Called Home From Crete.

A dispatch to the New York Journal from Athens says Prime Minister Ralli says that the Greek troops will be withdrawn from Crete. The government having need of all troops possible, he says he has decided on gradually withdrawing the army from Crete.

This would facilitate arrangements with the great powers, which have been unofficially intimated. Greece has officially notified the foreign ministers of her intention to withdraw from Crete, and has demanded the admission of Greek warships within the blockade for this purpose.

Greece awaits the official offer of the great powers to make proposals of peace between her and Turkey, if they please, but will not ask for it.

An official note from the powers will probably be presented at once and all depends on its terms. The report in the papers of an armistice is not true, but an armistice will probably be agreed upon if peace negotiations are opened.

REPORTED CONFIRMATION

Of Rumored Negotiations for Settlement of the Cuban Question.

A special from Havana says: Your correspondent is able upon high authority to confirm the recent Washington reports as to negotiations pending there between Secretary of State Sherman and Dupuy de Lome, and Estrada Palma, looking to a peaceful solution, by purchase or otherwise, of the Cuban question.

The story is the topic of conversation in all the clubs.

El Diario de La Marina, the reformist organ here, in a leader sounds an ominous note of warning by intimating that the so-called reforms that Premier Canovas has offered to the island will be little more than a farce should Cuba be left to pay the cost of the war. Spain must pay it, El Diario declares, otherwise, the paper adds, she cannot hope to keep the colony and continue to monopolize its trade.

MACEO'S BETRAYER

To Be Loaded With Chains and Confined in a Dungeon.

The unenviable and dangerous predicament in which Dr. Zertucha, the betrayer of the Cuban General Maceo, found himself a few weeks ago was related in the Mail and Express at the time. It was then told how Zertucha stood between two fires. He was obliged to keep himself concealed lest the Cubans should kill him for his perfidy, and he was in constant fear that the Spaniards, who despised him after using him, would have him secretly assassinated, or else transported to Africa as a life prisoner.

Cable dispatches now announce that Zertucha has been arrested and conveyed to Havana under a close guard, and placed in the military prison in the Cabanas fortress, whence he is to be sent to the Spanish penal settlement on Chafarinas Island, off the coast of Africa.

HUNT FOR AN ISLAND.

Will Be Claimed for Uncle Sam if These Voyagers are Successful.

The schooner Louisa D. cleared at the custom house in San Francisco the other day for a cruise to New Baldayo Island. Her trip promises to be a long and romantic one and before she comes back her crew expects that the American flag will be floating over a little coral reef close to the equator that no man or nation has claimed. New Baldayo is the name given to the island, but so far the most accurate location that can be given for it is that it is in the North Pacific ocean. The island is said to be covered with an enormous deposit of guano and for nearly fifty years numerous vessels have started out in search of it, but they have always returned without being able to give its location.

Among the disbursements was $36,920 of matured stock paid off and $93,340 of withdrawals, showing a cash disbursement in these two lines of over $130,000. In addition the company has matured and ready for paying off now some $15,760 more of stock. The shareholders of this stock will receive all their money paid in and interest for the average time at the rate of 19 per cent. per annum. This stock is nine years old, and is the nineteenth series to mature.

Exchange Hotel Fire.

Early Friday morning the Exchange Hotel in Montgomery was discovered on fire. The fire originated in the kitchen, and in a short time spread over the first rooms in all the three stories of the rear end of the building. There was difficulty in getting at the fire, as it raged furiously on the second and third floors. The guests were all aroused in time to prevent any casualties. The proprietor, Mr. West, knew nothing as to the cause, but the frequent fires about the building evidently cause suspicion that it was of incendiary origin. Governor and Mrs. Johnston had rooms in the building, and were removed to the New Windsor. The loss is estimated at $10,000, and the building is insured for $60,000.

WARRANTS SWORN OUT.

Result of Investigation of Dispensary Officials' Conduct.

A telegram from Columbia, S. C., says: L. J. Williams, member of the State Board of Control, swore out warrants against S. J. Scruggs, Chief Clerk of the dispensary and Col. John T. Gaston, ex-commissioner of the dispensary. This is the result of investigations by the Attorney-General, the testimony showing that Scruggs had taken from a trunk which was seized by constables four boxes of cigars and several cans of peaches. Judge Simonton declared the seizure illegal, and when the owner demanded his trunk and contents they were gone. Gaston got a few cigars, some oranges and a pair of shoes out of the trunk, but after the whole matter was ventilated he paid for them.

The warrants will be served to-morrow morning.

Scruggs was dismissed as chief clerk to-night.

REQUIEM MASS

At Notre Dame for the Dead of the Recent Paris Bazaar Horror.

A requiem mass for the repose of the souls of the victims of the recent fire at the charity bazaar was celebrated at noon Saturday in the cathedral of Notre Dame. The interior of the building was heavily draped with black, relieved by silver embroideries and the main door was draped with a huge pall spangled with silver, edged with ermine and raised on either side by silver loops. Above the door were escutcheons with the initials "R. F." (Republique Francaise.)

JUDGE HARALSON

Re-elected President of the Southern Baptist Convention.

At Wilmington, N. C., the Southern Baptist Convention last Saturday afternoon re-elected its old officers as follows: President, Judge Jonathan Haralson, of Alabama, and Secretaries, Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Augusta, Ga., and Dr. O. Gregory, of Baltimore.

The following Vice-Presidents were chosen: W. J. Northen, of Georgia; J. P. Eagle, of Arkansas; R. A. Marsh, of North Carolina, and J. Levering, of Maryland.

Mobile's New Outlet.

The grading of the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City Road from Mobile to Dog River, a distance of twenty-eight miles, has been completed, with the single exception of two miles to the eastward of Big Creek, where the contractor is behind time on account of a wet cut, or one filled with springs. The cars are running out thirteen miles, a mile beyond Clear Creek trestle, which is 1,000 feet in length. The entire force is at work on the line, and everything is being as rapidly pushed as possible. Colonel Merrill, the head of the road, has left England for Mobile, and is now on the ocean, and his arrival is expected in a few days. There has been no let up in the work, and judging from the substantial manner of the construction it evidences the determination to complete it as a first-class road.

Case of Smallpox.

Birmingham has a well-developed case of smallpox. The fact came to light one day last week and the Board of Health at once took the matter in hand. The victim is a Mrs. Connelly, residing at 2022 Eighth avenue. She contracted the disease in Memphis, where she was from April 18th to 22d. On the last named date she returned to Birmingham, and eight days after her return the case developed. Steps were at once taken to isolate the case and every precaution has been used to prevent the spread of the disease. The Board of Health Saturday afternoon issued a public statement in which they advise all persons who have not been vaccinated within the past seven years to consider the propriety of being again vaccinated. The Board say that they do not apprehend, with ordinary precaution, any extension of the disease and advise people to go about their business as usual.

Complete Assignment.

A deed of assignment of all the assets of every nature, property notes, mortgages and debts of the Southern Building & Loan Association was filed in the county register's office at Knoxville, Tenn., Friday morning. The conveyance is made to the receivers of the association, D. A. Carpenter and John W. Conner. The purpose is simply to formally place the assets of the association in the receiver's hands as ordered by the Chancery decree and to avoid the taking of unnecessary proof on litigation in other States. Aside from this it has no significance.

STEWART HITS HARD.

THE SENATOR REVIEWS CLEVELAND'S SPEECH.

The Stuffed Prophet Portrayed as the Most Boldfaced Hypocrite of Modern Times—Can No Longer Even Claim His Well-Known Ignorance as Defense.

(By William M. Stewart, Senator from Nevada.)

There must be something in the qualities of greed, stolidness, perversity, ignorance, wilfullness, contempt for truth, and love of falsehood, which has not been analyzed by the philosophers; otherwise Grover Cleveland could not have been twice president with the reputation of a multi-millionaire. Apparently unconscious that he deserves to be hated more than any other living man for betraying his party and his country and wrecking the happiness of seventy millions of people, he violently attacks the Republican party for carrying out the tariff program laid down in the St. Louis convention. The Republican party declared in favor of maintaining the present gold standard until Europe should otherwise order. Has not the Republican party maintained that plank in its platform? The Republican party also declared for tariff for protection. Is not the Republican party engaged in carrying out its platform in that regard?

These plain pledges stared the stuffed prophet in the face when he betrayed his own party and used the power and patronage, which the Democratic party had conferred upon him, to aid in the election of the Republican ticket. Has anybody told Grover that all that is necessary for him to do is to get into a rage because the Republican party is adhering to its platform, and that if he will do so everybody will suppose he betrayed the Democratic party through mistake?

There was no mistake about it. If we admit, as we suppose we must, that Grover did not support the Republican ticket on account of the tariff, or on account of any financial legislation not pledged or hinted at in the platform, some other reason must be found why the ex-president betrayed his party. Many see, or think they see, circumstances and conditions which had involved Grover and his administration with the bond and money jobbers of New York from which he could not extricate himself. Sixty-two millions of four per cent thirty-year bonds were sold at more than twenty per cent less than their market price. Up to the time of this transaction no United States four per cent bonds during the ten years preceding had sold for less than one per cent premium for the time they had to run. The sixty-two millions had thirty years to run and should have sold for from twenty-five to thirty per cent premium, and would have done so if the president had been as good a friend to the American people as he was to the money powers.

In fact, he himself wrote a message to Congress that he could get sixteen millions more for these same bonds if Congress would pass a law for their payment in gold. Congress passed no such law. The bonds were issued and sold and Mr. Cleveland and the purchasers all united in asserting that, notwithstanding Congress had not authorized payment in gold, they were gold bonds, both principal and interest, and the interest has been thus far paid in gold. This transaction was so extraordinary, coming as it did in a long line of questionable transactions, that the senate authorized the finance committee of that body to investigate these bond deals. The committee met in New York and called before them Morgan and Belmont, the parties with whom the president and secretary of the treasury made the transaction, and inquired of them what profit was made in the purchase and sale of these bonds. The gentlemen declined to answer. They were further inquired of who received the profits of the transaction. The gentlemen declined to answer.

For some unaccountable reason the matter was dropped and the investigation abandoned without making a report to the senate. It would have been very easy for the senate committee to have called Morgan and Belmont to Washington and put the same questions to them which they had asked them in New York, and if they had failed to answer the courts would have found lodgings for them at public expense.

It may be that these transactions so bound Cleveland and his party to the money powers who wanted McKinley with a view of similar financial proceedings, and particularly with a view of maintaining the single gold standard, that Mr. Cleveland dared not do otherwise. He had taken too many steps in the wrong direction to retrace them in that emergency. To keep in line or to keep under cover he did as Belmont and Morgan required him to do in the election, and now, forsooth, pretends that he didn't know that it was the Republican party he was siding; that he did not know the Republican party was for a tariff; that he did not know anything about the Republican party, and, therefore, he sacrificed himself in a patriotic effort to save the country from bimetallism, and to keep on the road to ruin through gold contraction and falling prices.

Let Mr. Cleveland squirm as much as he may; the fact remains that he sold his party to the goldites; that he betrayed the trust his party had reposed in him, and that he knew, when he aided the election of McKinley, exactly what the Republican party proposed to do, because they proclaimed it in their platform. His whining and squirming now about the bad conduct of the Republican party to cover himself from a down-right act of treachery and the fraudulent use of patronage to elect McKinley, shows that nothing can surpass his treachery and deceit except his egotism and impudence.

There is one gift which nature has bestowed upon the unmitigated calamity who cursed the country with his presence in the white house for eight years, and that is the power of uttering unctuous, unmeaning, false and bombastic platitudes. The following is a fair example:

"Nothing can explain or excuse inaction on the part of those who can make no compromise with the advocates of unsound money or who love their country's honor more than self-advantage, or who are convinced that an unstable and unsafe currency inevitably bodes the greatest depth of loss and misfortune to all the people of the land. These should not delude themselves. The peril they dread is directly impending."

If Mr. Cleveland had studied the truth he would have said that "the peril they dread" has been inflicted upon the country for the last twenty years by a conspiracy of bad men who stopped the coinage of silver, and thereby cut off half the money supply, doubled the value of bonded indebtedness, reduced the value of property and services one-half, and created universal misery in the country. If there is any example of bad money since God made the world, it is the gold money of the present day. No calamity can be named which the want of money can inflict which the country does not now suffer by Cleveland's "sound money." His attempt to make the country believe that anybody wants a more villainous kind of money than we now have, is about as cheeky as it is for him to plead the baby act for voting the Republican ticket. He knows the sound money he advocates is the most villainous swindle of all the ages, and he knew that the Republican party was a party of contraction when he voted the ticket, as well as he now does. We beg pardon for having given this much space to the corpulent relic who is now politically dead; but inasmuch as the papers print his trash, we feel justified in calling attention to the individual, who is either a fool or thinks the American people are fools, or he would keep out of sight until his flagrant offenses were forgotten.

A BONDHOLDERS' WAR.

The Bloodshed Is for the Benefit of Bloodsuckers.

Ignatius Donnelly, in the Representative, says:

Even the St. Paul Globe (goldbug) tells the truth now and then—by accident. In its issue last Monday it said, speaking of the Turkish and Grecian conflict:

"We say 'hope,' because the sympathy of the people is with Greece. It is universally so in this country. It is so in Great Britain. And even in Germany and Russia we believe that the alliance with Turkey and the support of her contention are matters rather of imperial policy than of popular approval. If the people of the civilized world could have their way there would be no war, for the Tukish government would perish from the earth before the setting of another sun. They are restrained by the decrees of statecraft from the natural expression of their sympathy with Greece. For this is, as it has been called, a bondholders' war. It is the holders of Turkish bonds who dictate the policy of the great nations. But for that the Turkish problem would have been solved long ago. It was for the money lender of Europe that hundreds of thousands of Christians were sent to a horrible death in Armenia. It is for him that this battle is to be fought, with his greed arrayed secretly on the side of the Turks in Europe."

We hail these truthful expressions with pleasure. The whole people, and all the newspapers should unite as one man against the merciless money lenders, who unite the cruelty of wolves to the cunning of the devil. They are the enemies of the human race.

Dead Words Vs. Living Men.

The Inter-Mountain Advocate, after showing that laws have to run the gauntlet of the legislative bodies, an executive officer and the courts before becoming valid (the "representative" bodies not being such), remarks:

"Now the question is, who is to blame for all this? Is it the people? Is it not a fact that all these conditions exist strictly in accordance with the constitution of the United States? Then there must be something wrong with the constitution. If there is, then it ought to be changed; and if this be not a popular government, the people have a right to change it."

They have not power. The people are ground between constitutionalism and centralization. When this fact is realized, they may change it.

A Populist Legislature.

So now it is acknowledged that the last legislature passed no "really harmful" laws. That, of itself, is a good record for any legislature of any state. But when we consider the railroad law, the state and county depository laws, the election law, the law against trusts and combines, the usury law, the act protecting both mortgagors and mortgagees, and the acts for local interests, we find that the legislature not only did nothing "really harmful," but it did much that was "really good."—Sioux Falls Press.

The Cause of the Outcry.

"The plutocrats don't say they don't own very much after all."

"That's true."

"Then why this outcry against them?"

"Because they won't surrender the wealth they don't own.—Twentieth Century.

FREE SILVER BATTLE.

IS EVERYBODY'S FIGHT AGAINST THE MONEY LENDERS

Every Man Interested in the Production or the Sale of Products Should Oppose Currency Contraction—Gorham's Logical View.

The cunning foxes who oppose the restoration of silver to its place as a money metal have been able by their craft to enlist on their side manufacturers merchants and transportation companies. They have employed hack writers to mistake facts and to make false arguments in newspapers, magazines, pamphlets and pretentious treatises. The manufacturer who is paralyzed by the steady decline in prices which is forced by contraction has been worked up to a high pitch of excitement in his zeal for contraction. The merchant whose warehouses are full of goods which he cannot sell because of the prevailing want of work among the people marks his prices down every month or two and loudly clamors for the gold standard which alone causes the depreciation in the value of his property. The great railroad companies, unable to make their roads earn operating expenses and interest on their bonds, coerce their employes by the hundreds of thousands to vote for the gold standard, which stops production by reducing the prices of farm and mill products, and thereby lessens the amount of freight to be carried over their roads. The only men in the world who are not positively injured by the gold standard, and the consequent contraction in the volume of money, are those who lend money either for themselves or for others. Business men do business mainly on a credit system. Business enterprises have capital as a foundation for their business, and their credit as the structure which they build upon that foundation. It is the business of the money lenders to induce people to borrow, so that they may breed money by lending it to them. The spendthrift who has inherited an estate can borrow from the rapacious and exacting Shylock all the money for which he can give good security. Shylock will encourage him to borrow. The amount he will lend him is measured only by the estimated value of the security offered, with an allowance for depreciation and the difficulties of quick sales.

From the dawn of civilization the money lenders have endeavored to increase the value of money by diminishing its quantity in the world. Every time they could strike down the number of pieces, each piece would be worth more property than before. The men who acquire property in lands, merchandise and great business plants ought to be engaged with equal zeal in maintaining at least the same amount of money in the world, and increasing it in proportion to the increase in population and the growth of the business of the world. Why should the merchant aid his creditor in making money dear and merchandise cheap? Why should the manufacturer labor for a decline in prices so that he can not manufacture beyond the next two months without certain loss? Why should the railroad companies throw all their energies in behalf of the money lenders, whose policy of gold contraction makes wheat so cheap that it will not pay the western farmer to produce it and pay freight on it to the seaboard?

Those who loan money should be honestly paid in money just as good as they loan and no better. They should be paid in accordance with the contract. They should not be allowed to write new words into the contract without the borrower's consent. They should not be allowed to raise the amount already written in the contract, nor should they be allowed to do anything to the borrower which will make it more difficult for him to pay them. If he had two barns full of grain they should not be allowed to burn one of them. If he had a pair of work horses they should not be allowed to shoot one of them at the plow. They should not be allowed to put drugs in his food which will impair his vitality so that he can not work as advantageously as before. All these things they might as well do as to so control legislation as to cut down the value of his property one-half, and thereby make his debts twice as large in proportion to his possessions and resources as they were before. All this they have done.—Hon. George C. Gorham.

This Is a Refined Age.

We are certainly progressing in the refinement of our methods of doing things. Think of the coarse vulgarity of the coup d'etat of Napoleon III., as narrated by Victor Hugo in "The History of a Crime," as compared with the smooth and effectual method in which Sherman fastened on a great nation the chains of a more galling slavery than "Napoleon the Little" attempted or desired; the ease with which Cleveland added to the weight of those chains by the skillful waving of the patronage wand, and the charming grace with which Speaker Reed robs the people of the rights of discussion through their representatives by a convenient, well regulated shortness of vision and a gentle but effectual use of the gavel.—St. Louis Evening Journal.

The Only Way.

At Kansas City the warring gas companies have combined and the price of gas has been doubled. Competition is impossible in such cases. The supply of gas, water or electricity for any city is in its nature a monopoly, and the only way for the people to avoid being robbed is to own such monopolies themselves.—Star and Kansan.

The weather bureau reports that cotton has not made favorable progress over the central and eastern portions of the cotton belt, the weather being too cold. Reports of injury by insects are becoming quite general, while rain is needed in some sections.

THE building of the Montgomey Tuskaloosa and Memphis railroad is of immediate benefit to this section, inasmuch as its construction puts a large sum of money in circulation, which is highly acceptable while we are awaiting that promised era of prosperity, so long anticipated.

ON May 21 and 22, Governor Johnston, the Commissioner of Agriculture, and the superintendent of Education, composing the board for locating the district agricultural schools, will visit the fourith district for the purpose of inspecting the various sites offered. Clanton would make the best point in the district for this school and we suggest that our leading citizens take the matter up and put in a bid. There is only eleven days but that is plenty of time for our energetic people. Who will make the first move? We respectfully suggest that Mayor Sampey call a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the matter. Sylacauga and Childressburg are already in the field.

Report of the Grand Jury

To Hon. N. D. Denson, Judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Alabama:

We, the Grand Jury empannelled for the Spring Term, 1897, of the Circuit Court of Chilton county, beg leave to submit this as our final report.

We have investigated the violations of the laws in our county and as a result have returned to this court 22 indictments.

From the reports made to our body we believe the public roads to be in good condition.

We have examined the books of our County Officers and find them neatly and correcrly kept, the committee, however, examming the books of our County Tax-Collector report that there is due the county and State the sum of $894, which sum the Tax-Collector says is unpaid.

We are glad to report the healthy financial condition of our county as shown by the report of the County Treasurer submitted to this body.

We find to the credit of Fine and Forfeiture Fund $1,090.54.

To the credit of the General Fund, $801.31.

Showing total cash on hand to be, $1891.85.

We have examined into the keeping of our county poor, and find them well fed, clothed and otherwise properly cared for.

We have examined the public buildings of our county and recommend that the court of county Commissioners make such repairs to the roof and cells of our county jail as are now needed and to which their attention may be from time to time caloed by one Sheriff.

We have examined the booki of the various county officers and find them to be secure except that of the County Treasurer. T. E. Gilchrist, a surety on the county Treasurer's bond, is dead. This bond has never been good security for $15,000, the amount of it. It is now greatly insufficient, and we recommend that the Treasurer be required to make a new good and sufficient bond at once as the law requires.

We desire to thank your Honor for the manner in which we have been advised of our duties, and our efficient Solicitor for the assistance he has rendered us in the discharge of the same.

Having discharged the duties imposed we now ask to be discharged

W. I. MULLINS, Foreman.

Nancy E. McKee et als vs. W. H. Merrit, dismissed.

Fite & Porter vs. W. H. Killingsworth, dismissed.

Fite & Porter vs. Miss Kelley & Gibson, dismissed.

Collins vs R. Ehrman, judgment for plaintiff.

The court yesterday was occupied principally by the case of W. Wilson, administrator of the estate of the late Robert Wilson, vs. Crawford Thomas. This was a dispute in regard to the ownership of a note. H. A. J. Harris some years ago bought land from Robert Wilson giving notes to secure payment. He had taken all the notes up, except the last, when Robert Wilson died, and Crawford Thomas claimed that before his death Wilson had made him a present of the note for services rendered. The administrator sued Harris for the amount and at last term of circuit court Mr. Harris paid the money into court and Crawford Thomas was made defendant. After hearing all the evidence the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

This morning the following criminal cases were heard:

Wylie Garner, rape, sentenced to three years in penitentiary.

Lewis Love, carrying concealed weapons, two cases, plead guilty to both charges. Sentence deferred.

Will Jones, grand larceny and resisting officer, plead guilty in both cases. Sentenced deferred.

The trial of Will Martin, charged with murder, is set for next Tuesday.

The most interesting case in the Circuit Court at this term, the Alabama Mineral Land Company vs. W. T. Hand, was closed yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, after occupying the greater part of two days, The fight made by the plaintiff company, through its able and learned attorney, Col. J. J. Willett of Anniston, was a strong one for the recovery of $15000 damagesfor cutting trees. Col. W. A. Collier of Birmingham, who has the reputation of being one of the best lawyers in the State, conducted the defense, and won his case. In this fight Col. Collier made one of the strongest fights of his life, showing himself fully up to date, and being always ready in meeting the legal intricacies of the case and the strong fight made by his talented antagonist.

The other cases disposed of were J. R. Kemp vs. J. C. DuBose, jury and verdict for defendant.

C. W. Plant vs. N. L. Broadhead jury and verdict for defendant.

A. L. Wambean vs. Concordia Colonization Association, suit for $500 for breach of conditional contract, dismissed by plaintiff.

W. H. Merritt vs. Merritt & Bond Lumber Co., judgment for plaintiff for $5013.51.

The civil docket being exhausted court adjourned at 11 o'clock this morning until Monday when the criminal cases will be tried.

COURT NOTES.

The business of the court is progressing rapidly. Judge Denson, while fully maintaining the dignity of the bench, has a wonderful way of expediting matters, and keeps the court fully employed.

Col. J. J. Willett, of Anniston, one of the brightest and best lawyers in North Alabama is in attendance upon the circuit court, representing the Alabama Mineral Land Company.

Mr. William A. Davis, general agent of Alabama Mineral Land Company, is a welcome visitor to Clanton.

The attorneys attending circuit court are not sparing in praise of the courteous and polite manner in which Sheriff Cooley and Clerk VanDerveer discharge their duties.

Mr. W. H. Conway made a most efficient bailiff, but unfortunarely was taken sick and had to go home this morning, Mr. Wash Foshee acting as deputy.

SEVERAL complaints having been made in regard to the blocking of Main street at the railroad crossing the city council directed the Mayor to call the attention of the L. & N. company to the matter. With their accustomed courtesey the company sent the following reply:

Birmingham, Ala., May 9, 1897
Mr. W. L. Sampey,
Mayor, Clanton, Ala.

Your Honor:—In reply to yours of the 8th, I will give instructions immediately in regard to your crossing at Clanton not to be blocked for more than five minutes at any one time, and I will thank you to let me know if you observe a violation of my instructions to the above effect. Will also put up boards on each side lhe road, reading as above. Yours truly,

W. M. Newbold, Sup't.

In future our hustling friends going west of town will not have occasion to make the atmosphere sulphuric while waiting for the crossing to be cleared.

THE Commissioner of Agriculture is urgently appealing to the people of Alabama to make a creditable exhibit of the resources of the State at the Nashville Centennial Exposition.

WE understand a movement is on foot at Verbena for locating the agricultural school at that place.

La Grippe

If you have had the Grippe, you know its aches and pains, the fever, the chills, the cough, the depression—you know them all. The Grippe exhausts the nervous system quickly, lowers the vitality. Two things should be done at once: —the body must be strengthened, and force must be given to the nervous system. Cod-liver Oil will do the first; Hypophosphites the second. These are permanently and pleasantly combined in Scott's Emulsion.

It lifts the despondency and heals the inflamed membranes of the throat and lungs.

But you need not have LA GRIPPE.

You can put your system in a condition unfavorable to it. You can have rich, red blood; resistive strength; steady brain and nerves. Scott's Emulsion prevents as well as cures.

And whether you send or go for Scott's Emulsion, be sure you get the genuine.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., May 5, 1897.

One of the most interesting bits of People's Party news that has been going the rounds lately is a letter from J. R. Sovereign, written in reply to a communication from Milton Park, of Dallas Texas. Sovereign states, with his usual perspicuity and vigor, his reason for disapproving of the extream policy of the "Middle-of-the-Road disorganizers. He makes pointed references to an official ballot in his posession, on which the names of Jerome Kerby for Governor and H. S. P. Ashby for lieutenant Governor of Texas, followed by the entire Populist ticket, appeared under the names of McKinley and Hobart. No Watson elector is on the ticket. He puts himself on record as opposed to a conference as called to meet at Nashville July 4, giving unanswerable reasons for so doing. He also refers to the presence of some "middle-of-the-roadites" at the political pie-counter at Washington, D. C.

Marion Williams, of Texas, has also rushed into print and tells the world, through a St. Louis paper, that "If the Populists of Texas are left to a chosce again of voting for the nominees of the two old parties, seventy-five percent of them would vote with the republicans.

Mrs. Lease has been viewed in regard to the recent terrible disaster in Oklahoma and ascribes it to the fact that that particular section is, in her estimation, under a curse of God; a view that is more strictly orthodox than logical.

The Oklahoma Press Association will meet at Shawnae, May 21-22 An interesting program is promised.

B. O. Flower, for several years editor of the Arena, and one of the foremost reform writers of the day, will soon start a new magazine, called "Review of Progress." He promises the same sturdy advocacy of the rights of the great common people that caracterized the Arena

Ee-Governor Wait, of Colorado, spoke in St. Louis, May 1, to do, Labor organizations, dwelling chiefly on the need of eight hour labor laws. It is rumored that he will engage in a debate on woman's suffrage with some of the local advocates of that particular fad with whices the ex-governor is deeply disgusted, owing to his experience with the women voters of his state.

The recent junket of congressmen to attend the dedication of the Grant monument, developed an amusing situation wherein a Populist congressman who was being patronizingly coached by some apparently more sophisticated members, distanced them all in style, in being the recipien of honors and finally wound up by beating the whole outfit at their own game—poker. This might suggest to the old party brethren that a Pop very ofte is smarter thar he looks.

The division between the silver and gold democrats in congress becomes more marked every day.

Jerry Simpson has been sparring with Speaker Reed in a manner that has been very trying to the nerves of the fat Czar and his servile henchmen.

President McKinley sat at the capitol and by pressing an electric button opened the exposition at Nashville. If the same service could be performed for the many closed mills and factories, all men would rejoice, respective of party or prejudice

The International Postal Congress met at Washington, D. C., May 5, and entered into discussion of a universal postage stamp and a rebait system that, if put into service, would greatly simplify the handling of international masls. Congress failed to appropriate the fifty thousand dollars asked for to be used in the entertainment of the delegates, so a proposed transcontinental trip has to be omitted.

Harold Sewall, son of the recent vice presidential candidate, has beed appointed United States Minister to Hawaii. So?

Serious charges of pilfering have been prefered against J. B. Doe, who was assistant Seertary of war under Cleveland. A. R.

The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many years in the employ of the L., N. A. & C. Ry. here says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarhœa Remedy for ten years or longer—am never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured. I take pleasure in recommending it.'" It is a specific for all bowel disorders, For sale by J. S. Johnson, Druggist.

Coopers.

Farmers of this section are very busy plowing over their corn for the first time. Corn looks fine, but I think the farmers have planted gold standard cotton, it looks very yellow and standing one way. We are glad to say that G. W. Thomas' family are better after a severe attack of sickness. We had a very warm prayer meeting at Providence Sunday evening.

A certain young man of this place while out on the river fishing one day, had the pleasure of looking down the barrel of a Winchester. It is supposed he was about to come in contact with a wilecat, he didn't ask any questions, but burnt the wind.

Our Sunday school is moving along very nicely.

Mr. Jessie Moats went to Blue creek Sunday. MIKE.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phœbe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at J. S. Jonson, Jr., Drug Store. A Railroad Official's Experience.

MR. EDWARD EDMONDS, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My heart troubled and pained me for 10 years. Shortness of breath was the constant and most common symptom. Intense, excruciating pain, generally followed any severe exertion. Faintness, hunger without any appetite; fluttering that made me clutch my breast, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall, were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I arose from a stooping posture quickly. Sleepless nights with their prostrating unrest were numerous and I could get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They gave me no relief. One of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I hope every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full details of my experience." EDW. EDMONDS.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N.Y.) Register

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had ever used did her as much good. Lily Lyrics.

Farmers are well up with work in this "neck of the woods", some have been chopping cotton and some are waiting fore it to come up.

Mrs. Crayton Rasberry paid her mother at Stanton a visit last Saturday.

Mr. B. W. Garner and wife visited their daughter, Mrs. Youngblood, at Spigner last week.

I notice in the Kincheon dots last week, a mistake, as it was said Veazey would help Mr. King to conduct a singing at Mt. Pisgah Sunday, but I don't think V—knew it. I am sure he didn't go, for I saw him at home Sunday.

The singing that was talked of so much at Mulberry, was not so good as we thought it would be, nor nearly so goon as it could have been had not every body's sweetheart been there. The young people liked to have made a Sunday picnic of it. I am sorry it turned out thus for I think their leader was sorry as he felt somewhat responsible for the success of the program,

Bicycle Repairmen's Woes.

Bicycle repairmen are in a position to judge the merits of the different kinds of tires brought to them for repairing. They are generally unbiased in their opinion as to which tire is the best until they try to repair it; then they soon find out which is the easiest to repair, and which stays repaired when it has been fixed. The following from a dealer and repairman in Clarksville, Tenn., may be of interest to riders:

Single-tube tires are not at all popular here, for nobody can repair them when they have trouble. I consider myself a pretty good repairman, and I have never been able to patch one of them so it would hold any length of time. Nearly every rider of single-tubes here has changed for Morgan & Wright.

Here is another from a repairman in New York city:

I have used M. & W. tires for the last three years, and the more I handle them the better I like them. I repair, on an average, about one M. & W. tire to five single-tube tires. It is not that there are only a few M. & W.'s in this district but because when they are once repaired they don't break out again in the same place, like a single-tube.

A Cambridge City, Ind., man also says:

I think I am a pretty fair workmen, and believe I can repair a single-tube tire as often as any one, but I meet with failure oftener than success, and, indeed, find that the single-tube is generally unsatisfactory. I don't see what any one can see in a tire of this type that recommends it.

Still another from a Terre Haute, Ind., bicycle firm:

They can say what they want about single-tube tires, but we notice they give up and come back for the M. & W. when they want a tire that will give good satisfactory service. We had no trouble at all with the Morgan & Wright tires, and are going to use them this year.

Merit Wins.

The invention of Alabastine marked a new era in wall coatings, and from the standpoint of the building owner was a most important discovery. It has from a small beginning branched out into every country of the civilized world. The name "kalsomine" has become so offensive to property owners that manufacturers of cheap kalsomine preparations are now calling them by some other name, and attempting to sell on the Alabastine company's reputation.

Through extensive advertising and personal use, the merits of the durable Alabastine are so thoroughly known that the people insist on getting these goods and will have no chance of spoiling their walls for a possible saving of at the most but a few cents. Thus it is again demonstrated that merit wins, and that manufacturers of first-class articles will be supported by the people.

TARIFF COMMISSION WANTED

Senator Cullom Believes that a Permanent Tariff Commission Composed of Experts Would Results in Much Good to the Country.

James M. Tyner, of Indiana, has been appointed Assistant Attorney General for the Postoffice Department Mr. Tyner at once entered on the discharge of his duties.

Dr. J. H. Hollander has been appointed Secretary of the International Bimetallic Conference Commission. He is Professor of Economics at the Johns Hopkins University and a French and German scholar.

The first experimental exportation of butter from this country was made Wednesday from New York City when the Government, through an agent, sent by the agricultural department shipped three-quarters of a ton of selected butter for sale in Europe.

C. H. J. Taylor, colored, Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, called at the White House one day last week and it is understood that his resignation will be tendered and that his successor will be Ex-Representative Cheatham, also colored, of North Carolina. Taylor is from Kansas City.

Commissioner of Pensions Evans has discovered a decision rendered by the Supreme Court some years ago, in which it is held that pension examining surgeons are not employes of the Government, hence cannot come within the pale of the civil service. There are about six hundred boards of these examiners, nearly every doctor of them Democrats. As fast as Mr. Evans can do the work they will give way to Republicans.

Ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson, Gen. J. H. Payne and United States Senator Edward O. Wolcott, who were recently appointed by President McKinley as a commission to confer with the heads of European Governments relative to the holding of an international bimetallic conference, sailed for Havre on the French liner La Touraine Saturday. Before their departure Mr. Stevenson said that the commission would go directly to Paris and after connection with the expedition warrants, would visit London, Berlin, Vienna and the capitals of the other European Governments. He expected that much good would be accomplished by the commission and did not anticipate any trouble in inducing the Governments to appoint delegates to the contemplated conference.

The Senate has agreed to an amendment to the sundry civil bill, revoking the order of President Cleveland made on February 22, last, establishing forest reservations aggregating 17,000,000 acres. The debate brought out much criticism of Mr. Cleveland's order, Senators Pettigrew, Wilson, Turner, Rawlins and White speaking against it. Mr. Gray, of Delaware, defended the course of the President, pointing out that it was the result of an inquiry authorized by Congress and conducted by the National Academy of Science. Mr. Allison endeavored to have the amendment restricted so as to leave the question of revocation to the President, but he was defeated on an aye and nay vote—14 to 32. Mr. Gorman made a point of order against the amendment, but this being submitted to the Senate, was defeated—23 to 25. The amendment was then agreed to without division.

Rev. Silas Myers, of Simpson county, Mississippi, is in Washington looking after the bill to pension the ex-slaves. The bill was introduced by Senator Thurston some years ago, and created a great furore among the ex-slaves in the Southern States, particularly those in Mississippi and Louisiana. Because of the credulity of the Southern negroes, many sharpers and schemers took advantage of them and have worked all sorts of devices to extort money from them. Rev. Myers brings with him the signatures of over 6,000 Mississippi ex-slaves who have sent him here to investigate the matter and to see what can be done. He is indorsed by the colored press of the South and proposes to state his business before Congress in a few days. He is a remarkable negro of the old slave class; is 79 years old, and was a slave forty-seven years. He is black, tall, eloquent and full of reminiscences.

In reply to inquiries as to his views on a permanent tariff commission, Senator Cullom has written the following letter:

Washington, D. C., May 6.

Mr. Samuel B. Archer, Secretary the Tariff Commission League, Newark, N. J.:

My Dear Sir: You have asked me two or three times whether I have been and am now in favor of a permanent tariff commission. I have for many years thought that there ought to be some means devised by which we could avoid these constant and extreme changes in tariff legislation—first going far in the direction of a high tariff and on the occasion of a change in politics going as far the other way.

I believe that through the judicious agency of a permanent tariff commission composed of experts, statisticians and business men, such changes could be made from year to year by Congress as might be indicated and clearly shown to be wise.

This would save the necessity of requiring a change of the whole tariff system by whatever party came into power.

Certainly we cannot continue indefinitely as we have been doing with reference to that subject, because the business of the country will not tolerate it. I hope sincerely that this Congress may provide for some kind of a commission which will aid in changing the situation and should be glad if an amendment of the kind indicated were to be incorporated in the bill now before the Senate known as the Dingley bill. Very truly yours,

S. M. CULLOM.

FIRE AT SEA.

Mallory Line Steamship Leona Partially Destroyed.

BLAZE OCCURRED AT NIGHT.

Thirteen Passengers and Three of the Crew Meet a Horrible Fate.—Frantic Efforts Were Made to Save Those in the Steerage.—Origin Unknown.

A telegram from New York saye the Mallory Line steamer Leona, which left her pier on Saturday, bound for Galveston, put back and arrived in port Sunday night with sixteen corpses on board. The dead were thirteen steerage passengers and three members of the crew, who succumbed to a terrible fire which occurred off the Delaware coast at an early hour Sunday morning. The terrible horror of the story can hardly be told. Those who are dead were penned up below decks, and although frantic efforts were made by the officers of the vessel to save them, the fire had gained such terrific headway before the danger was discovered that all escape was cut off.

The steamer carried in her cargo many bales of cotton bagging. It is not known how the fire originated, but when it was discovered it burst forth with such fury that it was impossible to reach the steerage. Even the steerage passengers were apparently unmindful of the danger, else the smoke and flames had not reached them. The saloon passengers were first aroused and in such a manner as to occasion little alarm. When it became apparent that the fire had cut off the steerage the captain and his men poured great quantities of water down the ventilators and the most frantic efforts were made for the escape of those penned up. In this way eight of the steerage passengers escaped.

A Passenger's Story.

Among the passengers was S. V. Winslow, of Rutherford, N. J. On his return to this city late Sunday night Mr. Winslow told the following graphic story of the fire:

"We left the pier at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon with clear skies and beautiful weather. We passed through making excellent time, the chief engineer congratulating himself that all was well and even making the remark to one of his assistants that he could not believe this good luck could continue, for the trip had started under such favorable auspices.

"Sandy Hook was passed and the lights of the Jersey shore were still visible when we went to bed. By the time we passed Barnegat light at 10 o'clock all the passengers were in bed. The passengers in the steerage had also retired to their bunks.

"The watch going off at 12 o'clock reported everything well. There was no suspicion of any fire or other trouble. The sea was very smooth and there was no wind. The moon was shining brightly.

"First Mate Wallace was pacing the bridge at 2 a. m. when he thought he smelled smoke coming from the forecastle. He went down the forward companionway and opened the door to the steerage. The moment he did this there was which burned his face. Wallace turned and ran on deck and cried the alarm of fire to the forward watch, telling him to waken the steward and have all the passengers aroused as quickly as possible without creating any excitement. The steward did this in a quiet manner, going to each stateroom and waking the occupants.

"He said in a calm tone that there was a small fire in the forward part of the ship, and it might be advisable for the passengers to get their things together. It might be possible, he added, that the ship would have eventually to be abandoned.

"There was no excitement among the saloon passengers. Most of them packed their luggage and carried it from their staterooms into the main saloon and remained there, after the officers assured them that there was no immediate danger; they took matters quietly.

"The steward made frequent trips forward and came back with reports of the progress of the flames. He said the fire was confined below decks, and as the flames did not rise very high the passengers did not fully realize their peril.

"Captain Wilder

at the fire alarm, clad only in an undershirt and trousers. He assumed command and at once ordered the crew to rescue the steerage passengers. On the same deck with the steerage, on the port side of the ship, a large quantity of cotton bagging was stored, separated from the steerage passengers by a board partition.

"The main deck was almost completely filled with freight, cutting off all exit from the steerage to the after part of the ship. The only way out from the steerage was up the forward companion way.

"The crew, on the captain's orders, rushed for the companion way and attempted to descend. They were driven back by dense volumes of smoke, and flames quickly followed. The smoke and flames also came up through the ventilators, and it was apparent that below decks was a roaring furnace.

"Then it dawned on the officers and crew that the unfortunate people in the steerage were probably burning to death. Capt. Wilder saw his crew driven back from the companion way and the realization of the horror below made him desperate.

"He rushed to the stairs and attempted to go below. He did not go down more than a dozen steps when the increasing smoke and the flames shooting up around him drove him back.

"He stepped back to the shelter of the pilot house

His Face Was Scorched.

He was soon turned off. He stood there dazed and overcome for a moment. Then he exclaimed: 'My God, no man can go through there and come out alive.'

"When the steward aroused me I jumped up hastily and dressed. I ran forward to see how extensive the fire was. The captain was just coming out of the companion way after his fruitless effort to go below. I stood by and tried to look down the hole, but the heat and smoke were so great that I was driven back.

"When I looked down into that horrible hole the thought came over me like it had over the captain and crew that there were helpless people down below who were probably burning to death.

"I tried to peer through the smoke to see if the steerage passengers were running around below, and I hoped we would be able to reach them in some way.

"I listened for sounds, but could hear nothing save the roar of the flames as they grew steadily in volume below and rolled round and round in the narrow quarters. There was not a scream, not a groan, and no signs of life below.

"On deck there were only the hoarse shouts of the captain and the hurry and bustle of the crew as they rushed about laying lines of hose and pouring streams of water down the companion way and through the open ventilators.

"Only a slight wind was blowing from the south, and that carried the volumes of smoke aft over the full length of the ship and enveloped her in a shroud of choking black, until the captain gave orders to change the course completely, so the smoke would be blown over the bow. The speed of the ship was first slackened, then the order was given to keep up bare-steerage way.

"I stood in the lee of the pit of the house watching the officers and crew making futile efforts to reach the steerage. The horror of the situation was at first paralyzing. It seemed as though the men and women whom I had seen go into the steerage the day before were being cremated beneath my feet.

"The deck was getting blistering hot. The flames began creeping higher and higher, through every outlet from beneath the deck. The pouring of water down the companionway and through the ventilators had no effect save to send up the smoke in great puffs and cause angry spurts of fire to dart menacingly above.

"When the news of the fire reached the forward part of the ship where the stokers were feeding the boilers, they deserted their posts and ran to the deck, eighteen of them in all. They clambered into the second boat on the port side and began cutting it away. First Officer Wallace and Engineer Taylor were after them in a moment.

"'Get out of that boat,' thundered Wallace. The stokers refused to obey, and went on cutting away the lashings of the boat.

"'Come out of that boat,' roared Taylor. Then he added, reaching with his hand for a revolver, 'I will shoot the man who cuts away the boat.'

"The Spaniards looked at the chief engineer and then sullenly obeyed.

"During the excitement of the first hour we did not know any one who had gotten out of the steerage alive, but later we found that eight of them managed to get out.

"The fire burst up through cracks about the pilot house and then into the house itself. The quartermaster stuck to the wheel until the flames almost enveloped him. Captain Wilder ordered signal lights of distress burned and in a very few minutes there flashed up in the darkness far to the north an answering signal. It came from the City of Augusta, of the Savannah Line, which came alongside about daylight."

NEW INDUSTRIES.

The Progress in the South During the Past Week.

Among the most important new industries for the past week the Chattanooga Tradesman reports the following: The Peninsula Brick Company, capital 50,000, Wheeling, W. Va.; the Columbia Compress and Warehouse Company, capital 100,000, Shreveport, La.; electric light plants at Owensville, Ky., and Palestine, Tex.; a large roller flouring mill at Coddle, N. A sugar mill will be built near Plaquemine, La.; a $200,000 cotton mill at Port Arthur, Tex.; the Acme Box Company, capital $50,000 has been chartered at Wheeling, W. Va., and other woodworking plants will be established at Warm Springs, Ala., and Elizabeth and Sanford, N. C.

Only One Year.

A special from Washington, Ga., says: Bob Cannon, a penitentiary guard, was found guilty Saturday in Wilkes Superior Court of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary or to pay a fine of $500, for whipping a negro convict to death.

The convict, Frank McCrary, was over 60 years of age, and the crime was a most brutal one. Cannon was defended by Hon. Thomas E. Watson.

Henry McLaughlin, of Pensacola, Fla.; J. S. Foster and L. B. Musgrove, of Jasper, and other incorporators of the Pensacola, Alabama & Northern Railroad, met in Birmingham the other day and formerly organized. A charter was recently granted for the construction of this road from Pensacola via Birminghamto a point in Walker county, near Jasper. The new company already owns terminals at Pensacola and thirty-five miles of road out from that place. Mr. McLaughlin, who is at the head of the enterprise, was formerly chief engineer of the Missouri Pacific system. It is stated that sufficient money to build the road as far as Selma has been secured, and that it is proposed to sell bonds to obtain the extra amount needed.

Traveling with Profit.

That "the dunce that goes to Rome" is not always the superior of "the dunce that stays at home" is shown by the following anecdote from Mr. A. J. C. Hare's "The Story of My Life."

Gibson, the eminent English sculptor, used to relate with great gusto something which happened to him when he was traveling by diligence before the time of railways.

He had got as far as the Mont Cenis, and while crossing it, entered into conversation with his fellow-traveler—an Englishman, not an American. Gibson asked where he had been, and he mentioned several places, and then said: "There was one town I saw which I thought curious, the name of which I cannot for the life of me remember, but I know it began with an R."

"Was it Ronciglione," said Gibson, "or perhaps Radicofani?" thinking of all the unimportant places beginning with R.

"No, no; it was a much shorter name—a one-syllable name. I remember we entered it by a gate near a very big church with lots of pillars in front of it, and there was a sort of square with two fountains."

"You cannot possibly mean Rome?"

"Oh, yes, Rome—that was the name of the place."

IS PAYING OUT GOLD.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY STULTIFIES HIMSELF EVERY DAY.

In 1878 He Voted for the Stanley Matthews Resolution, but as the Tool of Plutocracy He Ignores Its Just Provisions—Payable in Silver.

Whereas, By the act entitled "An act to strengthen the public credit," approved March 18, 1869, it was proclaimed and declared that the faith of the United States was thereby solemnly pledged to the payment, in coin or the equivalent, of all the interest-bearing obligations of the United States, except in cases where the law authorizing the issue of such obligations had expressly provided that the same might be paid in lawful money or other currency than gold and silver; and,

Whereas, All the bonds of the United States authorized to be issued by the act entitled "An act to authorize the refunding of the national debt," approved July 14, 1870, by the terms of said act were declared to be redeemable in coin of the then present standard value, bearing interest payable semi-annually in such coin; and,

Whereas, All bonds of the United States authorized to be issued under the act entitled "An act to provide for the resumption of specie payments," approved July 14, 1875, are required to be of the description of bonds of the United States described in the said act of congress approved July 14, 1870, entitled "An act to authorize the refunding of the national debt;" and,

Whereas, At the date of the passage of said act of congress last aforesaid, to wit, the 14th day of July, 1870, the coin of the United States of standard value of that date included silver dollars of the weight of 412½ grains each, declared by the act approved January 18, 1837, entitled "An act supplementary to the act entitled "An act establishing a mint and regulating the coins of the United States," to be a legal tender of payment according to their nominal value for any sums whatever; therefore,

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring therein), That all the bonds, issued by the United States, issued or authorized to be issued under the said act of congress hereinbefore recited, are payable, principal and interest, at the option of the government of the United States in silver dollars of the coinage of the United States, containing 412½ grains each of standard silver; and that to restore to its coinage such silver coins as a legal tender in payment of said bonds, principal and interest, is not in violation of the public faith nor in derogation of the rights of the public creditor.—Congressional Record, Volume 7, part 1, Forty-fifth Congress, second session, page 564.

Among those in the senate recorded in the affirmative on the passage of the resolution will be found the names of Allison, Cameron and Jones. The senator from Missouri (Mr. Cockrell) and the senator from Tennessee (Mr. Harris) were paired in favor of the resolution.

In the house of representatives the resolution was concurred in as a whole, the preamble and the resolution being voted upon at the same time, by one vote, and the resolution and preamble were concurred in by the house of representatives on the 28th of January, 1878, by a vote of 189 to 79. Among those voting for that resolution were William McKinley, John G. Carlisle, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Roger Q. Mills, William M. Springer and ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles Foster of Ohio. There we have the president of the United States and ex-secretary of the treasury declaring that the obligations of the United States are payable in silver coin.

No Rest for the Sinner.

"Why——"

The Canton Figurehead paused to light a $10 cigar.

"Why is it that you are bothered with insomnia on moonlight nights?"

The Cannibal tearfully wiped his amber colored spectacles with a mince skin handkerchief and sadly gazed out of the window.

"Because——"

He turned from the window with a deep shudder.

"Because everything looks so silvery."

And as the clock in a neighboring tower chimed the hour in silvery tones he fled howling to his padded chamber.—Journal of the Knights of Labor.

How Long Will We Submit?

There seems to be a mania for raising official salaries that cannot be accounted for on any reasonable grounds whatever. The salary of the mayor of Chicago was recently raised from $7,000 per year to $10,000, and recently a bill passed the state senate of Illinois raising the salary of election commissioners from $1,500 a year to $2,500, and the salary of chief clerk from $3,500 a year to $5,000; and thus the dance of death goes on. How long will the people submit to such outrages?—Coming Nation.

Why Not Punish Others.

President McKinley must not have read that passage in the constitution that reads, "All men are born equal and alike, and none can enjoy special privileges." If McKinley had read and retained this passage in the constitution, it is more than likely he would not have decided as he did in the case of Joseph R. Dunlop, publisher of the Dispatch. If Dunlop is guilty, we know several other publishers who are also guilty.—The People.

STARVATION IN SIGHT?

Never With Equitable Distribution of the Products of Labor.

A computation made by a statistician recently shows that if the population of the world, now estimated at 1,468 millions, increases in the same ratio as heretofore, 5,994 millions of people will be the limit the earth can provide food for. This limit will be reached in 182 years—in the year 2,079. From this on, the statistician avers, human beings would perish by the millions for want of food. Similar statements have been made time and again, says the Coming Nation, not only in regard to the food supply, but also that of the raw materials necessary for raiment, shelter and articles of general use. Happily, they never coincided. So far this terrestrial globe has provided ample food to insure the human race against starvation; and clothes and shelter also have not been lacking. Contrary to all such arguments new sources of the necessaries of life have constantly been discovered, even to such an extent as to satisfy the most pretentious wants of man. But in spite of the fact that the human race has become wealthier in every decade, misery and distress became more general and widespread; because all the riches that human ingenuity and labor have discovered and wrought from mother earth has accumulated and been beneficial to the few only.

Forearmed.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie sat thoughtfully upon his horse, smoking cigars and founding libraries as he cantered down the road. Suddenly George J. Gould darted out from a clump of bushes.

"The government is going to seize your armor making plant!" he cried.

Mr. Carnegie reigned in his fiery steed.

"You forget," he answered "that I have already seized the government."

With a gay laugh he waved in Mr. Gould's eyes the mortgage he holds on the McKinley administration, and then, giving spurs to his horse, he founded another free public library.—Twentieth Century.

The Only Solution.

"Greater New York" has a population of 3,100,000, but is crying like a whipped child because it has "lost 50 per cent of the northwestern grain trade" through railroad discrimination. And the World says, "someway of stopping this conspiracy must be devised." To be sure. New York with its 3,000,000 people is a blubbering booby in the hands of the railroad despot. How would government ownership do for the "someway," neighbor World?—Farm, Stock and Home.

INNOCENCE ABROAD.

PROBABLE RECEPTION OF THE COMMISSION.

The International Bimetallist Is the Man Who Is Willing to Wait Indefinitely for Bimetallism—Pleasure Combined with Business.

Characters—Adlai E. Stevenson, an Expert on the Money Question; Senator Wolcott, a Bimetallist from Bimetallismville; Mr. Paine, an Incarnation of Financial Lore; Baron Rothschild, the Original Friend of Silver; The Servant, Non-committal on the coinage Question.

Scene—The London Palace of Baron Rothschild. Enter Messrs. S., W. and P. They ring the Baron's door bell and The Servant appears.

Mr. Stevenson—Will you kindly tell Baron Rothschild that we are President McKinley's international bimetallic commission, and that we would like to talk the money question over with him this evening?

The Servant—Well, now look here! Do you suppose I ain't got nothin' else to do but to answer the door bell for international bimetallists? No sooner do I begin to wash me dishes than an international bimetallist rings the door bell. Anyhow, I believe the Baron's in bed. You'd better go away.

(Agitated conference of Messrs. S., W. and P.)

Mr. Stevenson—What's to be done?

Senator Wolcott—I move we appropriate a five-pound note to pay this girl to wake the Baron.

Mr. Paine—Second the motion. It can be charged to the $25,000 appropriation of congress.

(The money is slipped into The Servant's hand. She vanishes and soon reappears.)

The Servant—The Baron says yous is ter walk up.

(Messrs. S., W. and P. walk up to the Baron's room. They prostrate themselves before the great man, who receives them kindly.)

Senator Wolcott—Well, Baron, President McKinley has sent us to obtain an agreement of the powers to free coinage. You know the United States has got to get the consent of Europe before free coinage can be established in our country. Will you help the land of the free in this matter?

The Servant Girl—Is yous fellers really international bimetallists?

INVENTION DID IT.

But Has the Laborer Received Any of the Benefits?

In the manufacture of boots and shoes the work of 500 operatives is now done by 100.

In making bread boxes three workers can do the work of thirteen box-makers by old methods.

In cutting out clothing and cloth caps with dies one worker does the work of three by old methods.

In leather manufacture modern methods have reduced the necessary number of workers from 5 to 50 per cent.

A carpet measuring and brushing machine with one operator will do the work of 15 men by the old methods.

In the manufacture of flour modern improvements save 75 per cent of the manual labor that once was necessary.

In making tin cans one man and a boy with modern appliances can do the work of ten workers by the old process.

By the use of coal-mining machines 160 miners in a month can mine as much coal in the same time as 500 miners by the old method.

One boy by machinery in turning woodwork and materials for musical instruments performs the work of 25 men by the old methods.

The horse power of steam used in the United States on railways, steamers and in factories and mines was in 1888 12,100,000, against 1,610,000 in 1850.

In the manufacture of brick improved devices save one-tenth of the labor, and in the manufacture of fire brick 40 per cent of the manual labor is displaced.

In stave-dressing, twelve co-laborers with a machine, can dress 12,000 staves in the same time that the same number of workers by hand could dress 2,500 staves.

In nailing on shoe heels, one worker and a boy, with machinery, can heel 300 pair of shoes per day. It would require five workers to do the same by hand.

In the manufacture of carriages it used to take one man 35 days to make a carriage. It is now made, by the aid of machinery, with the work of one man, in twelve days.

In the cotton mills in the United States, the manual labor has been reduced about 50 per cent. Now one weaver manages from two to ten looms where one loom was formerly tended by one worker.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Penniless and Friendless You Would Become a Tramp.

If you are suddenly deprived of everything in the world what would you do? Hunt for work? Every tramp has done so, and you would do as he did when the cravings of hunger became unbearable; you would approach some other human being and shamefacedly ask for assistance. And, after getting it, you would continue your search for employment, again recourse to charity when your physical nature thundered its demands. This course would continue from day to day and as the days grew into weeks and you grew dirty and unkempt, your face unshaved and spirits depressed by continual rebuffs, you would finally become one of those nomads, who wouldn't work if they could get it. All that prevents you from being in that condition now, gentle reader, is that circumstances have favored you.—Coming Nation.

Farmers After the Big Trusts.

The latest thing in trusts is the Agriculturists' National Protective Association. Its ultimate object is the control and marketing of all farm products and farm animals, and the farmers, it is said, are taking to it with greater avidity than they have ever taken to anything before in the history of this country. Organizers are at work in nearly every county in all the states, and although the movement up to this time has been conducted with the greatest secrecy, it is claimed that the membership already reaches over a million. The plan is to raise wheat in one locality, corn in another, oats in a third, etc., and to erect warehouses, from which goods will be shipped under the direction of the national society. A scale for the division of profits is now under consideration by the national board of finance, and the method of distribution will be somewhat after the socialistic plan, everything passing through the hands of a sovereign body. More and more is the gospel of the unity of forces commending itself to all classes of people. Trusts and monopolies—evils, no doubt, under existing social and economic conditions—are significant signs of a transition period, transition from the iron age of competition to the golden age of co-operation. It is true that industrial combination is in line with evolution, and, therefore, in principle, wise and good; but what we want is not combinations for the benefit of the few, but combination for the benefit of the many. In the truly Christian commonwealth, which is "coming by and by," the manufacturer and the wage-earner, the farmer and the railroads, will all combine to form the biggest and most righteous "trust" the world has ever seen for every citizen will be "in it." A government actually by the people, for the people and of the people.—Union Signal.

No Special Privileges.

The constitution endows the government with the sole and exclusive right to create money. This has been so decided by the Supreme Court of the United States. The law makes it a crime for any other power to create money. The spirit of this law is violated in the issuing of bank currency. The states are denied the right to make and issue paper money, then why should that power be delegated to the banks?—Denver Facts.

PREVES TAKEN.

Sultan's Force Now Ready to Capitulate.

TURKEY'S DEMANDS HEAVY.

Grecian Forces Have Been Bombarding Nikepolis.—Sixteen Million Pounds Is What Turkey Wants as Indemnity.—Second Batch of Troops Recalled.

Constantinople, May 15.—The Sultan acting upon the advice of Emperor William, has declared to the French Ambassador that he cannot agree to grant an armistice until the basis of peace has been decided upon and approved by him, but the Sultan will be in a position to discuss mediation after the Great Bairam festival, which began Sunday and ends Sunday night.

Constantinople, May 15.—The sum of sixteen million pounds (Turkish) is mentioned here as the amount of the indemnity which Turkey will demand from Greece. Placards have been posted in the Stamboul quarter protesting against the shedding of Mussulman blood on the ground that the sacrifices imposed upon Turkey by the war are out of proportion to the advantages she can gain.

Athens, May, 15.—A private dispatch from Arta says that the Tukish garrison at Prevesa, at the northern entrance of the gulf of Arta, which has been besieged by the Greek land and sea forces, almost from the outbreak of the war, has sent the Greek Archbishop and five nobilities of Prevesa to the commander of the Greek besieging army with a message saying that the Turkish force is ready to capitulate to the regular forces of Greece.

St. Petersburg, May 15.—The important semi-official announcement is made that in well-informed Russian quarters (evidently the foreign office here) the belief prevails that it will be difficult, if not impossible, to prevent the forces of the Sultan of Turkey from continuing the occupation of Thessaly after peace between Turkey and Greece shall have been concluded. This declaration may possibly be only put forward as a feeler, leading up to a later intimation that Russia may not be opposed to the permanent annexation of Thessaly to the Turkish Empire.

Athens, May 15.—The Greeks have been bombarding Nikopolis since early this morning. The Government has addressed a note to the ministers of the powers saying that the Turks by fortifying Griboro are responsible for the operations in Epirus. The note accuses the porte of inducing small vessels to commit piracy upon the Greek ships.

A second batch of troops has been recalled from Crete, and it is announced that the third and last detachment will soon be withdrawn.

The aids to the crown prince recalled from Thessaly upon their arrival at Pierus were received with ironical cheers.

In Friday's battle at Philippidia, 650 men were killed and twenty-eight officers wounded.

It is reported here the loss of prestige on the part of France at Constantinople and the German influence there is causing considerable anger.

DURANT SEEKS A PARDON.

Joe Rosenberg Declares That He Killed Blanche Lamont.

A telegram from San Francisco, Cal., dated May 14, says: Theodore Durant, through his attorneys, will ask Governor Budd to pardon him on the ground that the real murderer of Blanche Lamont has at last confessed his crime.

The lawyers declare that they have not been hoaxed, nor is it their purpose to impose upon the Executive.

They insist that in the person of John Rosenberg, a convict at San Quentien prison, they have discovered the man who is guilty of the horrors of the Emanuel Church.

John Rosenberg has made a sworn confession before a Notary Public and in the presence of several witnesses that he killed Blanche Lamont at the instigation of a stranger, in consideration of the payment of $700 for his bloody work. It is with this sensation that the attorneys will strengthen their case at Sacremento.

The story and its details is one of the most remarkable that has developed in the long case.

Rosenberg is a Russian sailor, and arrived in this city on a sailing vessel from Hamburg, Germany, during the last week of March, 1895. He is now serving a term for horse-stealing, and appears to be sane.

The body of John Woods, who was murdered near Selma two weeks ago, was exhumed Saturday and the pistol ball extracted. It was found that the ball entered the forehead and ranged backward and upward. The attorneys for Bettie Harris, now under bond for the murder, had the investigation made and propose to show that the ball came from Haword Zimmerman's pistol and that it could not have been fired by the woman in the position they testified she occupied with relation to Woods when the fatal shot was fired. Zimmerman is prominently connected and great interest centers in the case.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Two Hundred and Fifty Failures for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's review for the past week says: The unexpected falling off in the request for staple goods within a month results in a period of comparative calm at a time when a general revival in demand has been looked for. Wholesalers report that the volume of business consists of filling in orders, even Chicago not claiming more than to have held its own in volume of goods distributed. Interior merchants continue to buy for nearby wants only, and in many directions farmers are too busy with field work to supply their wants at the country stores.

The continued subsistence in the lower Mississippi Valley have encouraged wholesale merchants in that region, grocers report a large distribution of canned goods west and southwest and the extreme depression in pig iron prices is followed by large western purchases. Wholesale dealers announce an increase in the demand for groceries and hardware at Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and Memphis. Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week amount to 2,483,875 bushels, as compared with 1,799,000 bushels last week, 1,903,000 in the week a year ago, 2,397,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 2,240,000 bushels three years ago and as contrasted with 3,885,000 bushels in the like week of 1893.

Exports of Indian corn amount to 3,096,834 bushels, compared with 3,127,000 bushels in the week two years ago, 1,111,000 bushels three years ago, and as contrasted with 1,247,000 bushels in the corresponding week of 1893.

There were 250 business failures reported throughout the United States this week, compared with 228 last week, 265 in the corresponding week one year ago, and 210 two years ago, 186 three years ago and as compared with 255 in the like period of 1893.

There are 31 failures reported from the Canadian Dominion this week, against 39 last week, 34 in the week a year ago, 28 two years ago and as contrasted with 25 in the like week of 1894.

REV. MR. SJOBLOMA

Tells of the Atrocities Committed in the Upper Congo.

A telegram from London says: A representative of the Associated Press had an interview with Rev. Mr. Sjobloma, of the American Baptist mission in the upper Congo, who has just returned to London. He said:

"When I left in February, matters in the upper Congo were as bad as ever. The commission which the King of the Belgians appointed to inquire into the atrocities committed, the victims being natives, has had almost no result.

"The officials are indisposed to act on missionary evidence and only a few cases of barbarity were punished. The iniquitious rubber traffic continues. When the natives are unable to obtain rubber, the state troops burn the villages, murder the natives and cut off their heads, which are afterwards smoked and sent to the state officials. Parts of the Equatorsville district are in a state of open warfare."

It is understood that the statements of the Rev. Sjobloma will be made the subject of a question in the House of Commons.

LEXINGTON'S COURT HOUSE BURNED.

A Number of Valuable Portraits Were Destroyed by the Flames

Fire broke out in the attic of the courthouse in Lexington, Ky., Friday, last, at 9:45 a. m., and in a few minutes the upper story and dome were in flames. Hart's study, "Woman Triumphant," bought by the Lexington women for $5,000, is in the rotunda. The records were saved.

When the fire was gotten under control it was found that the first floor and basement were partially saved from destruction by fire, but were deluged by water. In addition to the many valuable paintings in the court rooms were lost. These were portraits of Henry Clay, Richard Menfee, William T. Barry, Judge Robertson, Thomas F. Marshall and other famous Kentuckians, painted by Healy, Sully and other noted artists. The loss on the building is $60,000; insurance $40,000.

AMNESTY TO CUBA

Will Become Effective on the King's Eleventh Birthday.

The Queen Regent of Spain having intimated a desire to grant amnesty to Cuba on the King's eleventh birthday, the Minister of War, Gen. Azcarraga, consulted Captain-General Weyler, who agreed that it will be feasible except in the case of dynamiters. Amnesty, therefore, will be extended to many suspects, autonomists and separatists who have been expelled from Cuba or who are now confined in Spanish fortresses, provided they belonged in the provinces of Havana, Matanzas, Santa Clara or Pinar del Rio, all of which are regarded as pacified.

Frightful Railway Disaster.

A telegram from St. Petersburg states that a terrible railway disaster befell a military train last Thursday evening between Rockenhof and Liva on the Valk-Jurgy line. Sixteen cars were smashed. Two officers and nearly one hundred soldiers were killed and sixty others seriously injured.

A MINE HORROR.

Ten Men and Boys Killed and As Many Seriously Injured.

MANY HORRIBLY MANGLED.

Without Warning the Tipple Gave Way and a Score of Human Beings were Precipitated From a Dizzy Height. Details of the Disaster.

A telegram from Florence, Ala., to the Chattanooga, Tenn., says: The disaster which occurred at the ore mines of Pinkney, Tenn., at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon was one of he most distressing in the history of the State. Ten white men and boys were killed outright by the collapse of the new tipple or ore dump, and ten others are seriously injured, five of whom, it is thought, cannot possibly recover. The dump was a new one and was considered perfectly safe. The men and boys were on top of the dump when it collapsed suddenly and without warning the framework gave way and the score of human beings were precipitated from the dizzy height, amid the mass of falling and rent timbers, to the ground below. It seems miraculous that any of the victims escaped with their lives. After the catastrophe the scene beggared description. Twenty men and boys were mingled together in an almost inextricable mass of debris. Ten lives went out instantly, the unfortunate victims being crushed and bruised and mangled in a horrifying manner, and their bodies lay buried in the ruins.

Those fortunate enough to escape with their lives received shocking injuries. Several were pinned beneath the timbers and moaned piteously for help. At least five of the injured will die, but their names cannot be given, as the surgeons who attended them refused to divulge their names. It is impossible to get a detailed statement of the injuries of each of the wounded, but the injuries consist of broken legs and arms, crushed hips, fractured skulls and internal injuries. Many of the injured are frightfully mangled.

The scene of the disaster, with the bodies of men and boys pinioned helplessly to the ground and terribly mangled, presented a spectacle that appalled all who witnessed it.

One young man on top of the fated tipple, who foresaw the danger, jumped twenty or more feet to a tree, receiving only slight scratches.

Another young man jumped to the ground, turning over several times in his descent, and alighting on his feet. He escaped with sprained ankles.

Soon after the collapse of the tipple and after a crowd of horrified spectators had gathered they witnessed a scene so piteous and touching that it will haunt each of them to their dying day.

James Brown, engineer of the mines, with his 11-year-old son, a bright and promising lad, were among the ill-fated victims. Both were fatally injured. The father, with an outburst of paternal affection that might have been kindled by celestial fires, and forgetting his own agonies, while the dews of death were settling on his brow, tenderly reached out and drew to him his dying son and pressed upon his lips a passionate kiss. Then, overcome with their awful injuries, father and son sank together into the eternal embrace of death. Strong men wept at the piteous spectacle.

The mines where the disaster occurred are situated at Pinkney, Tenn., about twenty-five miles from Florence.

The dump or tipple was a new one, having only been in use for three weeks. Before it was put in operation the dump was subjected to a very severe test, with twenty heavy cars of ore upon it.

It is understood that a thorough investigation will be made to ascertain if the dump was necessarily unsafe from the time it was built.

The victims of the disaster were removed from the debris as soon as possible by willing hands. The injured are being well cared for. The bodies of the dead have been prepared for burial.

Joel Pennington leaves a wife and four children. Cal Kilburn a wife and three children. Will Kilburn, single; James Brown, wife and one child; George Brown, his 11-yearold son; Al Harris, wife and one child; Landon Harris, single; Richard Hardwick, single; Mat Crow, wife and one child; James Crow, wife and five children.

The men were all sturdy and able bodied, and were among the best workmen in that section.

FROZEN EUROPE

Sheep and Game Perishing From the Intense Cold.

A telegram from London says heavy snowfalls and severe frosts continue in all parts of Austria and Hungary. There have been avalanches in the Austrian Tyrol and the Saozkammergut. In some parts of Styria and in Silesia and Teschen the people are sledging. Great damage has been done everywhere to crops, vines and fruits. The branches are breaking with the weight of the snow, which is three feet deep on the mountains of Carintia. Telegraphic and telephonic communication is interrupted. Sheep and game are perishing. There have been earthquake shocks near Graz, Fiume and elsewhere. A large quantity of snow has fallen in the Italian province of Udine.

If the cotton trust is to carry out the program attributed to them, there is a bad time coming for gins and compresses throughout the South.

Heflin, in Cleburne county, is the latest candidate for the fourth district agricultural school. The population of Heflin precinct in 1890 was 1226, that of Clanton 301?.

The moral effect of President M'Kinley's message, and the renewed interest taken in Cuban affairs by congress, will probably help to shorten the struggle for freedom of the Cuban patriots.

With reference to the communication which appears in another column in regard to the establishment at Clanton of the agricultural school for the fourth district, we have much pleasere in announcing that Mrs. A. M. Adams generously offers to make a donation of one hundred dollars in cash, or its equivalent in real estate, towards locating the school here. This is a good commencement, who will be the next to come forward?

Some of our contemporaries are already discussing available candidates for governor next year. Congressman Goodwyn, Hon. M. W. Howard, and Judge Zell Gaston, of Butler, are prominently mentionde. While we think the discussion somewhat premature, and have not the slightest desire to antagonize any of the gentlemen named, we would remind Populists that no man has rendered better service to the party in this State than Hon. S. M. Adams, of Chilton, and if elected he would make a fearless Governor.

The report of the Grand Jury is on the whole highly satisfactory. The number of true bills returned is small, and crime in the county is at a minimum, showing our citizens are a hard-working, law abiding and contented people. The county's finances are in splendid shape, there being nearly $2,000 in the treasury. The bonds of all the county officers, with one exception, were duly approved. Some surprise has been manifested at the report of the Grand Jury in regard to the bond of the county Treasurer, but we are informed Treasurer Duke will have no trouble in executing a new bond. Mr. Dake is making a good official, and we believe is giving satisfaction to all parties.

We note with satisfaction that the concensus of opinion of the reform press in Alabama is against the proposed conference at Nashville July 4. As we have previously remarked we do not believe that a truly representative body of Populists can be gathered together at this time, and are much inclined to the belief that the meeting at Nashville will be very much a one-sided affair. It is remarkable, to say the least, that the chosen leaders of the Populist Party, are to be debarred from participation in the meeting. Surely if they are capable of leading the reform forces, they are not only entitled to, but it is absolutely necessary they should be, counselors and advisors of a national meeting. It looks to us as if some men were anxious to become leaders of the party who can see no hope of ever attaining their desires if the people are unmolested in their choice. We do not wish to be misunderstood in this matter. If a certain number of persons desire to meet at Nashville and enjoy the exposition, well and good, but we think it is not advisable for a limited assemblage to promulgate a new policy for the Peoples' Party, and consequently are adverse to the meeting.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Circuit court re-convened Monday and at once got down to business. Judge Denson was looking remarkably well and the pleasant smile on his countenance boded well for the unfortunates who had to come before him. In fact, the beautiful summer morning seemed to have a good effect on Judge and lawyers alike, all appeared in a genial humor.

MONDAY.

The following cases were tried:

James Gibbons, forgery, capias ordered.

German Crosby, assault to murder, capias ordered.

Cil Whatley and Lula Garner, miscegenation, continued by the State on account of absence of witnesses.

Robert Latham and Paralee Clenner, adultery, nolle prossed.

Jim Ellison, grand larceny, nolle prossed.

Albert Hard, defaulting witness, discharged.

Bud Lowe, using abusive language, discharged on plea of former conviction.

Ben Dobbs, assault to murder.

James Thacker, using abusive language. This case is on trial as we go to press.

TUESDAY.

As we went to press yesterday evening the case of James Thacker charged with using abusive language was being heard; the result was a fine of $25; defendant confessed judgment. One or two minor cases, of no particular interest, came next, followed by the State vs. William Martin, charged with murder, which has occupied the whole of the day, and is still in progress.

It will be remembered that Martin, about a year ago, shot and killed Sam Arledge, and after being arrested and lodged in jail, made his escape in company with Dutch Crosby. About three months ago was re-arrested and the trial is now taking place. Some forty witnesses have been examined to-day and Solicitor Brewer is now addressing the jury on behalf of the prosecution. Mr. T. A. Curry is conducting the defense.

WEDNESDAY.

When court adjournred Tuesday evening the jury in the Will Martin case had retired to consider their verdict. It was 5:30 o'clock when the twelve good and true men commenced their deliberations and from that hour until 8:30 this morning was consumed in arguing what punishment would fit the crime. The result was on their return to court, a verdict of murder in the second degree with a penalty of fourteen years in the penitentiary. Martin took the matter very coolly, merely remarking "he reckoned he could stand it."

The other cases were:

Wylie Reedy, grand larceny, plead guilty, sentence deferred.

Alec Smith, using abusing language in presence of females, jury and verdict $5, and confessed judgment.

Will Jones, disturbing religious worship, not guilty.

Charley M. Busby, disturbing religious worship, not guilty.

Mary Ann Brantley, selling cider, fined $50 and confessed judgment. Upon promising not to repeat the offense, his honor, who has a tender heart, reduced the fine to one dollar.

Dave Williams, disturbing religious worship, plead guilty, fined $20 and confessed judgment.

Pomp Smith, using abusive language, plead guilty, fined $5 and confessed judgment.

Lewis Lane, charged with throwing a missile at a passenger taain, is now on trial.

THURSDAY.

The last day of the spring term of court has been occupied with the Lee Hayes case. A large number of witnesses were examinined on both sides. The jury were out thirty minues and returned a verdictt against the defendant.

The following prisoners were brought up and sentenced:

Lewis Lane, not guilty.

Wm. Jones, 13 months in penitentiary.

Wylie Garner, 3 years in penitentiary.

Dave Carter, 3 years in penitentiary. This prisoner was a colored boy about 14 years old, charged with throwing a stick at a passenger train. His Honor in passng sentence remarked if the prisoner had been of man's age he would have sentenced him to twenty years, but on consideration of the youth of the prisoner he passed a light sentence.

Will Fate, 13 months in penitentiary.

Lewis Love, fine reduced to one cent, which sum was paid by Col. Collier.

Wm. Martin, 14 years in penitentiary.

Wylie Reedy, 3 years in penitentiary.

The docket being cleared court adjourned about 3.30 o'clock this evening.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., May 20, 1897.

A case of much interest to newspaper men was recently tested in Cleveland, Ohio. Louis F. Post, an editorial writer on the Record, having scored a judge, was brought into court and fined $200 and costs for contempt. The case was carried to a higher court, when it was decided that honest newspaper criticism is not contempt.

Dingley, McKinley's worthy successor as a tariff crank, has announced that the real purpose of his tariff bill is to create a surplus by tariff tax, with which to seize and impound the green backs, thus further limiting our money supply and crippling business.

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the last fiscal year shows a war debt of about $1,025,000,000, more than it amouted to in 1863, although a sum equal to the principle had been payed as interest besides $1,997,515,000 for pensions.

President McKinley and his advisors are reported to be much worried over the recent attack on the gold reserve.

Senator Wolcott has again gone abroad, ostensibly to work up an interest in international bimetalism. Ex-Vice President Adlai Stevenson has also gone abroad to study the money question and be prepared to refute gold fallacies.

Newspaper gossip has it that W. J. Bryan will spend a year abroad studying the various financial systems of the different countries.

Populists should appreciate the work done by their representatives in both houses of the National Congres. They have not let an opportunity pass to show how populist bellies, if enacted into law, would give relief to many of the abuses of the day. Such work must have its effect in time. One of the last of these instances is the passing of a resolution through the Senate, by Senator Butler, calling upon the state department to furnish information as to the nature and operation of the postal savings bank systems in other countries. This will bring the many excelent points of these institutions before the legislators and later before the people.

E. R. Chapman, whose trial preceded that of Havemeyer and Searls in the Sugar fraud trials, has secured the signature of all of the Senatorial Committee except that of Senator Allen, who refused it as it would easily extricate the corruption of legislators from the dilemma in which they now find themselves.

The Minnesota House of Representatives has memorialized Congress in favor of government ownership of railroads.

Hon. Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota, in responce to many mentions of himself as a presidential candidate in 1900, has written an editorial in the Representative, in which he acknowledges the compliment with his usual scholarly diction, but declares himself as not in the race.

The State Convention of the People's Party of Pennsylvania, which will convene June 1 promises to be well attended and a representative gathering.

Editors of papers favoring monetary reform are being organized by congressional districts throughout Nebraska. Those of the Sixth district will meet at Valentine, June 5.

The Populist Territorial committee, of Oklahoma, is called to meet at El Reno, July 13.

Carroll C. Roggs is the Demo-Populist nominee for Supreme Judge in the first judicial district of Illinois.

A Labor Exchange Colony is to be established at Kepner Station, Pennsylvania.

Scrutiny of an extensive exchange list shows that interest in the Farmers Alliance "or something better" is reviving in widely separated localities.

The anti-fusion bill, making it illegal for two political parties to nominate the same candidate needs but the signature of Governor Tanner to make it a law in Illinois. This law will be a stronghold to the Republican party. A.R.

Twenty Years....

For more than twenty years we have been telling how Scott's Emulsion overcomes the excessive waste of the system, puts on flesh, nourishes and builds up the body, making it the remedy for all wasting diseases of adults and children, but it isn't possible for us to tell the story in a mere stickful of newspaper type.

We have had prepared for us by a physician a little book, telling in easy words how and why Scott's Emulsion benefits, and a postal card request will be enough to have it sent to you free. To-day would be a good time to send for it.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Clanton, Ala., May, 17, 1897.

Editor Banner:

The location of the Agricultural School for this Congressional district is a matter of no small concern to the people of Clanton and vicinity. I am informed that two other places, Sylacauga and Childersburg, are bidders for the school, with the probability of still another place asking for it.

Clanton could become a bidder for this great school with a feeling of just pride, and with the assurance that no other place in the District could offer better advantages. Situated midway between Birmingham and Montgomery, the great railroad center of the State, we are within easy reach of every point in Alabama. We are near the great coal and iron deposits of middle Alabama, and, in one of the healthiest localities in the world.

It is only a matter of time, when a great school admitting boys and young men will build up in this part of the State. Such a school will make the town that gets it an educational, social and business center. Montevallo has the Polytechnic School for Girls, and near by this second great school should be. Our sisters and daughters are taught in the one, and our brothers and sons should remain at home and get instruction in the other.

No place can offer the natural advantages that Clanton does. Our pure air, good water, healthful location, beautiful shades of natural oak make it one of the most delightful towns south of the Tennessee river, while added to this is the generosity of our people, all combining to make Clanton one of the best towns in the world, and the Best one for such a school as this.

Our business men are well awake to the interests of the community, therefore, we are sure that this matter will have the consideration it deserves and the attention it so justly merits. Yours, etc.,

W. J. Martin.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention The Banner and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. BASEBALL AT JEMISON.

Last Saturday a game of ball was played between the Jemison and Calera base ball teams on the former's grounds, which resulted in a complete shut-out for the Calera boys. Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money That's because his brain wont work. A horse wont do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it wont produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physicians said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I would have throbbings in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for sleep, and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 10 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N.Y.) Register

Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had ever used did her as much good. American Tires in England.

American single-tube tires are doing no better in Europe in 1897 than European single tubers have done in previous years. In England, the riders will more than ever insist upon double-tube tires, judging by the following from The Cyclist, the great English cycling authority:

"The single-tube tires fitted to American machines imported this season are now beginning to fail; indeed, a lot of them have already done so. Novices should take the utmost care in buying any of the second hand American machines at present so extensively advertised for sale, to observe that the tyres, if of the single-tube description, are in thoroughly good order. The importance of this was brought home to us by hearing of a friend who had been victimized by what he considered was a bargain in a second-hand Yankee mount. The tyres were absolutely porous and done for, failing to hold air for more than a few hours when ridden. Even if as good as new when bought, it will not be long before the single-tubers go hopelessly wrong, at least such is our experience."

In line with the above statements, a dealer in El Paso, Texas, gives his method of handling single-tube tires: "After eight years' experience in seven different states, I find the only sure way to repair leaking single-tube tires is to cut them open, punch lace holes, put inside, plenty of soap tone, shake it out, then draw in a Morgan & Wright inner-tube, lace up, cement to rim and pump up." Practically making them into double-tube tires.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The first interdenominational Sunday-school convention for beat 5 was held on 16 inst. at Corinth Baptist church.

The convention was opened by a song service, led by R. M. May, at 9 a.m.: after which order was called by the President, J. Strock, and prayer by Rev. J. L. Long. Brother N. J. Calloway was elected Secretary, and a discussion of the question of the day was opened. Those present who partook in the discussions were: Rev. J. L. Long, N. J. Calloway, A. Baker, Rev. E. L. Manning, Judson Strock, Prof. L. E. Zock and R. M. May.

The questions were ably discussed and the interest was manifested by the good attention given by the audience. It was decided by the convention that Evergreen Sunday-schools can be maintained in the country in comfortable houses. The importance of Sunday-schools or Bible-schools to the church, was ably discussed by brethren Long, Calloway and Baker.

The regular program was closed by a discussion of the question, "How can we keep our young men and women in the Sunday-school," in which it was recommended that it would take much effort on the part of Superintendents and teachers, but that should not be spared.

Long service was conducted by R. M. May and R. T. Grant respectively, which insured a success.

Closed with prayer by Rev. J. L. Long.

5 DROPS — 40 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases, and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure. Sept. 9, 1896.

DEAR SIRS: Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Washingtown, Va. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and began taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 40 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and I owe it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is all you claim it to be and more.

Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

DEAR SIRS— JANUARY 2, 1897.

Over 30 years ago I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed wonderful. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me, is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIELET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 16 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heaven-sent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. F. M. COOPER, Washington Center, Md.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an incurable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism. Just think, for eight years a total cripple, not able to earn a penny, not able to walk or step on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thank God, I can walk and go to work. I have only taken two thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $1.00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE.
1905 Wall Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

DEAR SIRS: SEPTEMBER 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down bedfast with Inflammatory Rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was getting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE P. ANDERSON, McCracken, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00, Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle, prepaid by mail, 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

The British Museum announces the recovery of a lost classic, one of the great lyric poets of the earlier period of Greek literature, Bacchylides, nephew of Simonides, the rival of Pindar. The manuscript is papyrus of a fine quality and was recently discovered in Egypt. It comprises from fifteen to twenty poems, varying in length from fourteen to 200 lines, mostly celebrating victories at the Grecian games. It is handsomely written in large uncial characters, but the papyrus has been torn into many fragments, some of which are lost. The manuscript probably dates from the first century before Christ.

Kansas City Times: The people of Missouri and Kansas refuse any longer to submit to the practical confiscation of what they produce and ship as a consequence of the exacting rate charged for carrying their products to market. The time has come for the railroads to meet the people in a spirit of conciliation and on the broad ground of mutual interest.

Some further experiments are being made in Germany by Herr Stentzel of Altona with a flying machine similar in principle to poor Otto Lilienthal's machine. Imitation of the flight of a bird is aimed at, and the wings have a spread of about seven yards, and move through an angle of seventy degrees. The machine weighs seventy-five pounds and is driven by an engine worked with compressed carbonic acid gas, invented by Herr Stentzel. It is stated that from one to three horse-power can be obtained from the engine by the use of carbonic acid gas at different pressures up to nine atmospheres, and that it can be so controlled that the machine can be made to fly at varying velocities.

Judge and Jury.

An exchange tells a story of a well-known judge who is noted for his fondness for conveying in his charges to jurors, his own opinions in regard to the merits of the case in hand. Recently, in giving such a charge, he expressed his views very plainly, but to his amazement the jury remained out for some hours.

The judge inquired of the officer what was the matter, and learned from him that one juror was holding out against the other eleven. He sent for the jury at once, and stating to the jurors that he had plainly intimated how the case ought to be decided, said he understood that one juror was standing out against the other eleven. He proceeded to rebuke the juror sharply.

The obstinate juror, as it happened, was a nervous little man, and as soon as the judge was done, he arose and said:

"Your honor, may I say a word?"

"Yes, sir," said the indignant judge; "what have you to say?"

"Well, what I wanted to say is, I am the only fellow that's on your side."

A pecuniar and somewhat pathetic case is that presented by the widow of the late young Alexander Salvini, the actor, who died last December at Florence, Italy. Mrs. Salvini says that the original cause of her husband's illness which ended in death was unfavorable and cruel newspaper criticism in Chicago. Mr. Salvini left the United States about a year ago at the close of his Chicago engagement and went to London, from where he proceeded to Paris. The first symptoms of the illness from which he died appeared at Paris. From there he went to his father's home in Florence, where he remained until his death. He died of tuberculosis of the stomach. Mrs. Salvini says that her husband was very much depressed when he left this country, as the result of Chicago newspaper articles on the subject of his performance in the play of "Othello." She says that his disease would not have proved fatal except for his exhaustion by overwork and his loss of spirits caused by the "roasts" which his Othello received in the Chicago press. The story of Mrs. Salvini to the effect that her husband died of newspaper attacks is somewhat impaired in its credibility by her other statements that his disease was hereditary, having caused the death of his mother. He was not seriously ill until after leaving Paris, the first symptoms occurring there. After that time he failed rapidly until he reached his distinguished father's home in Italy. It is a little curious that an actor in his youth of great accomplishments and greater promise should have it said of him that his death was caused by disease of this origin. It is reported of the poet Keats that he fell into decline and consumption as the result of a physical shock and mental agitation caused by a vituperative critique in one of the reviews. In his case Lord Byron said:

"'Tis strange the mind, that very fiery particle,
Should let itself be snuffed out by an article."

CAPITOL ITEMS.

Public Printer Would Abolish the Civil Service System.

FASTEST VESSEL AFLOAT.

The New Gunboat Nashville Demonstrated on Her Trial Trip That She Is the Speediest of Her Class in the World.—A Bonus of Sixty Thousand Dollars.

The State Department has received information regarding the reported killing of Mr. Alger, the United States Consul at Puerto Cortez, Honduras. The story does not meet with credence, nor the story that a Nicaraguan gunboat fired on an American vessel.

Senator Gallinger introduced a resolution in the Senate last week which was referred to the committee on foreign relations appropriating $50,000 to be expended by the Consul General at Havana for the relief of the suffering American citizens in the Island of Cuba.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received a telegram from the North American Commercial Company, at San Francisco, stating that the schooner General Singlin, one of their vessels, with eleven lives aboard and considerable treasure and merchandise, was seen on May 5th derelict about 100 miles west of Queen Charlotte Island, British Columbia. One body was distinctly seen lashed to the helm.

The Grant and the Rush in their cruise north will also aid in the search.

The record of the court martial in the case of Capt. Henry Romyne, Fifth infantry, recently tried at Fort McPherson, Ga., on charges found on a personal assault upon Lieut. F. M. O'Brien, of his regiment, reached the war department Friday from General Merritt, at New York. The fact that General Merritt found it necessary to send the papers to Washington, is an indication that the court has sentenced Captain Romyne to dismissal from the army. In fact it was said at the department that if he was found guilty of the one charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman the court had no recourse in the matter, the sentence being prescribed in the regulations as dismissal.

The fastest vessel of its kind in the world was the verdict accorded by the officers of he trial board at the conclusion of the speed trial of the new gunboat Nashville last week on Long Island Sound. The speed required by the Government was 13.7 knots. The average speed made by the vessel was 16.706 knots, making an excess of speed very near three knots. With a bonus of $20,000 for each excessive knot this means a total of $60,000 for the builders.

The time for the thirty miles run out was one hour, thirty minutes and thirty-six seconds. The elapsed time for the second run was one hour, forty-eight minutes sixteen seconds. The average speed was 16.07 knots. On the run out the speed was 16.79 knots. The home run was a trifle slower, 16.63 knots being the average. The mean speed for the two runs being 16.706. The steering qualities of the vessel were excellent. The helm was put from hard to hard on in twenty-seconds, the ship only keeling three degrees during the time.

Immediately after the conclusion of the run the Nashville started for Newport News, Va., where the engines will be taken apart and examined before the official report is made by the engineers.

The Senate Committee investigating the condition of the civil service resumed its session Monday. Senators Pritchard, Chilton, Elkins, Lodge, and Harris, of Kansas, and Civil Service Commissioner Proctor, Sixth Auditor Howard, Public Printer Palmer and a number of officials of the Government printing office were present. Auditor Howard, who has jurisdiction of the accounts of the postoffice department, presented a statement showing the condition of his office and the politics of the officials. It showed that 50 per cent. of the employes are Republicans and 40 per cent Democrats, balance unknown.

Public Printer Palmer stated in the course of an examination by Senator Lodge, that he believed it would be advantageous to abolish the civil service system and go back to former systems.

Mr. Elkins brought out what he regarded as an inconsistency—that the mechanical force worked eight hours a day, while the clerical force worked six hours at greater pay. The law required seven hours a day of Government clerks, and Mr. Elkins estimated that the Government lost $15,000 to $20,000 a day by short clerical work.

After extended discussion the members of the committee agreed that the public printer had the right to rearrange the lists of skilled labor, omitting stablemen, charwomen, doorkeepers and others heretofore classed as skilled help. Mr. Palmer said if he had this power he proposed to exercise it, but he felt that the civil service commission would interfere with his action.

"Suppose they do,' asked Mr. Elkins, "what can they do to you? They are not above the law. You have as much right to construe a aw as they have. The trouble is everyone is afraid of this commission."

The committee then adjourned until Saturday next.

A Georgia Railroad.

Governor Atkinson has decided that he would sell the Northeastern Railroad of Georgia. The railroad was leased o Ed Richards & Co., who forfeited the lease by defaulting in payment of rental. The date of sale is June 21, and sealed bids will be received up to that time. The minimum price is $287,000. A recent act of the Legislature provides for the sale.

ASKS FOR AID

For the Suffering Americans in Cuba.

MR. BAILEY BLOCKS THE WAY.

An Appropriation of Fifty Thousand Dollars is Urged and the Senate Immediately Acts Favorably Upon It.—The Cuban Question Was Sidetracked.

Washington, May 17.—The President sent in a message to Congress today urging an appropriation for the relief of the desitute Americans in Cuba.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was summoned this morning to consider the matter, and the outline of the message was discussed. Work on the preparaton of the message was begun.

Senator Davis of the Foreign Relations Committee called at the White House while the message was in progress, and was admitted to the Cabinet room at once. The members of the Cabinet present were Sherman, Long, Alger, Gage and McKenna. The President sent out word to politicians and others waiting to talk with him that he could see no one.

one of the members anonunced that When the Cabinet meeting was over one of the members announced that the President would send a message to Congress today.

The Message.

Washington, May 17.—The President today sent the following message to Congress:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

"Official information from our Consuls in Cuba establishes the fact that a large number of American citizens in the Island are in a state of destitution, suffering for want of food and medicines. This applies particularly to the rural districts of the central and eastern parts.

"The agricultural classes have been forced from their farms into the nearest towns, where they are without work or money. The local authorities of the several towns, however kindly disposed, are unable to relieve the needs of their own people and are altogether powerless to help our citizens.

"The latest report of Consul General Lee estimates that from six to eight hundred Americans are without money. I have assured him that provision would be made at once to relieve them.

"To that end I recommend that Congress make an appropriation of not less than $50,000 to be immediately available for use under the direction of the Secretary of State.

"It is desirable that part of this sum, which may be appropriated by Congress, should, in the direction of the Secretary of State, also be used for the transportation of American citizens who, desiring to return to the United States, are without means to do so. (Signed)

"WILLIAM McKINLEY.

"Executive Mansion, May 17, 1897."

Passed the Senate.

Washington, May 17.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations decided today to report a resolution carrying into effect the President's message in regard to Cuba.

It was immediately considered in the Senate. The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of destitute Americans in Cuba passed without a division.

Bailey Blocked It.

Washington, May 17.—In the House Mr. Hitt of Illinois asked for immediate consideration of a bill to appropriate $50,000 for the relief of the destitute Americans in Cuba, but Mr. Bailey of Texas said that he must object unless an amendment embodying Senator Morgan's resolution for the recognition of the insurgents be added.

Mr. Dingley objected to the amendment, whereupon Mr. Bailey objected to the bill and the Cuban question was sidetracked.

Fruit and Vegetables Damaged.

A dispatch from Auxerre, France, the center of the wine growing district of the department of Yonne, says there was a general and sudden frost a few nights since destroying the crop of vines, fruits and vegetables. The amount of damage done in the department of Yonne is estimated at 20,000,000 francs ($5,000,000). The inhabitants are in consternation.

A special from Montgomery says the Board of Compromise came to an arrangement with the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway Company whereby the neat sum of $3,000 is added to the treasury. Governor Johnston found, on coming into office, that since the panic year, 1893, the company had not been settling promptly each month for the hire of convicts, but that considerable delay had been the rule. He at once notified the company that he should expect them to pay interest on all sums, the payment of which had been heretofore delayed beyond the day when due, for the full time of its delay, and to make prompt settlements hereafter. There was some difference between the Governor and the company as to the method of calculating the interest. The Governor has been pressing the matter, and yesterday it was adjusted by the Board of Compromise for $3,000.

A SCIENTIST SAVED.

President Barnaby, of Hartsville College, Survives a Serious Illness Through the Aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

The Hartsville College, situated at Hartsville, Indiana, was founded years ago in the interest of the United Brethren Church, when the State was mostly a wilderness, and colleges were scarce. The college is well known throughout the country, former students having gone into all parts of the world.

PROF. ALVIN P. BARNABY.

A reporter recently called at this famous seat of learning and was shown into the room of the President, Prof. Alvin P. Barnaby. When last seen by the reporter Prof. Barnaby was in delicate health. To-day he was apparently in the best of health. In response to an inquiry the professor said: "Oh, yes, I am much better than for some time. I am now in perfect health; but my recovery was brought about in rather a peculiar way."

"Tell me about it," said the reporter.

"Well, to begin at the beginning," said the professor, "I studied too hard when at school, endeavoring to educate myself for the professions. After completing the common course I came here, and graduated from the theological course. I entered the ministry, and accepted the charge of a United Brethren Church at a small place in Kent County, Mich. Being of an ambitious nature, I applied myself diligently to my work and studies. In time I noticed that my health was failing. My trouble was indigestion, and this with other troubles brought on nervousness.

"My physician prescribed for me for some time, and advised me to take a change of climate. I did as he requested and was some improved. Soon after, I came here as professor in physics and chemistry, and later was financial agent of this college. The change agreed with me, and for awhile my health was better, but my duties were heavy, and again I found my trouble returning. This time it was more severe, and in the winter I became completely prostrated. I tried various medicines and different physicians. Finally, I was able to return to my duties. Last spring I was elected President of the college. Again I had considerable work, and the trouble, which had not been entirely cured, began to affect me, and last fall I collapsed. I had different doctors, but none did me any good. Professor Bowman, who is professor of natural science, told me of his experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and urged me to give them a trial, because they had benefited him in a similar case, and I concluded to try them.

"The first box helped me, and the second gave great relief, such as I never had experienced from the treatment of any physician. After using six boxes of the medicine I was entirely cured. To-day I am perfectly well. I feel better and stronger than for years. I certainly recommend this medicine."

To allay all doubt Professor Barnaby cheerfully made an affidavit before

KING INSULTED.

The Feeling Against the Royal Family is Violent.

NOT A VOICE IN HIS DEFENSE.

It is Reported That the Crown Prince Will Not Dare to Enter Athens for Many Months.—He Was Too Excessively Prudent on the Battle Field.

The popular feeling at Athens against the royal family of Greece does not diminish. The stories of the "excessive prudence" of Crown Prince Constantine at the front have done much to weaken the dynasty.

The correspondent of the Paris Eclair at Athens says: "The people are intensely violent, utterances are heard against the royalties and groups openly discuss them in the streets. Upon the boat from St. Adda I heard a popular poet disclaim insulting verses against the king and not one of the 300 passengers, including officers, raised a voice in defense of him."

The correspondent of the Eclair adds that an ex-minister said to him: "We are republicans, but we have not the men to found a republic, and the dynasty is profiting by the quarrels of the parties which are struggling against each other, not on the programmes, but on questions of personality. The king, the queen and princesses are passing a bad time. When visiting the hospitals the princesses have been requested not to enter some of the wards owing to the intense excitement of the wounded, and in other wards the king was greeted with murmurs, and often with insulting and sarcastic retorts to his questions. The crown prince is the most execrated. Even his frends admit he dare not enter Athens for many months.

CRUISER IS READY.

A special dispatch from Vienna says that the Austrian cruiser Karen Prinzessin Stefanie has been ordered from Salonica to Phalerum, near the Piræus (the port of Athens), to remain at the disposal of the royal family of Greece if required to convey them from that country.

GREEKS WON'T PAY.

Advices from Athens say that the Greek minister for foreign affairs, M. Skouloudis, in conversation with several of the foreign envoys at Athens, has declared that Greece will not pay indemnity to Turkey nor agree to a rectification of the frontier.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Bradstreets Report Business Somewhat Improved in Some Sections.

The slight improvement in trade is in the tendency of business to increase at a few cities in the northwest, on the Pacific coast and South Atlantic and gulf states. There is increased buying at Baltimore, Atlanta, Birmingham and at New Orleans, where trade has revived on the announcement that northern Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas flooded districts are being placed under cultivation, and that the damage done is less than expected. Advices from California are that the lack of seasonable rains and long continued dry winds have injured the wheat and fruit crops. Larger Western centers report the movement of merchandise slow and trade dull. The season is so far advanced that no general gain is looked for until after fall buying sets in.

The usual industries, notably clothing, iron and steel and manufacturers of woolens are well stocked with raw material, but owing to slowness of orders prices are easier. Masters of cotton goods are at a disadvantage owing to the relatively high price of cotton and the increase in production of products. There is no gain in demand for iron and steel, prices which continue low. The report that steel, nail, wire and bill makers are seeking to form a pool to advance prices is not confirmed.

There were 245 business failures throughout the United States last week, which is not far from what may be called the normal. This total is compared with 251 two weeks ago, 216 in the first week of May, 1896, 206 in the week of 1895, 237 in 1894, and 217 in the comparative week of 1893.

SOUTHERN HOTEL

At Meridian, Miss., Partially Destroyed by Fire.

The Southern Hotel at Meridian, Miss., one of the finest blocks of the kind in the South, was damaged to the extent of $150,000 by fire early last Tuesday morning. The fire broke in the kitchen on the top floor and spread with such rapidity that the firemen had a hard time saving the block from destruction. The hotel was well filled with guests and a wild panic ensued when the alarm was sounded, but so far as known no lives were lost, though there were several narrow escapes. There were a number of stores and offices on the ground floor of the hotel building, all of which suffered great damage from fire and water.

The Southern Hotel carried only $65,000 insurance on the building and $30,000 on the fixtures.

"Don't weep," he said, correcting himself.

Artist—Five hundred dollars.
Parvenu—Five hundred dollars! Why, Mr. Dauber painted me a great-grandfather the other day for $100.

ACTIVITY IN HIS AFFAIRS.

"Have you made any advances in your business?" asked the young lawyer's friend.
"Yes," was the reply. "Two of them."

TOO MUCH FOR HER.

Biker—Talking about cattle, we came across a mighty wicked-looking cow when I was out with Miss Blumer the other day.

Biker—Made a bee line for the next county.
Wheeler—What! Deserted you and the tandem?
Biker—No, no, I was referring to the cow.

RESTING EASIER.

Socratoots—All right, but poor old Bumpus at the critical moment was in a fever of excitement.
Spats—How is he now?
Socratoots—Oh! convalescent—the honeymoon is over.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT.

"I used to think," said the man with the melancholy mien, "that many of these gibes at messenger boys were unjust. But I'm afraid that isn't the case."
"What has caused you to change your mind?"
"I've seen one of them practising for hours every day this month to learn to stand still without getting off his bicycle."

A Valuable Estate.

Prince Bismarck has several estates, but that of Friedrichsruh is the largest and most valuable of his landed possessions. It is a memorial of the greatest achievement in the ex-chancellor's life, and was given to him by old Kaiser Wilhelm in 1871 in token of his services in re-establishing the German empire.

The property, whose chief value lies in the magnificent forests with which it is almost entirely covered, is situated in Lauenburg, one of the Elbe duchies of historic memory, on the railway between Berlin and Hamburg. The estate is about 30,000 acres in extent, and over two-thirds of it is forest of pine, oak and beech. From these forests Prince Bismarck draws a large part of his revenue. Almost the entire supply of telegraphic poles used throughout the whole German empire is grown in the woods of Friedrichsruh. The cutting of the one hundred thousandth pole some years ago was celebrated by the tenantry, and the pole was planted on the lawn in front of the house.

It is amid these scenes that the most powerful figure in German history is passing the last of his days.—New Orleans Picayune.

FIENDS AT WORK

Spanish Guerrillas Set Fire to a Cuban Hospital.

THEY FIRED ON THE INMATES.

The Women Nurses Were All Saved From Instant Death, But no Traces Have Been Found of Them Since.—A New Concentration Order.

A special from Key West, Fla., says: Another Cuban hospital horror is reported from the southern part of Santa Clara province. The hospital consisted of three buildings near the town of Micacarauga. There were about thirty-five wounded insurgents in the buildings, attended by four physicians and several women nurses. The Spanish guerrillas came upon the place at the dead of night and without warning set the place on fire. The physicians and convalescent men about the place rushed to the doors and windows to save the more severely injured of the inmates. The guerrillas fired on them, killing the insurgents, and then as the wounded insurgents staggered or crept to the doors and windows they were ruthlessly shot down. The women nurses were all saved from instant death, but no trace has been found of them since.

A courier brought the news to Santa Clara, from whence it reached the Havana junta. It is said that the scene was one of the utmost horror.

NEW CONCENTRATION ORDER.

A consular report from Cuba, received last week, tells of a new order of concentration. The effect of, it will be to add greatly to the horrors of the situation. The suffering will be increased, and the deaths will be more numerous.

The order, so far as the consul knows, applies to about one-third of the province of Santa Clara. This is a region of sugar estates. Under the original order of concentration the agricultural population was obliged to form camps at the centrals, or grinding plants, of such estates as maintained a Spanish garrison. This permitted the farming population to gather in bodies of from 500 to 1000. By this distribution in small bodies the reconcentrados were able to find some subsistence. The smaller concentration has been attended with less hardship than the larger.

The new order just made by the Spanish authorities abolishes the concentration camps on the sugar estates; it directs that the only point of concentration in the district shall be the cities having municipal organizations; in this district there are but three "municipals," as they are called. To these three points the entire farming population will now be driven.

SPAIN'S FINANCES.

Plans to Raise the Millions Needed by the Impoverished Country.

A telegram from Madrid says Senor J. Nevarro Revorter, minister of finance, in the budget statement to the Cortes estimates the revenue at 853,278,771 pesetas ($164,682,863) and the expenditures at 873,865,877 pesetas ($168,656,114.)

In order to provide revenue to meet the extraordinary budget the minister of finance proposes to raise a loan with the Almaden quicksilver mines as security and to obtain navigation dues to the amount of 12,000,000 pesetas. In order to meet the increased expenditures and the 92,000,000 pesetas required to meet the interest and for redemption of the late loans guaranteed by the customs, a temporary surtax of 10 per cent on all taxes except land has been proposed. By this means it is expected 20,000,000 pesetas will be obtained. The colonial department will contribute 32,000,000, and the balance of 40,000,000 will be raised by a loan on the proposed petroleum monopoly, giving the exclusive privilege of dealing in this product during the next twenty years.

Should the colonial department be unable to pay its share of the increased expenditures it is calculated that a portion of another loan can be obtained by a proposed monopoly on explosives.

SENIOR COUNSEL.

Venezuela Invites the Ex-President to Act as Her Counsel.

A telegram from Washington says: Ex-President Cleveland has been invited by President Crespo to act as senior counsel for Venezuela before the arbitration tribunal which will determine the true divisional line between that country and British Guiana. Mr. Cleveland has taken the offer under advisement, but has not yet given his decision.

The tender was made at Princeton last week by William L. Scruggs, ex-minister to Venezuela, and the principal legal adviser of the Venezuelan government in the boundary dispute. The request was accompanied by a letter from President Presto to Mr. Cleveland in which the latter's eminent services were feelingly and appropriately acknowledged.

Mr. Cleveland hesitates to accept the position. He feels that it might be considered abroad as indelicacy on his part to take the attitude of an advocate in a cause in which he as President assumed a friendly and impartial role toward both parties to the dispute.

HE HITS THEM AGAIN.

BRYAN RESENTS COMPROMISE WITH GOLD BUGS.

The Great Leader Sounds a Note of Warning That Makes Interesting Reading—The Attempt to Boost a Dead Issue to the Front.

William J. Bryan, writing to the New York Journal, says that an agreement between the regular and the bolting gold Democrats would be disastrous to success in 1890. He also urges the continuance of the grand alliance that polled 6,512,931 votes for him in 1896. His advice to the party leaders is interesting to Populists, silver Republicans and Democrats alike. It is as follows:

The regular Democrats in their last national convention declared the money question to be the paramount issue. The bolting Democrats, both in their minority report at Chicago and in their platform at Indianapolis, recognized the money question to be the paramount issue. The regular Democrats announced their unalterable opposition to monometallism, describing it as an un-American and anti-American financial policy.

They demanded the restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. They declared that the silver dollar should be a legal tender equally with gold for all debts, public and private, and insisted that the government should retain the right to redeem coin obligations in either gold or silver. They also expressed themselves as emphatically opposed to a national bank currency.

The gold Democrats indorsed the gold standard, declared against the restoration of bimetallism by the independent action of this nation, and demanded the retirement of the greenbacks and treasury notes.

Those who supported the Chicago platform are now as firmly in favor of the position taken upon the money question as they were during the campaign. If any change has taken place their devotion has been increased rather than diminished.

The adoption of the gold standard by Japan and Peru has increased the strain upon gold and emphasized the warnings uttered by the advocates of free silver during the campaign.

There is nothing to indicate that the leaders among the gold Democrats feel any more kindly toward the regular organization than they did six months ago. In fact, it is only a few days since the most conspicuous bolters met at the Waldorf dinner, and not only paid homage to the golden image which they have set up, but breathed out warnings and slaughter against the greenbacks and treasury notes.

AN ATTEMPT HAS BEEN MADE IN SOME QUARTERS TO PUSH THE TARIFF QUESTION TO THE FRONT, BUT I DO NOT THINK THAT THIS EFFORT CAN BE SUCCESSFUL. THE TARIFF QUESTION IS NO MORE IMPORTANT NOW THAN IT WAS DURING THE CAMPAIGN, AND IT WAS NOT IMPORTANT ENOUGH THEN TO KEEP THE GOLD DEMOCRATS WITHIN THE FOLD.

To be sure, some of the gold Democrats are criticising the Dingley bill, but the moment the Republicans turn their attention to the money question all complaining will cease, and the gold Democrats will be found in the front ranks fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Republican leaders. If the Republicans attempt any further degradation of silver and gold Democrats will be their allies. If they attempt to retire the greenbacks and treasury notes, directly or indirectly, they can rely upon the earnest cooperation of the gold Democrats.

Both the regular Democrats and the gold Democrats know that the money question will be the paramount issue of 1900.

It is folly to expect that either branch of the party will give any material assistance to the representatives of the other branch while this great contest continues. Knowing that they will fight each other three years hence, is it reasonable to suppose that they can be political friends in the meantime?

When that gallant Democrat, Colonel Watt Hardin, was a candidate for governor of Kentucky, two years ago, many gold Democrats would not support him because they feared that his election would strengthen the silver cause, and there is no evidence that the gold Democrats have lost any of their sensitiveness on this subject.

Is it not probable that the silver Democrats will exert themselves to give political position and influence to men who will use their position and influence against bimetallism in the next great battle?

The regular Democrats and the bolters now have separate and distinct party organizations. No matter which is regarded as God and which as Mammon, no one can serve both.

It is as impossible for a person to belong to both Democratic organizations as it is for a person to be both a Democrat and a Republican at the same time.

No Democrat who believes that the gold standard is a conspiracy formed among the money changers for the enslavement of the producer of the wealth can act with the gold Democrats, and no gold Democrat who believes that the restoration of silver will ruin the country can act with the regular Democrats.

If any who now believes in free coinage hereafter becomes converted to the gold standard, it will be an easy matter for him to transfer his allegiance to the bolting organization; if any who now believes in the gold standard becomes convinced of his error, the way is open for his return to the regular organization.

Any attempt at compromise will not only be futile, but will be disastrous to the regular organization.

Bimetallism can only be restored by affirmative action; therefore, any compromise must be at the expense of the advocates of bimetallism.

There can be no permanent peace, nor even a truce, without a cessation of hostilities, and a cessation of hostilities means the preservation of existing conditions. In other words, harmony between the regular Democrats and the bolters means the maintenance of the gold standard as long as that harmony lasts.

Not only does harmony mean the temporary maintenance of the gold standard, but it gives to the gold Democrats a party standing which will make them more potent for evil in the next contest. Much of the harm which they did in 1896 grew out of the fact that they used the Democratic name for the purpose of deception.

If the bolting organization is left alone it will be powerless to deceive by the time we enter upon another national contest. If, however, the two organizations patch up a temporary peace the distinction between them will become to some extent obliterated, and the same fraud can be perpetrated in 1900 which was perpetrated in 1896.

The regular Democrats have everything to lose and nothing to gain by making concessions to those who desire to use the Democratic name without supporting the Democratic principles.

I have only spoken of the difference which exist upon the money question. Next to the money question in importance is the question of trusts. Many of the gold Democrats are so tied up with the trusts and monopolies of the country that even if they were with us they would be an embarrassment rather than an aid to the position taken by the regular Democrats upon the money question, and the question of trusts is in harmony with the doctrine that the government should guarantee equal rights to all and give special privileges to none, and it will not contribute to the ultimate success of the party to attempt to conciliate those whose instincts or business connections lead them to repudiate the fundamental Democratic principle, namely, equality before the law.

THE PARABLE.

Of the Rich Man and the Needle's Eye.

Bishop Potter, of New York, when asked: "What did Jesus mean when he said, 'It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven?'" said:

"The growth of wealthy and luxury, wicked, wasteful and wanton as before God, I declare that luxury to be—has been matched here, step by step, by a deadening poverty, which has left whole neighborhoods of people practically without hope and without aspiration.

"Take my word for it, unless you and I and all those who have any gift or stewardship of talents or means of whatever sort, are willing to get up out of our sloth and ease and selfish dilletanteism of service, and get down among the people who are battling amid their poverty and ignorance—young girls for their chastity, young men for their better ideal of righteousness, old and young alike, for one clear ray of the immortal courage and the immortal hope—then verily the church in its stately splendor, its apostolic orders, its venerable ritual, its decorous and dignified conventions, is simply a monstrous and insolent impertinence.

"HENRY CODMAN POTTER."

White Slaves.

The awful poverty that has been laid bare in the mining regions of Pennsylvania ought to forever damn the scoundrelly politicians and labor skates of that state. Nowhere on God's footstool has there been such shameful exploitation tolerated, and if the Pittsburg Dispatch's accounts are reliable the slaves in the south lived in a paradise compared to the miserable existence of the miners of Pennsylvania. But what can be expected in a state where the workers are voted like a lot of cattle for the Republican party and capitalism. Republicans who followed the investigation ought to feel proud of their party and the "protection, prosperity and patriotism" twaddle of their leaders.—Cleveland Citizen.

That Is What We Shall Have.

One of two things is certain. Either the present and recent stagnation of trade, from which millions of people suffer, and suffer cruelly, is due to the currency or to the tariff issue. The majority of the people have decided that the cause of the evil is with the tariff. Reform the tariff at once; reform it, as the people wish, on the protective line. If the result be well, all will be well. If it be not well, we shall have the currency question as the sole issue.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Some Hope.

The unfortunate young husband sank hopelessly into a chair.

"Do not despair, Alfred," said his brave wife.

"But we are so unfortunate."

"What of it? At least we are not so badly off as the miserable beings who are suffering from McKinley prosperity."—Twentieth Century.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE.

RADICAL MEASURES MUST BE TAKEN SOON.

Or the World Will Experience Worse Industrial Conditions Than Ever Existed in All the Known Ages of Its Previous History.

Nicola Tesla, the great electrical expert, said a short time ago:

"The labor of the future will be done principally by pressing an electric button."

Will the millions of toiling and moiling masses still be expected to work ten hours a day?

This is a question not for the working people but for capitalists and business men.

Suppose existing conditions such as the money stringency, the continued improvement in "labor saving" machinery, the combinations, trusts, etc., continue to increase the idle workmen and prevent them from consuming things that are being produced?

Where is the market for the farmer's crops, the manufacturer's products and how can business prosper? And worst of all what shall we do with our starving workpeople?

Are not these questions worth investigating?

If the trend of affairs continues in the same direction, what is going to become of the country?

If the labor of the future will be done principally by pressing an electric button, will we have one man standing by the buttons and pressing them all day—while a thousand look on and starve, or will we change our system to adapt it to changed conditions?

There are the questions we must answer if we want evolution. If we don't study and solve them it will be revolution.

Which will you choose?—Milwaukee Advance.

THE COAL COMBINE.

Will Shortly Treat the People to Another Squeeze.

The coal combine is planning a little surprise for the public in the shape of an increase of 25 cents per ton in the price of coal. Last year there was an increase of 50 cents per ton, so that we may be thankful to be let off so cheaply this year. A great deal of business sagacity is shown by increasing the price of coal in June. The outcry against the trust will be less violent than it would be during the winter months. Before snow flies again the people will get accustomed to the higher price and the trust can retain its reputation for benevolence. Another benevolent institution masking in the garb of a trust is the gas companies of this city, says the Twentieth Century, of New York. Since they have consolidated the householder, who is not prepared to meet their demands promptly, can at a moment's notice be left in total darkness as far as illuminating gas is concerned. The courtesies which were extended when there was opposition cannot now be looked for. The arrangement must give great satisfaction to the combine, but the public, whom it has literally by the throat, can only continue to groan.

IT IS ALL WRONG.

American Doctrines Must Be Established in this Country.

There is a monopoly of the coinage and circulation of money. The labor, the hand and brain should do, is monopolized by the machine. What the body creates is the pasture for corporate greed. What the individual creates is systematically divided between a few non-producers, and but a small share of the same goes to the individual.

All of these things are promoted by the government, either by direct laws or consent, and is the policy of monopoly. This is all wrong. Justice cannot be fully established, nor the general welfare promoted under such rule. The same is not American doctrine. Its a policy that obtains in monarchies. The people are to blame for this, as they have the power when properly used to prevent the establishment of European doctrines and conditions. They do not use the power properly.—Chicago Federationist.

The Present Social System at Fault.

Said John Stuart Mill: "The very idea of distributive justice, or of any proportionality between success and merit, or between success and exertion, is in the present state of society so chimerical as to be relegated to the regions of romances. * * * If persons are helped in their wordly career by their virtues, so are they, and perhaps quite as often, by their vices; by servility and sycophancy, by hard-hearted and close-fisted selfishness, by the permitted wit and tricks of trade, by gambling speculations, not seldom by downright knavery. * * * In the situation of most people no degree whatever of good conduct can be counted upon for raising them in the world, without the aid of fortunate accidents."

He who loves popularity more than he loves his fellow men will rarely be found in the rank of reformers.

CAPITOL ITEMS.

The Dr. Ruiz Investigation Progressing Slowly.

AMERICANS IN NEED IN CUBA.

Gen. Miles Will Represent the Army at the Ceremonies in Honor of the Sixtieth Anniversary of Queen Victoria's Accession to the British Throne.

The president decided upon the appointment of C. W. Tutte, of Columbia City, Ind., as United States commissioner for Alaska, with headquarters at Sitka.

An egg famine has resulted in Cuba from the war, and United States Vice-Consul Hyatt at Santiago suggests that there is an excellent market for American eggs. The eggs sell in Cuba for about 40 cents a dozen. The duties amount to about 10 cents a dozen.

The discovery of one of the largest coal fields in the world is reported to the state department by the United States consul at Cartagena, Columbia. The fields are in the department of Bolivia in Columbia, eight to twelve miles from the bay of Cispatl, and forty-eight miles from Cartegena. The coal is semi-anthracite and is good steam coal. The fields contain about 300,000,000 tons and comprise 215,000 acres.

A telegram was received at the state department one day last week from Consul General Lee indicating that the number of Americans in need of relief in Cuba is much larger than was supposed at first. The consul general says that the number may reach 1,200. The consul at Mantanzas reports 200 and the consul at Sagua 450. Gen. Lee also cabled the state department that the Spanish authorities have released Ferdinando Govin, an American citizen who had been under arrest, and he will leave the island Thursday.

By direction of the president, Secretary Alger a few days since sent a cable message to Major General Miles, commanding the army, who is now at Constantinople, instructing him to arrange his affairs so as to be in London not later than June 15, to represent the United States army at the ceremonies in honor of the sixtieth anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the British throne.

General Miles went to the Levant to make personal observations of the conduct and operations of the armies of Turkey and Greece, and it is understood at the war department that he started from Constantinople this morning to join the Turkish army near the southern border of Thessaly. It is expected that he will be able to complete his regarches at the respective military headquarters in time to enable him to comply with his amended instructions. It has been stated already that the United States navy will be represented at the queen's jubilee by Admiral Miller, of the armored cruiser Brooklyn.

The long and exciting debate on the joint resolution recognizing a state of war in Cuba and directing that strict neutrality be maintained by the United States which passed the senate by the decisive vote of 41 to 14, reads as follows: Resolved, etc., That a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some timem maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba; and, that the United States of America shall maintain strict neutrality between the contending parties, according to each and all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States.

Cuban affairs furnished the house last Thursday with a day of bitter partisan debate. The resolution appropriating $50,000 for the relief of American citizen was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The citizens of Detroit have made application to the state department to have the Queen's Own, a British regiment stationed at Toronto, about to visit Windsor on the occasion of the queen's birthday celebration, parade in Detroit with their arms. The request has been granted by the department at the instance of Secretary Alger.

The investigation by Commissioner W. B. Calhoun at Havana, in the matter of the death of of Dr. Ruiz, is not proceeding rapidly. On Thursdal Dr. Congesto, the Spanish consul at Philadelphia, asserted that Dr. Ruiz did not explain that he was an American citizen, and therefore was kept incommunicado for more than seventy-two hours. General Lee, on hearing this, promptly and emphatically stated that on February 6 he sent official notice to Marshal Ahumada, acting captain-general, to the effect that Ruiz was an American citizen and that he demanded his treaty rights. It appears that Senor Congesto ignored this fact.

The investigation will not proceed further until the Spanish representatives have approved the written statement of Consul General Lee as to the desiring to go further than the Spanish deem necessary. There is little hope that facts bearing directly on the death of Dr. Ruiz will be elicited. It is thought however that arrangements will be made for allowing the inquiry to proceed Monday.

THE Board for selecting a location for the agricultural school for the fourth disirict is now on its tour of inspection. Sylacauga, Childersburg, Columbiana and Heflin are the four towns which have put in a bid for the school. We regret Clanton is not also on the list.

Another spur to the onward march of Clanton is the establishment of a second gin here. With the avowed intention of Mr. W. L. Sampey to lead this part of the country in the price paid for cotton, there is good reason to anticipate a large increase in the quantity brought to this market. Clanton is already one of the best of the minor cotton marts in this section of the cotton belt, and we confidently predict it will soon be close behind Selma.

The savings banks are contemplating a reduction of interest to 3 per cent. That is in fact all that invested money is now worth where its investment is not accompanied by personal indeavor of any kind. When the owers of real estate in this town begins to realize this truth rent will come down and the condition of people will be bettered. Where a man invests his money in business and gives personal attention to the business he is fairly entitled to whatever return he can get out of his enterprise. But in these days mere money, unsupported by endeavor, is not worth more than 3 per cent., and the owners of money will soon have to content themselves with that. Enterprise, genius, skill—all these have their market value. But in their absence mere money must content itself with its own legitimate wage.—N. Y. World.

IF Clanton is not on a boom it is simply from the fact that the conservative character of our citizens is averse to self-laudation. Depending entirely upon our own resources, working upon our own home capital, asking no outside assistance, our citizens are rapidly establishing permanent industrial enterprises and building up our town. Within the last few months, since the incorporation of the town, and the completion of our elegant new court house, the inhabitants of Clanton have more fully appreciated the advantages we possess in location and the requirements of the surrounding country. With true sagacity they perceive that as this section is fast becoming thickly populated, a receiving and distributing point is needed where the farmer can find a market for his produce and purchase his supplies, without having to lose valuable time traveling a long distance for either purpose. Hence, our mercantile stores are increasing in number, while the amount of goods received and the quantity of cotton and country produce, as well as lumber, shipped, is apparent by the busy appearance of the depot.

Two, if not more, of our leading merchants are discussing plans for new and more commodious brick storehouses, while the large and handsome brick store now in course of erection for Mr. W. L. Sampey is nearing completion. A few days ago we announced the building of a new gin house for Mr. C. J. Stewart, and to day we give the news of a saw-mill and lumber yard, work on which has already commenced, by Messrs. McKee & Stanfield. Incidentally, we may be pardoned for mentioning THE BANNER office keeps six pairs of hands busy. To our farmers we would point out that all these industries means a home market for their produce, and we hope to see them multiplied. To the outside world we point with pride to the fact that these are home enterprises and cordially invite the attention of prospective settlers to the numerous advantages offered by Clanton and vicinity.

A New Ginnery at Clanton

C. J. Stewart, of Lomax, has purchased the Adams' lot, and will at once erect a first-class ginnery, which will be completed in time for ginning this season's crop. He will commence building the gin house next week.

Another New Industry.

Messrs. J. F. McKee and J. M. Stanfield have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of operating a saw-mill and lumber yard business in Clanton. The mill and yard will be located near to McKee's gin house. The plant is now being erected on the premises and in a short time will be heard the merry whirr of the saw and the musical steam whistle. The lumber yard will be a great convenience to our citizens, and deserves the patronage of all the surrounding country.

The Weather Bureau weekly crop report says: Cotton has improved steadily under recent warm weather and while stands are poor and it is about two weeks late, it is looking well and is generally clean and many a good cotton crop has been made with a worse start; damage by worms is steadily decreasing and chopping out is being pushed to completion; there is some complaint of damage by lice in southeastern counties. Corn is medium good stand but much improved and growing rapidly and laying by of early planted is becoming general. Spring oates being cut with good yealds in some centarl counties, but rain is needed to complete the crop: wheat continues fine, and millet while good, needs rain, irish potatoes are making good yeld; rain is needed for late strawberries and to head up cabbage and for transplanting sweet potatoes. Caine is very good; melon and cantalope vines while being injured in places by bugs, are very promising; many pair trees have been killed by blight, and peaches are rotting badly.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

The export of gold is never a pleasant sign, for it means that we are holding the price of our products too high to attract foreign purchasers: that they are taking our gold because they can buy more with it from others than they can from us, and that we must put down our prices or suffer the export of our gold.

And we have put down prices so often during the past few years only to find our competitors cut prices still lower and gold exports resumed, that we almost despair of putting a stop to gold exports by putting down prices.

The path that we have followed seems hopeless. Yet how can we avoid it? When our competitors cut prices our mutual customers, the British, will be prompt to avail of the reduction; they will buy all they can get at the reduced price, and, of course, buy correspondingly less of us. What is more, we owe the Brithish people something like $200,000,000 a year as interest. If with this $200,000,000 they can buy as much produce, as much grain and cotton in America as they can anywhere else, they will use this interest money to buy our products, and will not call upon us to pay it in gold. They do not want gold for gold's sake; they want gold for what gold will buy, and if it will buy more from us than from other peoples having such produce for sale as they have need of, they will take our products in payment of interest charges in preference to gold.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., May 20, 1897.

Thanks to Senator Allen's refusal to sign a petition for the pardon of Chapman, who had been sentenced to thirty days imprisonment for contempt, in refusing to answer questions put to him by the senatorial committee of investigation into the Sugar Trust scandals that gentleman is now supposed to be languished behind the bars. In reality he is only spending a month of seclution in the most luxurious apartment that could be fitted up at the jail. Trial of Searles and Havermeier was deferred until May 25.

The latest and by far from the least of the critics of the McKinley administration is "pious John Wanamaker." Failure to secure recognition of his merits as a hander of bargains and as a donator to campaign funds may be at the bottom of these strictures, but they make pretty good reading anyhow and have a ring of truth that is unique from a republican source.

Congressman Cochran, of Missouri, has introduced an amended edition of the income tax bill which he claims will be beyond the reach of the Supreme court ruling. He hopes to get it throug during the regular session.

Senator Pettigrew's resolution calling for an investigation of raudulent issue of lands to the Union Pacific Railroad has been adopted.

It is announced with some show of authority that President McKinley is very much displeased with the amended Tariff Bill now before the Senate and will veto the same should it pass the House in its present form.

The records show that fourteen savings banks, with about 29,000 depositors, have failed since McKinley's inauguration. Not a very convincing proof of restored prosperity.

It is reported in official circles that T. V. Powderly, ex-Grand Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, will receive a good appointment under the present administration, for his treachery to the people and the cause of silver in the last campaign.

There is a movement on foot among the Populists and Free Silver Democrats of Pennsylvania to nominate Hon. Jas. C. Sibley for Governor.

John Kane, of the United Mine Workers asserted that nearly one third of Miners of the country are at present out of employment.

The eastern railways are gradually reducing the wages of employes, notwithstanding the ante election promises. Many of the roads are also laying off large numbers of men.

All so called labor mills, before the Pennsylvaniy legislature, were killed at the recent session.

The recent election of Senator Stephen R. Mailory, of Floridr, the succeesor of Call, brings the total membership of the Senate to (93) within one of the full complement, and again gives the silver senator a majority of one vote.

Albet Griffin and Frank Root, veteran newspaper men, have started the independent at Topeka, Kas. It will champion the cause of silver and advocate financial reforms generally.

David Overmeier, of Kansas, is said to be developing strength as a candidate for second place on the silver ticket in 1900. He is a staurch friend of W. J. Bryan.

The daily and weekly Tribune of Pittsburg Kan. recently changed from a republican to a populist free silver organ. This comes in the nature of a surprise as the senior editor, D. C. Flint, has been for years one of the foremost republican politicians of Kansas.

Mrs. Anna L. Diggs, of Kansas, will soon begin a course of lectures in Minnesota, under the auspicies fo the farmers Alliance.

A bill for the creation of a state board of railroad commissioners has been defeated in an extra session of the Arkansas legislature.

Are You Thin?

Look about you! See for yourself! Who suffer most from sleeplessness, nervousness, nervous dyspepsia, neuralgia, despondency, general weakness? Who are on the edge of nervous prostration all the time? Those who are thin, Opium, chloral, bromides, headache powders, only make matters worse. Iron and bitters are only stimulants. To be cured, and cured for good, you need a fat-making food. You want new blood, rich blood; and a strong nerve-tonic.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is all this. It feeds the tissues, makes rich blood, and strengthens the nerves.

Book about it free for the asking.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

EDITOR BANNER: I was pleased to note that one man in Chilton county besides myself is in favor of good roads.

Your Kincheon correspondent seems to charge the commissioners with the bad roads and does not want to blame the apportioner and overseers. Now, I do not know whether or not, he is filling either place, but there is one thing I do know, if the overseers would discharge their duty as defined in the laws of the State, there would be less reason for complaint of bad roads. Your correspondent insists that the commissioners give us some second and first grde roads, which of course would be very acceptable to me, but I long to see a few third grade roads first. We have many fifth or sixth grade roads but no third grade. A third grade road is requered to be opened and worked 15 feet wide, but we go on the road and talk and laugh and tell idle tales and occasionally plow out a ditch on each side of the road with a space between about 7 or 8 feet wide instead of 15 and then dig a few ditches diagonally across it and breaks, and that is the true name for they break vehicles and very nearly break a person's back if their team has on any speed when passing over of them.

We jam our fences in the road so closely that it is dangerous and almost impossable for vehickles to pass each other. The apportioner being kind and tender harted they go before the grand jury and state that the roades are in a tolerably good condition. (Wanting to screen the overseers) The jury knows they are not in a good condition having just traveled over them, but they are very lenient too and report to the court that they find the public roads of the county in tolerably good condition, and court adjourns and all go home satisfied and not a third grade road in the county. Your correspondent says we have men and means to make good roads, that is true but we luck energy and will power. We could have as fine roads as there is anywhere if would use a little more muscular power. Hoping to hear from others on the subject of good roads I desist.

Yours till Gabrel blows.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Ministers Should Use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

THERE IS NO PROFESSION, whose labors so severely tax the nervous system, as that of the ministry. The derangement of the nerve centers of the brain by over work, frequently brings on attacks of heart trouble, and nervous prostration.

Rev. J. P. Keister, M. D., Pastor U. B. church, London Mills, Ills., himself a physician, writes Feb. 20, 1895: "Heart affection and nervous prostration had become so serious last fall that a little over work in the pulpit would so completely prostrate me that it seemed certain I must relinquish the work of the ministry entirely. Heart palpitation became so bad that my auditors would ask me if I did not have heart disease. Last November I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure alternately with Dr. Miles' Nervine and derived the greatest possible benefit. I have just closed a revival work of 10 weeks, preaching nearly every night and twice on the Sabbath. I can speak for hours without suffering as I formerly did. Hard working ministers should keep Dr. Miles' grand remedies on hand."

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N.Y.) Register. Mr. James Rowland of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels a ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had ever used did her as much good. For Mothers!

THE discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided, Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the genital organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALE, of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

American Tires in England.

American single-tube tires are doing so better in Europe in 1897 than European single tubers have done in previous years. In England, the riders will more than ever insist upon double-tube tires, judging by the following from The Cyclist, the great English cycling authority:

"The single-tube tires fitted to American machines imported this season are now beginning to issue, indeed, a lot of them have already done so. Novices should take the utmost care in buying any of the second hand American machines at present so extensively advertised for sale, to observe at the tyres, if of the single-tube description, are in thorough good order. The importance of this was brought home to us by hearing of a friend who had been victimized by what he considered was a bargain in a second-hand Yankee mount. The tyres were absolutely porous and done for, failing to hold air for more than a few hours when ridden. Even if as good as new when bought, it will not be long before the single-tubers go hopelessly wrong, at least such is our experience."

In line with the above statements, a dealer in El Paso, Texas gives his method of handling single-tube tires: "After eight years' experience in seven different states, I find the only sure way to repair leaking single-tube tires is to cut them open, punch lace holes, put inside, plenty of soap tonic, shake it out, then draw in a Morgan & Wright inner tube, lace up, cement to rim and pump up." Practically making them into double-tube tires.

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No you never did and never will, for it taken as directed and in the proper quantity 5 Drops cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. F. P. Lambert, Judge Supreme Court for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Party of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication.

Jan 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 6th of January 1897, I was in Washington and my suffering caused me an agonizing case of inflammatory rheumatism, so severe and painful in character that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night according to your printed directions. The following morning I was surprised to find myself somewhat relieved, and after taking treatment I woke the second morning cured. My arm was entirely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. My cure was so quick and complete as to be remarkable. I have known for some time of the great healing properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours truly, [illegible] Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D.C.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy "5 DROPS," and let you what it has done for me. I had been troubled with a weak heart, and for a long time had Catarrh of the head for 20 years. I was so deaf that I could not hear a clock tick and could not move without pain. I was so bad that I could not lie down for two years, and our family physician said I could live but a short time. Five months ago I read in the newspapers about "5 Drops" and decided to try it. This is nothing short of a miracle. I can truly say I have not a single symptom of Catarrh, and I have gained more than is claimed for it. At this time my ears are free from pain, and I have gained in hearing. I have not had any Rheumatism at all and the heart trouble is now gone. I am now 60 years of age, and my eyesight is almost perfect. I have gone to work at my old trade, shoemaking, and can do a full day's work. It is the best of all medicines for a weak heart. I am recommending it to my friends and relatives. I am 70 years of age, and I have used many medicines for Crup and colds but for it has the same effect in each case and I prize it highly for the lives of the child and relatives saved by it. Wishing you success in introducing this great remedy, I remain, Yours respectfully, WM. WILLIAMS, Dublin Ferry P.O., Ind.

We received the following letter from Mr. [illegible] Hallock, of Omaha, Neb., Mr. Hallock has been for many years an active [illegible] Kelleams [illegible]

MR. J. S. WILSON,

DEAR SIR—Your letter of recent date at hand. The testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who put it out are [illegible] and responsible. I gave it to them, and every word of it is true and proper. I have sold many thousands of bottles of 5 Drops and never heard a word of complaint. I once was deaf so you may judge I know what it can do. I believe that power of hearing can be restored in many cases where it has not been lost too long, and I believe 5 Drops will do it. You can use this as you may think best. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to recommend it to any and all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about 5 Drops. I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now a joyful thought. Since I have felt my power of hearing I have not felt any pain. Dr. S. W. Kellems, my brother, uses 5 Drops in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure. Yours truly, WM. W. KELLEMS AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS, Sept. 21, 1896.

SULTAN INTERVIEWED.

The First Interview With Abdul Abdul Since the War.

The New York World publishes an exclusive interview with the sultan of Turkey, the first interview with that ruler ever printed on the war and the terms of peace. It was obtained by Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, member of the English parliament, who dictated it for the World.

When the subject of peace was broached Sir Ellis said:

"Greece and Turkey, your majesty, should be friends, not enemies, as they have common and formidable foes. A continuance of the war will only enfeeble both and benefit the Slavs."

"But, sir," answered the sultan, with a deprecatory wave of the hand, and a faint shrug of the shoulders, "we did not begin the war. Greece ought to have thought of these things before rashly plunging into hostilities without provocation."

Sir Ellis suggested that now that the Ottoman arms have been victorious, the sultan could well afford to display magnanimity by granting terms not too humiliating to Greece.

The sultan replied: "You have said the king of Greece and the Greek government feared public opinion, but there is public opinion in Turkey also which has to be reckoned with. Turkish feeling demands that the Ottoman empire should not thus be wantonly forced to make heavy sacrifices with impunity."

Sir Ellis suggested that Turkey might cede Crete to Greece in exchange for Thessaly and an indemnity, his majesty replying:

"But Cretan Musselmans have been very cruelly and unjustly treated, on which account there is bitter indignation throughout my dominion."

Sir Ellis, who interview King George for the World, said the Greek ruler was anxious for an honorable peace.

The sultan replied:

"Though the fault lies with Greece for what has happened, I, too, would rejoice to see peace re-established between us."

Sir Ellis suggested that Turkey should be given control of the mountain passes of the Thessalanian frontier.

His majesty assented to this by nods of approval, and then asked: "What do you think the Greek government would say to such a proposal?"

As to the final terms of peace Sir Ellis says he believes there will be:

1. An indemnity of £4,000,000, accompanied perhaps by European control of Greek finances.

2. Rectification of the Thessalanian frontier so as to give Turkey complete contro of the mountain passes.

3. Whole or partial abolition of Greek capitulations.

It has leaked out at San Francisco that the concession obtained by Jesse Grant and his associates from the Mexican Government for lands surrounding the famous Hot Springs of Tiajuana, across the boundary line, covers also privilege for running a lottery and gambling device.

Who the Eastern people are is not known, but it is learned that the Dwyers are figuring on the purchase of the Ryerson and San Antonio ranches, some miles below Tia Juana, to be used for raising racing stock.

A local real estate man who is handling the matter for Grant and his associates is authority for the statement that the intending purchasers declare that they will build the finest gambling houses in the world at the springs, to cost $2,000,000, to include every game of chance known, with a lottery connection. SCATHING CRITICISM

"The right of the United States to do this cannot be called into question. Spain in a similar matter assisted her subjects at Key West for the great fire there some years ago."

El Diaro de la Marina subjects "American jingoes" and the United States Congress to a scathing criticism and expresses confidence that no matter what action the United States and the House of Representatives may take, President McKinley will be able to maintain amicable relations with Spain.

At the entrance of the tunnel the royal party was met by the duke of Cambridge and the prince of Teck and military and other officials. At the Greenwich end was a dais upon which the royal party took their places and from which the prince of Wales, in the name of the queen, declared the tunnel open to the public traffic forever. The new tunnel is generally regarded as a triumph of engineering skill.

THE DUKE EXCITED.

Tetuan Attacks a Spanish Senator and Then Resigns.

A telegram from Madrid announces that the Duke of Tetuan, minister of foreign affairs, has resigned, as a result of the incident in the Senate last Thursday, when he boxed the ears of Senator Comas.

Senor Canovas, the premier, will take the portfolio ad interim.

The liberal senators have decided to attend no more sessions of the senate until full satisfaction has been accorded to Senator Comas and the Liberal party by the Duke of Tetuan.

The exciting incident which culminated in a free fight was provoked by the statement of the Duke of Tetuan that Senor Segasta's speech the other day to the liberals had contributed to bring about the vote in the American Senate.

Gen. Luis Pando said: "The thing now happening is due to the cowardice and feebleness of the government."

Senor Comas said: "You will discuss that tomorrow.

"We will discuss it," repled the Duke of Tetuan, "but I will accept dictation from nobody."

"Nor I either," retorted Senor Comas at the top of his voice.

At this point the Duke of Tetuan, pale with excitement, boxed both ears of Senor Comas and felled him to the floor. The son of Comas threw himself upon the duke and struck him a heavy blow with his fist. Several senators intervened and a general scuffle ensued, with great confusion, and it was some time before order was restored.

The Duke of Tetuan tendered his resignation immediately after the incident. It is believed he misunderstood the reply of Senator Comas, as he is regarded as an extremely courteous and honorable man.

Senator Comas is a professor in the University of Madrid and is held in high esteem in scholastic and political circles.

The Senate resumed its session the evening, but no reference was made to the incident. It adjourned at 10 o'clock, after which the immediate witnesses deliberated with the seconds of the Duke of Tetuan and Senator Comas for an hour before the seconds decided that under the code duello a duel was unnecessary.

FOUNDED BY JOHN WESLEY.

Christ Church, the Oldest Church in Georgia, Destroyed by Fire.

Christ church, the oldest church of Georgia, founded by John Wesley before he promulgated the Methodist faith, was burned almost to the ground shortly after midnight Saturday. The fire was discovered shortly after 12 o'clock and it spread rapidly. It is supposed to have originated from a gas jet left burning by some member of the choir which held a practice there. It contained all the records of Savannah and practically of Georgia since 1865, most of which are a total loss.

The church cost about $25,000 and about as much more has been spent upon it. The price set upon the building and lot recently was $100,000. It is only partially covered by insurance.

Christ Church, standing on Bull street, fronting Johnson square, is the mother church of the Episcopal communion in Georgia. Christ church parish was founded soon after the settlement of Savannah. The first edifice was begun in 1743, but was not completed until 1750. In 1796 it was destroyed by fire and was rebuilt upon an enlarged plan in 1803. The next year it was partially demolished by a hurricane and was not rebuilt until 1810. In 1838 the corner stone of the present edifice was laid, the old church having been torn down, and the building was completed in 1840. The founder of Christ church was Rev. Henry Herbert, who came over from England with Oglethorpe.

John Wesley was its third rector, and on the site of the present edifice stood the rude chapel in which he ministered as chaplain to the colonists. The late Bishop Stephen Elliott was rector of the church from 1861 until his death in 1866, and in the chancel is a beautiful window to his memory.

SCRIMMAGE AT HOMESTEAD.

Foreign Laborers Attacked by Idle Americans.—Hand-to-Hand Fight.

Enraged that work which they believed should have been given to them instead of imported labor, a half hundred idle men at Homestead Friday night laid siege to large shanties in which were sleeping an equal number of Italians, brought here from Virginia to work on the Homestead and Highland street railway. The attacking party was armed with sticks and stones, and the foreigners, frightened almost to death, fled precipitately from the house. A hand to hand scrimmage followed, during which a number of the Italians were seriously injured. the attacking party then withdrew, and two hours later the Italians returned. A second attack was made on the shanties and attempt to burn them, but this time the foreigners drove their assailants off. Saturday morning the Italians went to work under the protection of officers, but the feeling against them is so strong that further trouble is expected. The imported men are working under contract at 75 cents a day.

DIPS INTO FINANCE.

A "PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN'S" CONTRIBUTION.

A Confession of Failure—More Hard Times Predicted—Any Farmer Can Give This Gentleman Many Good Pointers.

The following printed circular was mailed to each employe of the Bridge & Beach Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, we are told by the Journal, with his pay envelope, Monday:

From the Stove and Hardware Review, May 6, 1897: A Business Man's Views. In response to a request to give his views on the outlook for the business future, Mr. George H. Holland, vice president and manager of the Bridge & Beach Manufacturing Company, a concern which, as is well known, stands second to none in the stove business for financial strength, replied as follows:

"In my opinion, this year of 1897 will be another 'waiting year.' We should not aggravate the situation by prophesying further tribulation, but, on the other hand, we should not blind ourselves by talking of a reaction and good business outlook being in sight when it is not. The existing conditions are bad; there is little in the immediate future that promises relief, and the only real encouragement we have is that this state of affairs can not last for all time to come. It is true we said this in 1895 and 1896, and when McKinley was elected I was one of those who felt that prosperity was in sight; and we had every reason to believe so. The election was over, the financial question was settled for four years to come, and we were saved from the terrific results of a depreciated silver currency; the tremendous liquidation during 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, and the low prices ruling indicated that bottom had been reached and that 1897 would bring prosperity, but since the panic of 1893 the situation has never been correctly analyzed. Our condition has been far worse than we imagined and our recovery is going to take longer than was supposed. The farmer is in trouble; his surplus is gone, and he is encroaching on his capital—mortgaging his farm. The western farmer can get for his corn an average price of fifty 21 cents per bushel, and in many sections less, and for oats, a most important crop with him, 12 to 15 cents. We have not realized the great change electricity is working for him and for the rest of us and the new conditions we must meet. Horses and mules by the thousands have been displaced by electricity. The electric carriages and wagons will soon displace thousands more. Iowa farmers have lost 60 per cent of their hogs by cholera, and in other states have suffered heavily. These conditions must not be ignored. Manufacturers and business men can not prosper unless the farmer prospers. Good crops, especially of wheat and cotton, this year, and proper tariff legislation, will pave the way for better times. I look for further failures, but they will be of concerns who have spread themselves, are badly managed, and whose interest charges on their bonds and mortgages are eating them up. While it rains hard, still the quicker such concerns are liquidated the better. The worst of all is the suffering of mechanics, laborers, clerks and their families, for manufacturers and merchants must reduce their expenses, cut down their force and work shorter time until an increase in their business justifies increasing their help. Not until the farmer can realize a surplus from his crops that will increase his purchasing power will we see business improve. When that will be I know not. Collections are good, but country merchants are buying only from hand to mouth as their needs require. Probably never before have the country merchants been in better shape as far as indebtedness goes. Their stocks are low, and like the rest of us, they are waiting, waiting for the farmer upon whom after all we are depending for prosperity. It took several years of misgovernment, mismanagement and 'kite flying' to get us all into this condition. We can not expect to get out of it in a few months. Every thoughtful man must know. I firmly believe that all business and manufacture depends on the farmer. On him depend the railroads (who are suffering with the rest of us) to move his crops and bring him supplies. Upon him depends the country merchant, and upon the country merchant depends the manufacturer and wholesale merchant, and upon the manufacturer and wholesale merchant depend the thousands of mechanics, clerks, salesmen and laborers in the city, and so on to the end of the chapter. The farmer is in a bad way by economizing on every side. We are feeling the result of his condition. We are a debtor nation; our national, state, county and municipal indebtedness is held all over the world. It will take time and the exercise of more good business sense in our government management than we have been experiencing, to get straightened out. A change for the better will come but not in the immediate future. This is the way it looks to me."

This is quite a remarkable contribution to the current "literature" of the financial question by a successful business man.

Mr. Holland admits that all of his prophesies have been unfulfilled and says that our condition has been worse than imagined and the recovery will take longer than was supposed. One great truth, it seems, has come to him—an illumination from on high—and that is "that all business and manufacture depends on the farmer." He truly says we are a debtor nation and our indebtedness is held all over the world. Did it ever occur to Mr. Holland that so long as we permit our national creditors to fix the prices of our products we will never be anything else but a debtor nation? Will he consult what is called the index-number tables, which show a constantly decreasing range of the prices of average commodities, in which our interest charges abroad are paid, and tell us how we are to cease to be debtors if this continues?

England's annual tribute from America in interest equals at least $400,000,000, which may all be exacted in gold. We do not produce 10 per cent of that quantity of gold which is available for payment, and must pay in commodities at England's price. If Mr. Holland had a note due in his bank, and his bank knew that he could only pay in stoves, what power would Mr. Holland have (assuming that the banker was a "good business man") to enhance the price of his stoves?

There is much truth in Mr. Holland's statement of conditions, but the circular is remarkable in that there is no suggestion of a remedy. He does not tell us to "have confidence;" he breathes no word of hope of better times from tariff legislation; he does not advocate the retirement of the greenbacks. We can infer from his leaflet that there is no remedy unless it be the discovery of a cure for hog cholera. Singularly enough, however, in enumerating causes for conditions he specifies in the same paragraph and as concurring causes the increased capacity for production of wealth by electric devices and the destruction of wealth by hog cholera. Now, Mr. Holland, let us not burst in ignorance. Please, please, tell us whether the increased production of wealth due to invention or the destruction of wealth by hog cholera is the cause of our troubles, or do both conspire to put us in this miserable plight?

Our Cause Is the Cause of the World.

If you dam up the river of progress,
At your peril and cost let it be!
That river must seaward, despite you,
'Twill break down your dams and be free!
And we heed not the pitiful barriers
That you in its way have down cast,
For your efforts but add to the torrent
Whose flood must o'erwhelm you at last!
For our banner is raised and unfurled;
At your head our defiance is hurled—
Our cause is the cause of the world!

Our hope is the hope of the age,
We laugh in the face of the forces
That strengthen the flood they oppose;
For, the harder oppression, the fiercer
The current will be when it flows.
We shall win, and the tyrant's battalions
Will be scattered like chaff in the fight,
From which the true soldier of Freedom
Shall gather new courage and might!
For our banner is raised and unfurled;
At your head our defiance is hurled—
Our hope is the hope of the ages,
Our cause is the cause of the world!

Whether leading the van of the fighters
In the bitterest stress of the strife,
Or patiently bearing the burden
Of changelessly commonplace life,
One hope we have ever before us,
One aim to attain and fulfill,
One watchword we cherish to mark us
One kindred and brotherhood still!
For our banner is raised and unfurled;
At your head our defiance is hurled—
Our hope is the hope of the ages,
Our cause is the cause of the world!

What matter if failure on failure
Crowd closely upon us and press?
Where a hundred have bravely been beaten,
The hundred and first wins success!
Our watchword is "Freedom!"—new soldiers
Flock each day where her flag is unfurled,
Our hope is the hope of the ages,
Our cause is the cause of the world!
For our banner is raised and unfurled;
At your head our defiance is hurled—
Our hope is the hope of the ages,
Our cause is the cause of the world!

A Huge Patent Swindle.

The patent office decision granting an extension of eleven years to the Bell telephone monopoly through the held up Berliner patents is sustained by the United States Supreme Court. The patent office is pretty near as rotten as the Supreme Court, and it is time the people gave them both a thorough overhauling. When a corporation that has been permitted and protected by the Supreme Court and the patent office in robbing the people of the United States of one hundred millions in the past ten years is now given the opportunity to continue their stealings for a dozen years longer by such a bare faced fraud as the Berliner patent, it is time for some drastic measures to be taken with the guilty parties. The Berliner patent is owned by the Bell Telephone Company and held up in the patent office for nearly ten years, so as to make sure of defending the Bell monopoly a dozen years when it was adopted.—Journal of the Knights of Labor.

RELATION TO WAGES.

HOW THE GOLD STANDARD GRINDS THE LABORER.

Not Dear Money and Cheap Men, but Cheap Money and Dear Men, Should Be the Working Men's Platform.

The relation of the money question to labor and wages is a most important one. Indeed money sustains a vital relation to all forms of industry. Some theorists seem to believe that money is not necessary to exchange of products; that it is in fact an ingenious device by which the crafty manage to filch the proceeds of toil. However this may be, all will agree that to do away with money we should have to change our entire system of business and commerce. While the present system obtains money is a vital factor. It is no less vital to labor than to capital. The argument in favor of a dear dollar in its relation to wages is a specious one. All must recognize that the more a laborer can buy for the dollars he earns the better it will be for him and those dependent upon him. He has been represented as a creditor, and as such his interests are with the creditor class. The patriotic gold standard editor and orator never grew tired of reminding the country that the pension creditor and the labor creditor must be paid in good money. There was no mention of the bond and mortgage creditor by these friends (?) of the old soldier and the day laborer. It was shown that wages had not fallen in the same proportion as other things, therefore the laborer was better off under the regime of the dear dollar than under that of the cheap dollar.

Of course plain history and plain observation refuted the proposition flatly, but there is a logic that ignores facts and scorns history. During the so-called period of inflation every man had work if he wanted it, and at fair if not good wages. It was when the period of contraction set in that the tramp became a permanent reality in this country. The steady ascent of the dollar has measured the steady descent of the laborer. It has done the same thing in all ages and in all countries. The mortality tables gathered through hundreds of years by life insurance companies are not more reliable or scientific than is the above statement. Dear money means cheap labor always and inevitably. It could be proven that now labor is exceedingly cheap, perhaps cheaper than ever known before.

Labor organization is a modern factor absent in other eras. It has succeeded to some extent in keeping up nominal wages, and to that extent worked a deception which must react upon itself. Organization of labor cannot open factories or compel the purchase of their products. It cannot compel employment. It has succeeded in securing better wages for those who get permanent employment. To all the rest it has been a positive damage. Now, to find the true average wage we would have to find the total amount paid for wages in the last twelve months for the whole country and divide it by the number of laborers in the whole country. Does any one doubt that such a method would show a frightful decline in the price of labor since 1865? In the absence of statistics permit me to give a hypothetical illustration:

Suppose the average wage for common labor is $1.50 per day. Then suppose that employment is as follows:

2,000,000 are employed all the time	$3,000,000
2,000,000 three-fourths the time	2,250,000
2,000,000 one-half the time	1,500,000
2,000,00 one-fourth the time	750,000
2,000,000 no time	.....
10,000,000 men earn	$7,500,000

Which equal 75 cents per day as the true wage. Who doubts that the actual truth would make no better showing than we have here supposed? And who doubts that it would be better for the whole country if all the labor was employed all the time at 75 cents a day than to have half employed at $1.50 per day? I am not advocating low wages, I am only trying to show that wages are desperately low. I am not opposed to labor organization, but I am trying to expose its impotency in the work of bringing better general conditions. No man can lift himself out of a slough by pulling at his boot straps. Labor organization helps some just as insurance companies do, at the expense of others. Wages enter into the cost of production and there can be no doubt that more laborers would be employed if wages were lower.

To get a high average wage you must have high average prices. To give everybody work who wants it we must have general prosperity. Good prices only can give us that, not the high prices made by tariff that only increases taxes and forces the consumer to buy less, thus defeating the purpose intended. There is no use producing if people are not able to buy. When a bill to reduce freight rates is introduced the employes rush to assist in its defeat. Why? Because they fear the law would effect a reduction of wages, and, in many cases, shut off employment. It has never occurred to these laboring men that the farmers of Minnesota alone have dispensed with more than 50,000 laborers since the fall of prices set in, and that a continuation of prevailing prices will force them to do only what work they can do without any hired help. The writer of this, like thousands of others, is getting tired working for his board while he has to pay his hired man and board him too. If the laborer is prosperous he should stand by the honest (?) dollar. If not let him resign the notion that he belongs to the creditor class. This will not be hard to do if he happens to be out of work.

THOS. C. HODGSON.

THE DANGEROUS CLASSES.

They Debated Too Long and the Citadel Fell.

The walls of the state house were cracked and the floors sagged, because those who were on the ground floor let out the basement at high rents and undermined the foundations in order to get more room.

The state officers filled the cracks with putty and nicely tinted over the places. They appointed a tenement house commission and put down new floors and the new floors sagged, too. They put pillars on the outside of the house to check this tendency.

The Good Government Association determined to take up the matter vigorously and added a new chamber.

Now and then some one fell over the crazy stairs. For such the charitable established relief funds.

The drains were broken by the sinking of the walls and fever began to appear.

The scientific department counted the cases and divided them into "those due to personal tendencies" and "those due to environment." This did not materially help.

The tenants in the sub-cellar suffered most. The benevolent went down to them to educate them out of their inherent dirt.

The governor explained that if those submerged tenants were taught the use of disinfectants, all would be well.

The socialists said that if the government owned the water pipes the whole evil would be cured. The anarchists said that this showed that state houses were an evil and must be razed to the ground. But, while they debated, the house fell with a great crash.—Bolton Hall.

The Referendum.

The demand that is gaining support everywhere for a more democratic form of government, one that will prevent lobbies from controlling our law makers, is taking form in the agitation for the referendum and initiative system that have been in successful operation in Switzerland for years. The referendum is simply the right of the people to vote upon any law proposed by the legislature upon petition of a small per cent of the voters.

The initiative is the right to propose a law independent of the legislature, when a certain per cent of the voters petition for it, and submit the same to the people for final decision. Thus the people could have just laws independent of any action of the legislature. This means the rule of the common people. Modern representative government has come to mean the rule of the heavy financial interests. The loyal American has summoned up the result of the system as follows:

It will simplify laws; it will purify the ballot; it will control monopoly; it will supplant violence; it will broaden manhood; it will prevent revolution; it will make people think; it will accelerate progress; it will banish sectionalism; it will sever party bondage; it will simplify government; it will reduce taxation to necessity; it will prevent the bribery of our law makers; it will establish home rule in all municipalities; it will restore to the people their natural rights; it will aid honest representatives in serving the people; it will give us a government by the people, for the people, whose corner stone is equal and exact justice to all.—Peninsula Farmer.

Of Course It Is.

The church was clothed in all the calm holiness of a Sabbath morning. The rich sunshine turned the massive pillars into columns of gold, drawing many eager glances and deep sighs from the weary plutocrats who occupied the pews.

The soothing words of the sermon rang out from the $10,000 pulpit, and the glowing description of the golden streets, the golden lamps and golden mansions of the New Jerusalem caused the $25,000,000,000 congregation to lapse into pleasant reverie, while the sexton polished the massive collection plates in the vestry.

"Yes, my brethren, it is better to give than to receive. God loveth a cheerful giver. It is indeed better to give than to receive."

Through the open windows came the sound of distant firing. The plotocrats stirred uneasily.

Down on a side street a ragged mob fought desperately for bread. The militia mowed them down with volley after volley as Gen. Miles gave the order to fire.

"Yes," said he, as he gave another signal to fire——.

A score of the mob fell over, pierced by bullets.

"It is better to give than to receive."—Journal of the Knights of Labor.

No Freedom with Poverty.

The man who is in danger of want, or even the dread of want, is not a free man; and the country which does not guard him against this danger and this dread, or does not assure him the means of a livelihood, is not a free country, though it may be the freest of all the freer countries. In other words, liberty and poverty are incompatible, and, if the poverty is extreme, liberty is impossible to it. We pretend otherwise, such of us as are not so directly oppressed by the conditions; but those who feel the burden know better. From time to time they express their dissent in their uncomfortable way, but tacitly or explicitly, they always dissent from our optimistic pretense.—W. D. Howells, in Forum.

BLOOMERS IN SCHOOL

Are Not Approved by Milwaukee Dress Reform Aldermen.

Alderman Okershouser, of the Milwaukee common council, has called down upon himself the wrath of a number of women bicyclists in the Milwaukee public schools. The alderman threatens to introduce a resolution in the Council to forbid the wearing of bicycle cosumes by teachers during school hours, but before doing so he says it is his intention to have the legal phase of the question looked into to ascertain definitely whether the common council has any right to interfere in the matter. Mr. Okershouser says the habit of wearing bicycle costumes by teachers during school hours has become quite popular in Milwaukee, and he thinks a stop should be put to the practice. The teachers, however, are of the contrary opinion, and it is probable their influence will be stronger with the Board of School Directors than that of the common council or Alderman Okershouser.

George also worried greatly over the attempt of his mother to commit suicide a couple of weeks ago. The supervisor of Shannahon wrote to Russell Sage two years ago asking him to make provision for the young man to keep him out of the poor house. The appeal was unanswered.

RAGING WATERS.

Thousands Are Driven From Their Homes.

THREATS TO CUT LEVEES

To Afford Relief Was Met With the Announcement That the Greasers Would Be Shot If They Dared to Touch the Dykes.—A Scene of Destruction.

A special from El Paso, Texas, says: Over 500 families or 2,000 people were on the streets of El Paso Friday morning searching for shelter. Their furniture, clothing, etc., were piled up all along the principal thoroughfares of the city.

Last night the waters continued to rise and before day had dawned had reached that portion of the city in and around San Antonio street, where prominent business and professional men reside. After 11 o'clock last night the flood swept over six more blocks and above the roar of the water the shouts of the men trying to save their property could be heard the cries of frightened women and the screams of children who were hurried from their homes out into the night. The waters were full of struggling teams, hauling out property from flooded houses. It was a scene of destruction, beggaring description.

All night long the streets were thronged with wagons moving people out of the flooded districts.

Handsome Residences Threatened.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad had thrown up a dyke to protect its track near the round house and this backed the water up over San Antonio street, flooding a number of houses and threatening to cross the street and flood hundreds of the prettiest residences in the city. Six prominent citizens residing in the vicinity, headed by Collector of Customs Capt. Charles Davis, armed themselves with Winchesters, and crossing over the railroad levee, cut the dyke, letting the back water out and it began to recede from San Antonio street. The railroad people repaired the cut and it was again ordered cut by Mayor Magoffin. Early Saturdaymorning a party of Mexican guards appeared at the head gate of the canal on the American side and told one of the workmen there that they intended to cut away the headgate to afford relief to the other side. The Mexicans were told they would be shot if they touched the American embankment, and were ordered back to the Mexican side. It is understood that the Mexican officials had no knowledge of the proposition to cut the American embankment.

Soldiers Guarding Property.

A troop of the Fifth cavalry from Fort Bliss came down to the city today and offered their services to guard property of homeless peope, which was piled in the streets. The city Board of Health met Saturday morning and appointed a committee of six leading physicians to take charge of a relief hospital being established for the homeless and sick, and the physicians are taking them to the improvised hospital. Col. Van Valzah, of Fort Bliss, loaned the city fifty three tents, and citizens committees were out with wagons gathering provisions for distribution among the destitute. At least 400 out of the 520 families whose homes are under water are without the necessities of life.

Saturday morning the city Council held a meeting authorizing the Mayor to wire Texas Senators and Representatives in Congress to secure an appropriation of $10,000 for relief of the flood victims. The war department has also been appealed to for more tents.

Saturday afternoon the river was at a standstill, neither rising nor falling, but a rise of one foot is reported up the river in New Mexico.

DENOUNCED CHRIST.

A Free Thinker Denounced Christ on Atlanta's Streets.

Rev. James Hoskins, a preacher of Free Thinker faith, who has been holding forth on the streets of Atlanta, Ga., for thirty nights, was tried in the police court the other day and fined. His arrest was caused by the vicious terms with which he characterized Christ, denouncing Him as a hypocritic liar and pretender. The preaching created general indignation and many complaints were made. Hoskins was warned to desist, but refusing to do so, he was arrested. Only a nominal fine was assessed, as Hoskins promised to discontinue his sermons.

THE last of the Indian troops in the Grand Army of the Republic was mustered out Monday at Fort Sill, Okla. The employment of Indians as cavalrymen was an interesting experiment, but has not proven a success.

ANY gentlemen willing to attend the cotton growers convention at Galveston, Texas, on August 2, should send in their names to Governor Johnston. The Governor will appoint two delegates from the State at large and one from each congressional district.

Evidently the State Board of Compromise in the case of the sureties of the defaulting probate judge of Montgomery county, consider that our two former chief magistrates were derelict in their duties. We are of the opinion that had the present chief executive, judging from the interest he is taking in certain analagous circumstances, been in power, Mr. Randolph would not have got away so easily.

The meeting called by the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association of Alabama for Tuesday at Clanton was not altogether so well attended as was expected. Mr. J. H. Neuton, the State Director, was on hand, and left the re-organization of the Association with Mr. E. L. Manning of Bozeman who will proceed to work early in the fall, after crops are laid by, it being a well known fact that all our farmers have all the business they can manage at the present time attending to their crops.

What are the Powers likely to do? The situation is no surprise for them. They knew what would happen from the first! If there were no intermarriages between the royalties of England, Russia, Germany and Greece, the latter would long ago have been blotted out of the roll of nations, leaving only a Greece spot on the map.

The fate of King George depends upon the Greek people; if they have any backbone left, he will go; if not, he will stay, propped and paid by the Powers. The Greek people, bamboozled by their politicians in league with their king, delsberately did their worst to fire Europe.

The Montgomery Journal says that the presence of the state capitol in that city is not necessary to its further progress, in fact Montgomery is destined to become a great city with or without the capitol, we therefore suggest its removal to the heart of Alabama, i.e. Clanton. Our citizens could not be induced to make a movement to locate the fourth district agricultural school here, but there is no telling to what lengths they would go to make Clanton the state capitol. Anyway, our Montgomery friends not be alarmed at present, we will keep them fully posted when any steps are taken in the matter.

WE are glad to report that Chilton county has settled up her taxes almost even. With the exception of the very few delinquent taxpayers, Collector Hubbard has received all the State and County taxes, and yesterday made a settlement with the State treasurer. Mr. Hubbard had already turned over all the county taxes to the county treaurer and consequently is now a proud man free of all indebtedness. It is also a fine showing for our county.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., May 20, 1897.

The supreme court has decided that the United States Interstate Commission has no power to prescribe rates on railroads which may control in the future. The decision is construed to mean that the Interstate Commission has no power to pass upon rates before they are put into effect.

The sundry civil appropriations, as passed by congress, amount to $53,022,651.

Governor Atkinson has started a new industry in Georgia which bids fair to eclipse that of watermelons; he appointed eighty-one colonels on his gubernatorial staff and hopes to make it an even hundred.

Carnagie and Rockefeller have combined, in a new field. The latter is to furnish the ironore, 5,000,000 tons, which Carnagie will need in his foundries. The former has built a railroad to carry all supplies from Connaught, Ohio, to Pittsburg. This road practically kills the gigantic scheme for a ship canal from Lake Erie to Pittsburg.

The Populists of Washington are preparing to organize every county in the state and expect to carry the state at the next election.

When General Weyler was told of the Morgan resolution he laughed and said it was "jingoism." Weyler was right, evidently, for the resolution has been hung up by "Czar" Reed.

Des Moines has added her name to the list of cities that own their electric lights, water works, etc.

The Kansas Reform Press Association will meet at Emporia, July 19 and 20.

The supreme court was ready to hand in its decision on the famous Nebraska maximum freight case, but was forestalled by the decision having been stolen and offered for sale on the streets.

The gold reserve is decreasing rapidly.

According to Governor Leedy the people of Kansas are in a financial condition to build their own railroads if cheaper freight rates are not given by the roads in operation, especially to the Gulf coast.

Senator Aldrich, in defending the sugar schedule admits, flat-footed, that the tax is levied to keep out German sugar. He claims it is of small consequence that the American refining industry is in the hands of one company but insists that an extra tax of $70,000,000 on the American people will assist in bringing prosperity.

Hellen M. Gougar has issued an address to the equal sufferagists of Indiana in which she poins out the fact that the supreme court has reversed itself three times in the last three years.

Eugene V. Debs is working hard on his Utah colony scheme and claims it will require only a few months to organize a membership that can contribute, monthly, $50,000 for developing the colony. It is the plan to gather 100,000 men in Chicago and march them in batalions of 1,000 at a time across the country to Utah.

Hon. Frank Burkitt, president of the N. R. P. A., has called that body to meet in special session at Nashville July 2.

Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker, of Dover, N. H., is an applicant for the position of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the U. S. of Columbia. The salary is ten thousand dollars a year.

Speaker Curtis undertook to force some "Reed methods" in the House of Representatives at Springfield and the democrats fell to throwing inkstands and various other utensils; a free fight ensued in which everybody took part. No one was killed, but the poor Speaker fled to Governor Tanner for aid, perhaps to ask for the militia; he was told to return to the Hall and recognize the democrats when they ask for recognition. Providence.

Last Sunday as the mighty luminary ascended high above the horizon, bustling through from the four winds of the vineclad hills of the grand old Coosa and East Chilton assembled themselves at Providence church to pass the day in singing and praising. About 9:30 a.m. the singing was organized with R. T. Grant in the chair. Wm. A. Huckebee opened with prayer after which the committee, A. J. Powell, Riley Robinson and J. M. Robinson Jr., arranged for R. D. May and Riley Robinson to conduct the first lesson at 11 a.m. Rev. J. H. Thomas delivered an excellent sermon on the blasphemy of the Holy Ghost. While hi is young in the ministry yet the advanced ideas of that sermon would indicate years of experience and ardent study. Then came the climax of the day. A fine repast sheltered by the beautiful foliage in tne eden of the forest was enjoyed by all partakers. The afternoon lessons were conducted by Profs. R. T. Gract, W. H. Robinson and J. S. Jones. It is useless to say the singing was a success after seeing the list of leaders, for that means success itself. Take it all in all it was a day of a thousand. Come again singers one and all. W. C. ROBINSON, Sec.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House Burton, W., Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me; and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swolen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. The Argument for Teacher's Pensions

The limitation of pensions to such departments of the public service as are actually dangerous to life and limb because of physical violence is the crudes form in which the idea of pensions has ever existed. Its restrictions savor of that stern policy of non-interference on the part of the State which so long embarrased all efforts to soften the rigor of the poor laws, and to ameliorate the condition of inmates of asylums and penald institutions. But as society has developed, the relatcons of the State to the individuals who constitute it have been softened, and the principle of injury through violence as the only basis of pensions has been superseeded in the broader humanitarianism of our times. Pensions to judicial officers, as in some States, do not proceed upon that harsh principle, nor does the national gratitude that provides for the soldier's, widows and orphans. They proceed rather upon other principles, and it is to these and not to the primitive rule that we appeal. But injuries are incurred in the line of school duty. An entire breaking down of health not infrequently occurs. After twenty or thirty, or more, years of poorly paid service the teacher has given more than an equivalent and has earned a pensionn. Herein lies a difference: A pensioned soldier, policeman or fireman may have been disabled before rendering actual service. He is pensioned, not for what he has done, but because of his noble will to do, and because of the injury incurred in his attempt to do it.—Nrom "Teachers' Pension—the Story of a Women's Camprign" by Elizabeth A Allen, in June Review of Reviews.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Musical Convention.

The county musical convention met with the Mars Hill class the fourth Saturday and Sunday in last month. And taking everything in consideration it was one of the best conventions of the kind ever held in Chilton county. Quite a number of visiting teachers and leaders were present; excellent talks were given during the session in the intrests of music by Rev. S. M. Adams, L. B. Pounds and others. Mrs. Ada Langston acted as organist Sunday afternoon, and Miss Addie Hosley in the forenoon. Miss Aadie is one of most beautiful and accomplished young ladies in the country, and her playing was unsurpassed. We are very thankful to the people of Mars Hill for the kindness shown us while we were with them. We also express our thanks to Mr. King for the use of his organ and also to the kind editor of the BANNER for publishing the announcement and other musical items for us. J. B. NORTHCUTT.

"DR. MILES,

Through His Nervine Is a Benefactor to Thousands."

A WIDELY known Wisconsin publisher, who resides at Green Bay, writes March 6th, '96, as follows:

"Five years ago I became so nervous that mental work was a burden. I could not rest at night on account of sleeplessness. My attention was called to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I commenced to use it with the very best effect. Since then I have kept a bottle in my house and use it whenever my nerves become unstrung, with always the same good results. My son also takes it for nervousness with like never failing success. I have recommended it to many and it cures them. All who suffer from nerve troubles should try it. It is free from narcotics, perfectly harmless, and yet soothes and strengthens. Dr. Miles, through his Nervine is a benefactor to thousands." A. C. LEHMAN.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys and aids these organs in throwing off impurites in the blood. Annual Singing at Canaan.

The annual May singing at Canaan church near Mountain creek was held on the fifth Sundad in May, and was in every respect a grand success. There was, the writer thinks, form 800 to 1000 people present, and all seem to immensely enjoy the day. There being plenty of dinner on the ground for all, and the singing was magnificient. At about half pass nine the leading singers organized and selected for chairman Mr. L. N. Dobbs, for secretary E. L. Manning, for committee to arrange program, Mr. Jas. Gulledge, of Coosa county, Mr. Jas. Norrell and Mr. Thomas Pyron, of Chilton committee on program, reported the following named gentlemen to be leaders for the day, L. N. Dobbs, T. L. Robinson, J. A. Gulledge, Prof. Veazey and Wat Moore. The following beauitful and highly accomplished young ladies assisted the leaders as organist, Misses Vena Pyron, M. E. Pyron, and Birdie Bland.

Afternoon session—1. Lesson led by Prof. Veazey assisted by Miss M. E. Pyron the hour, which was undoubtably the treat of the day, as Prof. Veazey introduced some new songs, and proved himself to an up-to-date singer. We hope Prof. Veazey will visit us again and often.

2. Lesson led by Wat Moore assisted by Miss Birdie Bland as organist. We are also proud of our young friend Wat Moore as he led an excellent lesson; forge ahead Wat you will soon be in the front rank. 3. And last lesson led by L. N. Dobbs assisted by Miss Vena Pyron as organist, closing by singing "God be with you till we meet again", and the annual singing at Canaan for 1897 was a thing of the past. We think it was a day profitable spent, well enjoyed and long to be remembered by all present. E. L. MANNING, Sec.

Pneumatic Tires in England.

Can the American makers establish a demand for the hose-pipe type of tires in this country?" The question is propounded by a writer in an English paper, who then proceeds to answer in the negative. "This is a question which seems to be agitating the minds of scores of the people in the trade across the Atlantic. Some of them seem disposed to make any sacrifice in order to convert the English rider to the 'hose-pipe,' but I fear they will be grievously disappointed. This kind of tire does not suit the flinty roads of Great Britten, and we have learned from experience how it lacks durbility and resistance to puncture. If anything were needed to strengthen the convictions of the English rider that the hose-pipe tires is not suited to their requirements, it is the fact that a year or two ago one of the very best examples of that type of tire was exploited energetically in this country, and for a time seemed likely to carry all before it; but after it had been thoroughly put to the test on British roads it could not face the ordeal, and the company formed to manufacture it was formed to make a double tube tire its leading specialty. American makers catering for British buyers will, therefore, be wise to consider this and subject very seriously. If they wish to obtain a grip of the English trade they must throw over their pet fad—the hose-pipe tire."

5 DROPS — 49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases, and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure.

DEAR SIR:—Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Martinstown, Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since, and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and began taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 49 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and I owe it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is as you claim it to be and more.

MRS. D. T. CARVER, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

DEAR SIR:— JANUARY 2, 1897.

Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had, ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed wonderful. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 16 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heaven-sent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. F. M. COULTER, Washington Center, Md.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: NEWTON, Jan. 6, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an miserable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism. Just think, for eight years a total cripple, not able to earn a penny to help myself, crawl on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and add for more. I have only taken two thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have given away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two cent stamp I will send my address. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at five per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE,
1005 Wall Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: SUTHERLIN, Feb. 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down belfast with Inflamatory Rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could do no more. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was setting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON, Mechanicsburg, Kans.

Germany's fifteen largest land owners own between them 9,000,000 acres of German soil. Prince Wittgenstein has 3,000,000 acres, next comes the Duke of Arenberg with 800,000, then in order the Prince of Thurn and Taxis, the Duke of Brunswick, Prince Salm Salm, the Prince of Talleyrand-Sagan, who is a French subject; the Prince of Pless, the Duke of Leuchtenberg, Prince Bentheim, Prince Lowenstein, the Prince of Wied (father of the Queen of Roumania), and Prince Fengger. Many of these have large estates outside of Germany.

Judicious Expenditures Cause Big Returns.

To the merchant who is happy if he can sell his goods at an increase of ten to twenty per cent. over the cost how almost incredible must it seem that typewriting machines and bicycles, which cost from about sixteen to twenty-five dollars to manufacture, can be sold for $100—or even $50—each?

What machines are more universally used today than these two, excepting the sewing machine?

How hard the merchant struggles for his ten per cent. profit while the typewriting machine and the bicycle sell at a price which is from four to six times the cost of manufacture.

Judicious and continuous advertising has made this possible.

Extracting Gold.

A process of extracting gold by which every particle of the metal in the ore is recovered is stated to be in successful operation in West Australia. It is called the ore atomic process. Gold quartz is crushed into small lumps and is then put into a closed chamber, subjected to the heat of a furnace, to the action of water and of hydrogen gas. This eliminated sulphur and reduces all oxides to the metallic state. After being heated, the material is suddenly cooled by jets of water—an operation repeated several times till the quartz crumbles to powder at the touch of the finger. It is then thrown into a tank and the gold is separated by washing.—Chicago Tribune.

In speaking of the widow of William Morris, who has just asked that letters of the dead poet be sent to her to be used in his biography, the Boston Transcript says: "Her extraordinary beauty was for years in her youth a sort of outward and visible sign in this world of what the young painters and poets of Morris' set were striving for in art. It is her face which appears in numbers of the paintings of all the pre-Raphaelites, notably in Rossetti's—her wonderful brow, with the thick masses of hair above and the not-to-be-forgotten eyes and mouth, appearing in many pictures, well known also in copies and prints dear to many lovers of art, who have not associated them with the personality of the woman who became the wife of William Morris."

CAPITOL ITEMS.

Mr. Wheeler Proposes a Tax on Certain Occupations.

VETERAN'S SINGULAR ACT.

Whitelaw Reid Will Be Our Special Ambassador at the Queen's Jubilee.—W. J. Calhoun Entertained by the Spaniards.—They Don't Want Angel.

A semi-official denial has been given out of the published statement that President McKinley has made overtures to Spain on the subject of Cuba, and it is reiterated that it is impossible for the Spanish Government to accept the mediation in question, "which concerns Spain alone."

In the Senate the other day Mr. Mills, of Texas, secured consideration for a joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to use rations for the relief of destitute persons in the district overflowed by the Rio Grande river near El Paso, Texas, and appropriating $10,000 for the purpose. The joint resolution was passed.

It is understood that the Sultan of Turkey objects to receiving James B. Angel as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States in Constantinople. It is said that the objections of the Sultan are based upon Minister Angel's "membership in a Christian order, whose animosities against the Mahomedan religion are extreme."

Representative Wheeler, of Alabama, has introduced a bill in the House for taxing certain occupations. The taxes proposed are based on the amounts of capital invested. Companies engaged in petroleum business in any form are to be taxed from $500 on $100,000 to $25,000 on $5,000,000. Other branches of business to be taxed are iron and steel railways and street railways, banks, stock exchanges and glass, wool, silk, paper, leather and sugar manufacturing.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid paid a hurried visit to the capital last Thursday. During the day he called at the White House and had lunch with the President, ostensibly for the purpose of talking over with Mr. McKinley the proffer made to him of accepting the honor of special ambassador of the United States at the Queen's jubilee. Before leaving for New York he accepted the mission and will represent the United States on that occasion.

Senator Chandler has received a letter from George A. Kittridge concerning the proposed relief expedition for India. Mr. Kittredge has spent many years in India, and says from his knowledge of the conditions the proposed expedition of corn and wheat will be impracticable. He suggests that if the contributions are sent in the form of money it would be distributed in a manner to be of some use to the suffering people of India.

The Senate has confirmed the following nominations:

James Edmund Boyd, of Louisiana, to be Secretary of the Legation of the United States at Buenos Ayres.

Commander Charles O'Neil, U. S. N., to be chief of the bureau of ordnance in the navy department.

The President has nominated Ferdinand W. Neumann, of Illinois, to be Consul at Cologne, Germany, and Max Rouchsein, of Illinois, to be Consul of the United States at Barmen, Germany.

The ordnance department of the army has just opened bids for supplying about 1,904 cast iron projectiles for seacoast and siege cannons, the lowest bidders in each class being the Tredegar Company, of Richmond, Va., at these rates: Five hundred 7-inch 125-pound siege shells, $5.50 each; 200 8-inch 300-pound sea coast shells, $7.90 each; 300 10-inch 575-pound sea coast shots at $13.50 each; 300 12-inch 1,000-pound sea coast shots at $19 each, and 604 12-inch 800-pound mortar shells at $22 each.

Up to date President McKinley has appointed to office every man applying for a position who served with him in the Fifty-first Congress. Folowing is a partial list of his old Congressional colleagues, who have been taken care of: Long and McKenna, both members of the Cabinet; McCord, Governor of Arizona; Butterworth, Commissioner of Patents; Conger, of Iowa, Minister to Brazil; Hermann, of Oregon, Commissioner of the Land Office; Morrow, of California, United States Circuit Judge; Evans, of Tennessee, Commissioner of Pensions, and DeHaven, of California, who is to be appointed United States District Judge.

After a long period of silence, Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, startled the Senate last Friday by a speech no less dramatic in its delivery than sensational in its allegations. He preceded it by presenting a resolution for the appointment of a special committee of five Senators to investigate charges of speculation by Senators while the tariff bill was before the finance committee. In advocating the resolution Mr Tillman threw aside the usual conventionalities of the Senate, and with a plainness of speech seldom heard about the halls of Congress called on his associates to investigate the published charges of senatorial speculation, and if found true purge the Senate of those who debauched it.

Spanish officials in Havanna ridicule the allegations setting forth that the lives of the United States Consuls in Cuba are in danger, and they point to the fact that W. J. Calhoun, the United States Commissioner, who is investigating the death of Dr. Ricardo Ruiz; Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, the United States Consul-General, and Dr. Jose Congosto, the Spanish Consul at Philadelphia, were entertained a few nights since as special guests of the Military Club, of Havana. There, the Spaniards add, the United States officials were the objects of distinguished and courteous attention at the hands of prominent Spanish civil and military officials present.

It is officially announced that a Spanish force, acting in conjunction with the boats of the gunboat Armendariz, has inflicted severe loss upon the insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio.

Albert C. Hopkins, of Hot Springs, S. D., has sent to the pension office a draft for $82.40, which he claims was paid him as a part of his pension without authority of law.

Since every man naturally and justly assumed to be the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court for himself, and since in a general way this judgment must usually be affirmed when it is against himself, I assume the privilege and duty of interpreting the pension laws in my own case thus:

I am entitled to full pension of $12 per month under the law of 1890 (from my first application in August, 1890) for one year thereafter, while I was on crutches and disabled for manual labor. This amounts to $96. Also to $6 per month thereafter to March, 1895, amounting to $86; total, $182. Amount received from the pension office, $264.40. Draft inclosed to balance, less expenses of returning same, $82.40.

So far as Commissioner Evans knows this is the first instance in which a pensioner has disputed the interpretation of the pension law by the bureau, when that interpretation gave him more money than he thought the law allowed him.

LEE SUSTAINED.

Calhoun Will Hold Spain Responsible for Ruiz's Death.

Of the two reports understood to have been sent from Havana last Saturday by the commission investigating the death of Dr. Ruiz, the one by Mr. Calhoun, who represents the United States, and the other by Dr. Jose Congosto, the Spanish Consul at Philadelphia, who acts for the Spanish Government, the former will, it is said, agree with the statement of Consul General Lee that Dr. Ruiz died from concussion of the brain, the result of violence after solitary confinement of more than thirteen days, regardless of his treaty rights.

Consul-General Lee declined at Friday's session of the commission to question the witnesses, who were interrogated only by the Spanish representative. Consul-General Lee will shortly make a report on the Ruiz case, and Mr. Calhoun will make a further report on other matters, such as the money question, the state of the insurrection, the condition of American interests and the general suffering due to Captain General Weyler's style of campaign. Consul-General Lee's position is just what it was in February last. He holds that Spain is responsible, since Ruiz died because he was deprived of his treaty rights. The exact facts as to how Dr. Ruiz received the blow which killed him, Gen Lee and Mr. Calhoun could not learn, because half the witnesses examined by the commission were prisoners and it is believed were afraid to testify fully. The remaining witnesses were the jailers, who would not testify so as to incriminate themselves.

PROMINENT SPANIARD

Favors the Sale of Cuba to the United States.

The relief of suffering Amercans in Cuba by Consul General Lee goes on daily. Several huudred have already been assisted. A prominent and influential Spanish resident of Havana, upon being questioned with reference to the suggested sale of Cuba, authorized the representative of the Associated Press to tell the American press that he favored the sale of Cuba not to the Cubans, but to the United States, for the sake of avoiding in the future ruin, desolation and bloodshed.

"The sale of the island of Cuba," he said, "means a step backward and carries us to barbarism, as many of the chiefs of the actual revolution were formerly bandits. The United States, as an industrious country, symbolizes progress and civilization, and the Spanish residents in Cuba cannot be indifferent to the welfare of Cuba, having fertilized the land with the sweat of their brows, and they will always protest against the sale of the island to the Cubans."

CHURCH WORKERS ON WHEELS.

Christian Endeavor Bicycling Squad Organized in Jersey.

In Plainfield, N. J., where about 5,000 of the 20,000 people are bicycle riders, and many of them enthusiasts, the church workers have found that in summer months many persons sacrifice time usually devoted to spiritual duties to bicycle riding. The Union of Christian Endeavor Societies decided recently on a plan which they believe will be a solution of the problem of maintaining an all-the-year-around interest. In accordance with this plan the Christian Endeavor Bicycling squad was organized, which is to include in its membership all members of the society who ride bicycles.

The movement is original with Plainfield, as was the first church bicycle run arranged by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, last summer. At frequent intervals runs will be arranged, whereby exercise and the work of the Endeavorers can be united.

THE BANK WRECKER

Johnson Will Not Speculate for the Next Six Years.

John F. Johnson, the Logansport, Ind., bank wrecker, was taken to the Ohio penitentiary Saturday from Indianapolis by two deputy United States Marshals. Johnson was very cool, but felt his position keenly as he was ushered behind the barred gates, where he will remain six years and four months if his record is clear and he is not pardoned. He was given a cell in the famous "Bankers' Row."

The heirs of Hill brought suit in the Circuit Court of Limestone county against the railroad for damages and received a judgment for $080, and the railroad brought the case by appeal and lost, the Supreme Court reaffirming the decision of the court below.

Roasted the Child.

A most horrible crime was committed near Selma one day last week. Billy Griffin, colored, aged 4 years, went into the house of his grandmother, Millin Griffin, and seeing a hoecake on the gridiron helped himself to a piece of it without the knowledge or consent of his grandmother. This furiously enraged the old woman and she proceeded to punish the child by tieing him up in an empty sack, tying it to a pair of pot hooks in the chimney and leaving it there while she went to work in the field. About two hours later an uncle of the child heard groans in the cabin and he was horrified to find that the sack had caught fire and the child had been roasted alive. The negroes in the neighborhood gathered at the cabin and it was with great difficulty that they were prevented from lynching the old woman, who is 75 years old.

Tuskegee's Colored School.

About 5,000 people attended the commencement of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, (colored), in Tuskegee, last week. Charles W. Anderson, of New York city, delivered the annual address. Remarks were made by Rev. J. L. Dube, a native Zulu, who is studying the methods of the school as a model for one in his own country. The number of students enrolled this year is 1,073, representing twenty-one States, Indian Territory, Africa and the West Indies. Forty-nine have received diplomas.

The cash receipts of the school have been $104,595.62. Seventy-seven thousand one hundred and fourteen dollars and fifty-one cents have gone into current expenses, the balance into permanent plant. Students have paid toward their expenses about $8,000 in cash and $40,000 in work done for the school.

This school now has an experiment station for colored people; established by the last Legislature. Prof. G. W. Carver, a young colored man, educated at Annes, Iowa, under Prof. Wilson, now Secretary of Agriculture, is in charge of it. The school has just completed an agricultural building at an expense of $10,000.

PHYSICIANS BAFFLED.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, Instructor of Natural Science in Hartsville College, Cured of a Severe Illness by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People After Physicians Failed.

From the Republican, Columbus, Ind.

Prof. R. S. Bowman, the able instructor of nature' science in the famous Hartsville (Ind.) College, is well and favorably known, not only as an educator, but also as a minister of the gospel, as for a number of years he was pastor of the United Brethren church at Charlotte, Mich., before coming to Hartsville.

PROF. R. S. BOWMAN.

Some time ago he had a severe illness which was cured almost miraculously. A reporter hearing of this, interviewed him regarding his experience. Prof. Bowman was in the midst of his work when the reporter called, but he cheerfully gave him a hearing.

"A year ago last fall," said the professor, "I broke down with nervous exhaustion, and was unable to properly attend to my duties. I tried different physicians but with no relief, and also used many different proprietary medicines, spending almost fifty dollars for these medicines alone. I then succumbed to a seige of the grip in the middle of winter, and was left in a much worse condition. My kidneys were fearfully disordered, and my digestion became very poor. I was indeed in a bad condition.

"A minister in conference learning of my condition advised me to tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had heard much about the wonderful curative powers of this medicine, but it was with reluctance that I was finally persuaded to try it, as it seemed that nothing could do me any good. However, I procured three boxes of pills and took them strictly according to directions. By the time the last dose was taken I was almost cured, and in better health than I had been for years. I continued using the pills awhile longer and was entirely cured. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Such was Professor Bowman's wonderful story, which was fully endorsed by the following affidavit:

HARTSVILLE, Ind., March 16, 1897.

I affirm that the above accords with the facts in my case.

R. W. BOWMAN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 16th day of March, 1897.

Mechanism of the Human Body.

The human body is an epitome in Nature of all mechanics, all hydraulics, all architecture, all machinery of every kind. There are more than three hundred and ten mechanical movements known to mechanics to-day, and all of these are but modifications of those found in the human body. Here are found all the bars, levers, joints, pulleys, pumps, pipes, wheels and axles, ball and socket movements, beams, girders, trusses, buffers, arches, columns, cables and supports known to science. At every point man's best mechanical work can be shown to be but adaptations of processes of the human body, a revelation of first principles used in Nature.—Ladies' Home Journal.

One of the standing needs of the country, says a sloppy organ, is more Massachusetts people. They will be more needed, perhaps, when the rate of illiteracy is reduced in Massachusetts to the Western average.

Hon. C. J. Hillyer Shows the Relation Between a Money Standard and Debts and Right to Pay According to the Contract.

[illegible] nce of the silver controversy [illegible] agonism of interest between [illegible] and creditors. If there had [illegible] debts silver would never have [illegible] monetized, for no one would [illegible] any interest in its demonetization. If there were now no debts [illegible] ld be no serious opposition to [illegible] ation of silver. The scheme [illegible] uting a single standard of [illegible] a double standard of gold and [illegible] was inaugurated by the owners [illegible] obligations for the payment of [illegible] In its inception it was a conspiracy for the robbing of debtors absolutely destitute of excuse or plausibility. By influences as powerful as [illegible] ployment has been unscrupulously [illegible] infamous project has been [illegible] to a partial consummation and [illegible] tion secured where its authors [illegible] tors, without defending the original fraud, are emboldened to invoke a principle of equity in support of its perpetuation. It is said that, without regard to the injustice of a change [illegible] as an original proposition, [illegible] indebtedness has been incurred with reference to a standard of gold, and therefore should be discharged upon that basis. If the premise is correct, [illegible] the conclusion. If a debt is contracted upon a standard of gold it [illegible] to be paid in gold. This is simply saying that people should do as they have agreed, and equally whether [illegible] agreement has been express or implied. But with this admission I wish [illegible] make the most absolute and unequivocal denial that there is a single [illegible] of indebtedness due from any [illegible] of the United States contracted [illegible] or with reference to a gold standard.

And first, I wish to consider that [illegible] body of public debt evidenced by national interest bearing obligations. In 1873 the aggregate national indebtedness (allowing for some not very important variations in statistical statements), was in round numbers $2,000,000,000 and is now $29,000,000,000. There can be no pretense that any portion of this indebtedness due in [illegible] was incurred upon a gold standard or with reference to any other than a double standard of silver and gold at the existing ratio. The increase of $27,000,000,000 since 1873 does not represent any contribution of new capital by the owners of these obligations considered as a class, but only a reinvestment of a certain portion of the interest which they have received. This interest on the twenty-two billions due in 1873 at four per cent, which is less than the average rate, has for twenty-three years amounted to $20,240,000,000, enabling the national creditors of 1873, without drawing from other sources, to absorb the seven billions of increased national debt and have left thirteen billions for investment in other securities. As to the standard under which payment should be made, the interest on these obligations is affected by the same equities as the principal. It is immaterial how much refunding and change of form of instruments or even shifting of locality there may have been, so long as the indebtedness has not been extinguished the equity as to the mode of payment has not been moved. It was contracted under a double standard and it is a violation of equity if its discharge should be required in accordance with any other standard by which its burden may be onerous to the obligors. If in the process of refunding new obligations have been substituted payable in gold this substitution has been brought about by the same influences and instrumentalities through which the money standard has been changed. The abuse of governmental power has been the same in the one case as the other, and the injustice equally flagrant. Neither has had the intelligent consent of the tax-paying debtors, without which no obligation binding in law could be created as to a change in the burthen of payment. My reason for stating this "national indebtedness of 1873 for special consideration is in respect to this the argument would be made conclusive. In regard to other classes of indebtedness it is difficult to fix accurately the conditions of its contraction. Of the $27,000,000,000 (saying nothing of reinvested interest), concerning which there can be no question [illegible] It was a debt existing when it is still, however its evidences have been remodeled, a debt. Every dollar of this was contracted when the double standard prevailed universally and everywhere fifteen and one-half ounces of silver were practically equivalent to one of gold for its payment. Familiar with financial history [illegible] that it is now owned not only in the same limited class as in 1873, substantially and as to the great mass of it by the same individuals or their successors in interest. If transfers have been made the original equity in favor of payment has followed it into the hands of the transferees. The debtors are the taxpayers of the different nations. Any legislative or administrative action which has increased the burthen of its discharge has been fraudulent, no matter under what form it may have been disguised. Now, I ask the reader to pause and try to comprehend the immensity of the sum represented by these figures. The annual interest upon this amount, even at three per cent, is $660,000,000—in itself an expression baffling adequte conception of its full import. Twenty-two billion dollars is more than five times the amount of the whole world's stock of gold coin and bullion. And yet this vast sum is only the amount of actual profit to be realized by the holders of this one class of securities if the plot to destroy silver as standard money can be carried to completion. Whatever may be said as to other indebtedness, there is as to this no chance for even a quibble respecting the time and circumstances of its contraction. Every dollar of it originated under a double standard, and it is a travesty on equity to double or in any way increase its burthen by requiring it to be paid under a single standard of gold. I might stop right here and confidently claim that the falsity of the assumption with which I am dealing had been demonstrated. This aggregate of national indebtedness constitutes nearly one-half of the total amount due upon secured interest-bearing obligations, which alone deserve consideration in this connection. When it is shown that as to one-half of the indebtedness involved in the inquiry the claim of equity through contraction under a gold standard is deprived of any semblance of validity, that would seem to be sufficient to constitute an estoppel against its further assertion. If there were no other debts in the world, this alone would brand the scheme to change the standard of value as the most stupendous crime ever contemplated against humanity. If bondholders can, without consideration, by mere manipulation of political agencies, add to the value of their securities $22,000,000,000, then others somewhere, and in some way, must suffer a crorrespending loss. It makes no difference how widely the loss may be distributed, it is still a fact, and in its consequences a fearfully momentous fact, that what the bondholders dishonestly gain other classes must unjustly lose. The world is not wide enough that this mountain of $22,000,000,000 of unearned, law-made indebtedness can be piled as an additional burthen upon its industry without the universal oppression of its wealth-producers wherever situated. The tax-ridden people of Europe have the same, perhaps stronger, interest to rebel against this diabolical scheme as ourselves, but their efforts for redress are handicapped by monarchical institutions and standing armies. Relief, if it is to be had, must come from the intelligent citizens of the United States who still retain the power of a free ballot.

C. J. HILLYER.

Faith vs. Fatalism.

The death of Judge William Page at Portland removes a man who sacrificed a great talent because he continually propounded to himself the question, "What is the use?" and answered it with, "No matter what one may do, it comes to nothing after all." The truth (effect?) of this question and answer has often caused a capable man to make little use of his life and talents.—East Oregonian.

There is a world-wide significance in this. Such cowardly fatalism has paralyzed a whole continent for centuries, and nothing has been more detrimental to the advancement of humanity than just this mistake, for it is a fundamental one, and its opposite has alone built up great nations and great causes. The fact is that every achievement for the benefit of humanity has been a result of exactly the contrary conviction, of a "faith that removes mountains." Where one visible and palpable example of the effect of a lifelong determination on the part of a few individuals comes to light, thousands exist that do not. The impulse that goes from one earnest, determined, consecrated individual along the line of an enlightened life purpose has no limit, and reaches far beyond what is ordinarily regarded as possible. History abounds in crises where the result has come from the determination of a few who do not ask "What's the use?" but do their duty as they see it, hoping for success, but ever brave in defeat.

Poverty and Crime.

That poverty is one of the most potent factors in the production of crime the annual report of the chief of police of Chicago goes to show. After giving account of the relief work done last winter by the police department, he says: "A notable fact, incident to the distribution of relief by the city, was the great reduction in the number of crimes committed while relief was being given, thus clearly indicating that a great many crimes and misdemeanors prevalent during the last winter were simply the result of the desperate condition of the poor. There seemed to them no alternative other than to steal or starve." It is to be hoped that the knowledge thus revealed of the close relationship between crime and poverty will tend to hasten the time when we shall seek, not to alleviate poverty but to abolish it entirely; when instead of the "distribution of relief" there will be the proper distribution of opportunities—opportunities for every man and woman to earn a living wage—thereby obviating the necessity for superficial charity of the soup-kitchen and free lodging-house.—Union Signal.

Men and Pigs.

In an imaginary community of pigs, described by Carlyle, one of the chief rulers was asked, "what is justice!" The answer was: "Your own share of the general Swine's-trough, not any portion of mine." "But what is 'my' share?" "My share," answered the chief pig, "is, on the whole, whatever I can contrive to get without being hanged or sent to the hulks." Some people are cruel enough to believe that there are communities of men where this same sort of philosophy obtains!

A REAL REPUBLIC.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM IN BRYAN'S STATE.

Nebraska Leads the Way in Establishing Real Self Government in This Country—Now Let Other States Follow Suit.

Nebraska, the home of Bryan, has the honor of being the first state in the union to incorporate the principle of the initiative and referendum in her statutes. The principle has been one of the main tenets of the party, but not until this winter has any serious attempt been made to enact it into law. The bill passed by the legislature and signed by the governor is a somewhat modified form of the Swiss system of cantonal government, and applies only to cities and villages.

The right to propose ordinance, for the government of any city or municipal sub-division is vested in the voters of the city as well as the mayor and council. The word "ordinance" is defined as including also all orders, resolves, agreements, contracts and any other measure within the powers of the legislative authorities of the city. It is provided that the proposal for legislation shall contain the full text of the ordinance proposed, and, to be mandatory, must be signed by at least 15 per cent of the voters of the city making the same. At least ten of the persons signing the proposal shall make oath before a competent officer that they are duly qualified voters and that they believe all the others persons who signed the proposal are qualified and that the signatures are genuine. The proposal shall be filed with the city clerk: but if 20 per cent of the voters shall request that the ordinance proposed shall be submitted to the voters to be voted on at a special election, the clerk shall obey their wishes and call the election. If no special election is asked for, the proposal shall be submitted to the voters of the city at the first regular election held after the expiration of thirty days from the filing of the proposal, unless the council meanwhile makes it a law. If the proposal receives a majority of the votes it shall become a law. This is the initiative.

It is provided, for the referendum, that no ordinance for the government of any city, except as specially provided, shall go into effect until thirty days after the passage of the same. If in the interim a petition signed by at least 5 per cent of the voters of the city is filed, requesting its submission to a people, it shall be submitted. If the number of signers represent 10 per cent of the voters, a special election shall be held within twenty days; if less, not until the next regular election. Excepted from the operation of this section are all ordinances relating to the immediate preservation of public peace or health or items of appropriation for current expenses of the departments of the city, which do not exceed the corresponding appropriations of the preceding year, all of which must be passed by a unanimous vote.

The mayor and council shall have no power to enact an ordinance which shall in any manner alter, modify, repair or render nugatory ordinances enacted by a direct vote of the people, except by a two-thirds vote, and then not until a year after enactment. The mayor and council have power to submit to a vote of the electors at a special or general election any ordinances they may initiate. Any one falsely certifying to the qualifications or signatures of signers shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than one year. Similar punishment is to be meted out to the man who signs any proposal knowing that he is not a qualified voter. Any clerk who fails to comply with the provisions requiring his official action in submitting ordinances is liable to a fine of $5,000. As a saving clause, however, it is provided that this act shall not become operative in any city until accepted by the voters in the manner provided for the submission of ordinances. Authority, however, is given to the mayor and council of any city to adopt it by a majority vote without submission.

A New Earth.

Rev. Myron Reed of Denver, in a recent sermon on the text from Revelation, "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth," says:

All the prophets and poets have seen the same thing. Isaiah looked forward to an utter change in the face of the earth and of the hearts of the people of the earth. Robert Burns saw a new earth and so did Alfred Tennyson when he was young. Plato looked away from the decaying world around him and saw Atlantis. Sir Thomas Moore, about to suffer death, was writing "Utopia." There ought to be a new earth and what ought to be will be. No one will assert that this is the ideal social system—this one that we are living in. Isaiah would not be satisfied with it. It is a makeshift. We have sent money and sympathy to Ireland, and that was right and effective. But in 1895 there were more than 23,000 evictions in New York city. That means more than 100,000 people turned out of doors. That is to say, in one American city the evictions, as compared with Ireland, were more than four to one.

The Lewiston Journal asks why a tax on art is a tax on civilization any more than a tax on bread. All such foolish questions refer to the tariff, but the one deadly tax on art, bread and civilization is the everlasting corner in money on the gold basis.—Silver Knight.

POINTS FROM THE PRESS.

By the Revista Hispano-Americana it appears that for the year 189-1896 Mexico's imports were of the value of $42,000,000, against exports of over $100,000,000. This speaks well for "silver-ridden" Mexico.—Tulare County Times.

A paper dollar with the simple promise to receive it by the government for all dues, taxes, etc., would be the most perfect kind of money. This is no new idea. Jefferson, Clay and Calhoun are all on record as in favor of such a money. — Evansville (Ind.) Coming Events.

If all the people in the world were to agree that one man might take from another all he could force him to give up, using threats and starvation upon him, they might make such practice legal, but they could not make it honest.—Cincinnati Common Cause.

Had Bryan been elected and conditions remained as they are, imagine the pride with which the plutocratic press would be pointing to the state of the country as unanswerable evidence of the realization of their pre-election prophecies.—St. Louis Chronicle.

One of the brave generals—Manderson, wasn't it—who paraded about the country warning the workingmen against the 50-cent dollar, is the president of the defunct Omaha savings institution, whose depositors are looking for nothing better than a 10-cent dollar. Dear old man—in every sense of the word.—Midland Mechanic.

Say, if it is true, as we are told it was by the bankers, gold press and Republican politicians during the campaign, that the modern system of checks, drafts and other forms of credit paper had made money practically unnecessary for the prosecution of business, what are all these banks closing up for? They must have mislaid their checkbooks!—New Decatur (Ala.) Advertiser.

What would you think of a business man who would unnecessarily issue interest-bearing notes against himself at an interest, too, which would be greater than the profits of his business? And especially when the people with whom he dealt were perfectly willing to take non-interest bearing notes as long as said notes were redeemable in any goods or chattels the merchant might have in his store? He'd be a crazy merchant, wouldn't he? Well, it's down just such a ruinous and idiotic path the bankers and goldbugs want to keep this nation stumbling along.—Inter-Mountain Advocate.

One of the striking instances of the effect of "business men's" thought was the Sherman act of 1890, by which, according to later developments, the government stamped its mere promises to pay gold upon a material costing a half a thousand millions. What would be thought of the business man who would write a promissory note upon parchment costing $100 per square inch? Such an act would not be more absurd than the act of the United States government in 1890. And yet John Sherman is the idol of "business men."—Nebraska Independent.

There is a great swindle that Senator Chandler might get after, with profit to the government and honor to himself—the Union Pacific railroad. The government had paid twice over in principal and interest what the road cost, and still owes the principal of the bonds issued to build the great iron highway. Why should not the government take possession of this road and operate it for the use and benefit of the whole people?—Saginaw Labor Exponent.

Can you comprehend how absurd it is for the working people to be poor and idle useless loungers and schemers to be rich? What could a civilized people enjoy that is not first produced by the working people? Those things which are free to all without the aid of labor are just as much the property of one person as another, and those necessaries, comforts and luxuries which are the result of any kind of effort are certainly the belongings of those who apply the effort to produce them. It does not give any one a clear and honest right to get wealth into his possession by a means of trickery or deception, although a special law may have been made to legalize such theft.—Progressive Thought.

The Standard Oil Co. has property in Portland, Ore., worth $350,000, according to a local paper. The assessor put it at $200,000 for taxation, but a judge reduced it to $20,500! These judges are great people. They are not in it for their health. No man allows a foreign corporation to escape $40,000 a year taxes just for fun. The judiciary of the United States is more corrupt than congress—if that were possible. The word judge or justice should become a synonym for all that is base and decent men, men who have any respect will soon shun such positions as they would a leper. The corporations, however, will always find enough unscrupulous men to fill the places and serve them. —Appeal to Reason.

If the present high taxes do not bring prosperity, President McKinley proposes to increase them, and see if that won't do the business. But if we send strange doctors to Washington we should not be surprised if they prescribed strange medicine.—Facts (Denver).

SENOR SAGASTA.

Spain's Probable Next Premier Outlines His Views.

OPPOSED TO INTERFERENCE.

Would Not Tolerate a Suggestion on the Rights of Spain—With the Liberals in Power, Weyler's Removal Would be Immediate.

A dispatch has been received from Madrid, giving the following interview wish Senor Sagasta, leader of the Spanish liberals:

"We would be more liberal in every sense than the conservative party can afford to be," said Senor Sagasta. "We would not hesitate to go much further than Senor Canovas has gone in the way of a home-rule policy for the West Indies.

"Our policy would entail a change in the supreme direction of Cuban affairs, of course. The removal of Gen. Weyler would be immediate, and the present policy of excessive severity and repression would be abandoned, for that system is not calculated to improve the prospects of pacification, which we earnestly desire.

"In regard to the relations between Spain and the United States, I am not acquainted with what has passed recently between the Spanish and American governments. I have no reason to suppose that international considerations of pressure influenced the decision of Senor Canovas to resign. The liberal party wished to maintain and improve the cordial relations with the United States, and hopes its colonial policy would help to do so.

"But neither the liberal party, nor any other Spanish party, could tolerate a suggestion of infringing on the rights of Spain, or implying the interference of foreign powers in her relations with her colonies. The liberal party would be as zealous as the conservatives in defense of the supremacy of Spain in Cuba and Porto Rico."

By order of the queen, Marshal Campos has returned from Catalonia, where he had gone for a brief holiday. The queen wished to consult him regarding the solution of the crisis. His opinion and these of Marshal Lopes Dominguez and Blanco are likely to to have a decisive influence. All three make no secret of their opinion that the recall of Gen. Weyler is expedient both for the pacification of Cuba and for international considerations.

It is a singular feature of the present crisis that the Queen's chief concern has been to know the opinion of all the statesmen and generals consulted on the advisability of the recall of General Weyler, and whether a change of policy in Cuba and the granting of home rule would be most likely to hasten the termination of the war. Spanish domestic politics has played second part in this crisis.

The whole drift of the interviews of the Queen with Marshals Campos, Blanco and Lopez Dominuez and with Senors Padaz and Sagasta shows that all five men are unanimous in considering it necessary in the formation of a new government to have well defined, concrete plans for carrying out Cuban home rule and for endeavoring to strengthen the cordial relations with the United States, and all believe the indispensable preliminary step to this is the appointment of a new Governor-General who would inspire foreign countries and the Spanish colonies with confidence in the sincerity of the Spanish colonial policy.

In military circles it is believed Marshal Campos has recommended that General Blanco succeed General Weyler, and that General Campos would only go to Cuba himself if pressed to do so by the Queen and allowed carte blanche by the new government.

In diplomatic and political circles it is considered probable that if even the Liberals enter into office Senor Dupuy de Lome will be asked to remain as Spanish Minister at Washington. Leading Liberals say he has very skilfully defended Spanish interests and defeated the intrigues of the Cuban separators and supporters.

Later.

The queen regent has confirmed Senor Canovas, the premier, in his ministerial powers, and the cabinet will remain in office with personnel and policy unchange.

The solution of the crisis is a general surprise, as much perhaps in ministerial ranks as in the world at large. It was thought not without reason that the counsels of the higher military authorities, as represented by Marshal Campos, Marshal Blanco and Marshal Dominuez, would have inclined the crown toward a radical and distinct change of policy in the Cuban campaign.

The only explanation is that the first thought of the premier is to vindicate his "amour prope" so far as the liberals are concerned, and when this is established to find reason at an early date so to modify the cabinet as to satisfy the liberals and to terminate the deadlock before the cortes reassembles, which will probably not be for several months. It can hardly be doubted that the modifications would include the replacing of Capt. Gen. Weyler by some other commander.

Statisticians declare that only sixteen out of each 1000 insane persons become so by reason of love affairs. These figures apply, however, only to persons in asylums.

SHOT HIMSELF.

Sensational Suicide of R. B. McConnell at Ocala, Fla.

R. B. McConnell, the defaulting president of the defunct Merchants' National Bank, committed suicide at Ocala, Fla., last Saturday. He sent a bullet crashing through his brain, and before medical aid could be summoned was a corpse. The deed was committed at the home of his brother-in-law, W. K. McDonald, where he, his wife and mother were taking dinner.

G. C. Stapleton, Receiver of the Merchants' Bank, had made some new discoveries in the bank business that showed up very badly against McConnell. He at once communicated them to United States Commissioner G. S. Williams, who at once issued a warrant for McConnell's arrest. This was placed in the hands of Deputy United States Marshal James Clarke, who proceeded to the McConnell residence. He learned there that the bank president was dining at Mr. McDonald's.

He went to the house and read the warrant, when McConnell asked permission to go up stairs to get his coat. A moment later the household was startled by the report of a pistol. The officer rushed up stairs, only to find McConnell breathing his last, with a hole in the right side of his head over the ear, and the smoking revolver still in his hand.

The mother and wife are prostrated with grief. The affair caused greater excitement in the city than even the bank failure.

CZAR'S TELEGRAM.

Russian Expresses Hope That Turks Will be Generous.

Constantinople.—The following is the text of the telegram sent by the Emperor Nicholas to the Sultan after the fall of Domokos:

"Your majesty will not be surprised if our relations of sincere friendship and neighborly feeling induce me to appeal to your noblest sentiments and aspire me with the firm hope that you will not fail to crown the success achieved by your valued armies in heroic struggle by a faithful adherence to the moderate and pacific intentions which your majesty proclaimed at the beginning of the war.

"By concluding an armistice and by a favorable reception of the mediation of the powers your majesty would acquire a fresh title to the high esteem you now enjoy and would accomplish an act of profound wisdom, an act which I personally should always retain in remembrance.

"I beg your majesty to believe in my unchanging friendship.

BIG RAILROAD ENTERPRISE.

A Trans-Continental Line From the Atlantic to the Pacific.

CHICAGO.—A transcontinental railroad, from tidewater to tidewater, is the gigantic enterprise which was set in motion when $30,000 was paid at Springfield, Ill., for the incorporation of a company with a capital stock of $30,000,000.

The Baltimore & Ohio, the Wisconsin Central, the Chicago & Northern Pacific systems figure in the great undertaking. By a consolidation of these, their branches and connections, will be produced the new system, one end of which will touch the Atlantic and the other the Pacific. The headquarters of the system are to be located in Chicago.

The chief promoter and man who has carried the gigantic plan to a successful issue is William Allen Butler, of Yonkers, N. Y. Associated with him are Edward Adams, of the Northern Pacific, and F. T. Gates, of Montclair, N. J. Gates represents the Rockefellers, the Standard Oil corporation being largely interested in the undertaking.

STATISTICS OF LYNCHINGS.

There Were 141 and of These Ten Occurred in the North.

The New York World prints the statistics of lynchings in the United States since January 1, 1896. It is shown that there were 141 persons lynched in 1896. Of these lynchings 131 occurred in the south and ten in the north, eighty-six were negroes and fifty-five whites. The World's list for 1897 shows that there have been forty-seven persons lynched so far this year. The usual proportion between whites and blacks is maintained.

HANGED HIMSELF

Because His Piece of Cake Was Smaller Than His Sister's.

There has been a remarkable increase in the number of juvenile suicides in Berlin recently. These self-killings reached their climax the other day when a 10-year-old boy destroyed his own life. He became angry because he received a smaller piece of cake than his sister, who was having a birthday party, and left the room pouting. He went into the adjoining room and hanged himself to the door latch. He was dead when found.

FRANCIS SCHLATTER DEAD.

He Had Been Fasting, and Apparently Starved to Death.

Francis Schlatter, who claimed to perform miraculous cures by divine power, was recently found dead in the foot hills of Sierra Madre, thirty-five miles southwest of Cass Grande, in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. He had been fasting and apparently starved to death.

While in Denver from Aug. 22 to Nov. 13, 1895, about 200,000 people visited Schlatter to receive treatment.

A COMBINATION.

Three Powers, France, England and Italy Warn the Sultan.

TURKEY LIKELY TO SUBMIT.

The Three Powers Will Never Consent to the Cession of Thessaly, Germany and Russia Notwithstanding—Rumors About the Peace Negotiations Are Conflicting.

At the meeting between the ambassadors of the powers and the Turkish minister for foreign affairs last week at the Tophane palace, Constantinople, Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, and Signor Pansa, the Italian ambassador, made a distinct declaration against the cession of Thessaly to Turkey. This attitude of the three powers named is regarded as being of the highest political importance, in view of the fact that since the czar's telegram to the sultan there has been a marked rapprochment between Russia and Germany. Here the opinion is expressed that the indications point to a resuscitation of the league of the three emperors, if that league is not already accomplished in fact.

Rumors are Conflicting.

Conflicting rumors are published about the progress of peace negotiations at Constantinople. On the one side the sultan is said to have adopted the most unyielding attitude, and on the other hand he is declared to be showing a most conciliatory disposition, and that the sentiment of the question in dispute is only a matter of a few days. The Associated Press, however, learn that the ambassadors at Constantinople are hopeful that the negotiations will be concluded in about a week in the sense of Turkey's acceptance of peace conditions proposed by the powers. There is now little doubt the sultan has decided to agree to the evacuation of Thessaly and the Turkish public is being prepared for this step.

It is considered probable that the conclusion of peace between Turkey and Greece will be followed by a complete change of the Turkish cabinet, as the palace party will endeavor to saddle the ministry with all the responsibility for the peace conditions. Moreover, a strong feeling exists among the Mussulmans against the ministry especially against the navy department, owing to the deplorable condition of the Turkish navy and the inactivity of the Ottoman fleet. The news from Thessaly is that the Turkish army, which at first pillaged and committed other excesses in the Greek villages, is now under strict dicipline.

Numbers of Greek Thessalonians are hiding in the mountains of Kalkilis and Erocheri, on the Island of Skiathos, being afraid to return to their homes, fearing massacre, and preferring death by starvation, exposure and disease.

SHE LOVED TO DRESS.

Indiana Lady, Aged 75, Had 175 Dresses at Her Death.

At Jeffersonville, Ind., the report of the administrator of the estate of Mrs. Dorothy Howard, aged 75 years, who recently died, one of the most eccentric women in the state, has been filed in the court and is a remarkable document. In spite of her extreme age, the old lady dressed as a girl of 15. At her death she had 175 dresses, most of them of the finest quality, innumerable skirts, waists and other wearing apparel. The auction of her effects drew a large and curious crowd, and the bidding to secure her handsome silk dresses, dozens of which had never been worn, was lively. Her hobby was to spend her entire income for gaudy and costly wearing apparel.

Arrested for Murder.

Dr. Lewis F. Preston was arrested in Denver a few days since on a warrant charging him with the murder of David Frank, a cigarmaker, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Preston is a consumptive specialist. It is said that his method of treatment is to run a trocha or hollow needle through the walls of the chest and introduce an electric wire into the lungs. Frank died under this treatment.

Magowan Overdrew.

Carroll Robbins, counsel for ex-Vice-Chancellor Bird, receiver for the Trenton, N. J., Rubber company, has served papers on ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan in a suit of $272,000 and interest, making a total of about $300,000. This is for money which, according to the books of the rubber company, Magowan has overdrawn on his accounts.

A Series of Coincidences.

The sixty-second double wedding anniversary was recently celebrated, in a small town in Indiana, of Moses and Isaac Marty, twins, who married Tabitha and Lavinia McCormick, twins. Each couple has had seven sons and five daughters, the first children being born within a few days of each other, and the last children also being of almost exactly the same age.—Medical Journal.

Getting Dangerous.

A special dispatch from Naples says that Mount Vesuvius is in eruption. An area of 2,000 yards long by 800 wide is covered with lava and it is dangerous to approach within 400 yards of the principal crater.

THE county commissioners were in session this week for the purpose of examining the Tax Assessor's books, which were found all correct. The rate of taxation for the year was fixed at 4½ mills, a reduction of ½ mill from last year. This is good news to the county.

A DUTY of twenty per cent. ad valorem has been put upon all cotton imported into the United States. If we thought it would increase the price of cotton to the farmer one thousandth part of a cent we would be mighty glad of it, but as it is it seems a case of big cry and little wool.

THE Clanton city council at the regular meeting last Friday appointed E. E. Todd, formerly of Anniston, to survey the town and make a plat. P. D. Wilson, J. M. Potts and J. H. Vines were appointed to assist him in the work. Some quarantine ordinances were passed, which puts the town in good shape to avoid contagion, although we hope it may never be necessary to put the ordinances in force.

THE Mid-Ala. Daily News, after four weeks of life, suspended last week. It is evident the people of Chilton county are fully satisfied with THE BANNER and do not intend to subscribe for any other paper in the county. One good feature in connection with The News was that subscriptions for more than a month were refused at the outset, consequently no one had to complain. A few subscribers, who paid a month's subscription during the second week, will receive the balance due them on application. So many papers are started, and obtain a year's subscription from unsuspected people, then die after about three months, that we are sure this action of The News will be appreciated.

"Cotton acreage increase in the United States is estimated at 979,000 acres, or 4 4-10 per cent larger than the acreage last year, and the average planting of the crop is some three weeks later than last year. The same correspondents report the condition of the crop less promising at this date than for many years. Texas being the only state where normal conditions have generally prevailed. In all the other cotton states unseasonable cool weather, poor stands and great damage from cut worms have been the rule. The overflow of a vast area of the most productive cotton lands in the state of Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana will necessarily lesson the acreage in these sections and planting has been done under discouraging circumstances—five to eight weeks later than last year. As six months are usually required to make a cotton crop, unless almost phenomenally favorable weather occurs henceforth a good crop in the Mississippi valley will be impossible."

A Beautiful Girl

Barely Escapes a Life-Long Calamity

It happened in this way: The young daughter of Mrs E. S. Gibson, Greelyville, South Carolina, was slowly but surely becoming a hopeless invalid. Her mother became anxious and haggard in her frantic efforts to save her daughter. None of her attempts to find a cure seemed of any avail. As stated in her own words:

"My daughter was taken sick some time ago and I tried many medicines in vain. She was very weak, appetite poor, bowels costive, and night sweats. She appeared to be cold all the time, being taken with violent chills at times. Her nerves were in a very bad condition. At last I happened to see one of your little books and wrote you. You recommended Pe-ru-na. I gave it to her and she has now completely recovered. I owe all that I am worth in this world to you for saving my daughter's life. I shall always keep a supply of your medicines on hand. May you live long to help those suffering as my daughter was."

Pe-ru-na always cures such cases. Send for free book, written for women only. Address The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

Commencement Exercises at the University School.

Of all the days in the scholastic year, Commencement Day is the day of days which excites in the hearts of the students all manner of hopes and fears. Not only the students are interested but also their parents and guardians and all friends having at heart the welfare of the rising generation. That is the day which tells the tale of the session; the day that the industrious and ambitious pupil looks forward to, to receive the honors earned by steady application to study; the day that the idle and indifferent pupil looks forward to with dread, realizing he is not capable of standing an examination; the day when fond parents meet to witness the triumphs of their loved ones, or to condole with them in their disappointment; the day when teachers can breathe more freely now that the anxiety of the session is over.

Monday and Tuesday were gala days at Clanton when the exercises at the University School took place. Early in the morning the streets were a pretty sight with the happy countenances of winsome children and the bewitching forms of sweet girl graduates about to make their debut in the arena of life. Young men and maidens, old men and matrons, all wended their way to the school house in eager anticipation of an enjoyable day. And none were disappointed in their anticipations, and we must congratulate Prof. McMorries and his able assistants on their arrangements. The school house was packed, but being breezily situated the heat was not oppressive; the ladies fluttered their fans and the wind gently murmured through the shade trees surrounding the building.

At 9 a.m. the program was commenced with a song of greeting, and then the little ones of the primary grade began their recitations. These were all well rendered, and made apparent to the most casual observer the pains which had been taken by the teachers to instil into the youthful mind the necessity of thoroughly comprehending and learning by heart their lessons. We do not wish to be invidious, but the length of the program precludes our mentioning all the performers, and we therefore must content ourselves with a few of the more prominent. Moonshine, by little Daisy Davis was very nicely recited, and Only a Boy, by Marvin Wilson, proved he is a boy of the right sort. Bessie Merritt and Pattie VanDerveer gave a pleasing rendition of the Proverb Children. This was followed by Miss Lucy Garner with the Auctioneer's Gift, and Miss Lucy developed one characteristic of the knights of the hammer, viz., self-possession. Then the two Arthurs, Arthur Johnson and Arthur Robinson, who had been rehearsing for some time, gave us the Rehearsal, and Archie Harris came next with a capital performance of the Country School. Willie Robinson gave a comic account of Taking an Elewator and Miss Saloma McKee depicted the woes of the unfortunate being who has Too Much Mother-in-law. On this occasion Miss Blanche Foshee was Advertising for a Husband, but will never do so again, more likely to have trouble in keeping the fellows away without advertising for them. The new woman was ably represented by Miss Nellie Merritt in Gumtown Woman's Rights Society, and Miss Alee Stewart scared us with the Gobblerums 'll git you. Reese McKee made a capital amateur Tramp and we hope he will never become a professional. The Army and Navy were valiantly represented by O. R. Bell and Marshall Mims, two warriors bold, Miss Mollie Vines making a pleasing Columbia ruling the waves. This finished the morning performance, and an adjournment was made for dinner.

At 3 p.m. the contest in elocution for the gold medal offered by the Principal was commenced, Henry Tichnor being first on the program with Voices from the Dead. Henry is a diffident young man, but he resurrected the voices in good style.

Miss Blanche Foshee descanted learnedly on Woman's Rights, so well, that some of the young members of the sterner sex who are ambitious of a political future are already preparing bills for the enfranchisement of women, when they enter the legislature.

Miss Alee Stewart, herself emblematic in her spotless purity of the piece, A White Lily, she recited so prettily, looked as sweet as that flower.

Bascom McMorries, having a military bent, rendered the Sword of Lee and Conquered Banner with ardor and received the commendations of the audience, and together with Renfroe Mullins was awarded second place in the contest.

Willie Robinson gave an excellent rendition of A Drowning Singer. The pathetic theme and the well modulated voice of the speaker captured the hearts of the hearers, and Willie was unanimously awarded first place in the contest and the gold Medal.

Rush Vines, in a lively and impressive manner, recited Men who Never Die. Rush is a persevering and painstaking young man and Political Pointers.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., June 2, 1897.

Discussion of the Cuban dilemma has been ruled out of order by Czar Reed and the tariff tinkering goes on slowly. Hanna has saved beet from a grievous tax but so far no friend to tea has appeared. "Grandma" Hoar might from geographic historical fitness and age attempt such championship, but so far has not done so.

The old state dispensary fight between Senator Marion Butler and Ben. T. Tillman has been revived, but Tillman has had time to get in his usual quota of obstruction work, demanding investigation of the Sugar Trust scandals, and claiming that the dignity of the Senate should be either vindicated or charges that that have long and often been made, be refuted.

Havermeyer has been acquitted without any defense being made by his counsel. Searles, who is imprisoned, is using his leisure perfecting plans for making the recently invented cylindrical cotton compress the means of controlling not only the handling and sale but the actual acreage and production of that staple.

Reports from Dunn and Bradstreet both indicate some improvement in business but it is not, so far, felt by the masses.

Pictures of McKinley have been torn down and destroyed at various points by infuriated workmen.

McKinley has deputized Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, to act as special representative of the United States at the Queen's Diamond jubilee. Americans as individuals are adding to the gayety of nations by paying fabulous prices for rooms in London and by a wild scramble for precedence, but it is to be regretted that as a Nation we should be made to take part in a celebration that is in no sense to be approved by a free people as we still claim to be.

President McKinley is booked for trips through the south and west in the near future, Nashville, Tenn., and Salt Lake City being objective points.

John Wannamaker keeps up his tirade against the Republican party, alleging as the cause of his attacks the prevailing money stringency and suffering of the people as brought to his attention in his great department stores.

Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls has, after repeated snubs from his fellow partisans and some pretty hard rubs up against the practical side of life as a newspaper correspondent, overturned the vials of his wrath on the Republican party and announces himself as a believer in many articles of the Populist faith. Whether this is a bid for place either bestowed by the administration, as a gift of a people who can forget, or an honest conviction remains to be seen.

"Gen" Coxey's paper, Sound Money' has been discontinued, assigning as reason for so doing the lack of interest and money among the people. His parting shot was in the nature of a threat as to another march to Washington, D. C., of the unemployed, who, he asserts, will not then petition but "demand" recognition at the hands of the law makers.

A. P. Aims is being rather extensively advertised through the repeated assertion that he is being used as a tool by Mark Hanna towards securing McKinley's re-election in 1900. It is also claimed that the Hon. Thomas Watson is desirous of diverting it to his use as the means of securing control of the People's party. In this he is ably seconded by Gen. VanDervoort, who is an acknowledged leader in that secret organization, having at one time edited the official magazine.

Insurance Commissioner McNall, of Kansas, is still keeping up a gallant fight against those Eastern insurance companies that, having long evaded the laws of that State, now openly defy them. He is backed by the sentiment of the best people not only in his own state but throughout the west. In his recently issued report he states that during the last twenty-six years the insurance companies have carried out of the state $24,718, 250 more than they have paid in on policies. A. R.

"The Foot of a Fly"

says an eminent English doctor, "will carry enough poison to infect a household." In summer-time, more especially, disease germs fill the air, multitudes are infected, fall ill, die; multitudes escape. These messengers of mischief do not exist for millions. Why not? Because they are healthy and strong—protected as a crocodile is against gunshot. It is the weak, the wasted, the thin-blooded who fall; those who have no resistive power so that a sudden cough or cold develops into graver disease. We hear of catching disease! Why not catch health? We can do it by always maintaining our healthy weight.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, is condensed nourishment; food for the building up of the system to resist the attacks of disease. It should be taken in reasonable doses all summer long by all those whose weight is below the standard of health. If you are losing ground, try a bottle now.

Editor BANNER:

Judging from the looks of the little puny cotton, up to date, Providence aims to convince the farmers that they must not so heavily depend on cotton. There may however be a turn in the progress and prosperity of this absorbing staple. If the migratory spirit and practice continues long in our community, it will become somewhat depopulated. As saw timber is getting scarce here, many are going to Georgia and other points to get employment at the mills etc.

Last week Mr. Ira Campbell's daughter, Mrs. Minnie Gist and children, happily visited old home and parents, while Mr. Gist remains in Washington, D.C., indefinitely. He will however return to Alabama and probably engage in journalism, his favorite vocation.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. But when a sure remedy is found and a cure effected, after years of suffering, there is great rejoicing and desire to "let the whole world know." Mrs. Laura Wineinger, of Selkirk, Kansas, writes; "I desire to let the whole world know what Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has done for me. For ten years I had pain in my heart, shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in my left side, oppressed feeling in my chest, weak and hungry spells, bad dreams, could not lie on either side, was numb and suffered terribly. THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

Pneumatic Tires in Germany.

The former manager of a big European cycle goods distributing and importing concern writes to an American cycling journal, advising American bicycle manufacturers not to waste time and money in trying to force single-tube tires upon European riders. In Europe, tires with removable inner tube (called double-tube tires), were long ago found to be the only practical, money-saving form of tire. In speaking of a journey of inspection throughout Europe, the ex-manager refers to Germany as follows.

In most of the cities I visited, the repairmen had formed small local and anti-single-tube leagues, each man vowing not to mend or repair a hose-pipe however touching the appeal of the unfortunate customer who happened to puncture his tire, and however tempting the remuneration offered.

The Germans are great talkers, and even in cities like Hamburg rumors of the single-tube "humbug" have been circulated with amazing rapidity, from the artisan's "wirthschaft" and the gentlemen's "wein halle" into the clubs, and into the homes of the people.

makes a success of all his undertakings.

J. Renfroe Mullins, who is up-to-date, reproduced the Speech of Gov. Taylor at the opening of the Centennial Exposition at Nashville in almost as good style as the illustrious Governor made the original. The speech was well delivered and Renfroe was declared together with Bascom McMorries second in the contest.

Marshall Mims rendered Napoleon with good effect. There is considerable latent energy in this young man, which made the subject of the man of destiny a welcome theme to him.

Miss Nellie Merritt closed the contest with "John Maynard" in a pleasing and engaging manner, her rendition being well received.

After the contest was finished the Hon. John C. Dennis made an appropriate speech in his usual happy style and announced the following prize winners:

Miss Blanche Foshee the Highest Honor prize for the entire session.

Bascom McMorries, the W. L. Sampey gold medal for the best English conposition.

Miss Willie Robinson, the Principal's gold medal for elocution.

Prof. McMorries highly commended Arthur Johnson and Arthur Robinson for good attendance, neither of them having missed a lesson during the entire session.

Hon. Tipton Mullins, who had kindly consented to deliver the annual oration, was unavoidably absent on professional business, and consequently the oration was omitted.

During the day Miss DuPree, the accomplished teacher of music at the University School, together with the Clanton string band, enlivened the proceedings with the sweet strains of music adding much to the pleasure of the occasion.

At 8 p.m. there was a public reception at the school house which was largely attended and greatly enjoyed by all, both old and young. The campus was brilliantly illuminated by several bonfires, and the sound of merry music and joyous laughter was to be heard till a late hour. Commencement Day of '97 will be long remembered as a great success.

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE and their marvelous cure.

Science of the 19th Century looks on with amazement at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Limburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populist and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan. 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 8th of January 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism, so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was absolutely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours, J. P. LIMBURNER.

Bureau of Populist and Silver Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and had Catarrh of the head for 20 years. I was so deaf that I had the use of two boxes and drums and could not move without pain. I was so crippled that I could scarcely walk. But I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable, and I despaired hope. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I never felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism left and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child, for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It wards off Croup and cures it. Mothers of the child who causes sleep and rest to both young and old.

Yours respectfully, WM. M. KELLEMS, Sibera, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. F. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and realizing the above letter which is so emphatic, wrote Mr. Kellems, asking if his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he immediately.

MR. J. J. WILSON:

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in other [illegible] and I believe it will be the means of helping many others who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long and so much I believe I am cured, and I have received many letters like yours, and I feel happy to tell everyone what has done for me. FIRST-CLASS WORK

STATE NORMAL COLLEGE.

The Peabody Fund Agent, Hon. J. L. M. Curry, once an honored Congressman from Alabama and late U. S. Minister to Spain, joins State Superintendent Dr. J. O. Turner of Alabama and the State Normal College authorities in holding an annual Peabody Summer School of Pedagogy for Alabama Teachers. This is held along with the College classes during four weeks, June 1, to 24, and 150 teachers and candidates for teachers, are now in attendance there, and many more are expected to enroll, yet.

The Dothan School Board requires their entire corps of teachers to attend this Training School for Teachers and prepare for better and better work in their schools, and increase salaries to enable their teachers to do so. It would be well if every city and town School Board would insist thus upon Professional Training for their school teachers, and it begins to be almost a necessity that teachers should take a course of training, thus.

The State Normal College of Troy has many calls for trained teachers, and the college is sending out scores of such every year, as it is glad to do. School Boards may rest assured that their calls for trained teachers will have prompt attention. Dr. E. R. Eldridge, the President, takes pleasure in thus helping to make better schools in Alabama.

Brave Men.

Alex McClure of the Philadelphia Times says. "The two boldest men he knows are John Wannamaker of Philadelphia and Tilly Haynes of Boston. Both went to New York. Mr. Wannamaker took the Stewart property, the finest dry goods store in the world, and Mr. Haynes took the great Broadway Central Hotel, the largest in the city. But dry rot had crept into both of these magnificent properties and no one dared to grasp them, until John Wannamaker took one and Tilly Haynes the other. A complete and unqualified success has crowned the efforts of both. Verily a good reputation is better than riches."

Uncle Sam's Postal Congress Off On a Jaunt.

LIST OF NEW APPOINTMENTS.

The Rule to the Effect that Postmasters be Allowed to Serve Out Their Full Terms Unless Removed For Cause Has Been Modified.

Indians Now Quiet.

A telegram has been received from Captain Stouch at the Tongue River Agency, stating that the Indians are now quiet. He adds that the Indian under arrest for murder will be escorted by military to the Rosebud Agency and delivered to the sheriff.

Government Brings Suit.

The attorney general has directed suit to be brought against the Traders' Live Stock Exchange of Kansas City, Mo., under the act of congress of July 2, 1890, known as the anti-trust law. It is represented that a number of traders or speculators in live stock have gotten together as the Traders' Live Stock exchange, prohibiting all other persons from trading at the yards.

Our Postal Congress.

A special train of nine finely appointed Pullman cars left Washington at 9 o'clock Friday morning over the Pennsylvania road, carrying the Universal Postal Congress on its trip about the country. The itinerary includes Pittsburg, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Boston, Albany, West Point, New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

Not an Offense.

At a recent Cabinet meeting the case of the Valencia, the Ward line steamer, which was compelled to haul to by a shot fired across her bows from a Spanish cruiser as she was coming out of the port of Guantanamo on May 28, was briefly discussed. Secretary of State Sherman explained that the action of the Spanish vessel could not be regarded as an offense against the United States, as the Valencia was showing no colors and the purpose of the Spaniard was to make her show her flag. As soon as the stars and stripes were run up she was allowed to proceed.

New Appointments.

The president has sent the following nominations to the senate:

Lawrence Townsend, of Pennsylvania, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Portugal.

Treasury—Elbis H. Roberts, of New York, to be treasurer of the United States.

Conrad N. Jordan, of New York, to be assistant treasurer of the United States at New York city.

William E. Andrews, of Nebraska, to be auditor of the treasury department.

William W. Brown, of Pennsylvania, to be auditor for the war department.

Heads Will Fall.

The rule announced shortly after the administration assumed charge, that postmasters would be allowed to serve out their full terms unless removed for cause, has been modified, and it is expected wholesale appointments to postoffices will be made soon. It was officially announced that the president and postmaster general will consider as having expired all postoffices which are due to expire between now and July 15. It is understood that the matter was discussed and the decision reached at a recent cabinet meeting. The reason assigned for the modification of the policy of the administration is the desire of the postoffice department to fill as many offices as possible before the expiration of the fiscal year, July 1, in order that accounts may be begun with a new quarter.

The Cuban Army.

Captain W. D. Smith, of the Cuban Army, spent considerable time with the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

In a brief interview with a representative of the Associated Press, he said:

"The Cuban Army is now in better condition to resist the Spaniards and to maintain the fight for independence than it has been since the beginning of the war. General Gomez has a well disciplined army of about 40,000 men.

"We have no difficulty in feeding our troops. In the portion of the country in which Cubans are in control, the provisions are protected, and we draw our supplies from this source."

In reply to a question, Captain Smith said that all talk about autonomy and of Spanish reforms for Cuba is so much breath wasted.

Speaker Reed Threatened.

Thomas B. Reed, Speaker of the House, recently received a letter warning him that unless certain specified legislation was promptly expedited he would be assassinated. The communication bore the traditional skull and cross-bones. The Speaker pinned the letter on the inside of his office door and jokingly showed it to his friends.

Letters of this character have lately been received by Mr. Reed in almost every mail. Many of them seem to have been inspired by his refusal to permit consideration in the House of the Cuban belligerency resolution recently passed by the Senate. A few correspondents have used the bankruptcy bill as the basis for their threat.

Mr. Reed has regarded these letters as a part of a public man's existence and has given them little thought. His friends, however, became so worried over the communication received to-day that they secured possession of it and sent it to Superintendent of Police Moore. Boyd and Wheedon, of the regular force were consequently detailed, with instructions to keep the Speaker in sight from the time he should leave his hotel this morning until he finally entered it tonight. These instructions were faithfully observed.

The Spanish Minister.

It is the prevailing belief at the White House that President McKinley will nominate the new Minister to Madrid in the course of a week. Six names have been under consideration, so it is stated semi-officially. Three of them are believed to be Gen. B. F. Tracey, of New York; Ex-Senator John B. Henderson, of Missouri, and Congressman Hitt, of Illinois.

The last named, it is said, has been tendered the post, but does not desire it.

Special Commissioner Calhoun will reach Washington from Havana next Monday or Tuesday. It is understood that ex-Representative Aldrich is to be appointed Consul-General at Havana, and that his appointment will be made in the near future. Consul-General Lee has practically closed up the present work upon which he has been engaged and the way is now open for the appointment of his successor.

RECENT STORM IN TEXAS.

The Loss Resulting Approximates at Least a Quarter of a Million.

The recent storm in Texas has cost the state at least a quarter of a million dollars, the principal loss falling on the farmers. The wind, rain and hail storm extended from the northern boundary of the state to the gulf on the south and was about a hundred miles in width. Many places were severely visited, while others were only slightly touched. Several persons have been killed by lightning and stock has suffered severely. The greatest damage has been done to the crops. Wheat and oats were ready to harvest, but have been beaten down and badly matted. Corn was high enough to suffer materially from both wind and hail. Cotton is the greatest sufferer. There were many complaints of lice from almost every section of central and southern Texas. The cool weather succeeding the storm, will add to the ravages of the pest and it may be expected that reports will be heartrending for the next four weeks.

SAVED A CREDITOR.

A Kansas Banker Pays a Debt With His Life.

Chicago, Charles Person, a Kansas banker, committed suicide in Chicago recently to save a creditor from loss. A Mr. Bowman, of St. Louis, held Person's note, and as security retained a $5,000 insurance policy on Person's life. Person could not meet the note, which was over due, so he took his own life so that the debt might be paid out of the insurance money.

The day before he died Person wrote a letter to Bowman saying, among other things:

"You, who could have been the most lenient to me, have chosen to be the most pressing. That you may lose nothing through me, I will meet my obligation, even though it takes my life to do it."

CROPS IN TEXAS DESTROYED.

Corn and Cotton in a Large Section Ruined by a Hail Storm.

A telegram from Temple, Tex., says: One of the hardest hail storms ever seen in this section of the country visited here Sunday afternoon. The hail covered the ground till it looked like snow, and were the largest ever seen. There was but little wind and but few window glasses were broken. Corn and cotton crops, so far as can be learned, near Temple were buried in the ground and entirely ruined. Never before was such a disastrous series of hail storms known in this section, this making the fourth one within a week. It will be necessary to plant cotton over, and corn is entirely destroyed.

ALL WANT OFFICE.

Over 1,000 Applicants Worrying the Governor.

Oklahoma's new Governor is solely besieged by office seekers. The number of applicants for territorial offices, and those seeking the governor's indorsement for office outside the territory, have grown to over 1,000. There are seventy-five applicants for oil inspector, a territorial office which pays $2,000 a year.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

The governor has appointed D. W. Tarwater and W. T. Musgrove members of the Board of Pension Examiners of Fayette county. Also C. P. Burgess, Notary Public, Birmingham.

Pioneer Citizen Dead.

A special from Gadsden announces the death of Daniel Boone, aged 74, one of the pioneer citizens of Etowah county. His death resulted from typhoid fever after on extended illness. He was one of the leading Republicans of Alabama.

Committed Suicide.

R. H. Etheridge, of Shiloh, S. C., committed suicide at Belle Ellen, a small mining town in Bibb county below here, last Thursday evening by shooting himself in the head. No cause was given for the rash act. Coroner Walters held an inquest.

Mose Rogers Pardoned.

The governor has pardoned Mose Rogers, convicted of arson in the second degree in Wilcox circuit court, May, 1897. The judge recommends pardon because further confinement would probably cause death, and the governor paroles him upon his good behavior.

Confederate Pensioners.

The county board of examiners of applications of Confederate veterans for pensions, consisting of J. Q. Dillard, W. J. Kelley and W. I. Spivey, will meet in the county court house in Huntsville on June 14 and 15 for the purpose of passing upon all applicants.

Veterans Elect Officers.

At its annual meeting held June 4th, in Birmingham, the birthday of Jefferson Davis, Camp Hardee, No. 39, United Confederate Veterans, elected officers for the ensuing year, Capt. W. H. Reynolds being chosen commander, Delegates to the Nashville reunion were also named. The annual reports of officers showed the affairs of the camp to be in excellent shape. It has 125 members in good standing.

Women Meet.

The woman's board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, met in annual convention at the First Methodist church in Birmingham last Friday afternoon, Mrs. W. M. Weightman, of Charleston, S. C., widow of the late Bishop Weightman, presiding. There were about sixty delegates in attendance, representing all the southern states. The afternoon session did nothing more than to meet and organize, and then came a meeting of the officers and members of managers of the board, who prepared their reports. At the evening session a missionary experience meeting was held.

Lived in a Cave.

Ben Rowell, a young white man living near Hamilton, murdered one William Rawls in Marion county in December, 1894. A reward of $150 was offered for his capture, but he seemed to have disappeared from the face of the earth. A few days ago he was caught in a cave under his father's house, in which he has lived all of these years, it is stated. During all this time he has been converting day into night, doing his sleeping during the daylight hours and coming out at night for fresh air and exercise. Having been deprived of sunshine for several years, his flesh is as soft and white as a baby's, and a long beard adorns his face. Few of his old friends would have recognized him had he appeared on the streets.

Owns 125,000 Acres.

Major Hugh Carlisle, of Guntersville, who recently gained a clear title through a decision of the United States Court of Appeals to nearly one hundred thousand acres of land in Alabama, has secured 25,000 acres indirectly from the same decision. Major Carlisle has been suing the Alabama Land Company for half interest in the lands within the six-mile limit of the Tennessee and Coosa Railway. The defendant fought the case vigorously until the Court of Appeals decided the Carlisle vs. Tennessee and Coosa case in favor of the plaintiff, giving him this vast estate. The Alabama Land Company has given up the case and has executed a deed to Major Carlisle for 25,000 acres, making him by far the most extensive land owner in Alabama.

Confederate Camp at Anniston.

Camp Petham, No. 258, United Confederate Veterans, of Anniston, at a meeting one night last week, adopted resolutions and prepared an address to be sent to every camp in the association protesting against inviting G. A. R. men to the reunion, annual and otherwise. The address, which was prepared and submitted by Commander F. M. Hight, sets forth that the objects of the association are to secure a truthful history of the part taken by the Confederate army in the war between the states, the political incidents leading up to the secession of the states and that the whole scheme of the United Confederate organization is bound up in the Confederate idea, hence a union soldier can have no sort of sympathy with the objects of the association.

New Handle Factory.

A deal was closed at Bridgeport last week that will give that city another factory. The deal has been negotiated for some time between the Harriman Hoe & Tool company, of Harriman, Tenn., and the owners of the old wire nail machine plant building. The Harriman company becomes the owners of the building and will put in machinery to turn out handles. Work will be begun immediately toward remodeling the building and the manufacture of handles will be begun just as soon as the machinery can be put in. The new company will give employment to about twenty-five men, besides furnishing a market for the good timber of that section.

Military Encampment.

The dates for the encampments have been agreed upon, and the orders to that effect were issued from the adjutant-general's office last week, given out by Lieut. Jones, as follows:

First Regiment, James W. Cox, Colonel—Mobile, June 21; one week.

Second Regiment, H. B. Foster, Colonel—Tuskaloosa, July 5; one week.

Third Regiment. B. F. Elmore, Colonel—East Lake, June 14; one week.

First Artillery, Maj. J. H. Clisby—Mobile, July 17; one week.

First Cavalry, Maj. T. Beck—July 12; one week; place to be selected.

Colored Battalion—Mobile, July 24; one week.

Cleburne's Copper Mines.

A quantity of copper ore is now being taken from the old Wood mines in Cleburne county, which have been idle for about twenty years. The product is being hauled in wagons to Heflin and shipped from there to New Jersey at a handsome profit, it is said. The assay shows that this ore contains fair proportions of gold, silver and sulphur and the operators get pay for whatever amount of all of these metals their shipments are found to contain. Formerly the purchasers only paid for the copper found in the ore and appropriated the gold and silver as lagniape. The cost of shipment to New York is now $10 per ton less than it was twenty years ago. It is probable that the copper industry in Cleburne will be materially increased.

Railway Building.

The Dunham Railroad company is pushing its survey with vigor. The corps of engineers are now within six miles of River Falls, and the belief is that the road bed will be permanently located within twenty days, crossing Conecuh river at River Falk and thence to Lake View, Fla., a distance of about forty miles. This will give a continuous line of railway of sixty-one miles, the starting place between Dunham, two miles south of Georgiana, Ala. This road will pass through a belt of the finest timber in South Alabama. The object of the Dunham Lumber company is to open up the comparatively inexhaustible pine forests and to develop near and at River Falls, on the Conecuh and Patsaliga streams, the hitherto unknown great water powers.

Wetumpka's Agricultural School.

The governor has appointed the following board of control of the Fifth District Agricultural school at Wetumpka.

George S. Livingston, of Prattville, for a term of two years, ending June 5, 1899, Felix L. Smith, of Rockford, for a term of four years, ending June 5, 1901.

J. P. Oliver, Sr., of Dadeville, for a term of four years, ending June 5, 1901,

Peter A. Buyck, of Wetumpka, for term of six years, ending June 5, 1903.

W. P. Gaddis, of Wetumpka, for term of six years, ending June 5, 1903.

A meeting of the board will be called at an early day by Hon. I. F. Culver, commissioner of agriculture, at which time the body will organize.

BATTLE WITH AXES.

A Most Horrible Tragedy Enacted in the Woods.

A most horrible double tragedy was enacted in the woods four miles from Cabot, a small town in Pulaski county, one day last week, the parties to the affair being prominent citizens of that locality.

C. G. Barrentine and John Brown fought to a finish with axes and the fight lasted until both men had received their death wounds.

The men had a difficulty over a settlement and there was bad feeling between them. Barrentine went to the woods where Brown was at work and started the altercation. Barrentine struck Brown with a maul, knocking him down. He then seized an ax and began chopping his antagonist, cutting his legs and body in a fearful manner. In the melee Brown wrenched the weapon from Barrentine and literally disemboweled his assailant. The gashes severed his liver and laid open the abdomen, but even in this terrible condition Barrentine walked a quarter of a mile to his home, where he died in great agony.

He related the story of the battle and when an investigation was mad, Brown was found where he had been struck down and he cannot possibly recover. Brown is a school teacher and has always borne a good reputation. Barrentine was a middle-aged man and leaves a wife and four children. The two men had been neighbors from boyhood and had always been friends until the dispute over the settlement arose.

LOTS OF SPARKLERS.

Lost Diamond Fields in Mexico Rediscovered.

A letter from the City of Mexico says it is reported from the state of Guerrerro that the lost diamond fields there have been rediscovered. As far back as 1822 some Indians brought from that state specimens of what they called "crystal chips" and presented them to Gen. Vincente Guerrero, who had them examined, discovering that the were valuable diamonds which were equal to the best Indian diamonds from Golconda.

Traces of the beds were lost, and it is now believed that they have been found again. There is much interest in the matter here, and there are predictions that the new diamond fields are equal to those in South Africa.

A Beautiful Widow Commands.

News has been received at Tacoma, Wash., via Hong Kong that the beautiful widow of Dr. Rizal is now commanding a company of Philippines island rebels, armed with rifles, making her headquarters at Naic, Cavite province.

DARING FEATS OF A DIVER.

Narrow Escape from Death While Exploring a Sunken Ship.

One diver crippled for life, another made a raving lunatic, and still another escaping death by a mere shave—that is the record up to date of the effort to recover the treasure on the sunken steamship Skyro.

The Skyro, bound from Carthagena to London, struck on the Melxiddo reef and sank in twenty-eight fathoms, low water. The Melxiddo reef is on the coast of Spain, nine miles south of Cape Finisterre.

The accident occurred in 1891, and it was not until four years later, May, 1895, that any attempt was made to recover the valuable cargo which the sunken steamship contained, the most tempting part of which consisted of eighty-eight bars of silver, valued at $45,000. This treasure was stored away in a spare berth in the cabin, while in the hold was 700 tons of pig lead, valued at $70,000.

It was J. K. Moffat, an Englishman, living in Bilbao, who made the first attempt on the treasure. After four or five months' labor and terrible underwater work by the divers all Mr. Moffat had to show for his time and money was a grimy piece of the Skyro's brass cabin skylight grating. One of the divers went raving mad from his sufferings under water, and when confined jumped through a window in his delirium. A fellow worker was incapacitated for life as a result of his exposure. Mr. Moffat let things rest at this until July of the present year.

During the two months following the beginning of these second operations a diver named Erostarbe descended forty-four times and recovered fifty-nine bars of silver, the average time of each descent being thirteen minutes. After the first thirty-seven bars had been got to the surface it was found necessary to use dynamite.

The dynamite so cleared things that in three dives Erostarbe brought up $10,000 worth of silver bars. But even this adept at submarine work did not come off without some close shaves during his career. On one occasion in coming up he fouled his air pipe with a float attached to the buoy rope. He was ascending with a strong impetus and the impact with a float turned him downward and his head slipped out of the helmet below the breast plate. He could neither right himself nor replace his head. But he never for an instant lost his presence of mind, but worked swiftly and deftly with his hands in this reversed position. He managed to free the air pipe and shot up to the surface feet foremost, where he was quickly reversed by his assistants and restored to the world after such a close call as it is the lot of a very few men to survive.—New York Sun.

THE INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENT PEOPLE STAMPEDE.

Pending Their Further Movements the Great Political Revolution Is Gaining Ground With the People and Radical Reform Ideas Are Taking Root.

The lesson of the last election gave a [illegible] conviction that the American [illegible] were getting tired of the per[illegible] domination of the money power. [illegible] adoption of bimetallism, it is [illegible] would have given that power a [illegible] slap in the face. Six [illegible] millions voted, unreservedly, to [illegible] this punishment, while the [illegible] seven millions sought to [illegible] more emphatic by se[illegible] adoption of an international [illegible] How small a hold the gold-bug [illegible] had on the affection of the [illegible] was proved by the attenuated [illegible] secured by Palmer and Buck[illegible] gold bug candidates.

Now the genuine advocates of the international agreement arrangement evidently overestimated the immediate effect of the European circle of financiers [illegible] an expression of sentiment in favor of international bimetallism by the American people.

When Hamlet, prince of Denmark, remarked that the cloud above him resembled a weasel, the courtiers with ready compliance hastened to corroborate the judgment; when he declared the same cloud to be like a whale, they, too, observing the threatening aspect of the prince, found immediate reasons to alter their former conclusions. But the American Hamlet of public opinion failed, entirely, to convert the money magnates of the Eastern hemisphere from the weasel theory of gold monometallism to the whale theory of bimetallism. These astute financiers discounted his threat of the possible bankruptcy of the United States government and the debt paying failure of the nation generally, in the event of bimetallism not being universally adopted. They held themselves fully prepared to run the risk of getting all their American securities unloaded onto the home market to which they belong before such a calamity could take place.

Rothschild and his clique, although [illegible] willing to parley with the influential bimetallists, continue to push forward their plans with unabated vigor [illegible] which consist of nothing short of driving the whole world to the gold standard and securing in their own power the gold mines of the world so as to control the output.

It has occurred that Senator Wolcott and his friends, representatives of the principle of international bimetallism after being wined and dined and treated with the utmost politeness by the kings of finance, returned from Europe having accomplished nothing, absolutely nothing.

Such being the situation before us, what are we going to do about it? A [illegible] petition presented to congress signed by the six and a half million supporters of Bryan, supplemented by a large proportion of the other voters, must have some considerable effect in the minds of Mr. McKinley, the congress and the senate. But here comes a difficulty. The constitution of the United States, as administered by the supreme court, is quite an ironclad affair and does not provide for any change of national policy, excepting once in four years, however much circumstances may have changed in the interim. The decision on a change of policy must be determined by the executive by the people. Before such a [illegible] could be got together, constitutional objections might be raised, constitutional objections might be raised against its presentation, and if presented, it might be [illegible] account of still further constitutional character, which the supreme court would be at no [illegible] discover. Lastly, the republicans themselves are no longer in [illegible] to be satisfied with bimetallism; they require the nationalization of the land and all the public [illegible] the establishment of postal [illegible] and the re-transfer to municipalities of all the franchises held by [illegible] and private corporations. [illegible] demands will be supplemented by that of the initiative and [illegible] which will place the decision of all issues in the hands of the people.

JOHN W. MARGETTS.

The Cranky Student.

"Say! May I ask a question? I want to know if there is any economic law that taxes people to contribute themselves?"

"That is a general law; it [illegible] all classes."

"But I thought there might be an exception because I find it stated somewhere where the town of Pullman has been taxed as farm land to Rockefeller rich mining claims an acre, and railroad land [illegible] an acre, while farmers' land and of the same quality is taxed at $25 an acre. Does the law of distribution mean that taxes are to be rich and distribute themselves among the poor? If it doesn't seem to me the facts rather upset the law. I don't know which to believe."

Professor—Sir, whatever the tendency of taxes, your tendency is toward anarchy.—Cincinnati Common Plea.

The country will go to the dogs again. Mark Hanna is down with nervous prostration and William is getting rattled.—Pittsburg (Kas.) Tribune.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Commenting on Archbishop Ireland's recent address at a Republican gathering in Cleveland, Ohio, Charles H. Krause in the Indianapolis News, May 18, Says: "I, too, am an optimist. I have faith in the future of America, but this faith will not be realized by crying 'Peace! peace!' when there is no peace. We must look the facts squarely in the face, and portray the evil as it exists. It is not true that 'we give to manhood the freedom to develop its powers and satisfy its ambition.' The system we are under does not guarantee to all equal opportunities, while it gives to some 'civil privileges.' The fact is that man in democratic America has the same freedom that exists in king-ridden Europe. He has the right to look for employment; failing in this, he has the right to starve if too sensitive to beg, or too honest to steal. What must this lead to? Already we have thousands of tramps so plentiful in some places as to be a menace to life and property. If man is endowed with 'inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' then any system which interferes with these rights must go! If we keep on in the present way, what kind of men will the country turn out? Will our civilization stand the test?"

The National Republican League has served notice upon the league in the Western silver states that delegates to the National Republican League convention in Detroit in July must be in accord with the party platform.

A bill was introduced Thursday by Mr. Maddox, of Georgia, to exclude from the mails all matter emanating from commercial agencies, which publish business ratings and carry on collections. Such a law is not needed. Under the "existing gold standard" the time will soon come when only the heads of trusts and syndicates will have any financial standing, and commercial agencies will cease to exist.

The Republicans and gold Democrats are not going to have it all their own way in the contest for the mayorship of the Greater New York, says the Twentieth Century. So far only a gold standard man has been considered by the different organizations, but those who supported Mr. Bryan in the last campaign have determined that, unless a silver man is named by the Democratic party, an independent candidate will be nominated, and supported by the labor element and other reform organizations. The timidity shown by some of the political leaders in regard to inviting Mr. Bryan to speak here on the Fourth of July is very contemptible. In the light of passing events the principles embodied in the Chicago platform appear quite tame, and it is certain that the party who would lead to victory in the next national contest must formulate a platform far more radical than was that one. The politicians, who try to put aside the issues which aroused such intense feelings in the hearts of the people read but dimly the signs of the times.

We asked John Ames, a Democratic goldbug lawyer, what effect would it have upon the price of property to gather in all the greenbacks, treasury notes and silver certificates, by the issue of bonds, and burn them, says H. W. Hardy, in the Nebraska Independent. The answer was "property would go still lower." We asked R. E. Moore, a Republican goldbug money loaner, and the answer was the same. Less money, lower prices for property and labor are the very things the ruling powers of America want, and there are a few Nebraskans who want to stand with the ruling money governing class.

If John Wanamaker really wants to join a new party, the latchstring is out.

The following, from Harper's Magazine for May, is significant. "Prophesying in politics is a hazardous employment of expectation, but as one reads the political platforms of the century he finds here and there prophetic passages. At the close of the eighteenth century reformers were still talking of the rights of man, and meant by that phrase equal civil and political rights. At the close of the nineteenth century reformers are interpreting the same phrase, but it now signifies economic equality. In the last presidential campaign the idea was freely advocated by the friends of the laboring man, who are unusually numerous at such a time. Economic Inequality vs. Economic Equality, that is the great political issue of our day. The basis of democracy in America is industrial. Does Lincoln's remark in his inaugural indicate the course democracy is taking, and does the new political phrase, economic equality, intimate that it shall dominate American democracy before the close of the twentieth century?"

What Makes the Trouble.

It is roughly estimated that to keep one modern battleship in powder and shot for one hour's fighting would cost $111,654.40, and to keep the United States fleet in action for the same time would cost a round million. A 110-ton gun, 16½-inch bore, costing in England $82,500, is used up completely in ninety-five rounds. There is no need for this country to expend one dollar in war, if we had such peace and plenty as unobstructed nature and unobstructed industry would confer. It is laws and privileges that make nearly all the trouble.

THE HANNA CLIQUE.

MUST PAY THEIR DEBTS TO THE RAILROADS.

When the Truth is Known We May Find That That Supreme Court Decision Simply Cleared the Way for a More Favorable Bill.

The Chicago Tribune, a Hanna organ, asks, under a flaming headline to its Washington correspondence, "Did Hanna promise a pooling bill?" The Tribune then answers its own question by saying that the effort to force consideration and passage of the railway pooling bill in advance of the tariff bill in the senate is the result of "strong pressure from powerful sources," and relates a story current in Washington, and "not denied," to the effect that Mark Hanna promised the great railroad interests a pooling law in exchange for their support in the last campaign. The Tribune's story runs thus:

"The big railroad corporations of the East apparently by some preconcerted move declined to contribute at all unless they could make terms. These terms were said to be the passage of a poooling bill on the lines of that originally passed by the house and which failed in the senate. A member of the interstate commerce commission made the charge directly at a meeting of the senate committee on interstate commerce, and it was not denied."

Readers will remember that frequently during the last campaign the Post-Dispatch charged that the only explanation of the attitude of the railroads was the existence of a bargain between them and the Republicans for the passage of the pooling law, which they had twice carried through the house, and which had been defeated in the senate. The Post-Dispatch called attention more than once to the fact that such a bargain was clearly disclosed in the McKinley platform, which was entirely silent as to interstate commerce, while the Chicago platform demanded the enlargement of the powers of the interstate commerce commission to protect shippers against extortion.

The truth was as clearly to be seen then as it is now. Once understood, it explained the silence of the McKinley platform, the heavy railroad contributions to the Hanna campaign fund, and the coercion of railroad employes to vote for a candidate and a policy the majority of them did not approve of.

Little by little the inside history of the gold campaign of 1896 is coming out. And the evidence, as it accumulates, reveals the monstrous character and extent of that conspiracy against the people.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Keep It Before the People.

Keep it before the people:
That the earth was made for man,
That the flowers were strewn,
And the fruits were grown
By the great Creator's hand;
That the sun and rain,
And the corn and grain
Are yours and mine, my brother—
Free gifts from heaven,
And as freely given
To one as well as another.

Keep it before the people:
That man is the image of God;
Whose limbs or soul
Ye may not control
With shackle or shame or rod—
We may not be sold
For silver or gold,
Neither you nor I, my brother—
For the land was given
Like the life from heaven,
To one as well as another.

Keep it before the people:
That famine, and crime, and woe,
Forever abide
Still side by side
With luxury's dazzling show;
That Lazarus crawls
From Dives' halls
And starves at his gate, my brother—
Yet the land was given
To man from heaven,
To one as well as another.

Keep it before the people:
That the laborer claims his need:
The right of all soil,
And the right to toil,
From spurs and bridle freed;
The right to bear,
And the right to share
With you and me, my brother,
Whatever is given
By God in heaven
To one as well as another.

—A. J. H. Duganne.

Ran Up Against Simpson.

Payne—our own Sereno—ran up against Simpson of Kansas the other day. He undertook to make a speech on the tariff. While he was in full flight, Simpson asked him a question that Payne was unable to answer. So he resorted to ridicule in order to avoid it, by saying: "I would, if I desired to be unparliamentary, reply by asking the gentleman from Kansas if his ancestors were monkeys." Simpson quickly rejoined by saying: "And if you did, I would answer you as Dumas the elder did when a French fool put a similar question to him. I would tell you 'yes, my ancestors began where yours left off!'"

A Washington correspondent says, "The house roared, and although the house has laughed at Payne vast numbers of times, and he ought to be well used and hardened to it, Payne got angry, and has never taken an agreeable view of Simpson since." There was great merriment over the scene.—Westport (N. Y.) Chief.

Secretary Alger says that hard times are due to the fact that the people are practicing too rigid economy. Well that is too bad. If there is any way that they can exist without such practices they would be glad to have McKinley, Alger or anybody else tell them about it right away.—Topeka Advocate.

When the creditor class enhances the purchasing power of money so that a $5,000 loan has a $6,000 value at maturity, it plucks $1,000 out of the debtor by its dishonest scheme; and not only is the debtor defrauded of his money, but language is defrauded of its proper meaning by calling such money honest.—Free Coinage Journal

It cost $1.91 per head to run the Federal government in 1860, and $5.48 last year, and nothing to show for the difference but officeholders drawing salaries from the whole people for campaign work to the public injury; in other words, making the people pay for being robbed. It is similar with this state; the necessary outlays could be reduced three-fourths with positive advantage, besides the saving of taxes. But it cannot be done under any sort of party rule or an electoral system adopted thereto.—San Francisco Star

It is quite the fashion in Washington to make and retire a major general each week. With proper care and a slight acceleration of speed, every officer in the army can become a major-general before he is retired. As each will draw the pay of his rank at retiring, if death spares the three-starred gentlemen long enough there will not be any troublesome surplus in the treasury even should McKinley's high tariff bill pass just as he desires it.—Monte Vista Graphic.

The question that is now agitating the people is, what kind of a show did the "advance agent" advertise? When we look at the great scramble for "pie" at Washington we are inclined to conclude it's a comedy, but when we see the scramble among the masses for bread, with the attendant crimes, suicides and incidents of starvation, then it is that we conclude that Mr. McKinley is advertising a tragedy, and is not so far ahead of his show as some people seem to think.—Iowa Tribune.

GOV. PINGREE

Is In Favor of Public Ownership of Franchises.

Governor Pingree, of Michigan writes:

I am loth to surrender my belief in municipal control and accept the doctrine of municipal ownership; but I am free to confess that I am being gradually forced into the position of an advocate of ownership. The methods of franchise holders compel it, as also the ignorance and venality of many of the people's representatives. But much of this venality, I may say, is the outgrowth of corporate methods.

I have advanced in the direction of municipal ownership, always keeping an eye to the better plan of municipal control, so far as to advocate ownership of street railway tracks; and through the manipulation of lighting companies I was compelled to force through the municipal ownership of a public lighting plant.

How Men Make Money.

Men make money by what the world calls shrewdness. Boiled down to an honest fact, they make it by getting a portion of another man's labor without giving an equivalent in return. Perhaps under our present industrial and commercial conditions this, at first sight, may appear legitimate and unavoidable; you should bear in mind that if you make two dollars in a trade, the man with whom you traded has lost that amount, and the truth remains that you did not make those two dollars by the sweat of your brow, but by the shrewdness of your tongue. It is no defense of a system to say that other men under like conditions and similar circumstances would do the same thing, but it is rather an admission that the system is vicious. Any man who obtains any amount, large or small, without giving a full value in labor or property in return, is either a thief or swindler, and generally he is both. These names may sound harsh, but figure it out for yourself and see if you can find any other names that will properly apply to the case.—Hall County News.

PRESSURE FOR GOLD.

THE LEGITIMATE PARENT OF THE DEPRESSION.

It Has Caused Falling Prices and Has Left Ruin and Desolation in Its Trail—Judge Miller Quotes the Constitution.

(By Judge Henry G. Miller.)

What are we to understand by the expression, "Money is the standard of value?"

The Constitution—article I, section 8, paragraph 5—makes it the duty of congress "to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standards of weights and measures." We know that "to fix the standard of weights and measures" is to provide a scale in which the various weights and dimensions of articles shall be expressed. As the value of money is its relation to commodities, "to regulate the value of money" is to provide a scale of valuation, in which the values of other forms of property shall be expressed, and in this sense alone money is the standard of value. Accordingly, by the twentieth section of the act of 1792, preserved in section 3563 of the Revised Statutes, it is provided: "The money of account of the United States shall be expressed in dollars or units, dimes or tenths, cents or hundredths, and mills or thousanths; a dime being the tenth part of a dollar, a cent the hundredth part of a dollar, a mill the thousandth part of a dollar; and all accounts in public offices and all proceedings in the courts of the United States shall be kept and had in conformity to this regulation." The dollar is simply the unit of this scale, and in the keeping of accounts all values are expressed in the multiples and fractions of this unit. M. Cernuschi, in "Nomisma," page 7, gives this definition of money: "Money is a value created by law to be a scale of valuation and a valid tender for payments."

Money standard being a scale of valuation, to talk of a 50-cent dollar or unit is as illogical and senseless as to talk of a six-inch foot measure. To raise this standard is to increase the purchasing power of this unit. It follows that to give to bankers or dealers in money a control of the currency, would be like giving to dealers in commodities the control of the standard by which they are measured, for the dealers in money, by expanding or contracting the volume of money diminish or increase the purchasing power of this unit of valuation, and hold at their mercy the property of the country.

Manifestly falling prices are the cause of our commercial and industrial depression, and there can be no prosperity while this cause continues. What has brought about this fall of prices? I answer, it is the legitimate and necessary result of our having made gold the money standard or scale of the valuation of property. As the pressure for gold increases the dollar or unit of value enlarges, or increases, and there is a corresponding fall in the price of property. We must, therefore, diminish the purchasing power of the dollar, or unit of this scale, and this can only be done by putting silver in competition with gold as a money metal. No reform of our banking system or change in our tariff laws can accomplish it.

Brann on Greed.

I can understand every crime in the calendar but the crime of greed, sand every lust of the flesh but the lust of gain, every sin that ever damned a soul but the sin of selfishness. By all the sacred bugs and beasts of Egypt, I'd rather be a witch's cat—or even a politician—and howl in sympathy with my tribe; I'd rather be a tramp, and divide my handouts with one more hungry; I'd rather be a mangy dog, without a master, and keep company of my kind than to be a multi-millionaire, with the blood of a snake, the heart of a beast, and carry my soul like Pedro Garcia, in my pocket.

When I think of the three thousand children in the City of Chicago without rags to shield their nakedness from the cold north wind; of the ten thousand innocents, such as Christ blessed, who die every year of the world for lack of food; of the millions every year whose cry goes up every day and night to God's throne—not for salvation, but for soup; not for the robe of righteousness, but for a second-hand pair of pants—and then contemplate those beside whose hoarded wealth the riches of Lydia's ancient kings were but a beggar's patrimony, praying to him who reversed the law of nature to feed the poor, I long for the mystic power to coin sentences that sear like sulphur flames from hot hell, and weave of words a whip of scorpions to lash the rascals naked through the world.—Brann's Iconoclast.

Cleveland's Penury.

The balance of one cent, due Grover Cleveland from the government, he holds untouched as an investment. He thinks that if the gold standard can be fully set up by the year 1900, the appreciation of money will make that cent worth twelve dollars, and it will pay for another reform club dinner, with wine. Grover has a big head, and his very bay-window is a financial observatory.—Silver Knight-Watchman.

Wisdom from a Strange Source.

If the people abandon one party because it fails to work the miracles it has promised only to join themselves to another party promising to work still greater miracles, they will merely go from bad superstition to worse and from deep to still deeper disappointment.—Chicago Chronicle.

At Rockefeller's University.

A lively joy was diffused throughout the University of Chicago when the announcement had been made that President Harper intended to edify the classes with his views of the growth of the irresponsible educated element. The students of the University of Chicago have the greatest love for President Harper, and every time he opens his mouth on the subject of sociology they come running from all directions to listen to him. So it was on this particular morning. Mr. John D. Rockefeller, who was present, felt profoundly moved.

"What wonderful things," he said to himself, "are oil and education."

By this time President Harper had ascended the rostrum.

"The irresponsible educated class," he began, "is a very dangerous thing."

The assertion was greeted with tremedous cheers, and everybody present began to feel a sense of great responsibility.

"Nothing," continued President Harper, "conduces to the responsibility more than the possession of interest-bearing bonds."

Everybody joined in the applause that followed this remark.

"Let me illustrate," went on President Harper. "A man, we will say, possesses education without interest-bearing bonds. Another man possesses interest-bearing bonds with education. I need not say who of them both is irresponsible."

"No," cried the professor of ethics.

At this moment one of the students put in a word.

"In this temple of learning," he cried, "I acquire education, but I acquire no interest-bearing bonds."

Mr. John D. Rockefeller gazed upon the youth attentively.

"Now," continued the enthusiastic student, "why not inaugurate a system of distribution of interest-bearing bonds among the educated classes?"

"Hurrah!" cried the professor of ethics. "Interest bearing bonds forever!"

The enthusiasm mounted to fever heat, and then died away into a dead silence. Every pair of eyes were riveted upon the man whose interest-bearing bonds come to him from God. Slowly Mr. Rockefeller arose and began to address the assembled classes.

"It is a most excellent suggestion that has been made here this morning," he declared. "It cannot be too speedily acted upon."

The stillness succeeding this remark was profound. Mr. Rockefeller drew from his coat-tail pocket a bulky mass of documents. The professor of ethics began to cheer.

"Now, President Harper," said Mr. Rockefeller, "here is a wad of interest-bearing bonds. Will you kindly make a distribution of them among the educated class?"

President Harper immediately handed the securities about among the students.

"Young gentlemen," said Mr. Rockefeller, "you are now all bondholders, and you will draw interest at the rate of 6 per cent a year."

"How much will that amount to per annum?" asked the professor of ethics.

"Five hundred dollars a year," replied Mr. Rockefeller.

"And when will we get it?"

"As soon as you pay your annual assessment of a thousand dollars. The first one is due now."—Twentieth Century.

Secretary Long decided that as these young men had been educated at the expense of the Government, they should render service in return.

Handsome Increase in Exports.

The monthly statement of the principal articles of domestic exports, issued by the bureau of statistics, shows exports during May, 1897, as compared with May, 1896, as follows: Breadstuffs $13,087,012, increase $2,686,178; cotton $9,627,473, increase $2,440,860; mineral oils $4,362,282, decrease $487,207; cattle and hogs $3,479,031, increase $486,252; provisions $10,592,183, increase $44,247.

For the eleven months ended May 31, 1897, the exports are given as follows: Breadstuffs $177,823,607, increase $53,073,756; cotton $225,902,816, increase $41,095,651; mineral oils $56,077,892, decrease $108,003; cattle and hogs $80,516,034, increase $1,462,288; provisions $115,997,322, decrease $171,312.

Coal Production for 1886.

The compilation of the statistics of coal production in the United States in 1896, which has just been completed by Statistician E. W. Parker, of the United States Geological Survey, shows that the product in 1896 was 190,639,959 short tons, valued at $195,557,649, against 193,117,530 short tons valued at $197,799,041 in 1895, a decrease of 2,477,571 short tons in amount and of $2,241,394 in value. The decrease in product was entirely in that of the Pennsylvania anthracite.

The output of bituminous coal shows an increase of about one and three-quarter million tons. The anthracite product of Pennsylvania decreased nearly four and a quarter millions. The bituminous production of Pennsylvania and Ohio shows a decrease while that of Illinois and West Virginia increased. These four States yield about 70 per cent. of the total bituminous production.

The other important States showing increased production were Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Indian Territory, Kentucky, Maryland and Texas, while Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Montana and New Mexico, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming showed decreased production.

An Inheritance Tax.

The Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Finance have agreed to offer as an amendment to the tariff bill a provision for an inheritance tax. The amendment was prepared by Senator Turpie, and was by him presented to the Senate on behalf of the Democratic minority. The principal provision of it follows: "That on and after the 1st day of January, 1898, and for five years thereafter, there shall be laid and levied a sum equal to 2 per cent. of the value of every decedent's estate, as an inheritance tax, whether it is the estate or intestate, to be paid by the executors, administrators and trustees thereof, or by the heirs or by the distributors, devisees or legatees, when the value of such estate as an inheritance is $5,000 and upwards, except where legacies or bequests are made to religious, charitable, educational or other organizations which may, by the laws of the State, Territory or District, in which the decedent was residing at the time of his death, be exempt from taxation."

Other provisions of the amendment prescribe methods of ascertaining the value of estates and of collecting the tax. These duties are imposed upon internal revenue collectors, who are authorized to bring suit in the Federal Courts to collect the tax in case such proceeding is made necessary. The Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to make rules and regulations for carrying the provision into effect.

OUR Republican contemporary at Thorsby, the Call, from the depths of its lengthy experience, predicts that the Populist party will receive a black-eye at the next election. The Call should not allow its predelictions to govern its judgment. It is plainly apparent that the Republican administration is not in accord with the sentiment of the nation. It is also very evident the Republican party will not be in it at the next election—that's where the black-eye comes in.

THE Atlanta and Selma air line is assuming such financial shape that it behooves Chilton county to see what it will do in the matter. The line will cross our county, and open up some of the best country in the State. Clanton, which is the most important town between Montgomery and Birmingham, is almost in the direct line of Atlanta and Selma. Some few years ago, when the line was originally spoken of, Clanton was mentioned as the crossing point of the two roads, and now more than ever it is necessary that Clanton bestirs itself and does not allow a variation of the route. As is frequently remarked, railroads are soulless corporations, but nevertheless they are always well disposed toward towns which show they can appreciate the advantages of having good railroad facilities. If the proposed line can be induced to make Clanton the crossing point the advantage to this section of having two roads is so clear that it needs no argument. It would mean a new outlet for our produce, new markets and better rates. Our merchants would be in closer communion with neighborhoods at present inaccessible to them, and would largely increase their business. It would give Clanton such an impetus as would be felt throughout the whole county. The reasons which favor it are innumerable, against it there is not a single argument. Then steps should be immediately taken to bring before the company the merits of Clanton and at the same time an offer of assistance in building the road commensurate with the benefits we should derive by its passing through our town. The responsibility rests upon the Mayor and Council of Clanton to see that our interests are fully secured. There are sins of omission as well as of commission and if this road is permitted to pass us by it will be a crime of that dual character. Who, among our public-spirited citizens, will be the first to move in this matter?

DEATH OF OSCAR MULLINS.

Sunday, the day of rest, was indeed a day of rest from the sufferings of the flesh to our highly-esteemed townsman, Mr. Oscar K. Mullins. After about eighteen months of suffering death released him from all pain on Sunday morning at half-past seven o'clock. He was ready to go, he was willing to go, nay, he was even anxious to go. Were it not for the anguish of parting with his dearly loved wife and two little girls he would willingly have relinquished the struggle months ago. But as the sun rose towards its zenith exhausted nature gave way and the released spirit was carried upward by the sunbeams to the abode of the blest. While the tears of his loved ones in the earthly home were easing their aching hearts, who can tell what peans of joy he was singing in the home of "Our Father who art in heaven."

Only 34 years of age, all his life has been passed in this county. Born near Jumbo, and living for several years in Clanton, Oscar was as well known and loved as any man in this vicinity. Quiet and unassuming, gentle in word and deed, his kindly nature made him a favorite with all. For over twenty years he was a faithful and earnest member of the Baptist church, a fact to which his pastor Rev. F. M. Woods, touchingly alluded in preaching the funeral service on Monday morning, when the mortal remains were carried back to the family graveyard within a few yards of the old homestead wherein he was born. A large concourse was present at the obsequies and the blameless life of Oscar Mullins will long be held up as an example to the rising generation.

DEATH OF JUDGE CALLEN.

ON Sunday morning the angel of death visited Clanton and wafted away to realms above the spirit of a noble gentleman. In the calm of the Sabbath morning, as the bells were calling the faithful to church, the soul of our esteemed ex-Probate Judge, Hugh J. Callen, was called before its Maker to render an account of its pilgrimage on earth. A long and useful life came to an end. Bereft of his dearly beloved wife, who preceded him to the heavenly home about three years ago, the Judge passed the last few weeks of his life in the home of his only son, Mr. W. C. Callen, where the devoted attention of his son and daughter-in-law soothed his declining days. He was greatly attached to his two grandsons, Wallace and Hugh Simpson, who were both at his bedside during the last sad moments. Peace to his ashes.

Hugh J. Callen was born near Summerfield in Dallas county in March 1836 and consequently was in his sixty-second year. In his early manhood he owned a plantation at Maplesville which he cultivated until 1874 when he was elected Probate Judge of Chilton county and served three consecutive terms, a period of eighteen years. He was married to Miss Fannie Logan by whom he had three children, all of whom, with the exception of his surviving son William T., have gone on before and are buried with him in the family lot in the cemetery at Clanton. For years the Judge was the most prominent man in Chilton county. He was a Free Mason, a Knight of Pythias and a Knight of Honor.

On Monday evening Rev. W. B. Dennis conducted service at the residence of Mr. W. T. Callen, and then the remains were taken in charge by the Masons and escorted to their last resting place by a host of sorrowing friends. He was buried with full Masonic honors, some of the fraternity from Montgomery coming up to pay their last tribute of respect to their departed brother.

Almost at the same time the funeral was taking place the aged mother of the deceased Judge was breathing her last at the home of another of her son's, Mr. R. C. Callen, at Selma. This venerable lady was in the 86th year of her age, and was cognizant of the fact that both herself and oldest son were passing over the river together. As her last moments approached she was heard to murmur: "Come on, come on, my son," and who can doubt but that he was the first to welcome her

And the weary are at rest."

A Sick Woman

Should Consult the Best Physician Possible.

If all the sick mothers, invalid daughters and diseased sisters in this broad land would write to Dr. Hartman when failing to find relief elsewhere, no pen could describe the benefit that would follow. There are so many women, especially married women, who drag themselves wearily around from year to year without any particular disease, and yet miserable beyond description. They ache and tremble and throb, growing more nervous, tired and debilitated every day. For this class of sufferers Pe-ru-na is the most perfect remedy in existence. It relieves, it soothes, it quiets, it strengthens, and no tired, overworked woman in the land should be without Pe-ru-na in the house for a single day.

Those wishing a complete description of female diseases, their causes and cures, should send their address to The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free copy of "Facts and Faces," a book showing what Dr. Hartman's free treatment has done for a multitude of invalid women.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., June 16, 1897.

McKinley's special envoy to Cuba Calhoun, who went a pronounced jingoist has returned with the conviction that the United States should at once put an end to the war, which he has found is being carried on with a degree of barbarity that would have disgraced the dark ages. The fact added to the growing public sentiment. Sec. Sherman's recent rather indiscreet utterances and the Cuban plank in the republican platform make a hard combination for the president to confront.

A certain New York manufacturer of cutlery was a delegate to the republican convention and later a visitor to Canton. He was offered a foreign embassy which he declined choosing rather to write the cutlery schedule for the Dingley bill. This he was allowed to do and it passed the Senate without an "i dotted or a t crossed."

Chairman Marion Butler has written a letter to the Hon. Frank Burkett setting forth his views as to the bolters' convention to be held at Nashville July 4. He states that his reason for objecting is that it is alleged to be a convention of the peoples party. He reviews the record of the party and suggests means for its upbuilding.

Senator Kyle of South Dakota, who was originally elected by the populists but re-elected by republican aid, objects to be classed as a republican.

Chairman J. Haskins Hobson has been instructed by the state executive committee of Virginia to call a state convention to be held in Roanoke, July 18 to nominate a full state ticket.

Congressman Lewis of Washington, recently offered a Cuban resolution and proceeded to furnish not only parliamentary precedent but rulings of the Speaker and views expressed by Dingley, so that the former was forced to make a ruling reversing his decisions.

A remarkable instance of overproduction of unprotected home products has been furnished the President. He has power to fill one hundred and forty foreign offices for which it is alleged he has had over four thousand applicants.

The three Bi-metallic envoys sent abroad by the administration have been granted a prolonged interview with Faure, President of the French Republic, from which they returned with an air of such studied secrecy as to suggest that the Frenchman said something in favor of the double standard.

The American Biscuit company having about absorbed all cracker, bread and cake factories, has been putting up its prices and it is now discovered that the bulk of its stock is held by Phil Armour and George Pullman.

The Illinois legislature has adjourned and the sewers of Chicago may now attract attention. Aside from its ink stand and ruler fights, its open jobs and its barefaced lobbyists, interest was aroused by having its chaplain pray that the "capacious maws of the charitable and educational institutions might be contracted." He also made a quotation in regard to money and its abuses that must have sounded oddly in the ears of those legislators. An adjournment was effected at 4 a.m. June 5.

While the papers are announcing that W. J. Bryan and wife will sail for Europe, June 14th to be gone seven months, we hear of his being booked to speak at various points during the summer, and Hanna is credited with anxiety lest Bryan invade his Ohio domain in the fall campaign. The recent silver Democratic convention in Frankfort, Ky., honored Bryan's name with prolonged applause.

Senator Teller has returned to Washington D.C. after a month's absence in Colorado. He stopped in Chicago to hold a conference with prominent siver republicans. He will take an active part in the tariff debate.

Judge Frank Doster of Kansas, recently expressed in vigorous terms an unfavorable opinion of the judiciary, appropos of the recent decision in the state bribery case. A.R.

Weak Lungs

Hot weather won't cure weak lungs. You may feel better because out of doors more, but the trouble is still there. Don't stop taking your because the weather happens to be warm. If you have a weak throat, a slight hacking cough, or some trouble with the bronchial tubes, summer is the best time to get rid of it. If you are losing flesh there is all the more need of attention. Weakness about the chest and thinness should never go together. One greatly increases the danger of the other. Heal the throat, cure the cough, and strengthen the whole system now. Keep taking Scott's Emulsion all summer.

West Chilton Warblings

The weather is hot and unaccountably dry, crops almost burnt up; we have not had a good seasoning since March. May was dry and cold throughout and it is now running away into June and no rain yet. Gardens are almost ruined for rain. It now looks like the elephant is coming and will be round soon. Old Peete is already here and is looking in a good many men's dining room doors. There are more men now buying corn than ever was in these parts before at this time, and if we miss a corn crop what will be next. King cotton has already caused a great many men to draw on a western corn crib and smoke house. The fruit crop will be very short owing to the blight, the apple and pear trees are very near all dead with blight. It has been a great year on honey bees. The honey crop is heavy.

W. T. Mitchell is at home from Montevallo.

C. C. Ray has been having a great misfortune happening to him again. On the 27th of May he lost his third wife by death and on the 10th of June he lost his little baby boy by death. Mr. Ray has undergone great stacks of troubles and our hearts go out in great sympathy to him.

W. M. Pierce had the misfortune of losing his little son by death on the 10th from dysentery, and has another little son very low. There seems to be a great deal of sickness in these parts at present Plantersville now has 3 doctors, Mixson, Moore and Martin who are all getting an extensive practice.

Crops are very sorry, cotton and corn 40 days behind what they were last year at this time and oats are considerably cut off owing to the long drouth.

Charley Barnes has returned home from Palmetto, Fla., and Capt. M. A. Barnes will be in in a few days. Mrs. Emma Robbins of Selma is visiting John Gay this week and Miss Mamie Young is visiting at R. J. Mitchell's.

Salem Singings.

The singing at Salem last Sunday was one of the grandest successes of the season, with Prof. Riley Robinson President, D. S. Robinson, W. H. Robinson, Wm. Calloway, committee for arrangements.

The singers are inexpressibly grateful to the community and visitors for the opportunity of spending such an enjoyable day.

At noon the hospitality of the people was made manifest beyond expression, by the great amount of refreshments spread to the mighty hosts from all quarters.

The enthusiasm for singing is running high and will reach the climax at the approaching convention. May we have a few more such singings before said convention W. C. ROBINSON, Sec.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House Burton, W., Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me; and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swolen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. Repairing Pneumatic Tires.

Experienced repairmen and riders know that a flat rubber patch is the only satisfactory repair for a tire puncture, and the Morgan & Wright form of tire is the only one which can be patched in this way. In fact, no other form of tire can be permanently repaired. The Morgan & Wright form of tire can be taken apart when necessary. A tire in which the inner tube, valve stem, and outer casing are all manufactured in one piece may seem simple to the new rider and of course all the manufacturer of such a tire has to do is to slap all the parts together and cook them, so to speak.

But this is not real simplicity. If your postage stamps get stuck together you are a loser. The parts of a pneumatic tire are worth a great deal more than postage stamps, and any repairman will tell the rider that sometime an accident happens which can only be fixed by taking the tire apart. If the tire is of the all-stuck-together kind it cannot be taken apart, and must be considered ruined.

Some people, who have not studied this matter, have asked Morgan & Wright to make the all-stuck-together kind, but they have always refused, because they know that the regular Morgan & Wright tire gives the least trouble and the most comfort to the most people.

Almost Distracted?

DID YOU EVER suffer from real nervousness? When every nerve seemed to quiver with a peculiar, creepy feeling, first in one place, and then another and all seemed finally to concentrate in a writhing jumble in the brain, and you become irritable, fretful and peevish; to be followed by an impotent, weakened condition of the nerve centers, ringing in the ears, and sleepless, miserable nights?

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restores Health.....

Mrs. Eugene Searles, 110 Simonton St., Elkhart, Ind., says: "Nervous troubles had made me nearly insane and physicians were unable to help me. My memory was almost gone and every little thing worried me until I was almost distracted. I really feared I was becoming a maniac. I imagined all sorts of evil things and would cry over nothing. I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and four bottles of this wonderful remedy completely cured me and I am as well now as I ever was."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on guarantee, first bottle will benefit or money refunded.

Last Tuesday evening the many friends of Miss Xyr Hunt gathered at the home of her parents, and enjoyed an entertainment that will long be remembered by all.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor of Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottle free at Dr. J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

5 DROPS — 49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure.

Sept. 9, 1896.

DEAR SIR:—Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Martinstown Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since, and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and began taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 49 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and love it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is all you claim it to be and more.

Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

DEAR SIR:— JANUARY 2, 1897.

Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had, ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed WONDERFUL. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me, is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 16 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heaven-sent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. F. M. COOPER, Washington Center, Mo.

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an incurable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism. Just think, for eight years a total cripple and able to earn a penny but able to walk or stand on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and able to work. I have only taken two thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit, I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $1 00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE.
1006 Well Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 26, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down bedfast with inflammatory rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was getting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON Mc Pherson, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

Left by Say.

Among the late Leon Say's papers were found five decrees dated on the same day, signed by President Grevy and countersigned by all the proper officials, appointing him to all the grades of the Legion of Honor, including the Grand Cross. Grevy went out of office without making the appointments public in the Journal Officiel, and Leon Say never mentioned the matter to any one, and never wore any of the decorations.

Exhausted Resources.

The English newspapers are becoming venturesome. One of them has sent a correspondent on a secret mission, of which it speaks in the following mysterious terms: "We cannot indicate his destination, for the journey that lies before him is one of the most perilous kind, and a whisper of his identity or the purpose of his mission would seal his death warrant. He purposes to tread a path that has never known the foot of a white man, and will travel with such a following as no newspaper correspondent has ever mustered for his private ends. Hundreds of men and scores of horses will follow his banner and every man of the party will carry his life in his hand." Whew!

The Alton turfman who killed himself because "horses were so slow" verified the common experience. The only fast horses are those you did not bet on.

Princess of Wales Loves Animals.

The Princess of Wales is fond of animals and is a most intrepid rider to the hounds. Her bay pony, "Huffy," is now 22 years of age. He is past work and is having a high old time of it. He stands about 13 hands high, and has been the first favorite of the princess for the 16 years he has been in her service. He knows his mistress as well as any of her dogs do, and, if allowed, would follow her anywhere. He is too old for work now, and has had his shoes taken off finally, but still lives a most luxurious life, constantly visited and fed by his mistress, who never allows an old favorite to be killed.

A Snake for an Appetizer.

When a Coffeyville (Kan.) woman went out on the edge of the piazza to shake a mat, she felt something about her ankle, and thinking it was her dress blown by the wind paid no attention to it, until she realized that the ankle was being squeezed, when she looked and saw a snake coiled about it.

Pepper.

"It has always amused me," remarked a botanical expert, "to hear people talk of their preference for black pepper over white, and the various explanations they give for the same. Little do they know that both black and white pepper grow upon the same shrub. Over the pepper seed grows a black covering. The seed itself is white or nearly so. To make black pepper the seed and its external covering are ground up, while white pepper is the seed alone ground up. White pepper is milder than black, the greater part of the pungency being in the covering. A pepper made of the coverings alone would be such—to use a slang term—hot stuff that it would burn the mouth. The black coating of the pepper seed contains most of the oil."

LUMBER FOR A LUNCH.

The Porcupine Enjoys Anything so Long as It's Salted.

"You wouldn't have to skirmish around much to git feed enough to fatten a Hemlock Belt porcupine on, sayin' that you wanted to fatten one," said an old Potter County, Pennsylvania, woodsman. "Jest sprinkle salt over a stick of cordwood, or a sawlog for that matter, an' he'll eat up the whole business an' enjoy it same as you would a hunk o' mince pie. Why, them critters is so fond o' salt that if you should salt the four sides of your hunting shanty from the ground to the roof they'd eat it down over your head and not leave a splinter to mark where it stood! They don't mind a man, or twenty men, if there's a salt barrel, or a barrel that's had salt pork in it, anywhere in camp, and they'll fight like littledevils to get at it as long as one of 'em is alive.

"Look at the time me and Bill Bent was campin' over at 'Tater creek in Newcom's lumber shanty. One night we was woke up by somethin' trampin' over us, an' I knowed in a minute it was porcupines.

"'Lay still, Bill,' says I, 'till they git over, for if you rise up they'll make a pincushion out o' you.'

"So we laid still till more'n twenty porcupines had walked over us. They came from all directions, and got in the shanty through some big cracks on the sides.

"'It's that old pork barrel in the corner that they're after,' says I; but as we didn't care to have the tarned quill drivers foolin' round there all night, we went at 'em with our axes, and fit 'em till we killed every one. Next day we battened up all the cracks in the shanty. Another drove o' porcupines come along next night, and findin' no place to get in, begun to chaw their way in. Bill got up an' was fur mowin' 'em all down agin, but I told him to let 'em alone.

"'Let's jest see what they'll do anyhow,' says I.

"I wouldn't dast tell you how short a time it took fer them salt-crazy porcupines to chaw holes in that shanty big enough to let 'em in, but if you should guess ten minutes you'd be too high. They come a-rattlin' in, an' I poked up the fire so's we could see what they was goin' to do. They didn't pay no more attention to me an' Bill than if we hadn't been there, but scrambled over to the corner where the empty pork barrel was, an' sot to work at it. In less than an hour they had eat the barrel up, staves, hoops, an' all, an' then turned to an' chawed up a couple o' boards near the bar'l, a lot o' brine havin' been spilled on 'em some time. Then the drove scampered out o' the shanty same as they came in, except that they took with 'em a tol'able good-sized load o' lumber they had lunched on."

English Saddles Declared Better.

A Christiania, Norway, firm that sells American bicycles writes to Hardware, saying that Norwegians consider the saddles of most American bicycles less comfortable than those of English wheels.

Soft Jobs.

They have just discovered in France that though the palace of the Tuileries was destroyed twenty-six years ago, four officials charged with the preservation and care of the palace still hold office and draw their salaries.

"For some years I was quite out of health, and took much medicine which did me no good. I was advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla which I did, taking a dozen or more bottles before stopping. The result was that I felt so well and strong that I, of course, think there is no medicine equal to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I take great pains to tell any suffering friend of it and what it did for me."—Mrs. L. A. Murray, Kilbourn, Wis., Feb. 11, 1896.

Aged Farmer Killed.

One day last week William Romine, an aged farmer, was knocked off the approach to the iron bridge that spans Loss Creek one mile east of Carbon Hill by a west bound freight train and instantly killed. The deceased was about 80 years old. He was sitting on the track and did not move until the engine signaled, and then was hit before he could get out of the way.

Deceased was a good citizen and had lived in the country over fifty years.

May Lease Its Convicts.

Justice Coleman, of the supreme court, recently rendered a decision in the Birmingham convict lease case, reversing the decision of Circuit Court Judge Banks, which declared the lease of the city of Birmingham prisoners to the Sloss Iron & Steel company for work in the coal mines unconstitutional. Under Justice Celeman's decision the habeas corpus of Powell, the prisoner who brought the suit, is dismissed, and the lease with the Sloss company holds good. The convicts, as the result, will go back to the mines.

The Lane-Oates Case.

At Huntsville the case of the state against Charles P. Lane, editor of the Huntsville Tribune, for blackmailing Governor Oates, was practically disposed of last week. Ex-Governor Oates was present and coached the prosecution. One ground of the demurrer was sustained. Governor Oates then arose and suggested to the court that a nolle prosse be entered, to which Solicitor Richard Lowe agreed. Judge Richardson, attorney for Lane, objected, saying a jury and verdict of not guilty was the least the defendant would accept. The defendant gave bond and will await the future action of some grand jury.

Sets Out 23,000 Potato Plants.

M. L. Funkhauser, a practical farmer who recently located near Tuscumbia from Maryland to spend two years in farming, during which time he will make a careful and thorough test of the lands in this immediate section of the South, and if pleased with permanently locate in the South and probably be the means of securing a number of other farmers from his state to locate here, is sweet potato planting on a large scale. With the assistance of four hired men and fourteen boys one day last week, he pulled, puddled and planted 23,000 sweet potato plants, giving to each a pint of water, besides preparing and fertilizing the ground. Already he has set out 65,000 plants this season, and will plant as many more. If successful, next fall he will ship his crop to Northern and Eastern markets. He is also testing the growth of upland rice, and holds to the opinion that rice can be raised to profit in Northern Alabama. Mr. Funkhauser is a gentleman of considerable financial means and has the best and most modern farm machinery of all kinds.

Bankers' Association.

The eighth annual session of the Alabama Bankers' Association which was held in Birmingham last week was largely attended.

It was decided to memoralize the Alabama delegation in congress to work for the reduction of taxation on circulation, and that the national banks be allowed to issue legal tender at the par value of the bonds. It was also determined to refer both of these matters to the National Bankers' association. On motion it was decided to bring to the attention of the next legislature the need of a bank supervisor and a system of state bank supervision in Alabama.

At the afternoon session officers were elected as follows: President, J. B. Cobbs, Birmingham; vice-president, F. S. Moody, Tuscaloosa; secretary and treasurer, T. O. Smith, Birmingham. President Cobbs appointed the following executive committee: Gen. T. A. Rucker, H. S. Earl and B. T. Stevens, Birmingham; R. M. Green, Opelika, and Gen. J. W. Whiting, Mobile. The following committee was appointed to visit the National Bankers' association and urge the memorial adopted at the morning session: Gen. J. W. Whiting, Mobile; B. Steiner, Birmingham; W. R. Rison, Huntsville.

The local bankers tendered the visiting bankers a banquet at the Morrison.

The Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church South concluded its nineteenth annual session at Birmingham last Thursday and adjourned to meet next year in Greensboro, N. C. Mrs. S. C. Trueheart, foreign secretary, made a final report of the committee on extension of work. It carried appropriations of $15,500 for Brazil and $5,500 for the Indian Territory. Total, $23,200. Bishop A. W. Wilson of the Baltimore conference made a brief address, congratulating the board on its work.

A Speedy Trial Assured.

The negro woman implicated in the Decatur assault reached Huntsville Saturday at 2 o'clock a.m. by private conveyance from Athens, Ala., twenty-five miles away. She was intercepted there by officers from Decatur, who knew it would be at the peril of her life to be carried there. She was arrested in Nashville at the home of Dr. Stubblefield, where she was employed.

A newspaper correspondent visited the jail Saturday morning and interviewed her, Lewis Thompson and Walter Neville. They all stoutly deny knowledge of the crime.

The woman gave her name as Rose Buford; says she was born in Giles county, Tennessee, and is 19 years old. She is rather under the average in size and much above the average in intelligence. She worked with Mr. Lawton one year in Decatur. Lewis Thompson is a burly looking young man, rather heavy set. He makes all kinds of contradictory statements in regard to the charge and shows guilt in every expression. He says he is only 18 years old. He says it has been three months since he was at Lawton's house. He says Walter Neville is his partner.

Walter Neville is a more intelligent looking young negro, 16 years old. He talks freely. Proof of their guilt is positive and it is believed one or more of them will confess.

Judge Speake has issued an order for a special term of court to try them.

TAKEN TO BIRMINGHAM.

Capt. Ledbetter, in charge of the state troops, was ordered by the Governor Saturday to return to Birmingham by first train with the criminals, only the officials being notified. As the soldiers began to break camp the crowd began to assemble, and when the prisoners were marched out and manacled, and placed in a carriage and driven to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis passenger depot a great crowd followed.

FULL OF PATRIOTISM.

President McKinley is Given an Enthusiastic Reception at Nashville.

President McKinley and party arrived in Nashville at 8 a. m. Friday and were escorted to the Maxwell house by a squad of mounted ex-Confederate soldiers in uniform.

Arriving at the Maxwell house, the party breakfasted, and at 10 o'clock Governor Taylor, of Tennessee, and Governor Bushnell, of Ohio, called upon the president.

Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman, president of the Woman's Board of the Exposition, also called upon the president and Mrs. McKinley and party.

Leaving the hotel at 11 o'clock the distinguished guests arrived at the Exposition grounds three-quarters of an hour later.

The streets along the route were densely crowded, and many houses were beautifully decorated in honor of the occasion.

A detachment of Confederate veterans acted as a guard of honor for the president.

While the procession was on its way a salute of forty-five guns was fired. Entering the Exposition gates the party proceeded to the Auditorium, under an escort of the Centennial Guards.

Exactly at noon President McKinley walked down the main aisle. On his arm was the stately Mrs. Van Leer Kirkman, President of the Woman's Board.

The president was greeted with hearty cheers, and so were Secretaries Sherman, Alger, Gary, Wilson and the other distinguished guests and their accompanying ladies.

Mrs. McKinley, much to the regret of every one, did not feel equal to the heat and stress, and remained in her room at the hotel.

President McKinley made the address of the occasion, of course, speaking half an hour.

THE STATE NORMAL AT FLORENCE, THE BEST IN THE SOUTH.

JAS. K. POWERS, President.

Dr. Mayo to Governor Johnston.

Dr. A. D. Mayo, of Boston, spent a month last spring in visiting the several institutions of learning in Alabama. The following extracts are from a letter to Gov. Johnston under date May 8, 1897.

"During the past 17 years I have visited every State Normal College in the 16 Southern States.

* * * * * *

"I can honestly say that in all my experience in the South, I have seen no State Normal which seems to me to have more completely grasped the true idea of that style of school or more completely carried it out than the one at Florence. * * * * *

"I have never seen in any State so much good work done for so small a sum of money as I see here at the State Normal at Florence."

THE ULTIMATUM

Will Soon be Sent to Spain by President McKinley.

HEAVY ACCOUNTS TO SETTLE.

The Note Which is Being Prepared Under the Direct Instruction of the President Will Assert that Spain Has Failed to Comply With Its Treaty Obligations.

President McKinley is preparing an ultimatum to Spain. In consequence of the report of Consul General Lee, at Havanna, bearing on the Ruiz matter, in which Spain is held responsible for the death of the American dentist, intense interest centers upon the document.

This message will cover the whole ground. Judge Day, Assistant Secretary of State, has the work under his personal supervision. The report of Mr. Calhoun has made no material change in the wording or purpose of the ultimatum. The information which he brings is in the nature of cumulative and confirmatory evidence. Together with other reports of a statistical and informatory character, it will be attached to the dispatch as an appendix.

The note has now been in course of preparation for several weeks. Every incident and precedent of diplomacy bearing on the question of beligerency, the recognition of independence and the preservation of treaty guarantees, has been collated and embodied.

Senor De Lome has been officially informed of the attitude of the administration and its contemplated purpose of sending a note offering mediation on the basis of the independence of the island with the payment of an indemnity. He has replied very adroitly that Spain would not consider such a note as an unfriendly act, but would give careful consideration to its contents. This reply is not to be construed, however, as indicating a purpose to accept the offer.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal outlines, in advance, the ultimatum, as follows:

The note will inform Spain that it is written under the direct instruction of the President. It will then go into details. The first representation will be:

That Spain has lost control of the Island of Cuba.

Under this head will be grouped all the evidence proving the existence and maintenance of a successful rebellion. The sections and areas controlled by the Cuban insurgents and the Spanish will be estimated and contrasted. The note will then assert:

That Spain has failed and is impotent to protect the laws and property of American citizens.

The tale of destruction, death and disaster under this head is a heavy one. The reports of Consul General Lee, the American Consuls, and the various affidavits of American citizens will be appended as exhibits, together with a review of the claims already filed.

The third point is very grave:

Spain has failed to comply with its treaty obligations.

Every instance in which an American has been illegally arrested and confined will be adduced. The cold array will make a heavy account to liquidate.

Under these three heads will be arranged the reasons why the United States now offers mediation. These facts are not suggested, but asserted. Following these statements the report will become argumentative.

First—It will go into the reasons why Spain cannot subdue the rebels. The fact that Spain is powerless to pacify the insurgents and potent only to starve and annihilate some thousands of innocent pacificos, will be exposed in plain but diplomatic phrases.

Second—The note will suggest the effects naturally flowing from the recognition of either beligerency or independence of the Cubans. An intimation will be given that if the United States is forced to recognize the independence of Cuba the island will take its place and rank, immediately and by that very act, in the family of American nations. From and after that moment Spain will be an intruder, striving to force servitude on a people protected by the Aegis of the American policy. This portion of the note deals with a clear enunciation of a recognized principle. When the text is made public it will be considered as a notable declaration of one phase of the Monroe doctrine. It will be no enlargement of the present policy, but a lucid explanation of its adaptability to present circumstances.

Third—The United States will then offer its good offices as a mediator. Two points will be relied upon to carry conviction to Spain. Under present conditions if Cuba succeeds as a recognized belligerent, or through the fit or direct intervention of the United States in gaining independence, Spain will be unable to saddle upon her any of the present bonded Spanish debt.

It will be urged that if Spain accedes to the mediation of the United States an equitable and proper division of the burden of the war can be made. An indemnity is to be paid by Cuba, to be determined by arbitral methods, if such be necessary, and large enough to cover a fair valuation of Spanish property in Cuba, or to offset the proportion of Spanish bonds now paid out of Cuban revenues.

The Sultan is Serene.

At a recent conference of the ambassadors at Costantinople for the discussion of the terms of peace Tewfik Pasha was present, armed with positive instructions to persist in the retention of Thessaly given him by the sultan personally. Being in possession, the porte, it was argued, was able to wait patiently and even indefinitely while discussing point after point with the powers. It was also decided to continue actively the preparations for war.

THE CURE OF DIABETES.

A Case Successfully Treated in Madison County, N. Y.

From the Press, Utica, N. Y.

On the recommendation of Mr. William Woodman, of South Hamilton, New York, that Mr. Amos Jaquays, a resident of Columbus Centre, New York, be interviewed regarding his extraordinary recovery from advanced kidney trouble, embracing diabetes in its worst form, Mr. Jaquays was visited and willingly made the accompanying statement:

"I am fifty years of age, and five years ago began to suffer with pains in the back and weakness in the region of the kidneys, and had a tremendous flow of urine. Strange to say my appetite increased to an extraordinary degree, but instead of giving me strength my food seemed to make me weaker and thinner, and I was terribly constipated. My mouth was pasty, I had continuous heartburn and pain across the lower part of my stomach and frequent vomiting. Indeed all or nearly all my functions became impaired, my sight was dim, memory deserted me, and life became irksome. I consulted the best medical talent in the county, and they all diagnosed my case as sugar diabetes in its most aggravated form, but gave me no relief whatever. At last I was in such a desperate condition that a council of physicians was called but their good offices did me no good, and I looked forward to death with satisfaction as the only relief I could expect.

"My old friend, William Woodman, about this time came to visit me, and from him I first heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which he declared had cured him of rheumatism, with which he had suffered all his life, and he believed they would do me good, as he had read of a case of diabetes being cured by their use. I believe it was next day after Mr. Woodman's visit that Mr. F. Hyde, of South Hamilton, New York, called on me, and I was told by him that Pink Pills had saved his life and he advised me by all means to try them.

"This settled the question and I at once began a course of home treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Within a week the medicine began to do its work, the constipation was relieved, my skin, which had been dry and hard, assumed its normal feel and appearance, I no longer had the insufferably bad taste in my mouth, and though still weak and almost helpless, the pain in my back and kidneys began to abate, and the flow of urine decreased. But I was far from health, and built very few hopes on permanent cure, though I continued to take the pills constantly for the next year and a half, growing slowly but surely during that time better and better. Then I began to reduce the daily dose, and kept mending until six months ago, when I discontinued them, and I was entirely cured.

"I am still subject to cold which is apt to settle in my kidneys, and always keep Pink Pills by me, as they bring me round very quickly. In all, I have, I believe, taken fifty boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and shall never be without them as long as I have half a dollar. I have recommended them to all my suffering friends, and they seem to be good for any disorder of the system as they have never failed to do their work in any case that I know of, and some were pretty low.

"I certify the above statement to be true in every particular, and if I commanded stronger language, I should use it in praising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"Amos Jaquays."

Mr. Jaquays is a highly respectable and well-to-do farmer and builder, and highly connected in Madison County.

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppression, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing-down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BICYCLE EXCITEMENT.

BENJ. S. LOVELL, Treas. Lovell Arms Co.

The greatest sensation of the season in the bicycle market has been occasioned by four of the leading manufacturers combining to protect the retail trade from being imposed upon by agents and others who have no reputation to lose, as bicycle dealers. This combination, of which John P. Lovell Arms Co. are the moving spirits, have forced down the price of high grade wheels so that there is now no reason why a cyclist should ride anything but a first class, guaranteed wheel, and at prices far from the nameless and unguaranteed wheels. There is considerable opposition to this combination on the part of those who handle low grade wheels, but the public will be the winners, thanks to the Lovell Arms Co. A catalogue of our regular bicycle stock and a special list of wheels issued by the Big Four Combination mailed free on application.

ELASTIC CURRENCY.

THE BONDHOLDERS JUGGLE WITH WORDS.

Old Salon Chase, of Maine, Shows That the Talk of Moneylenders About Elastic Currency Is Meaningless Blood Sucking System.

(By Salon Chase, of Maine.)

As to elastic currency, "sound" enough to satisfy the money lender is an impossibility. The bondholder's idea of sound money is a growing dollar—a dollar that is better today than it was yesterday—a dollar that takes a streak of fat on year to year.

A currency that is worth more to keep than to part with cannot be elastic. It is a currency that was elastic in 1880 now like cast iron. Since 1880 the "best money in the world" has been growing better and better from year to year until now a dollar that is the "equivalent" of gold is worth more to owe than a dollar's worth of anything else. The money lender has all the confidence in the world in the "equivalent of gold," but has no confidence in houses and barns. The money lender now demands two or three times as much property security for money that is the "equivalent of gold" as he did in 1880 for money that was then the "equivalent of gold." The "existing gold standard" grinds slow and grinds fine, but the producers share in the bran, and the flour goes into the money lenders' bag. Under the effect of the "existing gold standard" the dollar that is now paid for interest on a fifteen-year-old bond has doubled in purchasing power since the bond was issued. The gold dollar has the same fineness and weight as fifteen years ago, but you have got to hang twice as much hog on the hook to balance the hook as fifteen years ago.

More money of the sort we now have would not mend matters so long as the blood sucking gold standard is maintained. More silver or paper money on a gold basis would only increase the strain on gold and shrink the assets of the debtor. The producer, who for the last fifteen years has paid his debts with rising money and sold his goods in a falling market until bankruptcy stares him in the face, would be sold out for a song, and the savings of a lifetime wiped out from no fault of his own. More credit or token money that appreciates along with gold would only add to the idle millions that are now seeking investment in securities that are backed by the power to tax the people. In 1880 the "best money in the world" was elastic; now the "best money in the world" is seeking bonds or hold in idle hoards, because the people who own the productive property of the country are not regarded as solvent borrowers. The producer's property has shrunk so much that the money lender don't want to touch it. When the dollars the honest producer owes have grown so large and his assets have shrunk so much that he cannot pay his debts, the finger of scorn is pointed at him. The money lender jumps on, and the Shylock who can get what little the debtor has left for the least money is considered the smartest Shylock.

If when the business of the bankrupt producer is wound up, the money lender don't get so many dollars as he loaned he feels that his loss is greater because dollars have "growed" so much since he loaned the money and now he has no confidence in houses and barns or in cattle and corn, and seeks investments that are backed by law. In this line Shylock has a fair field. The American cities under the "existing gold standard" have increased their debts during the last seven years 50 per cent and there are plenty of city bonds in the market and they go like hot cakes because the bondholder has a lien on the multitude and expects to get the growth of the dollar. When the farmer feeds corn to his cattle he expects to get the growth of them "steers." Dollars don't eat hay. But when dollars grow the bondholder lays in the shade while the farmer sweats in the meadow beneath a July sun and the city bondholder takes the hay after it is put in the farmer's barn.

Is any wonder that our currency is not elastic? The wonder is that anybody would expect that an elastic currency can be devised based on a dollar that is taking on a streak of fat from year to year. When there is confidence that the dollar that is borrowed on time will be as good as the dollar demanded in payment when the debt becomes due our currency will be elastic. I have no confidence in four cent hogs but I have both confidence in the four cents. The western farmer has no confidence in two cent corn. The owners of the important mills of New England have no confidence in two cent calico but they have confidence in the two cents because two cents will command more of human sacrifice today than one year ago.

There is no confidence in anything but money, because money is rising, and that is the reason our currency is not elastic, and bunches up in the money centers as the caterpillars bunch up on the bodies of the apple trees after they have stripped the leaves from the limbs. The tree of industry planted in the heart of the American continent, with its limbs reaching from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate and from the blizzards of Dakota to the land of the olive and the orange, is withering and dying because Shylock is eating its leaves the same as the caterpillars eat the leaves on the apple trees. After we open our mints to silver at 16 to 1 the money lender will stop eating the leaves on the tree of industry; we will cut off the dead limbs and feed the roots; his interest will be the same as the people's interest; his appetite for bonds will not be so strong as now. The best money in the world, that has been rising for the last fifteen years, would fall and hogs would rise. The dollar of today would be as good as the dollar of tomorrow, and maybe a "leetle" mite better. That is all that is needed to give our currency the much desired element of elasticity.

EPIGRAMS FROM "EQUITY."

A mortgage on a farm is usually a sign of prosperity—to the mortgage holder.

The man who presents falsehoods in defense of truth injures the cause he would aid.

A mortgage on a newspaper plant often has a great influence on the political opinions of the editor.

The man who waits to advocate a reform until it becomes popular shows that he loves popularity more than the right.

From the amount of "protection" the sugar trust demands, one might be led to suppose it was a "sweet young thing."

People who are too indolent to study the problems of the day often assume a superior moral tone to cover their indolence.

Prosperity cannot come to the masses while those who profit by the adversity of the masses retain the reins of government.

There was never a job for the benefit of plutocracy lobbled through congress or legislature that was not labeled as a bill for the relief of the people.

When men like John Wanamaker declare that there is revolution in the air it is evident that the political heavens are growing dark.

If men will not allow other men to work for bread they should not complain at having to furnish bread for those whom they will not allow to work.

Waiting for the Wave.

You told us that a billow of prosperity would flow—
A mighty wave—across the land from Maine to Mexico;
That the mills would all be opened and lost confidence restored,
And the banks would "loosen up" their grip upon the golden hoard.
We are testing now the virtue of the "golden cure" to save,
And are waiting, waiting, waiting,
calmly waiting for the wave.

You said the glorious flag of thrift, at once would be unfurled,
And wave again in gladness o'er the reconstructed world;
That hope's effulgent beams would shine in flood of living light,
And raven-winged despair would take her everlasting flight.
That these grand things would happen,
you your solemn promise gave,
And now we're waiting, waiting, calmly
waiting for the wave.

Yes, all these things would happen,
we were confidently told,
If we'd vote for Buckeye Billy and the single standard gold.
But now we're on our uppers from tramping through the streets,
In search of work, to earn wherewith to buy our bread and meat.
We voted as you said we should, in hopes the way to pave
To better times, and now we're sadly
waiting for the wave.

We've been waiting, waiting, patiently,
for lo, these many days,
And watching for the rosy dawn to greet our anxious gaze,
Till our wardrobes are depleted, and our larders running low,
And the interest on the mortgage due,
and we are out of "dough,"
But hope deferred will drive us prematurely to the grave,
If we have to wait much longer for the coming of the wave.

—J. W. DUTTON.

Would Rush for Employment.

Suppose the government should announce its intention to build a railroad from New York to San Francisco and call for laborers to do the work, at the same time giving notice that all help would be paid with a new issue of government paper money. What a rush for employment would follow! And why shouldn't this be done? The people need cheaper transportation; everybody, except the money lenders, recognizes the need of more money, and that thousands of unemployed men anxious to work are scattered all over the country can not be denied. What a great blessing to the people of the United States such action would bring! —Missouri World.

Take Heart.

Take heart! The promised hour draws near—
I hear the downward beat of wings,
And Freedom's trumpet sounding clear:
"Joy to the people!—woe and fear
To new-world tyrants, old world kings!"

—Whittier.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

AND OPERATION OF THE NATURAL MONOPOLIES.

Senator Butler Discusses Public Utilities Question from the Populist Party Standpoint—Position Is That of Reason and Common Business Principles.

(By Senator Butler, of North Carolina, Populist.)

The question whether such public services as lighting by gas or electricity, and street car transportation and the furnishing of water to every household should be intrusted to private corporations or controlled directly by the municipalities, is one that is attracting a great deal of attention. The principle of municipal ownership of these natural monopolies is one that is steadily growing in favor in every quarter of the union. To have pure water furnished at a low cost; to have good gas or electric lighting facilities furnished at reasonable rates and extended to every quarter of the city; to have prompt and efficient street car service at a cost not greater than it costs to furnish the service, are three questions that concern every resident of a town or city as vitally, if not more so than any other three questions pertaining to city government. To have these important services cheap and efficient is not only of vital concern to those who live in a city, but is the best possible advertisement and inducement to bring desirable additions to a city's population and business enterprises. That these important functions, supplying vital necessities to a city's welfare, should be put in the hands of two or three private monopolies, often foreign capitalists will use these monopolies with a view solely to their own profit, is unbusinesslike, to say the least—it is worse than that, it is folly, it is suicidal. As a rule the cost of these necessities can be reduced upon an average more than one-half over the entire country, and each city furnish the people a better and more reliable service.

Nearly every city today where private monopolies hold these important functions and franchises would change at once to municipal ownership if a majority of the citizens could express their will and have it enforced. The fatal mistake is made when a city grants these franchises to a private monopoly. At once the monopoly wrings from the public enormous profits to control the city elections and city government. Soon the people find that they can not elect any man for mayor, councilman, or alderman unless he is a man too friendly to the interests of these private monopolies. The money and monopoly will proceed to rule the cities—the voice of the people will be defeated, if not drowned and hushed.

A few days ago while the writer of this article was in New York attending the Grant monument exercises, he was very much impressed with the inefficiency of the car service of that great metropolis. He asked a citizen of the city why there was no electric or cable street car lines instead of here and there an antequated horse car line, to help the elevated roads to move the great surging mass of humanity to be seen in that city every day. He pointed to the elevated railroads and said: "They will not allow it." I then asked him if cable and electric companies had built surface roads and gotten established first if they would have elevated roads. He said "no; if the cable and electric road had been built and they had grown strong enough to control the city government then we would have no elevated roads. They would not desire any competition, and would want all the business themselves, and what of the public they could not accommodate, might suffer and walk and go unaccommodated."

This tells the whole story. A city foolingly grants an important public franchise that concerns every citizen to a private corporation. The franchise is a monopoly, and then corporation becomes a monopoly and use the franchise not for the public interest except as the street interest can be served to put money into the pockets of the private corporations. Of course the private corporation uses its monopoly to make immense profits and then uses these profits to control the city elections and city government: and thus we have the spectacle of street railroads, gas and electric plants and water works running the city in the interest of the private owners of the public franchises instead of the city running these important functions in the interest of the city and its citizens. There is but one remedy to give the people justice and to purify politics; and that is for the city to own and operate these public franchises. Surely if reason, common sense and common business principles are to be observed, soon these reforms must come in every city. Thus it will be seen that the principles of the People's party apply to the welfare and interests not only of the farmers and country population, but applies also equally strong to the welfare and interest of the residents of our towns and great cities. In short, the principles of the People's party must be applied to insure the people good government in the nation, in the state, and in every local and city municipality in the nation. The people will suffer until it comes.

The Refuge of the Ignoramus.

"Over-production" is the first and last refuge of the ignoramus who tries to convince himself and others that our monetary system has nothing to do with present prices of farm products.—Farm, Stock and Home.

PROGRESS IN POLITICS.

Municipal ownership will enter largely into the coming mayoralty contests in this city, says the Twentieth Century of New York. The Platt and Strong administrations, that have posed as reform ones, have made the name odious, and further masking of wolves in sheeps' clothing will scarcely work. It requires no argument to convince an honest man that the value created by a community belongs to the community. Therefore, the holding of a franchise by a corporation, or an individual, is theft, because the community alone can give it value, which value belongs, collectively, to all, individually to none. Now, the issues before the people are simple. There is no chance to get mixed up on them, although the mud-throwers will, no doubt, be actively set to work to make them as obscure as possible. Whether the political ring shall rule the city, for its own benefit, or whether the people are ready to take control of their own affairs, at least to a limited extent, is now the question. The party that makes its platform simply the public ownership of public franchises, no matter under what name it sails, should command the support of every voter. Let the political vultures and their clients, the corporation magnates howl as they will; a people knowing their rights, and determined to have them, can win in spite of them.

Senator Allen introduced a resolution expressing sympathy with Greece in her heroic and patriotic struggle against the tyrannous and oppressive Turks. The bond-holders and usurers of Europe are on the side of Turkey in this fight against Christianity and liberty. They care more for their profits from Turkish bonds than they do for justice, humanity and religion. The resolution was reported to the committee on foreign relations.

Six years ago only 20 cities of the United States owned their electric-lighting plants; now the number has reached 150, and in no case can it be said that municipalization was not a success.

Senator Foraker has a pooling bill in congress, and Vice President Hobart is a member of the board of directors in the railroad trusts. That looks like a cinch, and the railroads have little cause for worry. Senator Chandler is fighting the dragon of trusts. What help can be given him should be forthcoming, says the Grand Rapids Workman. The Federation of Labor, boards of trade and commerce should speak, and at once.

There are 71 chartered cities in Michigan and 69 of them have electric light plants, of which 22 are owned by the cities themselves. Of the 29 cities having gas plants, 3 own them; and of the 69 having water plants, 52 are owned by the municipality. Of the 79 villages having electric light, 24 own their plants.

The currency question is absorbing the public attention in Ohio, and the common herd are beginning to understand that it is not the tariff but the free coinage of silver that will inaugurate an era of good times.—Ex.

The Cuban republic is now to have money of its own, a million silver dollars being in process of mintage. "Patriotic" New York capitalists will advance $10,000,000 if necessary for the purpose, taking Cuban guaranties to "make it right" when Cuban independence is acknowledged. This shows two things: Capitalist belief that Cuba is sure to win; and that Cuba is already at the mercy of the money sharks who always make patriotism pay well in dollars and cents.

COMING TRANSFORMATION.

John J. Ingalls and William T. Stead Have Seen the Signs.

The American working people have had an easier—or rather a less onerous—time than their foreign brothers in Europe, it is true; but do not doubt that we are surely, even rapidly, approximating their methods of existence Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls, of Kansas, said, on Jan. 14, 1891, in speaking of the plutocratic evolution:

"But I cannot forbear to affirm that a political system under which such despotic power can be wrested from the people, and vested in the few, is a democracy only in name."

On page 362 of "If Christ Came to Chicago," William T. Stead said:

"The transformation is hidden from the multitude, because the coming despot eschews the tawdry tinsel of the crown; and liberty is believed to be as safe as, well, let us say, as the populace of Rome believed the republic to be when Julius Caesar refused the imperial purple. But everywhere the money power has the people by the throat. * * * The poor man is the servant of the rich, and at present stands in some danger of becoming his slave."—The Coming Nation.

Something Is Wrong.

Things look bad. All these great fortunes have been accumulated in the last thirty or forty years, and the world has never known anything like it. The poor and helpless seem to be increasing all the time. The moderately well off are falling among the poor, and the very rich are growing richer every day. Something is wrong, and it is time for the churches to find out what it is, and apply the remedies. The churches of this country have the numbers and the wealth to do it, but the trouble seems to be that the religion is dominated by the wealthy instead of the wealth by religion.—Dwight L. Moody.

NEARING A CRISIS.

RESENTMENT TOWARD ADMINISTRATION IS ALARMING.

The Rising Tide in Favor of "Bryandam" Likened Unto the Clamor for the States-General in 1789—Potency of the Ballot Threatened.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

It is very seldom indeed that the comments of English newspapers upon political affairs of the United States are informing or even intelligent, and of all the journalistic blunderers, the Saturday Review has been in the past the most persistent and consistent, because the most bigoted and prejudiced. Yet a recent issue of the Saturday Review contains an article on Mr. Bryan's book, "The First Battle," which is suggestive, because it is the opinion of a well informed and disinterested observer.

The title of the Saturday Review's article is "The Coming American Revolution." Speaking of the last presidential camgain, which Mr. Bryan commemorates in his book, it says:

"It was an event of profound historical significance from every point of view—political, social, ethical, international. There is no exaggeration in putting it among the great epoch-making occurrences, like the gathering of the States-General in May of 1789. Here in Europe we still see not much beneath its quaint and naive surface, which was undoubtedly both exciting and entertaining. But in America everything has been changed by it. Opinions and aspirations which lurked half formless in unnamed depths of the public consciousness a twelmonth ago, are now on top, familiar to all eyes and ears."

After a personal sketch of Mr. Bryan, which was evidently written by some one who has seen and observed him keenly, and who does not derive his impressions from the portraits in the book, the Saturday Review says: "Very likely Mr. Bryan would have made what even his enemies would call a good president—commonplace, perhaps, but reasonably conservative, and above all things scrupulously attentive to appearances." It then adds—and this is the most significant utterance in the article:

Mr. Mcinley was elected instead, and a brief month of his administration has carried the revolution forward as swiftly as the spring sunshine and showers are bringing forth the leaves and buds. * * * Where there were four Bryan men last summer, there are already five this summer, and there is discernible nowhere any reason for supposing that their increase will be checked on this side of the crucial year of 1900.

This shows that the growth of "Bryanism"—the increasing hold which the principles embodied in the Chicago platform are obtaining upon the American people—is impressing itself upon foreign observers as well as upon those who have the advantage (or is it a disadvantage?) of a closer point of view.

The above expressions from a leading English paper and a leading American paper are the first open ones that have so far been called to our notice. The meaning is very plain. The sad and terrible truth is that politically speaking the United States is resting as it were on a keg of dynamite. That prosperity fraud is bearing its legitimate fruits. The people are growing doubtful of the potency of the ballot. Prosperity must be produced if even at a late date. Otherwise it will be difficult to conduct the victims of a great fraud to another campaign. Class hatreds are becoming intense. Every Christian, every patriot should pray for the preservation of peace.

While writing the above our attention has been called to a leader in the Chicago Record of June 15. That paper is nothing if not conservative. Yet it sees that the time has come to warn the people of an impending crisis. Here is what it says: "There is today, however, call for an exhibition of patriotism of even a higher type than that manifested in rushing to the defense of country when attacked from without or threatened with armed rebellion from within. The foundations of government are subject to attack by foes more dangerous than a European army, because they work more insidiously. There are traitors in positions of public trust today whose treason is as harmful to the commonwealth as was that of Benedict Arnold in selling his country for British gold. The man who betrays a trust reposed in him by the people and disposes of public privileges for a private consideration is a traitor. The men of wealth who seek to secure from legislatures and city councils by corrupt means concessions to which they are not entitled are enemies of everything which the patriot holds dear.

"The time is opportune for revival of the old idea of the Fourth of July as a day for patriotic consideration of evils that threaten the country, and especially those that are manifestly in connection with the state and the municipality. The movement to establish a "new Fourth of July," which will simply mean the application to present day conditions of the spirit animating the framers of the declaration of independence, is worthy of sanction. The day should be set apart for the inculcation of patriotism of the aggressively honest type that looks upon "boodling" as treason and upon wealthy bribe-givers as dastardly enemies to the commonwealth."

The Labor Exchange entering our present dry rot industrial system is like a fresh stream or shower entering a stagnant pool, yet it arouses and awakens all the latent energy, genius and ingenuity in man. The lady with a natural tact for painting will find a place for her product at the exchange at all times, the blacksmith or carpenter can make something useful all the year round and find a place for his product. The natural tendency of our competitive system built up the Labor Exchange. The "small fry" manufacturer who is driven out can at once fall in with the Labor Exchange and all the syndicates on earth cannot drive him out, as he and his laborers produce, for what they consume to live and use in raw material, being independent of the large corporations. Wages and Farm Products.

Since the beginning of the year the cutting of wages has gone on with dreary and pathetic monotony, which was not broken or interrupted by that national red-letter day—March 4. But this ought to surprise no one, and least of all those whose wages are cut. A majority of our people declared at the last election that the policy of low prices was the correct one, and should become the established policy of the country. Wage earners were told, and myriads of them believed it, that their interests lay in low prices for what they consumed, low-priced farm products, for instance, and now they must learn by experience that tariffs nor proprietors but the prices of farm products ultimately fix the wages of labor. If those prices must be as low as elsewhere in the world then must wages be correspondingly low.

Contingent.

"The labor question is a hard one, isn't it?" asked Russell Sage.

"That depends upon what you mean by hard," replied Jay Gould. [illegible]

QUEEN'S JUBILEE

Hundreds of Thousands Render Homage to Victoria.

A STUPENDOUS GATHERING.

London Crowded to Her Very Gates With Visitors From All the Countries of the World.—The Programme Covers Seven Days, Dating From Sunday.

A cable letter from London dated June 19, reads as follows: Never in the history of England has London so strikingly shown itself the heart of the world as it does tonight—the eve of the jubilee. At all times the busiest hive of the human race, tonight London is crowded to its uttermost door by a stupendous gathering of strangers representing nearly every race under the sun. The common object of this crowd—participation in the greatest historical pageant yet witnessed in the history of the British Empire—gives tone and complexion to every minute of time, to every thought and action. There is nothing in men's minds at this hour, from the highest prince in the palaces to the lowest sneak thief in the streets but the jubilee.

It is impossible to pass along any of the crowded thoroughfares without everywhere remarking the two predominant notes of the occasion, the world's desire to honor Queen Victoria and the proud wish of her subjects in doing so to impressively demonstrate the strength and vastness of the empire. The streets, hotels and stately mansions of the West End are crowded with the great who have already come to honor the Queen while barracks and bivouacs in and around the metropolis are thronged with soldiers in every uniform known to British administration—from the head-hunting Dyacks of the Berneo police, the mounted men of Australia, India and Africa, fort soldiers from the West Indies, Zaptichs from Cyprus to the stalwart representatives of military government under "Our Lady of the Snows." Suggestively it is a rare kaleidoscopic picture of races, men and creeds, a vivid panorama of the march of that empire upon which, as Daniel Webster said, the sun never sets. The air is alive with expectancy, thousands upon thousands of flags and banners float in the evening breeze, the decorations which have easily cost a million of English money are in place, myriads of lights are glowing or stand ready for their flames—London smiles in self-content.

THE QUEEN'S PROGRAMME.

The jubilee programme, to which Her Majesty has given her assent, covers the seven days, dating from Sunday, June 20, though all envoys are guests of the Queen until Monday, June 29. The programme began appropriately on Sunday—Ascension Day—the sixtieth anniversary of that fair June morning when, as day broke, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Lord Chamberlain announced to the hastily awakened princess that during the silent watches of the night the mantle of majesty had fallen upon her. The programme is as follows:

Sunday, June 20 (Ascension Day)—Morning: The Queen, with the more immediate members of the royal family, attended a solemn thanksgiving service at Frogmore. Official service for the Lords and Commons at St. Margaret's, Westminster. Official celebration at St. Paul's Cathedral for Her Majesty's judges, the Lord Mayor and corporation of London, Special Ascension Day service in every Church of England edifice throughout the world.

Monday, June 21—Her Majesty arrives at Buckingham Palace at 12:30 p. m. Afternoon: The Queen receives her imperial and royal guests. Evening: Royal full dress banquet at Buckingham Palace, followed by reception of the diplomatic corps.

Tuesday, June 22 (Queen's Day)—Morning: The procession to St. Paul's. Evening: Her Majesty rests. Second royal banquet at Buckingham Palace, the Prince of Wales presiding, followed by a state concert. Illumination of London and the empire. During the day celebration all over the world.

Wednesday, June 23 — Morning: The Queen receives addresses from the Houses of Parliament. Afternoon: The Queen attends the garden party at Buckingham Palace, for which 6,000 invitations have been issued. Home and foreign royalties attend Lord Salisbury's ball at the foreign office.

Thursday, June 24—Morning: In semi-state the Queen and Court go to Windsor. Her Majesty alights at Slough and, driving through Eton is received by the college boys. Evening: Banquet at Windsor Castle. The Queen reviews a torchlight procession of Eton boys.

Friday, June 25.—Afternoon: The Queen, with the Prince of Wales as inspecting officer, reviews the fire brigades of England. Evening: State banquet in St. George's hall, at which all imperial and royal guests will be present.

Saturday, June 26. — Afternoon: The Prince of Wales, on behalf of the Queen, reviews the fleet at Spithead. Evening: Illumination of the fleet.

THE BANNER,
Clanton, Ala.

THIS is Midsummer Day, the longest day in the year.

WE apologize to several of our correspondents this week, being obliged to hold over their communications on account of lack of space.

THE Masonic installation of officers at Jemison to-day was a pronounced success and an enjoyable day was spent by a large crowd. Our space and time being limited we defer details until next week.

HON. S. M. Adams, in a communication published in another part of the paper, voices a sentiment frequently expressed for the restoration of the Farmer's Alliance. Considering the large number of old Alliancemen who declare they are anxious to see the Alliance started up again, why does not some one make a move in that direction?

THE Georgians held a State convention on Tuesday to elect delegates to the Nashville conference. Sixty-six counties were not represented at all. Tom Watson and nearly every other prominent Populist in Georgia was not at the meeting. Alabama will not hold a State convention, and but few counties will send delegates to Nashville. What sort of a "conference" is it going to be?

THE energetic citizens of Clanton are moving steadily along to secure the crossing of the Atlanta and Selma air line at our town. They readily recognize the advantages to this section this road will be. We understand a right of way for the road can easily be secured right across the county. When it comes to business, Clantonians are hustlers, they would move a mountain if they took a notion to, and the mountain was not too big.

WE desire to call the attention of parents and others to the adv. of the University School, Clanton, which will be found in another column. The reputation established by the school makes it a very desirable one for young people to attend. Commencing July 12 the Principal will conduct a Business session of one month. This is an excellent opportunity for city young men to combine recreation with profit.

POSTMASTERS in Chilton county, these warm days, are perspiring. Clanton post office is exciting most interest, and it is generally expected that L. B. Pounds will get the appointment. At Maplesville, W. F. Foshee has been appointed. Mr. Foshee was conspicuous last Fall organizing the new Republican party in Chilton county in opposition to the old organization controlled by Col. Knox and Alex Wilson. We have heard of no Populist aspirants for postmasterships but we think there must be some who are willing to serve their country, and we suggest to Populists in every beat they select some good man and present a petition for his appointment. Now is the time to get in the applications.

Do any of the Republican statesmen imagine that they can distract attention from their internal and infernal domestic policy by bringing forward the mildewed old scheme of Hawaiian annexation?—N. Y. World.

My Loved Little Carey.

"Death loveth a shining mark." This has been forcibly illustrated in the death of little Cary Green. God has gathered to Himself one of His brightest jewels. A tiny bud has been plucked ere its petals had begun to unfold—no, not to unfold, for the little mind was too rapidly developing for the delicate little frame that enclosed it. We shall miss her in the school-room. She could rightly have been called little sunbeam, for she always brought brightness with her. I shall miss her, for to me she was ever a dutiful, obedient and loving little pupil. Her short life (only seven summers) has been well spent. I hope her influence may live, and her example be followed by many of her little schoolmates. She was a child of a most amiable and unselfish disposition. How often have I watched her upon the playground dividing her lunch with her little playmates, and when any disagreement arose among them I have seen her walk quietly into the schoolroom, and without a word of complaint pick up a book and begin to read. I shall often recall her standing by my side (that seemed to be her undisputed right and privilege, owing to her size) with her little face looking inquiringly up into mine to see if the reading of her class was meeting with my approval. She being a natural reader readily saw the mistakes made by others. Yes, we shall miss you, Cary, but as God in His all wise providence has seen fit to withdraw you from us we should submit and be resigned to His will, knowing that He doeth all things well, and that our loss will be your gain. We commend this precious thought, and it is all we have to commend, to the bereaved parents and loved ones.

Her loving Teacher,
Mrs. E. Y. McMORRIES.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery says, that last winter his wife was attacked with La Grippe and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottle at Dr. J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

Rest, wearied spirit, rest.
Your fight is o'er; your struggles cease.
In calm repose you lie so still,
Rest! And leave the affairs of men
To living men, to sorrowing, toiling men
Who fain would seek the sweet surcease
And respite from their toil.

A narrow mansion holds the frame
That you have left. No longer now
Do earthly cares restrain you here;
But free, so free you course the air
To find the place triumphant, made
And promised you by God Himself.

Oh, friends! Oh, brothers of the man!
A short sojourn within the summerland
Of peace he makes apart from you.
Then, when in death's firm grasp he lies
Remember he is victor, and the foe
Was conquered long before his time.
He dies, yet lives amongst us still
And speaks in mightier tones
Than living man has ever spoken yet.

Rest, wearied spirit, rest

NOTICE.

The State of Alabama, }
Chilton County, }
Commissioners' Court,
June Term 1897.

Notice is hereby given that the book of assessments for Chilton County for 1897 has been prepared and is now on file in this office for inspection, and that the court will sit on the 12th day of July 1897, to examine same and correct any errors therein.

This June 21, 1897.

R. M. HONEYCUTT,
Judge of Probate.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., June 23, 1897.

Eugene V. Debs in his opening address before the A. R. U. convention at Chicago on the 15th of June spoke of the impossibility of a labor organization holding together politically or keeping wages up to a living standard and advocated co-operation as the only salvation for the unemployed, or those whose wages have been reduced to the starvation point. He unfolded a plan for putting a hundred active organizers in the field at once with the hope that they could secure an enrollment of a million members, from whom an income could be collected sufficiently large to establish the co operative colony in that state which offers the best inducements. He urged that the movement be conducted soberly and with dignity, since it is an effort of honest men to support themselves and their families and not gotton up to attract attention or secure noteriety for leaders. Only honest and industrious men can secure membership in the proposed colony. Washington, Tennessee, Utah and Arkansas offer inducements for the colony.

Mr. Bryan's recent visit to New York was a continued ovation. He was urged to speak at Cooper Union where the workingmen met to discuss municipal ownership of steel railways and other public works, but was forced to decline owing to an engagement in Virginia on that date. He has also been invited to speak at Tammany Hall on July 4 which invitation he had to decline on account of an engagement in California July 5.

Incensed by the Chicago street railway bill by the Illinois legislature, Gov. Pingree of Michigan who is a republican by name only says: "If this were a matter of abstract discussion it would be of little consequence, but in the city of Chicago thousands of people are suffering for the ordinary necessities of life, while those who are supposed to protect their interests are selling them as heartlessly as though human liberty and life were but a mere commodity.

"I tell you that it wont do to sit down and try to gloss over these things. Campaign speeches and fourth of July orations will never replace the millions that corrupt legislatures have taken from the pockets of the people and handed over to corporate highwaymen. To-day we need something more than talk. We need plain vigorous action. I know that men are called anarchists for pointing out those conditions, but let me say this to you: The best patriots are not the men who are blind to abuses such as those practiced by the Illinois governor and legislature. The men who have the country's interests at heart are those who see these abuses and, seeing them try to apply the proper remedy. I believe that if all patriotic citizens would do this such disgraceful legislation as that recently enacted in Illinois would be outside the range of the possibilities."

Alleged members of the People's party in various states continue to issue calls for conventions to elect representatives to the Coxey-Van-Dervoort meeting at Nashville, Tenn., July 4. It is remarkable how many of these agitators and bolters were conspicuous in the service of the republicans last year.

The New York Journal publishes a statement based on a careful investigation of the business conditions of Ohio and reports the number of losses, failures, foreclosures and a schedule showing wage reductions that have occurred since Mr. McKinley's election. The showing is almost incredible. The wave of free silver that is just now sweeping over Ohio is astonishing and bids ill for the republicans in the Buckeye state.

The plutocratic press of the east is agitating the question of a new presidential residence being erected to take the place of the present "White House" which is dominated as "dilapidated" "old style," "small" and "unfit for the residence of the chief executive." The people of the west consider it good enough for the times.

Depression of Spirits

so common in summer-time, accompanied by loss of energy, lack of thought-power, means a deficient supply of nourishment. The vital force is lost. It isn't a question of muscle and sinew, but of resistance and endurance. At any age, but especially in youth, it involves the risk of lung disease. Loss of flesh and a cough are threatening signs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with the hypophosphites, meets these cases perfectly. It tones up, fattens and strengthens.

In Scott's Emulsion the taste of the oil is fully disguised, making it almost as palatable as milk.

Jemison, Ala., June 21, 1897.

Editor BANNER: I notice that the farmers are buying more on a credit this year than they have in quite a number of years. The mortgages given by farmers, i.e., the number of mortgages given this year, remind me of the year 1887. Those who will go with me back to that year will readily see similarity. In 1887 and 1897 in one particular to-wit, the giving of mortgages by the farmers, and the amount of goods bought on time, the people have already in this section taken up the amount that the merchants have agreed to furnish them. It is time the farmer should appreciate the help of his neighbor, but this credit system has always been expensive to those who buy on a credit. The merchant cannot afford to sell on time as cheap as he can for cash, but 10 cents for meat that can be bought for 5 and 6 cents is a big interest, and this interest is paid by those who are least able to bear it. When, oh when will the people learn to live at home. It seems that it is difficult for us to learn this all important lesson. But I well remember that in 1887 the same state of things existed that exists now, the people were in debt and mortgages were the currency and just about that time the organization of the farmers into the Alliance began t otake effect in this and other southern States, and the people began to discuss the question of mortgages and credit, and being organized and meeting together they resolved to buy less and to make an honest effort to check the onward march of debt and thereby save the interest that they were paying—and I wish to ask every Allianceman who may chance to read this, what was the result in three years? And I venture to write the answer, and I feel confident that many will join me when I say that in three years' time through and by the help of the Alliance the people had just about gotton out of debt and mortgages in this section were very few. Now, I know that the people can do this without organization, and I know also that there is no power in the form of law to drive the people in debt; but the experience of the past convinces me beyond a doubt that the very best method to encourage and help the farmer to improve his condition, is organization. I do not hesitate to say that the Farmers Alliance was the organization that encouraged and helped the people out of debt in the first three or four years of its existence in this State. But just as soon as the people became some what independent, the members of the Alliance began to say, "Well, I dont see that the Alliance is doing me any good and I believe I will quit paying dues and losing time with it," and this idea was pushed by the enemies of the Alliance for all it was worth, and finally we bid the Alliance good-by. We met the last time in our primaries, and I wish to remind the reader, and I have no doubt that he will be my witness when I say that the farmers are now just where they were in 1887. I believe that they can better their condition in the same way that they did ten years ago. It seems that it requires organization and co-operation and that alone will help the people to think and act together for each other's good. I believe now that the farmers could handle the Alliance much more to their interest than they did ten years ago. We could profit by our mistakes, and shun the breakers much better than we did in the past and some of us believe as firmly in the principles of that institution now as we ever did and I for one would be glad to see the organization revived. Will anyone second the motion?

S. M. ADAMS.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Editor BANNER: "Free Thinker" must be a queer fellow. His reply to my card indicates that he has nothing and wants nothing. He wonders if I have any vehicles as though he has none and that it would be astonishingly strange if I should have any. Again he wonders if it would not be better for me to be at home working for my family instead of traveling about, as though my family was in dire distress and that I should not travel to town, to mill, to post office to get my mail, nor even go to church or Sunday-school, but just stay at home and work for my family. It appears to me that if he was so industrious himself he ought to own a vehicle and not require his family to foot it every where they go. Then he would need a road, a good one, and would be willing to help keep it in good condition and would be ashamed that he had come out in public print and said, "I am one to say give us a chance to rid ourselves of road bondage and be free men the year round," and then adds, "success to the BANNER" at the same time the BANNER is pleading for good roads. I would like to know what he weans by "give us a chance to rid ourselves of road bodage and be free men." Well, I guess he pays no taxes and all the public get out of him is a little work on the public roads and I amagine the overseer has a tough job getting it. It might be a good plan to keep up roads by taxation and that perhaps would set "Free Thinker" completely free, i.e., if he pays no taxes. In conclusion I wish to say to Mr. F. T. that I have plenty of vehecles and every thing else my family needs except good roads. A man who loves good roads loves his family, his country, and his God.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House Burton, W., Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me; and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swolen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. THE BANNER,
Clanton, Ala.

This is Midsummer Day, the longest day in the year.

We apologize to several of our correspondents this week, being obliged to hold over their communications on account of lack of space.

The Masonic installation of officers at Jemison to-day was a pronounced success and an enjoyable day was spent by a large crowd. Our space and time being limited we defer details until next week.

Hon. S. M. Adams, in a communication published in another part of the paper, voices a sentiment frequently expressed for the restoration of the Farmer's Alliance. Considering the large number of old Alliancemen who declare they are anxious to see the Alliance started up again, why does not some one make a move in that direction?

The Georgians held a State convention on Tuesday to elect delegates to the Nashville conference. Sixty-six counties were not represented at all. Tom Watson and nearly every other prominent Populist in Georgia was not at the meeting. Alabama will not hold a State convention, and but few counties will send delegates to Nashville. What sort of a "conference" is it going to be?

The energetic citizens of Clanton are moving steadily along to secure the crossing of the Atlanta and Selma air line at our town. They readily recognize the advantages to this section this road will be. We understand a right of way for the road can easily be secured right across the county. When it comes to business, Clantonians are hustlers, they would move a mountain if they took a notion to, and the mountain was not too big.

We desire to call the attention of parents and others to the adv. of the University School, Clanton, which will be found in another column. The reputation established by the school makes it a very desirable one for young people to attend. Commencing July 12 the Principal will conduct a Business session of one month. This is an excellent opportunity for city young men to combine recreation with profit.

Postmasters in Chilton county, these warm days, are perspiring. Clanton post office is exciting most interest, and it is generally expected that L. B. Pounds will get the appointment. At Maplesville, W. F. Foshee has been appointed. Mr. Foshee was conspicuous last Fall organizing the new Republican party in Chilton county in opposition to the old organization controlled by Col. Knox and Alex Wilson. We have heard of no Populist aspirants for postmasterships but we think there must be some who are willing to serve their country, and we suggest to Populists in every beat they select some good man and present a petition for his appointment. Now is the time to get in the applications.

Do any of the Republican statesmen imagine that they can distract attention from their internal and infernal domestic policy by bringing forward the mildewed old scheme of Hawaiian annexation?—N. Y. World.

Alleged members of the People's party in various states continue to issue calls for conventions to elect representatives to the Coxey-Van-Dervoort meeting at Nashville, Tenn., July 4. It is remarkable how many of these agitators and bolters were conspicuous in the service of the republicans last year.

The New York Journal publishes a statement based on a careful investigation of the business conditions of Ohio and reports the number of losses, failures, foreclosures and a schedule showing wage reductions that have occurred since Mr. McKinley's election. The showing is almost incredible. The wave of free silver that is just now sweeping over Ohio is astonishing and bids ill for the republicans in the Buckeye state.

The plutocratic press of the east is agitating the question of a new presidential residence being erected to take the place of the present "White House" which is dominated as "dilapidated" "old style," "small" and "unfit for the residence of the chief executive." The people of the west consider it good enough for the times.

Depression of Spirits

so common in summer-time, accompanied by loss of energy, lack of thought-power, means a deficient supply of nourishment. The vital force is lost. It isn't a question of muscle and sinew, but of resistance and endurance. At any age, but especially in youth, it involves the risk of lung disease. Loss of flesh and a cough are threatening signs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with the hypophosphites, meets these cases perfectly. It tones up, fattens and strengthens.

In Scott's Emulsion the taste of the oil is fully disguised, making it almost as palatable as milk.

Jemison, Ala., June 21, 1897.

Editor Banner: I notice that the farmers are buying more on a credit this year than they have in quite a number of years. The mortgages given by farmers, i.e., the number of mortgages given this year, remind me of the year 1887. Those who will go with me back to that year will readily see similarity. In 1887 and 1897 in one particular to wit, the giving of mortgages by the farmers, and the amount of goods bought on time, the people have already in this section taken up the amount that the merchants have agreed to furnish them. It is time the farmer should appreciate the help of his neighbor, but this credit system has always been expensive to those who buy on a credit. The merchant cannot afford to sell on time as cheap as he can for cash, but 10 cents for meat that can be bought for 5 and 6 cents is a big interest, and this interest is paid by those who are least able to bear it. When, oh when will the people learn to live at home. It seems that it is difficult for us to learn this all important lesson. But I well remember that in 1887 the same state of things existed that exists now, the people were in debt and mortgages were the currency and just about that time the organization of the farmers into the Alliance began to take effect in this and other southern States, and the people began to discuss the question of mortgages and credit, and being organized and meeting together they resolved to buy less and to make an honest effort to check the onward march of debt and thereby save the interest that they were paying—and I wish to ask every Allianceman who may chance to read this, what was the result in three years? And I venture to write the answer, and I feel confident that many will join me when I say that in three years' time through and by the help of the Alliance the people had just about gotton out of debt and mortgages in this section were very few. Now, I know that the people can do this without organization, and I know also that there is no power in the form of law to drive the people in debt; but the experience of the past convinces me beyond a doubt that the very best method to encourage and help the farmer to improve his condition, is organization. I do not hesitate to say that the Farmers Alliance was the organization that encouraged and helped the people out of debt in the first three or four years of its existence in this State. But just as soon as the people became some what independent, the members of the Alliance began to say, "Well, I dont see that the Alliance is doing me any good and I believe I will quit paying dues and losing time with it," and this idea was pushed by the enemies of the Alliance for all it was worth, and finally we bid the Alliance good-by. We met the last time in our primaries, and I wish to remind the reader, and I have no doubt that he will be my witness when I say that the farmers are now just where they were in 1887. I believe that they can better their condition in the same way that they did ten years ago. It seems that it requires organization and co-operation and that alone will help the people to think and act together for each other's good. I believe now that the farmers could handle the Alliance much more to their interest than they did ten years ago. We could profit by our mistakes, and shun the breakers much better than we did in the past and some of us believe as firmly in the principles of that institution now as we ever did and I for one would be glad to see the organization revived. Will anyone second the motion?

S. M. Adams.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention The Banner and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Editor Banner: "Free Thinker" must be a queer fellow. His reply to my card indicates that he has nothing and wants nothing. He wonders if I have any vehicles as though he has none and that it would be astonishingly strange if I should have any. Again he wonders if it would not be better for me to be at home working for my family instead of traveling about, as though my family was in dire distress and that I should not travel to town, to mill, to post office to get my mail, nor even go to church or Sunday-school, but just stay at home and work for my family. It appears to me that if he was so industrious himself he ought to own a vehicle and not require his family to foot it every where they go. Then he would need a road, a good one, and would be willing to help keep it in good condition and would be ashamed that he had come out in public print and said, "I am one to say give us a chance to rid ourselves of road bondage and be free men the year round," and then adds, "success to the Banner" at the same time the Banner is pleading for good roads. I would like to know what he weans by "give us a chance to rid ourselves of road bodage and be free men." Well, I guess he pays no taxes and all the public get out of him is a little work on the public roads and I amagine the overseer has a tough job getting it. It might be a good plan to keep up roads by taxation and that perhaps would set "Free Thinker" completely free, i.e., if he pays no taxes. In conclusion I wish to say to Mr. F. T. that I have plenty of vehecles and every thing else my family needs except good roads. A man who loves good roads loves his family, his country, and his God.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House Burton, W., Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered, my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me; and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swolen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm, the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. On last Thursday our hearts were made sad indeed to witness the death of Mrs. Susie P. Dunlap wife of Mr. Tom Dunlap of Ehrman's mill, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Thacker. Mrs. Dunlap was born May 20, 1870, and died June 17, 1897. On Monday morning, the 14th, the death angel came and took her little babe, Rosa, born May 7, 1897, to dwell with Jesus in the realms of perfect bliss and on Thursday the Lord saw fit to again unite the mother and babe and the angel of death again visited the same family and this time the mother was called to come home. While the hearts of loved ones were breaking to give up this dearly beloved daughter, wife and mother, her soul was united to God who gave it but they weep not as those who have no hope for she had told them she was going and was perfectly conscious when the death angel came. She told them this is death and kissed her husband, father and mother and kissed them good-bye. She told her mother days before she when the last breath left her body she wanted her to shout for joy for she would be perfectly happy and with her Saviour.

A Railroad Official's Experience.

MR. EDWARD EDMONDS, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My heart troubled and pained me for 19 years. Shortness of breath was the constant and most common symptom. Intense, excruciating pain, generally followed any severe exertion. Faintness, hunger without any appetite; fluttering that made me clutch my breast, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall, were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I arose from a stooping posture quickly. Sleepless nights with their prostrating unrest were numerous and I could get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They gave me no relief. One of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I hope every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full details of my experience." EDW. EDMONDS.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. T. P. Lyon-Varner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Republic and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan. 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 9th of January 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was as solidly free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and thinking that those similarly afflicted should at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours

Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS" and tell you what it has done for me. I had rheumatism in every joint and fibre of my body and catarrh of the head for 10 years. I was so poorly that I could hardly walk or do anything and could not move without pain. I was so crippled that I had to give up my business for seven years and was faulty paralyzed in a good portion of my body. I had tried everything and Catarrh were incurable and I believed him. But now after using 5 DROPS for two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This is more than is claimed for it. At the time my Catarrh is most severe, and I have not had any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and palpitation are greatly relieved and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than ten pounds in flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw for rheumatism, who else it will cure for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It does not gripe, cramp or gripe but gently moves the bowels and relieves the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both children and mother.

Yours respectfully,
W. H. NELLEMS,
Peoria, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published across Mr. Nellems asking if his endorsement was genuine, and receiving this reply, which is the most wonderful

MR. J. J. WILSON.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published it. I testimonial just as I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The Scrofula did not pass me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, including myself, might know where and as you see, it did be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now months since I have felt any pain. Dr. W. Nellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

A New Missing Word Contest

THE CONTEST BEGAN JUNE 1---ENDS SEPT. 1

THE SENTENCE IS TAKEN FROM THE WORKS OF A STANDARD AUTHOR, AND IS AS FOLLOWS:

"We Have Not '_____' Enough, and Are Put to Very Awkward Shifts For Want of Some."

The book containing the sentence has been sealed and placed in the hands of Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of Constitution Publishing Company, who has it in a safety vault, and who will give it sealed to the committee that makes the decision on September 1st, 1897.

THIS CONTEST is the Fourth of a Series of Extraordinary Interest, NEARLY $4,000 in cash having been distributed in the three preceding Contests, the first of which was announced last November. In the first Contest, ending Jan. 1st, Mr. M. L. Brittain was the only person to supply the correct word of the sentence then announced and he received $1,033 in cash. The next Contest closed March 1st, and there were a great many successful guessers, among whom was divided $1,700 in cash. The third Contest brought many correct answers, $1,000 in cash being divided among them.

This Contest Lasts Three Months and the Amount to Be Divided Will Be Large. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

THE GREATEST OF ALL AMERICAN WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS FOR ONE YEAR

KEEP THAT IN VIEW AND SEND YOUR GUESS, WITH YOUR DOLLAR FOR A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION.

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the three months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of the contest:

We Propose to Put 10 Per Cent Of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the money.

The Condition Precedent for Sending a Guess At the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent, there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize; if more than one person names the missing word properly, the money will be equally divided and all stand exactly on the same footing. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

The Contest Began June 1. We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses, and on July 1 we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during July and August we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

The Contest Closes Sept. 1. At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for September 1 is "_____."

Summer Care of Blankets.

Blankets after the winter use are never clean, and should not be put away without being washed. Many housekeepers in view of the shrinking and discoloring caused by washing, satisfy themselves with airing and shaking their blankets, but this is a great mistake, for if the work is properly done the soft appearance and whiteness may be retained for years. The most important consideration in washing blankets is to have plenty of soft water and good soap. An inferior cheap soap is really the cause of the injury done woolen goods in washing, as it hardens and yellows the fibre. When ready to begin the work, shake the blankets free of dust, fill a tub nearly full of soft hot water, and dissolve a third of a cake of Ivory soap in it. Put one blanket in at a time and dip up and down, gently washing with the hands. Never rub soap on blankets, or wash on the washboard. After the blankets are clean, rinse them in warm water until free of suds. Add a little bluing to the last water. Shake and squeeze (rather than wring, and hang on the line until dry. Then fold and pack away in a box securely to exclude the moth. Blankets washed in this way will keep their original freshness and wear very much longer than if put away soiled year after year. Will Go to Chicago.

Will Affect Pension Claims.

The president has nominated Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, to be minister to Spain. Jamaica Wants Reciprocity.

In anticipation of the passage of the pending tariff bill by congress the legislative council of Jamaica has taken up a bill on its own account and according to the views of the United States commercial agent, Walton, at Port Antonio, duties on articles imported from the United States are to be largely increased, with the exceptation that later on a reciprocity treaty may be negotiated.

Japan Protests.

Before the final signature of the Hawaii treaty the secretary of state was presented a formal protest by the Japanese government, through its legation here, against the consummation of the agreement. The protest is understood to be based on apprehension that the special treaties now existing between Japan and Hawaii, under which the Japanese enjoy advantages, will be affected injuriously by complete annexation.

Full Text of the Hawaiian Treaty.

The following is a full text of the Hawaiian treaty sent to the senate last week:

The United States of America and the Republic of Hawaii, in view of the natural depency of Hawaiian islands upon the United States, or their geographical proximity thereto, of the preponderant share acquired by the United States and its citizens in the industries and trade of said island, and of the expressed desire of the government of the Republic of Hawaii that those islands should be incorporated into the United States as an integral part thereof, and under its sovereignty, have determined to accomplish by treaty an object so important to their mutual and permanent welfare.

To this end the high contracting parties have couferred full powers upon their respectively appointed plenipotentiaries, to wit: The president of the United States; John Sherman, secretary of state of the United States; the president of the Republic of Hawaii; Francis March Hatch, Lorrin A. SITUATION SOME WORSE.

The Trocha is a Pestilential Ditch, Hundreds Will Die.

A dispatch from Havana says: Extermination on the island is an appalling, actual fact. The death rate is actually increasing. A prominent Spaniard medical officer who has full knowledge of the interior says that should the war be prolonged fifteen months the western half of the island will be entirely depopulated. The death rate is likely to double next month. Contagion will then mow the people down rapidly.

The rains have turned the interior into quarmires in many places. The trocha is a pestilential ditch. The soldiers are suffering terribly from from fever and dysentery. Little smallpox vaccination is effective. With foresight thousands of pacificos might easily have been saved by vaccination.

A sanguinary engagement occurred Wednesday at Managua, fifteen miles from Havana. The insurgents attacked a column of Spanish and the latter lost heavily. The details were suppressed here.

Many ambulances with wounded have arrived here.

The rebels are certainly concentrating around Havana. Trains have been fired into repeatedly. A Spanish force while reconnoitering was ambushed near San Miguel. They fought, but were compelled to retire.

General Rivera is sick and appears indifferent as to his fate. He will assuredly be shot unless some action is taken by the United States government.

The total loss by fire is $100,000; fully insured.

QUITE EMPTY.

Pennsylvania's State Treasury Is Short $3,500,000.

At Harrisburg, Pa., Deputy Attorney-General Elkin gave out a statement on the condition of the State finances, in which he showed that there is a deficit of $3,500,000 in the State treasury. Mr. Elkin says the legislature has for several years appropriated more money than the net revenues received by the State, hence the present large deficiency.

Broke His Neck.

Moses Higgins, a worthy colored man, about 60 years of age, while engaged in stacking wheat on W. F. McCully's farm, near Oxford, fell from the top of a high stack head foremost to the ground. The force of the fall broke his neck, and killed him instantly.

Want a Railroad.

The matter of a railroad connection with Abbeville is being discussed among the prominent business men of Eufaula, some of whom feel confident that the project will not be delayed very long. Several citizens have already expressed a willingness to subscribe liberally and seem to think the scheme would redound in great good to the city.

Crops and Property Damaged.

A severe storm passed over Montgomery Saturday afternoon. The wind for several minutes registered fifty-four miles an hour, and three-fourths of an inch of water fell and the thermometer dropped 20 degrees in twenty minutes. Great damage to crops and property is reported in the territory within 100 miles south and twenty miles north of Montgomery. Many fatalities are feared.

Handsome Residence Burned.

The handsome residence of Albert Adler on the South Highlands, Birmingham, was destroyed by fire last week. There was no one on the premises at the time except two servants, and it is a mystery how the fire originated. The total loss is $10,000, with partial insurance. The residence of J. Fies, only fifteen feet from the Adler house, took fire, but was extinguished and saved without material damage.

The general information in regard to the tragedy is that Chilcoat is alleged to have deceived a sister of his assailants with promise of marriage while in the employ of their father last fall.

Alabama Day at Nashville.

The governor has been in correspondence with a view of fixing Alabama day. The governor desired to fix the day during the reunion, and whilst the management were ready to yield, it was evident they thought it would conflict with the programme of the reunion, and be best to have some other day; so the result of the correspondence was that Wednesday, the 29th day of September, has been fixed as Alabama day. Many think this is much better than to have it during June, whilst it is so hot. It is understood that efforts will be made to have a turnout and programme worthy of Alabama.

Alabama's Internal Revenue Collections.

The fiscal year in the United States departments will be completed on the 30th instant. Great gains will be shown in the Internal Revenue Department the current year as compared with preceding fiscal years. As to raids on illicit distillery outfits there will be a gain of about thirty-five. Last year there were 286 illicit distillery outfits destroyed. It is believed that the figures will run up above 300 this year. One Deputy Collector during the month of May alone destroyed twenty five outfits. It was Deputy John E. Logwood, and he did his work in the northern part of the State. There will be an increase in the manufacturing of cigars, liquor, and other things that require licenses at the hands of the government.

Wages to be Cut.

Following up the action of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company in effecting a reduction in wages for part of its miners, the Sloss Iron & Steel Company, at Birmingham, has posted notices of a reduction in wages for its miners, to take effect July 1. The rate is reduced from 40 to 35 cents per ton, based on No. 2 foundry iron at $7 per ton with 2½ cents advance in wages for every rise of 25 cents per ton in iron. The same notice also announced a reduction of 10 per cent. in house rents. The miners will sign in the new scale.

Professor Powers Chosen.

Professor James K. Powers, of Florence, will be the next president of the University of Alabama.

The nominating committee of the board of trustees, composed of Mr. James E. Webb, of Birmingham; Judge William Richardson, of Huntsville, and Judge W. S. Thorington, of Montgomery, met Tuesday morning at the office of Mr. Webb in Birmingham.

As the result of their conference Professor Powers was nominated for the University presidency. His nomination is equivalent to an election, as it is understood that the full board of trustees has pratically clothed the committee on nominations with complete power in the matter of filling the University chairs.

The dean of the law faculty was not chosen, nor were any other selections that might have been determined upon given out.

A Brief Sketch.

Professor Powers is the president of the State Normal School at Florence. He is one of the best known and ablest educators in Alabama. The following brief sketch of him is taken from the "Memorial Record of Alabama," published in 1893:

"James K. Powers, A. M., President of the State Normal School at Florence, Ala., was born in Lauderdale county, August 15, 1851. He was educated at the Florence Wesleyan University, and University of Alabama, and was a tutor in the former institution in 1870–71. In 1873 he was graduated from the State University, with the degree of Master of Arts, when that institution was granting that as a graduating degree, for a grade of ninety or over in every department in the institution. Immediately after his graduation, he was appointed Professor of Mathematics in the State Normal college.

In 1888 he was elected president of the Normal college, and was re-elected in 1890 and 1892. Under his presidency the Normal college has reached the highest point of efficiency and attendance in its history. The average attendance in 1891 was 291, whereas the highest enrollment, previous to his election to the presidency, never exceeded 240 in any one year. It has attained the position of a Normal school, principally under his management. Professor Powers was one of the originators of the Alabama Educational Association, and has served as chairman of the executive committee for two years, and president for one year. He has a very extensive acquaintance among the teachers of the South, and has probably supplied more places with teachers than any other man in the South. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, is a Knight of Pythias, and is a Past Grand Dictator for the state in the order of the Knights of Honor. He was married January 30, 1879, at Nashville, Tenn., to Miss Lula Reynolds, daughter of the late Calvin A. Reynolds, of Giles county. As Professor Powers' connection with the Normal college dates from the first day of the first session, he is now completing his twentieth year's service. Every graduate and under-graduate sent out by the institution (hundreds in number) has passed through his hands. These fill many of the most important positions in Alabama. To know these facts is to realize the influence that Professor Powers has had in molding the educational sentiments of the state."

The Crop Report.

The following is the crop report of Alabama, made by Commissioner of Agriculture I. F. Culver, up to June 10. This report is made up from the replies of 284 correspondents, embracing every county in the state except two. The condition of crops as compared with last year at same date is: Cotton 84, corn 90, oats 85, wheat 106, gardens 88, tobacco an increase of acreage and doing well, farm animals 84, milk cows 100, sheep and goats 100, hogs 97, poultry 100. The report for last month in acreage was: Cotton 10 per cent increase; corn, 5 per cent decrease. Crops of all kinds have been well cultivated, are clear of grass and weeds, and with good seasons will grow very rapidly. Since the last report cotton and corn have improved, but small for the season of the year and about three weeks behind last year. Some complaint is made of lice on cotton, killing it in places. Early planting of corn is now being laid by. Late corn is about all planted; oats have been harvested. The fall planting was fine, but the spring crop poor. Wheat is about an average. Field peas have been planted. Gardens show good condition but are suffering for rain. The Irish potato crop is the best in several years. Horses and mules on the farm are in good condition. The latest information is that rain is falling in various sections of the state, and the crops are improving rapidly.

Strange Himalayan Tribes.

MM. Olafsen and Philipsen, two Danish officers who recently explored the Pamir country north of the Himalayas, found there unknown tribes who are fire worshipers and ignorant of the use of money. Their animals are all dwarfed, the cows being the size of ponies, the donkeys of large dogs and the sheep of small poodles. Women are sold for five or six cows or fifteen sheep apiece. Their chief article of barter is furs.

BY THE GOLD CRAZE.

THE EVILS THAT HAVE BEEN ACCOMPLISHED.

Americans Should Arouse Themselves to the Monstrous Spoliation of Their Industries Through the Attempted Firm Establishment of the Gold Standard.

(Hon. J. W. Porter.)

How long will the American people submit to the monstrous spoliation of their industries by the attempted firm establishment of the changed standard, payment for their vast public expenditure and private debts, and for the support of the costly governmental establishments fixed upon money dearer and more abundant? The people of this country are morally responsible to the world for the continued existence of the gold standard, which has placed such untold burdens upon the producing classes of other nations; for the bimetallic law, which provided for the unlimited use of all gold and silver as money could not have been broken but by American action, nor could the sole gold standard be maintained now without American concurrence. This is well understood abroad that every effort has been made to prevent American action, which would sound the death knell of gold monometallism.

When under the impulse of the Sherman purchasing act silver rapidly rose as soon as its passage was assured, and was rapidly certain to reach coin par, there came by some secret work of unscrupulous hands abroad, no doubt aided and abetted by traitors in our un-American Walt Street, action taken to those apparently a large quantity of silver purchased shipped to break our markets, no bids for silver but wheat and cotton, which advanced with the gold price of silver. This rise in silver, wheat and cotton, our great American staple products, was really a fall in gold.

Why the financial magnates abroad and their ever ready allies in our great part, could afford to spend millions to defeat the will of the American people in this matter,

In that one year they saved more than $50,000,000 by the forced decline of wheat and cotton, or in other words, reversing the decline in gold and adding it for the decline of silver since 1873 has been really the appreciation of gold!

Nothing was easier to do. To ship our silver coin of even par value under the laws of all continental Europe. It needed not to be gold nor even melted, but only offered, to bear the American mailed. Aided by their American pals in the gigantic plot, they easily affected their purpose, and silver again fell and gold went up.

Forthought we know the silver shipment may then have been returned to Europe.

Although not primarily responsible for the original wrong—the act of February 12, 1873—an act of treason to the people of this country, inasmuch as it aided and abetted the enemies of our country, more effectively than would the marshaling of armies upon our borders, our people are responsible to the world for so long condoning the wrong after its withering exposure in the halls of congress prior to the passage of the Bland-Allison act of 1878, and in the great debates since. Egypt, helpless and powerless under its three-fold burden of its debt to the Rothschilds, and Portugal with its debt of $500,000,000, owe their miseries to America's action. Portugal affords a noteworthy example of the terrible oppression of this octopus of an appreciating standard. A brave and frugal people, numbering but little more than the people of Ohio, with revenues pledged to the Rothschilds as trustees in London, for the payment of interest, they are struggling with constantly falling prices for their exportable produce, and are being reduced to the verge of despair.

The condition of all southern Europe is almost as bad; and Americans may well reflect upon their responsibility to the people of other lands as well as to our own land.

We fell unwittingly into the scheme of conspirators, the first and most powerful in resources of all nations.

Independent action by our country would not only redeem the world from financial bondage, but would place our country in the forefront of nations.

The humiliating spectacle of pleading at European capitals for permission to legalize to the full legal extent the coinage of silver as money should be spared us.

Or might we appeal to them for international consent as to our right to have a commission appointed to consider it? Indeed, our tariff policy is no more to affect many foreign nations intimately than our financial policies, for they threaten reprisals if they did not do when we discarded gold and silver, and prosper under a greenback regime.

The craze originated to gratify the lust for wealth and power. Sufficient warning has been given that the people will not submit to it, and they are masters of the situation until they abdicate their power, and consent to the rule of a plutocracy pure and simple. Why, then, cannot the situation be accepted and relief measures be adopted, and avert the perils of longer dalliance with the grasping fundholders of Europe. The destructive policy of contracting the paper currency of the people by locking it up, while all over this broad country there is such a dearth of it as to produce the greatest hardship among all classes of citizens, and taxes cannot be paid, nor interest of mortgages can interest upon loaded debts be met, will convince every one who is not a victim of this gold craze of the necessity of prompt action without waiting for a verdict of the people (now in preparation) in 1898. It seems as if judicial blindness had stricken the gold worshipers. Today the sympathies of the world are enlisted in behalf of the struggling Cubans and the Greeks and the Armenians, yet the policies of the leading nations of the world appear to be dominated by the fundholders. To the shame of all Americans, our own administration appears to have been touched by the hand of Midas.

Indeed, our secretary of state has never recovered from that touch in 1868 which transformed him. When in years gone by would an American administration have tolerated, for one month even, the atrocities heaped upon American citizens in Cuba? Ah! those Spanish bonds held in London and secured by a pledge of the revenues of Cuba!

"The powers" (the money bags really) make common cause in the bourse of the world, in New York as well as in London. There will be no big war. That would end the gold craze, for when was war ever successfuly conducted with gold? Honor, sympathy for Armenians, Cretans and Greeks, must be held in abeyance at the behest of the money bags.

The vast armament of Europe, which has made it almost a military camp, is not maintained for war, but to prevent an uprising of the people, as Senator Teller said in the senate more than a year ago.

Americans may have the proud satisfaction of knowing that we are paying the tribute with which Great Britain is building her great navy and lining our borders with fortified naval stations, as the Irish agitator, Michael Davitt, points out, while we, of gigantic strength and resources, are crippling our strength and trying to get through congress some bankrupt bill to relieve the millions of ruined men who are the victims of this British dogma of gold monometallism.

This is, indeed, a picture for Americans to look at, while shouting for "honest" money, under a chief who declares that the credit of our country must be kept as untarnished as its flag, and whose cabinet premier declared in the senate that he would sooner tax the poor man's shirt off his back than permit the nation's credit to be dishonored by the payment of its obligations in depreciated money!

Both, advocating now, the policy which has done, and is now doing, more to break American credit than any other which the worst enemy of our republic could devise, even if possessed of satanic ingenuity and malice, they idly prate of the honor and credit of their country, with policies which are rapidly forcing it along the road to ruin! And they talk of the silver craze, forsooth, adding insult to the intelligence of their countrymen to the deep and damning injury they have inflicted. In what way can it be accounted for but supposing it to be insanity upon the subject of gold—a gold craze, in fact.

"Oh, that God the gift would give them to paraphrase the couplet of Burns.
To see themselves as others see them."

Blind as bats, not to see the trend of events, they must also be deaf not to hear the rumbling of an outraged and indignant people.

Why they are palliating and defending that which is worse than highway robbery, for the highwayman does not claim to act in the name of "honesty" nor under forms of law fraudulently put upon the statute books, nor does he destroy the resources of his victims, as do those arch enemies of the human race, who devised this cruel scheme to plunder the world by getting it in bonds for one-third its total wealth and then seeming by trickery legislation to make all debts payable in an appreciating standard.

Words cannot express the infamy of the designers of this act, for to support it and continue it, falsehood, deceit, subordination, corruption through paid writers, the purchase and control of the great vehicles of intelligence so as to cause vast numbers of really honest citizens, who would recoil at once from the contract were they permitted to see the truth. Their support and encouragement, obtained by deception is today all that they have to rest upon. These mistaken supporters of the gigantic wrong are not to be included in the domination of those who knowing the right yet the wrong pursue for pelf, place and for power.

A Misnomer.

The usual symptoms of unrest in the labor world are apparent. On one side the employes are resisting proposed reductions in wages, and on the other hand employers are resisting demands for increase. The United Wood Workers of the States of Minnesota, Michigan, the Dakotas, Illinois and Wisconsin will make organized resistance to the efforts of the proposed sash and door trust to reduce wages and output. The Cleveland tin plate makers are preparing to resist demands of their men for better pay. These are among the evidences of returning prosperity.—Topeka Advocate.

WORKERS OR IDLERS.

WHO MADE THIS NATION AND ITS WEALTH?

The Way in Which Idleness Fattens Upon Distressed Industry—Equality of Opportunity Must Be Restored—Warning to the Plutocrats.

Who made this nation, anyhow? Who built its homes, from its lowliest hut to its grandest palace? Who made its settlements, from its smallest village to its mightiest city? Who built its railroads that span with glittering threads of steel this vast continent, and interlock as with fraternal bands the various states this, the great republic of all time? Who felled the forest and turned the virgin sod? Who drew from nature's storehouse and transformed to meet the needs of men all that furnishes necessities or comforts, or supplies the luxurious demands of advancing civilization? Did idlers do it? Did speculators do it? Not much. These are they who toil not, neither do they spin. These are they who gather where they have not strewn, who reap where they have not sown, who get while they do not produce, who curse and burden those who toil and bless them not. These are the classes who, since history has chronicled the doings of men, have, in every land and in every clime, enslaved those who fed and clothed them and made them all they are. These are they who have wrecked and ruined the mighty empires and republics of the past whose bleaching bones strew the highways of human progress. Today nine-tenths of our people suffer in this land of boundless resources, because idle greed and a sham moneyed aristocracy, jealous of its power, entrenched behind laws made by themselves, have stolen from God's children their birthright to natural opportunities. How long are the many to toil like slaves while the few revel in luxuries unearned? How long are those who add nothing to advanced civilization to live like princes on the proceeds of your toil, while you and your families struggle in poverty? It is time for the common citizen to study up. Idlers amass wealth by only a few methods. One is land speculation. One is interest taking. One is by railroad ownership. One is by telegraph ownership. One is by owning water works. One is by owning light plants. One is by owning street car lines. One is by owning gas works. One is by monopolizing lines of business which should be open to all. No individual or corporation should do any of these things. Private individuals and corporations formerly owned the mail system and taxed the people what they pleased for carrying mail. They also owned the public road and taxed everyone who traveled. They owned the school system and none could get an education except the well-to-do. Part of these systems have been changed, to the great advantage of the public. The rest must be changed before justice will reign supreme. We must be entirely free from public debts, and no individual or corporation should have the power to tax the people on these necessities of civilization.—The Educator.

WHAT OF IT?

Artificial Gold Will Simply Clear the Way for Scientific Money.

What if a man has discovered the process of making gold? It is nothing really surprising.

Nature makes gold out of certain substances transformed and fused together by the volcanic action say of fire and brimstone.

Gold doesn't necessarily come from hell because it is made in that way and can be cornered. If the constituent parts and proportions of gold have been discovered by a chemist named Brice, and if he has applied his furnace and poker according to Hoyle, he has made gold.

If little Preston, of the United States mint, says Brice hasn't made gold, that is nothing to the point. Preston was appointed by Cleveland to say and do what the gold thugs ordered, and he has said that American silver was demonetized in 1853 instead of 1873. Preston's word is a commodity worth about as much as "a dicer's oath" or a harlot's kiss.

That Lyman Gage says there is nothing in Brice's gold discovery proves merely that the Rothschilds and the Anglo-American bankers don't want any more gold. Gage has given himself away, for both a flat and a rascal, by declaring that the artificial production of gold, if a fact, ought to be suppressed. This, of course, means nothing more and nothing less than that Gage wants gold kept scarce and dear, for himself and his fellow-criminals who are robbing, impoverishing, and enslaving the world by the gold standard. Three cheers for Brice, the goldmaker, unless he, too, is as big a humbug as Gage and Preston! He can't be a bigger one, anyhow. If he is honest, he has done the best thing of his age. Good by, "Intrinsic Value," with all your fools. Good-by, Rothschild, with all your knaves. Come in, Scientific Money, and take a seat.—Silver Knight Watchman.

Armed men prevent the passage of citizens along public roads in Pennsylvania. War? Well, not exactly. The private owners of mines up there want to prevent their men from organizing and demanding more wages, and hired assassins to prevent any communications of the white slaves with outsiders. No, it isn't war, but it ought to be, if necessary, to put an end to such infernal tyranny.—Uncle Sam.

POINTS FROM THE PRESS.

Havemeyer is going to build a miniature Venice on his estate on Long Island, says the Chicago Tribune. Everything will be named as it is in the Italian city. The bridge over which the public at large, who still pay a dollar for eighteen pounds of best A sugar, will pass will probably be called the "Bridge of Sighs."—Journal of Commerce.

Mrs. Custer says the Cheyenne uprising was caused by the fact that the Indians have not enough work to do. The white man is in the same predicament, and it is time our statesmen were learning that idleness is a danger signal.—Salina Union.

Shall the people control the money issues of the country, or shall the money control the people; shall the people own the railroads, or shall railroads own the people; in short, is this to be a people's government, or plutocracy's and monopoly's government? These are as great and vital problems as a people were ever called upon to solve, though they yet seem inconsequential to myriads of persons.—Farm, Stock and Home.

Fourteen savings banks, with a total of 26,000 depositors, have failed since President McKinley's inauguration. Let's see, what was it the banks said would happen if Bryan should be elected?—San Francisco Star.

It is getting so that big monopolists are struck dumb with astonishment when they hear it even mildly suggested that they do not own the country.—Farm, Stock and Home.

The Kansas populist supreme court has just refused to allow a county in its jurisdiction to repudiate its bonds, notwithstanding there are plenty of technicalities on which to base such a decision. Pops are honest if they do want to stop plutocracy from robbing and enslaving the masses.—Iowa Farmers' Tribune.

The now famous three cent car fare law, which a federal judge pronounced null and void in Indianapolis not long ago was, on Friday of last week, declared perfectly constitutional and binding by the Supreme court of Indiana. That fact will not, in all probability, amount to very much. One federal judge, subordinate though he be, is of far more importance that the whole Supreme court of Indiana. Still it does seem odd to have the law banged around in this way.—Twentieth Century.

Give the strikers the rifle diet for a few days and see how they like that kind of bread.—Tom Scott.

Hand grenades should be thrown among those who are striking to obtain higher wages as by such treatment they would be taught a lesson, and other strikers could take warning from their fate.—New York Tribune.

We now have arranged the program for both parties, and now we are willing the dear people shall have their choice of man.—J. Buell, secretary of Bankers' association.

There seems to be one remedy, and that must come, a change of ownership of soil, that is tenant farmers on the one side and landlords on the other, like that which has long existed in England and partly in our own state of California. Everything seems to be ripe for the change, half the farmers of the country are ready to be sold if buyers would appear.—New York Tribune.

It is astonishing, yes, startling, the extent to which faith prevails in money circles in New York, that one ought to have a king.—New York Tribune.

I would give two million dollars if we could elect Grant as a king in New York.—Jay Gould in 1876.

Fifty men in the United States have it in their power by reason of the wealth they control, to come together within twenty-four hours and arrive at an understanding by which every wheel of trade and commerce may be stopped from revolving, every avenue of trade blocked, and every electric key struck dumb. Those fifty men can paralyze the whole country, for they can control the circulation of the currency, and create a panic whenever they will.—C. M. Depew.

The tramp has no right but that society may see fit of its grace to bestow upon him; he has no more right than the sow in the gutter.—Scribner's Monthly.

We need a stronger government. The country demands it. Capital needs protection. Without bloodshed and rivers of it, there will be no political change of administration. The moneyed interest for self-preservation must sustain the Republican party. The railroads, the banks, the manufacturers and importers, and all classes of business in which millions are invested will sustain the supremacy of the Republican party. To avert fearful bloodshed, a strong central government should be established as soon as possible.—Senator Hanna.

J. BULL'S NEW DREAM.

SEES A REVOLUTION DEVASTATING THE REPUBLIC.

Expects to Step in at the Proper Time and Seize Everything in Sight—The Presence of Prosperity Would Be Sure to Foil His Purpose.

Perhaps the wish is the father to the thought with the writer of the following editorial from our ultra-conservative English paper. England, notwithstanding her protestations of peace, would like to see this republic disrupted. It is not to be wondered at that the press of England is sometimes carried away with enthusiasm when writing over the misfortunes that are besetting this people. England hates us. We are her commercial rivals and will drive her ships from every port in the world if peace and unity prevail here. The continued hard times here gives Englishmen great encouragement. They want to see a revolution in the United States. Then at the proper time England would step in and protect her interests. The editorial referred to reads as follows: "The signs of the times indicate that before the sun rises on January 1, 1900, the great American nation will groan and write in agony of revolution, and the streets of her great cities will be slippery with blood—a hundred drops of blood for each gem that flashes on the necks of the rich and pampered women, and ten drops of blood for each tear that has washed the face of the poor. America is no longer a republic. It is a plutocracy. The president is merely the creation of bank directors, railroad kings and coal barrons, and it is the same with some of the governors of the states. The poor whine about their poverty and gnaw their crusts of bread but can always be relied upon to vote for the rich, and nine-tenths of them would shoulder their muskets and lay down their lives in defense of the rich to rob them. A nation such as this, in which one million plutocrats tyrannize over sixty million slaves, will be either overthrown by a foreign foe or die of gangrene. The various labor organizations never think together, vote together, nor work together, and they have no money to buy votes, lawyers and judges. Soldiers and police shoot down the laboring people and are cheered on in their bloody work by monopolists and the clergy. But the day will soon come when there will be a horrible dance to death, lighted up by burning houses and the music of cries and groans and dynamite bombs. Rich idlers amuse themselves at Newport and Tuxedo; poor workers toil ceaselessly in the darkness of the mine and din of the mill. Young men and women dwaddle over iced champagne and oyster parties, old men and women pick rotten food out of garbage cans. Lap dogs are driven through Central park to take the air; children die of overwork in filthy garrets. Piety in the White House enjoying the fruits of bribery—infidelity in the tenement house enduring the punishment of uprightness. These are the signs of the times in America today—signs that point to calamity too dreadful to imagine, but which nothing can avert."—London Echo.

It must be confessed that there is a certain amount of truth in the above. Conditions are shaping themselves in that direction. If it cannot be averted this republic may be destroyed. A great responsibility rests upon the administration. The people are looking toward Washington for succor. If prosperity comes soon they will not see the "Man on Horseback."

And He Was a Good Man, Too.

My lord Fat Purse was a very good man,
He had houses and lands galore,
And with each new day he had some new plan
For aiding the needy and poor.
He gave to the churches, he gave to the homes,
He gave to the tramp by the way,
Yet the terrible curse in the land grew worse
And the poor grew poorer each day.

My lord Fat Purse was troubled and sad
That his thought and toil seemed vain;
"But I do what I can," said this very good man,
"To ease the want and pain.
'Tis the will of heaven that some shall be rich
And many be poor, I see;
I can do no more than give from the store
That a just God gives to me."

Yet acres and acres of fertile soil
Lie idle under the skies,
While my shrewd lord waits and holds his estates
'Till prices in land shall rise.
Deep in the breast of these acres broad
Which are selfishly grasped by one,
Lies wealth for many—free gifts of God,
Like the wind and the rain and the sun.

Food in the ocean and food in the soil—
Free gifts from a hand divine.
And who dare hinder the fisher's toil,
Or say, "Lo; the sea is mine."
Ah, my lord Fat Purse, no wonder the curse
Of poverty hangs like a pall,
When you hold by fraud the lands which God
Has meant for the use of all.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Some people consider it hard to be poor, but the majority of us find it easy enough.

THE POLITICAL DRIFT.

The Ohio Valley Bimetallic League held a convention at Cincinnati June 22 and 23.—The object of the convention was to perfect an organization of all those in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver. All clubs in the Ohio valley and continuous territory in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky were invited to send delegates.

"If it takes ten years to get a constitutional amendment adopted," said Senator Butler, of North Carolina, "the work cannot begin too soon." Senator Butler had reference to his constitutional amendment, introduced Thursday to place a tax on incomes. "It is not the first time I have taken the step. I introduced a similar amendment two years ago, just after the decision was rendered, and it was referred to the committee on the judiciary, where it slumbered. Last session I had the same experience. Now I propose to know whether it is the intention of the committee to report on my amendment, and if not, I want the senate to consider it in committee of the whole. It is very singular," added Mr. Butler, "that within a few weeks after the Supreme Court renders a decision adverse to railroad combinations a determined effort should be made to rush a pooling bill through congress, while two years have elapsed since the income tax was declared unconstitutional and nothing has been done. This is not exactly fair to the people who have to bear the burdens, especially with a period of high taxation approaching."

The New York Central Labor Union has sent a circular letter to central labor bodies in other cities asking their opinion as to the causes of involuntary poverty and the remedy therefor. A big mass meeting will be held in New York to discuss the answers.

Senator Allen has often in times past spoken against the passage of private pension bills giving a considerable sum per month to the widows of officers in the late war, while a much smaller sum was the highest rate ever allowed to the widow of a private soldier. He has been preparing for a speech on this subject, in which some notable instances are to be mentioned, and that speech will soon be ready to deliver. Saturday he introduced a resolution declaring against such discrimination, and gave notice that at a later day he would address the Senate upon it.

Oregon Populists did not declare against future union with other reform forces; they simply resolved to retain autonomy and hold the party in shape to defend the party principles regardless of whether the other elements remain true or not. There are no Populists that want to do otherwise, and it is the proper course.—Iowa Farmers' Tribune.

Farmers and residents of Powell, in Delaware county, Ohio, have banded together in a community of their own, which will issue its own money, and in such quantity as is deemed necessary. The organization will be called "The Labor Exchange," and its money will be good for the labor or the product of labor among members of the community. The community will aim to include men of every occupation so as to be self-supporting.

National headquarters of the silver Republicans will be in charge of ex-Congressman Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, and for the present will be at Duluth. The committee favored immediate organization for the congressional elections of 1898, and also for the campaign of 1900, and instructed Chairman Towne to push this work as rapidly as possible. Chairman Towne said that the conference was better attended than he expected, and that he believed that it indicated that the silver Republicans would hold the balance of power in the congressional and presidential elections.

Will It Be Bryan in 1900?

The defeat of Mr. Bryan last year was in its effects a victory. In the first place it was a victory over Clevelandism in the Democratic party. It had the effect of permanently separating the gold wing from the silver wing of the Democracy. It pointed out the place for men like Palmer and Buckner—in the Republican camp.

In the second place, Bryan's defeat was a victory over the Democratic party. That great organization had lost its virtue. As before our great war it had been dominated by the slave power, so since that time it had been ruled by the money power. The breaking away of the Bryan people discovered the encouraging fact that the reform element constituted a large majority of the party membership.

In the third place, it was a victory in that it aroused the people to a consciousness of their power.

And in the fourth place, it was a victory of the reform elements of the country in that it has shown a large majority of the people are in favor of bimetallism.

With these facts before us to be considered in connection with the continued popularity of Mr. Bryan as evidenced by the demand for his services and the attention paid to his movements and utterances, the unbiased observer cannot avoid seeing that this man is in the midst of the political storm center.—Ex-Senator Peffer in Topeka Advocate.

Sign of Weakness.

"I want to borrow money on this corporation stock," said the depositor.

"That stock isn't worth much," answered the national bank president.

"Isn't the corporation solvent?"

"Yes, but it's not a strong corporation. It has to obey the law."—Twentieth Century.

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Crops in Perry.

Crop prospects in Perry county are fine. Recent rains in conjunction with the hot weather has made vegetation look exceedingly well.

Residence Blown Down.

A heavy wind and rain storm passed over the Waterloo section. One residence, numerous fences and trees without number were blown away.

Georgiana's Election.

The improvement ticket won in the city election at Georgiana, the following being elected: Mayor, J. B. Adams, Councilmen, J. D. Bryan, James E. Cheatham, R. B. Mills, H. C. Parker, Z. Shepherd.

Ore Mines in Cherokee.

It is reported from reliable sources that the famous Langdon ore mines on the Stonewall furnace property, in Cherokee county, will be opened in a few days by Birmingham capitalists and 250 tons per day shipped, giving employment to over sixty hands.

Building Boom.

Pleasant Valley has experienced a building boom for several weeks past. M. F. Jackson has recently erected a handsome residence; S. P. Clemmons and J. C. Thrasher have erected barns, and R. M. Wilkes, in addition to enlarging his furniture factory, has constructed other buildings on his place.

Will Have Pure Water.

A portion of the machinery for boring the artesian well at Georgiana has arrived and the balance is expected daily. As soon as all of the machinery reaches there the work will be commenced and prosecuted with all dispatch. The issue of $2,000 in bonds has been sold, and no doubt another issue of $3,000 or $5,000 will be made in the near future.

Youngest Confederate.

The youngest Confederate veteran who attended the Nashville reunion was W. E. Clutts, of Huntsville, who entered the service in 1861 at the tender age of 13 years and 5 months, under Capt. John Gardner, Company K, Forty-ninth Alabma, and in 1865, after all was over, was paroled at Danville, Va.

Will Encamp at Montgomery.

The Alabama Cavalry will encamp at Montgomery, the opening day being July 12. This was decided upon by Major Beck, of Camden, who has command in the state. Selma and Birmingham had asked for the encampment, but Major Beck thought best to go to Montgomery.

It Beats the Record.

At Huntsville, the city sexton's record up to June 19, shows that there have been but three burials in the city cemetery during the present month, and two of them were persons who died in the county and were taken there for interment. This is a good showing for a city of 15,000 inhabitants.

Colbert County Bonds.

The purchasers of the Colbert county road bonds, which were recently issued, have refused to take the bonds unless the Supreme Court decides that thirty days notice of the election was necessary. A twenty days notice of the election to decide whether bonds should be issued was given, and it is believed the Supreme Court will decide this was sufficient.

To Increase Steel Output.

A call has been issued for a special stockholders' meeting of the Birmingham Rolling Mill Company, to convene July 22, for the purpose of considering a proposition for increasing the common stock of the company from $500,000 to $600,000. If the increase is made, as no one doubts it will be, the steel plant of the company, now about finished, will be doubled in capacity at once.

Thinks Himself Sharp.

W. F. Marshal, a horse trader of Gadsden, is in serious trouble. He was arrested on the charge or highway robbery, made a $400 bond and it is alleged has skipped out. He told J. M. Collins that he would give him "six fives" for his horse, which offer was accepted. He offered Collins six 5-cent pieces, which was refused. Thereupon he dropped the six nickels in Collins' pocket and forcibly took the horse.

Lithographic Stone Discovered.

News comes from just over the Madison county line in Jackson county of the discovery of a superior quality of lithographic stone, which will be quarried and put on the markets. Col. C. Nesmith was in Huntsville a few days since and closed a deal with a New York syndicate transferring the ownership of this quarry to them. Colonel Nesmith has been experimenting for years in testing the quality of this stone.

Found in a Well.

John and Charles Mitchell, sons of Wright Mitchell, a Choccolocco farmer, went playing near an old unused well. Later in the day they were missed and search was made for them. They were finally found in the bottom of the well, having drowned in three feet of water, having probably fallen in. They were clasped in one another's arms. They were 10 and 12 years of age respectively.

Clanton, Ala.

ALL rejoiced on Tuesday evening when a welcome rain fell upon the parched earth, but we are still praying for more.

THE Nashville conference takes place next Tuesday. If any good can come of it we will rejoice as heartily as those who have favored it

THE Glorious Fourth will cover three days this year. The small boy and the fire-cracker will get in their work Saturday, the religious and patriotic will devote Sunday to praise and thanksgiving, while the jovial will wind up on Monday —or maybe a little later.

THE company to build the railroad from Atlanta to Selma was organized in the former city yesterday. It is stated that three-fifths of the money necessary to insure the building of the road has already been raised. Would Clanton like to have the road come this way, or would it rather be without it?

SEVERAL of our most prominent Alliancemen have decided to re-organize the Farmers' Alliance in Chilton county, and we believe a call will shortly be issued for a mass meeting to effect that object. We are satisfied it only needs a proper start to become a most popular movement, and all good and true Alliancemen will gladly rally round the standard.

HERE is the funniest tale we have heard lately. Everyone knows we have but few white Republicans in Chilton county, and the few we have are badly split into two factions, those who indorse the Republicanism of W. F. Aldrich, and those who oppose him. It is said the latter are inducing the negroes to send a petition to President McKinley asking him to appoint an uncompromising Democrat, and a bitter opponent to McKinley's election, to a postoffice in this county. This is an evidence of their loyalty to the Republican cause, and it is to be hoped the President will duly appreciate it.

Masonic Installation at Jemison.

THE Masonic fraternity at Jemison went in for a good time last Thursday, at their installation ceremonies, and they had it. At 9 a.m. the Lodge in full regalia met at the hall, and under the supervision of Field Marshall Dr. J. P. Givhan marched to the grove in due form. A large number of visitors were present from the surrounding country as well as those from Jemison, and in the crowd we noticed several Clantonians.

Past Master C. C. Slaton, in a most impressive manner duly installed the following officers:

W.M., J. A. Skaggs; S.W., I. N. Bradley; J.W., G. Cofer; Treas., I. N. Langston; Sec., J. M. Lanston; S.D., L. H. Reynolds, J.D., W. G. Atkinson; Tyler, W. E. Lowery; Stewards, T. J. Hubbard and S. L. Smith. After the installation ceremonies addresses on Masonry were made by Hon S. M. Adams and Prof. C. C. Slaton. At the close of his address the Professor invited all present to partake of the hospitality of the Lodge. A sumptuous repast was provided and was done full justice to. Many commendations were uttered at the satisfactory way in which the ladies carried out the arrangements. Having satisfied the inner man, the Lodge marched back to the hall and deposited the regalia, then returned to the grove, where music and singing occupied the afternoon. Miss Lizzie Lowery presided at the organ and dispensed sweet music, accompanied by Prof. Slaton on the cornet. The learned Professor made a hit with his laughing song, and all went merry as a marriage bell. Everyone and his wife declared it was a most enjoyable day, and will look forward to the next occasion.

ON Saturday at midnight, Fanny, the beloved wife of Moses A. Killgore, passed over the river. Her sickness originated a few weeks ago in giving birth to a stillborn child. Comparatively a young woman, she has for many years been a loving and faithful wife to Mr. Killgore, who with five children now mourn for her. She was buried on Sunday evening at Poplar Springs, a large number of sympathizing friends attending the funeral. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

Kincheon.

Crops in this vicinity are looking well, as a result of two fine rains the past week, but it was not a general rain as there are spots around that have as yet received no rain.

A good many of the young folks went to the singing at Clanton Ford last Sunday; they reported a splendid time. Wonder how many singings there will be on the glorious 4th in Chilton. Will every correspondent to the BANNER tell in their next letter how many they know of on that day. Some of the young folks were speaking of getting up a picnic at Kincheon July 3rd, but there was some objection raised on the ground that there would be too much whisky.

There is to be an all day singing at churches all over the county on the 4th which is Sunday. Now, we ask the question, "Are the all day gatherings, called song services refining and cultivating, and do they contribute to the up building of His Kingdom, or is it just a Sunday picnic?" Our opinion is this, that in the present style they are carried on, they do more harm than good to the church that practices them. I expect this will raise a discussion. Of course music is a great thing, but don't get them up on the 4th day of July.

There was to have been a picnic at this place July 3rd. I wish to say there will be no picnic here on that date.

Mr. James Vance and his charming daughter, Miss Alice, of Coosa county, were visitors at Mr. F. A. Vance's last Sunday.

Jim Dennis, of Coopers, attended church here last Sunday.

We would reply to Observer's letter on good roads, but will wait till another time. Our conclusion is that he is free from road duty. If he is ever a candidate in Chilton he will have to take back what he has said about those whose duty it is to work the roads.

Political Pointers.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., June 30, 1897.

President McKinley has sent a special message to congress relating to Hawaii. He suggests that since this country has been a protectorate to that unfortunate isle for some time, it would be best to take such steps as will lead to its annexation. It is generally conceded by those in a position to know that this policy is supposed to be a strong card played for popular favor, but that such a move would be a tremendous concession to the sugar trust is to be remembered. The annexation of Hawaii would also complicate the Cuban question in its relation to the administration. Another feature of this proposition is the refunding of the Hawaiian debt with the United States as security. The bulk of these bonds are held by eastern capitalists who purchased them at 30 per cent. and who would realize a handsome profit if they should be redeemed at par.

Another scheme for the enrichment of the already too rich is being agitated. It is the purchase of the island of Cuba by a syndicate, the amount of money necessary, $400,000,000 to be obtained by an issue of 3 per cent. bonds on which the United States is security. It is alleged that the interest of this debt could be paid out of the custom receipts at Havana. The whole thing is but a repetition of the Pacific railroad steal and is being engineered by the sugar trust.

As it seems impossible to keep the members in Washington, it is predicted that congress will adjourn about July 15 without having touched the currency question or any currency commission having been appointed.

The Standard Oil Company recently shut down its works at Cleveland, throwing 1,000 men out of employment.

John W. Briedenthal announces that the fusion effected during the last campaign in Kansas is working satisfactorily and no change of policy is anticipated.

Senator Teller in a recent interview, asserted that the Silver Republicans would support W. J. Bryan in the next campaign if his policy and conduct did not change in the meantime.

State warrants in Washington are at a premium of one and one-half per cent. Washington is now a populist state and comment is unnecessary.

The American Federation of Labor reports a rapid increase in membership during the past month. New Unions are being organized almost daily.

An English syndicate is buying up the most valuable coal and iron mines in the south. This is an easy way to evade the tariff laws.

The law requiring corporations to make weekly payments, under penalty of the forfeiture of $26 to each employe, has been signed by the Governor of New York.

Japan has entered a formal protest against the enactment into law of certain proposed tariff measures, chiefly silk, tea and jute being affected. She also stated that if her warning is not heeded retaliatory measures will be passed.

The newly appointed minister to Spain, Stewart L. Woodford, is somewhat handicaped by his having aided the insurgents in the first Cuban rebelion and having been an active worker as a Cuban leader.

Although the common people have but little cause for loving him still much sympathy is being expressed for Secretary of State Sherman, who having been urged to accept a cabinet position in order, no one doubts, that Hanna might occupy his seat in the senate, he is now being accused of incompetence from age and failing powers. Recent interviews given out by Sherman were sufficiently at variance with the presidential policy to displease, and if the steady stream of inuendo that emanates from Hanna and his following is kept up it is but a matter of a short time when Sherman must retire. This would enable Hanna to dictate a new cabinet deal, placing himself in such position as he may desire.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

Pine View, Georgia.

Editor BANNER: As a former resident of dear old Chilton county, and as all of our friends are numbered among your readers; we have taken the liberty of writing you and trust that this correspondence will not be "blue pencilled."

Mr. W. F. Green, formerly of the Wessington Lumber Company, removed to this place May 8, 1897. Mr. Green purchased a large tract of the finest timbered lands in South Georgia. These lands are very fertile and tobacco is fast taking the place of the great staple, cotton. Mr. Green not only intends operating a saw mill here but to build up a thriving town in the very heart of this fertile region. In fact he has already sold one nice building lot and has applicants for others. The following families are here from Chilton county: W. F. Green and family, M. L. Wells and family, J. N. Gibson and family, and S. B. Harper and wife, besides several young men and part of C. B. McDaniel's family. All of these immigrants are very much pleased with the lay of the land and the climate here. Although the weather is hotter here than in Chilton, we are better able to stand it as we always have the never ceasing Gulf breeze which is always cool and pleasant, the nights are so cool that a light covering is always acceptable. We are located within three miles of the Florida State line and have ready access to the seashore down the Flint river to the Chattahoochee and thence to the Gulf.

The farmers in this county are having plenty of rain, and tobacco, corn, cotton and all other crops are looking like a good harvest this year. The fruit crop bids fair to be the largest yield for several years.

A Valuable Prescription

Mr. Morrison of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary; but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00.

Will Not Perform Miracles But It Will Cure.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physicians said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I would have throbbings in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for sleep, and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 40 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

5 DROPS

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases, and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

JANUARY 2, 1897.

DEAR SIR:— Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and have never shed with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS" which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been full and wonderful. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 15 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VOX WALD,
Milbank, S. D.
March 31, 1896.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heaven-sent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do as much for others as it did for my wife. I can't say more than that. You can claim for it, REV. F. M. COOPER Washington Center, Mo.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

[illegible] For the last eleven years I have been a helpless cripple from paralysis and rheumatism, just think, for eight years a total cripple, but able to earn a penny now and then by selling on the streets of this city something to lean on. I believe bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and go to work. I have only taken two-thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and that after I had been waxed across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To save me sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $1.00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE,
1005 Wall street, Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

DEAR SIRS: SEPTEMBER 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down bedfast with Inflammatory Rheumatism, and I was declared by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was stiff so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON, McCracken, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and done. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle, prepaid by mail, 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

A New Missing Word Contest

THE CONTEST BEGAN JUNE 1---ENDS SEPT. 1

THE SENTENCE IS TAKEN FROM THE WORKS OF A STANDARD AUTHOR, AND IS AS FOLLOWS:

"We Have Not '_____' Enough, and Are Put to Very Awkward Shifts For Want of Some."

The book containing the sentence has been sealed and placed in the hands of Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of Constitution Publishing Company, who has it in a safety vault, and who will give it sealed to the committee that makes the decision on September 1st, 1897.

THIS CONTEST is the Fourth of a Series of Extraordinary Interest, NEARLY $4,000 in cash having been distributed in the three preceding Contests, the first of which was announced last November. In the first Contest, ending Jan. 1st, Mr. M. L. Brittain was the only person to supply the correct word of the sentence then announced and he received $1,033 in cash. The next Contest closed March 1st, and there were a great many successful guessers, among whom was divided $1,700 in cash. The third Contest brought many correct answers, $1,000 in cash being divided among them.

This Contest Lasts Three Months and the Amount to Be Divided Will Be Large. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen, there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

KEEP THAT IN VIEW AND SEND YOUR GUESS, WITH YOUR DOLLAR FOR A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION.

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the three months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of the contest:

We Propose to Put 10 Per Cent Of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the money.

The Condition Precedent for Sending a Guess At the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent, there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize; if more than one person names the missing word properly, the money will be equally divided and all stand exactly on the same footing. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

The Contest Began June 1. We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses, and on July 1 we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during July and August we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

The Contest Closes Sept. 1. At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for September 1 is "_____."

Profits 300 to 500 Per Cent.

The sewing machine, one of the greatest blessings in the way of machines ever offered the public, sold for years at sixty dollars in the United States. The same machine, however, to be shipped to a foreign land, could be purchased below twenty dollars. After the patents ran out the price fell rapidly until now sewing machines are sold for twenty-five dollars and often below twenty dollars. The sewing machine manufacturers became immensely rich from their profits of several hundred per cent. It has been estimated that typewriting machines cost less than twenty dollars to build, while they sell for from fifty dollars to one hundred dollars each.

It is generally understood that an agreement exists whereby these high prices are maintained. Business men are compelled to pay from three hundred to five hundred per cent. profit or go without the machines.

Are there any other machines which yield such profits as the sewing machine did for years, and the typewriting machine has and does, except it be the bicycle?

A Nonsensical Notion.

Some folks actually believe that they can cure skin diseases through their stomachs. It's absurd on its face—absurd on the face of the man who believes, too, because his disease stays right there. Stays there till he uses Tetterine. It's the only safe and certain cure for Tetter, Ringworm, Eczema and other itchy irritations. Good for Dandruff, too. At drug stores, 50 cents, or by mail from J. The School "Shows Off."

In illustration of the way in which teachers' lessons are frequently lost on their pupils, a Chicago teacher tells a story of some of her pupils "showing off" under her auspices. She had been drilling into them one afternoon the difference in the meaning of the words "taught" and "learned;" over and over again, in the presence of a late visitor, she had explained the use of each of the words, and had given them several examples in which the words were correctly used.

"Now," she said, "I think you have learned your lesson as well as I have taught it to you. Willie, will you give me a sentence with the word 'taught' in it?"

A fair-haired urchin on the front seat spoke up promptly:

"I t'ought it was time for school to let out!"

"No, no! Mamie, you may give me an example," she said, turning to a bright girl farther back.

"I t'ought it was time to go home," answered Mamie, with an air as if she had done exactly the right thing.

And though she tried several times more, no other form of the word than the variation "t'ought" could the teacher get out of her school.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The President in Favor of Organized Labor.

SENATOR MORGAN'S BILL.

Miss'ssippi River Appropriations — Minister Cox Resigns — Fixing Telegraph Rates—The Japs Want to Trade—Other Interesting Items.

Minister Cox Resigns.

The resignation of Mr. Cox, United States minister to Honduras and Salvador, has been received at the state department. It is understood to be the President's purpose to make an early appointment to fill his place.

Americans Will Ship Tobacco.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat has information through Third Assistant Secretary of State Cridler, at Washington, to the effect that United States Minister Hannis Taylor has telegraphed from Madrid that an order has been sent by cable to Havana, allowing shipments of all tobacco purchased in Cuba by Americans.

Chicago's as Protest.

Senator Spooner, acting for Senator Cullom in the latter's absence from the senate chamber a few days since presented a petition to the senate signed by 103,000 citizens of Chicago protesting against the proposed increase in the tax on beer. The petition filled a wooden box 2x3 feet in size, and was carried out of the senate chamber by two women.

Mississippi River Appropriation.

The Mississippi river commission convened in the Army building, New York, last Thursday and immediately went into executive session to deliberate on and possibly make some changes in the annual report of the commission. The congressional appropriation for damages to property from the overflowing of the Mississippi river amount to $2,933,333 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898.

Spanish Minister Getting Posted.

Stewart L. Woodford had an interview with the President the other day respecting his mission to Spain. He will not leave for Madrid before the latter part of July, and will spend the time from now on in acquiring an acquiring an accurate knowledge of the present state of our relations with Spain. Mr. Calhoun is still in Washington and probably will confer with Mr. Woodford.

Want to Trade.

Mr. Masana Maeda, ex-vice minister of agriculture of Japan, is in Washington, a guest at the Japanese legation. Mr. Maeda says the Japanese are extremely anxious to give the United States a large share of their trade, and his purpose in coming here is in part to investigate the prices of railroad and telephone equipments. The Japanese government is about to expend large sums of money in railroad and telephone extensions, and it would be very satisfactory to the Japanese people if the materials and equipments could be purchased in the United States.

Fixing Telegraph Tolls.

The United States court of claims, on the recommendation of the department of justice, has appointed First Assistant Postmaster-General Perry S. Heath sole referee in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the United States growing out of Postmaster-General Wanamaker's order providing an arbitrary telegraph rate for the government.

During the Harrison administration Mr. Wanamaker fixed the rate on all the government messages at 1 mill a mile a word, which rate was in operation for a long period, but was finally raised to about 40 per cent of the rate charged individuals. In the settlement of the bills covering the mill rate period a dispute arose. Mr. Heath, as referee, will ascertain the exact figures in the dispute, which amount to nearly $1,000,000. The case will probably be taken before congress in the end.

Japan's Protest.

The gist of Japan's protest to the Hawaiian annexation treaty, which has been sent to the committee on foreign relations of the senate yesterday, is as follows: The acquisition of Hawaii annexation to the United States would deprive resident Japanese in the islands of rights to which they are at present entitled under treaty with Hawaii. At present there are 25,000 Japanese in the islands, with large property rights, and under present conditions they are entitled to become citizens of Hawaii. In case of annexation these Japanese could not become citizens of the United States, as no Asistic can become a citizen of the United States. Therefore the Japanese government must firmly protest against the proposed annexation.

In Favor of Organized Labor.

"I regard the organization of labor as a natural and legimate effort to secure its rights," said President McKinley the other day. This strong declaration in favor of organized labor was made in the course of a conversation with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Morrison, the secretary of the organization.

President McKinley agreed that the labor unions should be protected, and spoke of measures in which he had taken an interest in former years. He did not, however, seem to think there was much danger in their being classed as trusts or subject to penalties.

"Unless you believe, as some people do," said Mr. Gompers, "that labor unions are an evil, I think you will agree with me that their existence should not be endangered by this bill."

"I do not desire to be classed with those who consider trade unions an evil," replied the President, and he finished the sentence with the words quoted at the beginning of this dispatch.

Nominations.

The president today sent the following nominations to the senate:

Treasury—G. W. Easterly, of Minnesota to be deputy auditor for the state and other departments. Edward McKittrick, of Iowa, to be Deputy Auditor for the treasury department.

Interior—William Ryan, of Idaho; Thomas A. Davis, of Idaho, and Geo. A. Black, of Washington, to be commissioners to examine and classify lands within the land grant and indemnity land grant limits of the Northern Pacific Railroad company in the Coeur d'Alene land district in Idaho.

Captain George Remy, to be Commodore; Commander Wm H. Whiting to be Captain; Lieutenant-Commander Symonds to be a Commander.

Senator Morgan's Bill.

Senator Morgan has introduced a bill for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands. The bill provides that the islands shall become a territory of the United States in accordance with the terms of the recently negotiated treaty. The date for the extension of the laws of this country over the islands is the 4th of March, 1898, but it is specifically provided that they may be put in force at an early day if congress so directs. It is also directed that the five commissioners provided for by the treaty to make recommendations to congress in matters pertaining to Hawaii shall be confirmed by the senate. The bill appropriates $100,000 for the execution of its provisions. Out of this sum the interest on the Hawaiian debt is to be paid, but provision for the payment of the principal of this debt is deferred. In reply to a question, Senator Morgan said that his bill was intended to carry the annexation treaty into execution in case it should be ratified by the senate or to provide for its ratification by the joint action of the two houses in case the senate should refuse to act. "The treaty," said the senator, "can be ratified in this form by a majority vote in each of the two houses, thus avoiding the necessity for securing two-thirds of the senate, as would be required if the matter should be passed upon by that body alone." The senate said that circumstances would determine whether the bill should be pressed during the present session of congress.

A Russian Ironclad Strikes a Rock With Disastrous Results.

The Russian turret ironclad Gangool, one of the best in the service, struck a rock at Tansmun one day last week during a storm and sank almost immediately. The Gangool was one of the Black Sea fleet. She was of 6,500 tons displacement, 288 feet long, 42 feet in the beam and had a maximum draft of 21 feet, with two propellers and 8,300 horse power. She was built at St. Petersburg in 1890, and had a speed of 14.07 knots. Her complement was 528 men. She had one 12-inch gun, four 9-inch guns, four 5-inch guns and ten quick firing guns with five torpedo tubes.

The vessel will be manned by men who will preach the gospel to the natives. Two young ladies will also go out as missionaries. They will make their future residence on some of the little islands, where they will continue their work for life.

NAVAL DISPLAY.

All the Civilized Nations Were Represented.

A FITTING TERMINATION

Of the Grand Festivities of the Week of Jubilee in England—Old Glory Saluted by the Assembled Vessels Amid Great Enthusiasm.

The news report from Ryde, Isle of Wight, says the most magnificent display of naval strength ever witnessed occurred off Spithead Saturday, the occasion being the grand naval review in honor of the completion of the sixtieth year of the reign of Queen Victoria.

The Prince of Wales, representing Her Majesty, reviewed the fine fleet of foreign warships representing all the maratime nations of the world, the proudest, the strongest and the swiftest of these crafts being the United States armored cruiser Brooklyn, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Miller.

The heir apparent also inspected about thirty miles of British warships, in which were 196 fighting ships of different classes, carrying about 900 heavy guns, manned by over 45,000 men and about 6,000 tons in all.

Each maritine nation sent an admiral in his flagship to witness the review. They formed a line abreast of the British battleships. Here they were favorably placed to compare their own naval architecture with that of other nations. Each nation sent the best available ship and a magnificent display resulted.

The following countries were represented with their respective ships and commanding officers: France by the Pothua. Rear Admiral, Marquis De Counthillo; Italy, by the Lepante, Vice Admiral Morin; Germany, by the Koenig Wilhelm, Rear Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, K. G.; Austria Hungary, by the Bitwien, Vice Admiral Hermann, Baron Fon Spanu. Spain by the Vizcaya, Rear Admiral Segismundo Barnejo Y Merelow; Portugal, by the Vasco Di Camo, Captain Barretto De Vasconcelles; the Netherlands, by the Evertson, Rear Admiral Engelbrecht; Denmark, by the Hellgoland. Rear Admiral H. H. Koch: Sweden, by the Gotha. Rear Admiral Klintberg; Norway, by the Fritzjof, Rear Admiral Von Krogh; Russia, by the Rossia, Rear Admiral Nicholas Skrydloff; the United States, by the Brooklyn, Rear Admiral J. N. Miller.

At Portsmouth the streets were thronged with people at an early hour and on all sides were to be seen bewildering masses of glittering uniforms, gay multitudes of civilians, military bands and sailors of all ranks and nationalities.

All in gala array off the coast were nearly 200 British war vessels, manned by about 45,000 men, aggregating some 600,000 tons, which were reviewed by the Prince of Wales, representing the Queen, as the final display of the jubilee celebrations.

The colonial troops arrived at 8 o'clock and were met at the railroad station by a military guard of honor. Then, headed by military bands, they marched to the town hall where the Lord Mayor in full official robes met the troops.

The American line steamship New York, with a large party of sightseers on board, left Southampton at 5 o'clock yesterday evening and took up the position assigned to her in the line set apart for merchant vessels. The American greyhound traversed the line of British warships with the stars and stripes fling proudly and a fine band playing national airs. Each warship dipped her flag and she was greeted with hearty cheers from the the thousands of blue jackets manning the fleet. As the New York passed the German war-ship Koenig Wilhelm the latter's band played "Hail, Columbia."

FIRST CUBAN ELECTION.

Patriots in the United States to be Permitted to Vote.

Cubans who live in the United States, but who have been contributing toward the expenses of the war of independence, are to have a voice in the direction of the affairs of the young republic, whose constituent assembly is to meet at Camaguay on Sept. 2.

There will be a general election of members of the assembly before long throughout those parts of Cuba where the insurgents are strong enough to hold one, and it has been decided that two of the representatives may be elected by Cubans in the United States.

Orders will soon be issued containing all the details as to polling the vote, etc. Every Cuban above 16 years of age who, within two months previous to the election, has contributed a certain amount (not yet decided upon) to the cause of the patriots, will be entitled to vote. As to nominations, they are not yet made.

The local junta is issuing a fine souvenir coin to commemorate the struggle. It is the same size as the United States dollar and contains exactly the same amount of silver. This coin will be sent to the different bankers in New York city who are in sympathy with the cause, and any customer who is willing to accept one $1 will get it.

A VETERAN'S WIFE.

Affected With Heart Disease and Given Up to Die—Saved in a Wonderful Way.

From the Press, Utica, N. Y.

There is no one better known or respected in the village of Brookfield, Madison Co., New York, than Mrs. John Fisk, the wife of an old resident and veteran of the war of the Rebellion. In April of this year, Mrs. Fisk lay at death's door from neuralgia and heart disease, the family physician having recommended her to settle all her worldly affairs, as she was liable to be taken at any minute, and inquiring friends expected at each visit to hear that she had passed away.

But Mrs. Fisk, to the surprise of her neighbors and physicians, suddenly began to mend, and now she is as strong and healthy a woman of her advanced age (76 years) as can be found, and really does not appear nearly as old as she is. The following is her own story of how she was cured.

"I consider it is a duty to myself and the community to tell of my extraordinary recovery from what was thought by my physicians, my husband and friends to be a fatal illness. I had long been suffering from neuralgia in its worst form, enduring agonies that only those who have undergone such torments know, until my heart became so affected functionally and organically, that the doctor said I was liable at any time to pass away. He had done all in his power for me, and I thank him much for his kindness and attention, and believe him to be a good, faithful physician. I was not disposed to die, however, if I could help it, and he having done all he could, I felt at liberty to use any other means that held out a chance of life, and determined to try a remedy that had been recommended by a friend who had been at death's door from rheumatism and heart disease, but who now is in good health.

"Whatever doubt I may have had as to this remedy's efficacy in a dissimilar disease, to that from which he had suffered, was dispelled on reading in the Press of a case identical with my own being cured, with the name and address of the person who had been so benefited. So my husband who now was anxious that I should at once take the treatment, purchased for me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took them according to directions, and within a very short time the pains began to disappear, my heart's actions became normal, and four weeks ago I ceased taking them, as I am entirely cured, and able to do my housework as well as when I was a young woman.

"I had always, until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, looked with suspicion on all advertised proprietary medicines, but now my ideas have undergone a wondrous change in that direction, for under God's all wise Providence, 'Pink Pills' have renovated me, and apparently given me a new lease of life.

"This is no secret in this locality, and I hope this certificate may be the means of other sufferers in distant places securing the same benefits that I have received.

"CLARINDA FISK."

Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

Guy—Could you spare me a cigarette? Contran—My dear fellow, my doctor has strictly forbidden me to smoke. (A fortnight later Guy meets his friend puffing away at a splendid Havana.) Guy—I thought you had to give up smoking? Contran—Oh, my doctor died week ago.—Le Figaro

Put a pill in the pulpit if you want practical preaching for the physical man; then put the pill in the pillory if it does not practise what it preaches. There's a whole gospel in Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills; a "gospel of sweetness and light." People used to value their physic, as they did their religion,—by its bitterness. The more bitter the dose the better the doctor. We've got over that. We take "sugar in ours"—gospel or physic—now-a-days. It's possible to please and to purge at the same time. WE HAVE GOOD TIMES

BUT PROSPERITY IS CONFINED TO A FEW.

How the Prosperity and Good Times Now Monopolized by the Few Become the Inheritance of All? The Chorus of Deliverance.

By Walter Vrooman.

We can vote our country prosperous, but it is very essential that we understand clearly whom we mean when we say "country." We have been voting for one kind of prosperity a long time, even before the "McKinley brand" was on the market. Our mistake has been in not asking "advance agents" to tell us whose prosperity they represented. If a burglar emptying your wife's jewelry box and filling his trousers pockets with the contents of your house, prosperity to him means ruin to you, and your success means the burglar's death. So, in the larger affairs of our nation, the kind of prosperity hoped for by the plunderers of the people means ruin to their millions of victims, while good times for the workers, the farmers, the merchants, mean hard times to our despoilers. We now have the best times the world has ever seen. Mr. Rockefeller, or Robafellow—one is his name, the other ought to be—has an income of forty thousand dollars a day, and it is increasing. No country in the world has ever produced so much, never were there barns so bursting with grain, or warehouses so filled with clothing, furniture and jewels; never before so many men making from five to forty thousand dollars a day. This great National Joint Stock Company of ours, with its seventy million stockholders, is doing a thriving business and making barrels of money. There is only one objectionable feature. It is that after the labor of these seventy millions of people, their genius, their suffering and their sweat, are converted into wealth, the dividends are given to a few hundred men, while the rest of us pay the assessments. We do not need better times. Anybody who wants to make more than forty thousand dollars a day is a hog. The real issue is not whether we shall have hard times or good times, prosperity or panic in the abstract, but it is whether that prosperity and good times, now monopolized by the few, shall become the inheritance of all. If a select company of burglars and safe-blowers were to enter your village and relieve a number of your merchants of the contents of their safes, their stocks of jewels, silks and clothing, and were to secure all of the finest horses from half the neighboring farms, and utilize them in getting the booty safely to the nearest forest, they would no doubt, while unpacking their wealth and feeding their horses, after their hasty trip, congratulate one another upon "their remarkable prosperity." They would be very apt to brag about the unusual "good times." But if, as the sun rose over the tree-tops and they were repacking their goods, they saw suddenly the glistening pitchforks of half a hundred angry farmers and the determined, furious faces of as many brawny workmen and merchants, bent on reclaiming their property, there would be a panic. The plunderers of the world are enjoying good times at the expense of the masses. Their profits are as fabulous as their methods are cruel. But in the midst of their celebration feast, their crime is discovered, and the pitchforks of five million city workmen loom up in the distance, and the result is panic and loss of confidence among the revelers. As we approach November, 1900, this panic will increase. But, as there wells up the sound infernal of their weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, there will be heard still louder, the voices of millions singing their chorus of deliverance. As these offenders look into the grave where lies buried their every plan for selfish aggrandizement, to us, their innumerable victims, that same grave will be the open window through which we behold the land of promise.

Public Ownership.

The city of Belfast, Ireland, has been making a large profit on the gas works controlled by it. Last year's profit was £67,377. It has been decided to lower the cost to consumers, although the present price is ridiculously low according to American standards. Hereafter gas will be sold for 60 cents per 1,000 feet instead of 65 cents, and there will be a discount of 5 per cent to 20 per cent upon the amount consumed; all this, too, with coal at $[illegible] per ton. This information comes from United States Consul Taney's report to the state department.

A New Campaign Cry.

"The low prices of corn during the last year has been a great benefit to the stock raisers of Kansas who have larger bank accounts today.—Topeka Capital, June 1.

And the Republican farmers of Kansas support a paper and a party that claims it is a benefit to have low-priced corn! Five-cent corn would probably make them still richer! Some people think more of party than they do of bread.—Appeal to Reason.

Nervous Prosperity.

A new disease has been discovered which physicians call "nervous prosperity." It only affects the wealthy and McKinley's administration will see that the necessary precautions are taken to protect the poor from its ravages.—Creston American.

Man is the natural proprietor of the earth. He owns it while he lives on it. His life consists in occupying and using it. To possess land is the right of every human being; the title rests in no single man, but in all men; it is a joint and common possession.—Coming Nation.

Much ado is being made in Pittsburg over the Carnegie museum, and much space is being used in the daily papers discussing the plans of the taxidermists who are preparing to stuff and mount thousands of rare and curious animals. I would like to see Pennsylvania papers discussing the best plan to stuff several thousand starving miners with bread. I suppose, however, that the objection will be made that these kind of animals are neither rare nor curious.—Uncle Sam.

Can there be more eloquent or forceful arguments made to prove the hollowness of Republican promises than the bare recital of events that are now taking place in the industrial world, particularly in the protected, goldbug east? The fallacy of McKinleyism is dawning upon the eastern workingman. His is a late awakening, but no less felicitous. His brothers, who have long since opened their eyes to the light of truth, deeply sympathize with him in his dazed condition, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that they are in no sense responsible for it. Nor do they now wish to chide their eastern brethren, but to hope that they have removed the wool from their eyes on the financial question for good.—Victor Record.

The employes of the Big Four railroad whose wages have just been reduced from $1.75 to $1 a day, and who were inveigled last fall into voting for McKinley so as to guard against the payment of their wages in 53-cent dollars have now a neat mathematical problem to work out. It rests upon them to explain the difference between $1.75 a day when reduced to 93 cents a day by a 53-cent dollar under Bryan and $1.75 a day when reduced to $1 under McKinley. As the figures stand there is just 7 cents in favor of McKinley; but that leaves out of consideration the state of the labor market, which could not have been worse and might have been better under Bryan. All things considered, the chances would have been in favor of the 53-cent dollar.—Cleveland Recorder.

If workingmen held the laws which they do not like in the same contempt in which so-called "best citizens" hold laws which they do not like, the wealth and even the lives of the plutocrats of this country would hardly be worth an hour's purchase.—Cleveland Recorder.

Apparently there is no law in this country strong enough to catch and hold a trust magnate. Searles, like Havemeyer, goes free. But Debs went to jail and Coxey's people had to keep off the grass.—Johnstown Democrat.

They Got It in the Neck.

New York and Pennsylvania each gave over a quarter of a million majority for McKinley and prosperity last fall. They got McKinley and prosperity all right! all right! But the hundreds of thousands of half starving tailors and textile workers in New York and an equal number of starving miners and iron workers in Pennsylvania are still looking for that prosperity.—Journal of the Knights of Labor.

Our new secretary of the navy, Mr. Long, has decided that the cost of building an armor plant for the government will be double that of the estimate of Secretary Herbert, and he is also in favor of raising the limit of cost of armor to $400 per ton. Carnegie and other armor monopolists seem to be in a fair way of easily getting back double the amount of their campaign contributions.—Uncle Sam.

PURE LEGISLATURES.

A DUBIOUS CERTIFICATE OF HONESTY.

The New York Sun Is Horrified by the Anarchistic Speech of Hon. Wayne Macveagh of Pennsylvania—Gods Truth.

Hon. Wayne McVeagh, once a Clevelandite, but now a Bryan Democrat, and ex-minister to Italy, in an address before the University of Pennsylvania last week, used the following significant language:

"The black flag of the corruptionist," he said, "is far more to be feared than the red flag of the anarchist, and it is impossible to exaggerate the ethical change which would transfigure American politics if all capitalists and all corporations would, for the future, absolutely refrain from this misuse of money in politics, of which they have been guilty in the past. It would be as if there had appeared 'a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness.'"

Whereupon the New York Sun, once a Democratic paper, but now a Clevelandite renegade, is moved to say:

"This is good Bryanesque talk. Everything would be all right if the wicked corporations and capitalists would only respect the innocence of legislatures. The chatter about the corruption of legislatures is somewhat wearisome. It remains chatter. Facts in proof of the vague charges are usually wanting. We do not believe that legislatures are corrupt."

Yet one of the most prominent corporation lawyers of the Sun's own state and city is authority for the statement that he knew of one corporation that put up $50,000 every year as a corruption fund to be used among the members of the legislature of New York state, and that nearly every corporation in the state did the same to a greater or less extent, says the Journal of the Knights of Labor. Still, the editor of the Sun, who is as well posted on these facts as any man in New York, has the unblushing gall to write down in black and white that he does not believe legislatures are corrupt. The Sun must think its readers are either all under the control of the corrupt corporations or else that they are a lot of idiots, if it expects them to believe such editorial absurdities as the above-quoted remarks.

Here are legislatures like that of Illinois giving a franchise worth $30,000,000 to the Yerkes street railway syndicate for a cash consideration of $1,000,000 that it is openly charged was distributed among the members of that body, and a similar transaction took place with regard to the Chicago gas trust.

In New York the gas companies, railroads, insurance companies, and a host of others get gifts of millions from the legislatures, yet the Sun does not believe they are corrupt.

A Model Farm.

No king, nor queen, nor prince, nor lord on this earth has such a magnificent palace as young Vanderbilt has made for himself high up among the mountains of Virginia just a short distance from Asheville. Vanderbilt allows the public to visit his grounds and admire the palace, though it is not every one who gets a glimpse within the chateau where he has stored so many treasures of art and history. He has spent more than four million dollars on it, and if he lives to enjoy it, no doubt it will cost him all of ten million dollars before many years. He has 180,000 acres and can travel thirty-five miles in a straight line from his door without reaching the boundaries of his estate. Mammoth driveways and cycle roads run everywhere, and there are miles of them, carefully graded and kept smooth. Seldom does any one ever come to Asheville without going to see Biltmore.

Why Not?

If the government can create money for the bankers, why not for itself and the people?

If the greenbacks are money how can the power of the government to create money be denied?

If the greenbacks are not money, why did the bondholders ever lend the government any money, having lent nothing but greenbacks?

If the greenbacks are not money, why have the soldiers ever been paid, having received nothing but greenbacks?

If greenbacks are not money, why have the millions of debts that have been settled with greenbacks ever been paid?

If bank notes are good money, are not the government notes much better?—Pilot.

Another Infidel.

The Man Who Had Doubts approached the sacred environs of the Prosperity Maker.

"Why—?"

The Doubter fell upon his knees and pleaded.

"Why have you placed a tariff of 10 cents per pound on tea?"

"Why, to protect—"

Once more he reversed the wool business.

"To protect the poor American laborer who raises tea."

And the Doubter, being an Anarchist, still doubted.—Uncle Sam.

And They Want It All.

When monopolists don't see what they want, they just take it.—Wilmington Justice.

THE POPULIST VIEW.

The sugar trust has perfected the sugar schedule of the new tariff bill, and it has been ratified by the senate.

The Populist administration of Kansas has paid off $200,000 of the state's indebtedness during the past few months. While they were doing that, says the Bedford Free Press, the Republican administration of Iowa was running Iowa in debt more than that much. And still it's "poor, bleeding Kansas."

Ewing Herbert, a well-known Kansas Republican editor, writes the following candid confession as to the situation: "The politicians at Washington are as blind as the politicians of Kansas were in the beginning of the unrest which overthrew them. While congressmen are fiddling away at the tariff and making spread-eagle speeches their constituents are hoping for more statesmanship and less politics in legislative speech and action. The Kansas idea is epidemic. For thirty years war records have been pawed over and paraded with oratorical finish before lusty-lunged enthusiasts; but the approving yells of partisans are no longer easily provoked. Few men care to read or hear the speeches of the law-makers. They want them to do some work. The Republicans believe that the present administration will redeem every promise, but they are impatient because so much talk is indulged in. They don't like the idea of oiling and starting so much political machinery to accomplish reforms agreed upon. The fact is there are more John Wanamaker Republicans in Kansas than there are of the Quay kind. The Populists rule the state by the consent of Republicans grown tired of old party methods."

Events are making Populists; which is why propaganda for the People's party platform will produce greater political results just now than ever before.

It is now about settled that Seth Low will be the regular Republican candidate for the mayoralty of New York. The Republican machine does not want Mr. Low, but the millionaires of this city have practically forced the man upon Boss Platt, says the Twentieth Century. The machines of all parties depend upon the millionaires for financial support. Whenever the millionaires insist that a thing must be done, that settles it. The machine has to give in. The candidacy of Seth Low proves what we have maintained all along, namely, that it is the millionaires who keep the machines going. It is true that the millionaires pretend to look down upon the machine, and to despise it, but that amounts to no more than their professions of honesty. The millionaire is a splendid man to preach civic virtue and probity, and then buy a franchise from a legislature or bribe an ordinance through a board of aldermen. It may be that the millionaires will succeed in getting Seth Low elected. They can do it if the opposition is divided, a fact of which they are well aware. There is reason to believe that David B. Hill is secretly working in the interest of Seth Low and some leaders of the Tammany ring are suspected of similar tactics. An enormous sum of money has already been raised to pull Seth Low through, for some very rich franchise privileges are at stake and members of the Citizens' Union are eager to steal them.

Thousands upon thousands of railroad men don't want the government to own the railways, says the Coming Nation. The reasons vary with the individuals, but most of them fear that they "can't strike." Railway employes generally strike for wages and if the government operated the roads the wages would be placed at a satisfactory figure and only enough charged to pay this wage and keep the road in order. Thus there would be no reason to strike, while as it is now, there is every reason why they should, but they don't dare. The railroad companies love their men, you bet they do! Last fall they spent millions to prevent their beloved employes from voting to receive their pay in 50-cent dollars. Since then the pay roll has been extravagantly slaughtered. Now the companies have a new and nobby scheme, which will please both the railroad men who are let out by it and those who stay, as well as the passengers who pay three cents a mile for presumably safe transportation. Kindly read, gentle reader of railway economy:

"The Pennsylvania railroad is still giving object lessons of economy. Beginning with today, no passenger brakeman will be used on either the Madison or Cambridge branches and Conductors Lon Jackson and Will Hull will have to man their own trains single handed and alone."

Anarchistic Utterances.

"The rich man is wise in his own conceit; but the poor that hath understanding searcheth him out." "The rich man's wealth is as a high wall in his own conceit," referring to which persons, it is said, "There is more hope of a fool than of him." What vile "anarchist" wrote these sentences? We don't know, but they will be found in Proverbs xviii:11, xxvi:12, and xxviii:11.—San Francisco Star.

Our Financial System.

The present system of finance robs labor, gorges capital, makes the rich richer and the poor poorer, and turns a republic into an oligarchy of capital.—Wendell Phillips.

HER PROCLAMATION.

QUEEN VICTORIA TO HER LOYAL BRITISH SUBJECTS.

Telepathic Reproduction of the Proclamation Issued On the Sixtieth Anniversary of Her Ascension to the Throne—Unblushing Effrontery.

A PROCLAMATION.

In this, the jubilee and sixtieth year of our reign, and having seen our British empire increase from forty to four hundred millions of people, we desire to publicly place in the hands of our successor the principles that, under the advice of our ministers, have guided us in the administration of the empire; so that our liege and loyal subjects may have an intelligent view of the policy that has guided and will continue to influence the throne and yield to it their unflinching support.

1. The British crown is the lawful heir and successor of the Roman empire. Its hereditary mission and destiny is to re-establish that empire by absorbing the various states that once formed its provinces, as well as the countries discovered and possessed under its authority, or that of the pope, its vassal. Necessarily an object of slow accomplishment, this must be approached with caution, pursued with address and never relinquished.

The principal means whereby to accomplish this great result are religion, military supremacy, the monetary system, colonization and the judicious employment of allies, as the French in Egypt, the Italians in Abyssinia, the Chartered company in the Transvaal and the Greeks in Crete. Of these agencies in their order.

2. The Christian religion and the Roman empire were coeval. Our title of Imperatrice, though only assumed by the crown since the absorption and consolidation of India, descends from the "imperium" of the Caesars. Our title of Fidei Defensor and the condition Dei Gratia, have a similar origin. These titles establish the connection between religion and the state. Both religions imply an ecclesiastical head, and that head is and can only be the one that wears the Royal Crown of Britain. * * * The only distinction which their churchmen can ever acquire must be obtained in England. Whatever makes for them makes for us. They should be permitted to share with our native prelates the most impressive ceremonies; they should be awarded ecclesiastical thrones, coronets, rich robes and luxurious mansions. The more they are honored, the more we shall be exalted, and, through us, the power and influence of the empire.

3. Among the elements of military supremacy most necessary to be preserved are a powerful and numerously manned navy; the command of Gibraltar, Suez and theAtegat; the fortifications of Canada, and the tenacious retention of the islands of the Caribbean and South Seas, both as coaling stations and for the organization of offensive operations. Our bluejackets and volunteers demand especial encouragement. Our permanent forces should be largely recruited with Scots and Irishmen, whose native valor, if not diverted into serviceable channels, may chance to overflow the dykes of loyalty. India must always remain disarmed. Africa must be colonized with those of our Indian subjects whose loyalty and familiarity with modern weapons and drill shall have been carefully tested. The negro must go.

4. The success which has attended the efforts of our financiers to break down all national systems of money and merge them into a metallic system which is governed from London, must be followed up with further measures. The policy inaugurated by the act 18, Charles II., ch. 5 (legalation of Barbara Villiers), zealously seconded by Lord Liverpool, is to establish metal, in place of money, as the measure of value. This will make such measure universal instead of national; it will destroy the monetary prerogative of nations and vest it, where it should be vested, in our empire. It is as essential a step toward the accomplishment of our Hereditary Mission as is the control of the seas. The destruction of the coinage prerogative, which completed by our act of April 12, 1870, the German act of 1871, the American acts of 1873, the French act of 1874 and others, has made England the banking center and clearing-house of the world, the dictator of the world's exchanges, the arbiter of its commercial solvency, the keeper of its commercial honor and the beneficiary of all discoveries, conquests, inventions and improvements. It confirms England in the monopoly of the world's carrying trade and throws into her lap all the gains of production and commerce. The men whose persistence and address have brought about these brilliant results have neither been unnoticed nor unrewarded by the Crown; but in view of its political necessities and of the appointment of a monetary commission by one of our allies, their work is not yet completed; there is more yet to be done. And they may rest assured that the royal interest in their movements will not abate. Though the methods hitherto employed may have to be varied, the course pursued should be the same. All systems of money and credit must be destroyed except that of our empire. Every distinction between money and metal must be effaced in the law; so that the coins of our allies may be exported and melted without loss, and thus employed as a means to alternately contract and expand their local measure of value. The supremacy of London as the mining market of the world must be maintained. Whatever loss is entailed by working the mines is repaid a thousand fold by controlling, through it, the metal which we have made the money of the world.

5. The colonization of Canada with the outcasts of the London prisons and workhouses and of South Africa with Indian riots, should not be permitted to flag. Both of these classes of people are British subjects owing allegiance. Their helplessness deserves protection; their poverty and misfortunes demand redress. Canada has nothing to fear from the intrusion of these unfortunates. There will always remain an uncontaminated residuum of British nobility and gentry in her population sufficiently commanding to govern the rest. What the Americans, our allies, may suffer by the spread of the alloy into their territory is at present no concern of ours.

6. It has been our policy to patronize Americans and to interest them in the solidarity of the Anglo-Saxon race. Our common language and religion have afforded a happy medium of confidence. These are now being supplemented by a common money. When these elements of political union are capped by an arbitration treaty the imperial edifice will be almost complete. Time and opportunity, the merest accident, may suffice to replace the royal standard of England upon the trans-Atlantic eminences from which it was rudely torn by the malcontents of a revolutionary age. The attentions shown to their recent ambassadors and representatives have been received in a spirit which proves that the Americans are not insensible to the social distinctions which their own system refuses. The marriage of American heiresses to the nobility of England and France, while it has served to cull the choicest flowers from the sunless garden of democracy, has contributed no little to the wealth of our Kingdom, and from this point of view it is invested with an importance that suggests an effort to divert the movement altogether to our own realms. To provide a ready market for influential and needy American Journals is another matter that should not fail to engage the attention of our administrators. The prudent investment of British capital in American industrial enterprises has of late years faltered; but now it need no longer be delayed; because the time is not far removed when the works will fall under the protection of their rightful sovereign. Already these Republicans are tired of their fantastic system of government, which, thanks to the legislation promoted by Barbara Villiers and its statutory sequels, gives unmistakable signs of collapse and absorption into our Dominion of Canada.

In view of this great event, no pains nor expense should be begrudged to strengthen and fortify the Dominion. Whatever it lacks of railways, telegraphs, coaling stations and other military advantages, should be provided the moment their necessity is recognized.

Done at our palace of Windsor, this 22nd day of June, Anno Domini 1897.

VICTORIA, R. I.

MENTAL ILLUSIONS.

Twin Daughters of Ignorance That Go Hand in Hand.

Hand in hand with the superstition that gold and silver are necessary for money goes the other twin daughter of ignorance, the belief that capitalists support the working classes. Probably 50 per cent of the population believe that the working people would all perish miserably and go to the place of eternal unforgiveness, if there were no capitalists to give them work and thus preserve their otherwise unnecessary existence. The idea that labor has a right to self employment without bowing under the yoke of involuntary servitude to any master, has never entered their minds. Such superstitions originate in mental delusions inherited from past ages of barbarism, when men were supposed to have been created solely for the benefit of kings. At present the capitalist occupies the same imposing position on the throne of mental illusion that the king occupied two centuries ago.—The New Dispensation.

The So-Called Better Class.

It is a curious and sad fact that in the long, weary, upward march of the human race, there was scarcely ever an act proposed for the protection, emancipation or elevation of the human race, but met with the most violent opposition from the so-called better class, as well as from statesmen and philosophers, and many of the clergy. —John P. Altgeld.

Are We Nearing This Ideal?

The citizens of a large nation, industriously organized, have reached their ideal of possible happiness, when the producing, distributing and other activities are such that each citizen finds in them a place for all his energies and aptitudes, while he obtains the means of satisfying all his desires.—Herbert Spencer.

Negotiating for a Daily.

E. W. Barrett is negotiating for the purchase of the Birmingham State-Herald and may become its owner. There seems to be nothing in the report that Capt. Howell will be connected with the venture.

George Pierce, colored, charged with working Wetumpka negroes on the scheme in which they are promised pensions for time served as slaves, has been given three and a half years at Pratt Mines for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Sloss Miners.

The miners in the employ of the Sloss Iron and Steel Company, Birmingham, have quit work pending the adoption of a wage scale for the coming year, the contract between the miners and the company operatives the past year having expired.

Residence Destroyed.

Fire destroyed a residence owned and occupied by J. Mr Hubnely and family, of Eufaula. The inmates had a narrow escape. Very few of the effects were saved. The fire originated in the kitchen, it is thought, from a defective flue; insurance, $1,300.

Struck by Lightning.

The home of Thomas Crosby, of Renfroe, was struck by lightning and his wife, who was confined to her bed with illness, was instantly killed. The bolt did not strike Mrs. Crosby, and it is thought that she died from the nervous shock.

Tax Collector's Report.

The following tax collectors have made reports to the Auditor at Montgomery: W. J. White, of Barbour; R. E. Peagler, of Butler; W. A. Hendricks, of Chilton; W. J. Holland, of Escambia; John H. Turpin, of Hale; W. H. Platt, of Pickens, and J. A. Germany, of Tallapoosa.

New Compress.

Two cars of machinery for the West Huntsville compress for the making of cylindrical cotton bales have been received and several other cars are due to arrive within the next few days. As soon as the ginning machinery is selected, dirt will be broken for the building. The gin will be ready for work in time to enter business in the cotton picking season.

Gold Bonds Sold.

The Commissioners of Tuskaloosa county have sold $12,000 of county gold bonds at a very handsome premium. The bonds were awarded to Mr. Fenton Robertson, of Columbus, Miss., the highest bidder. Mr. Robertson bid $665 premium for $15,000 in denominations of $100. They bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, interest payable semi-annually.

The Right of Way.

In Mobile the jury to condemn the right of way of the Mobile and Ohio railroad from that city to State Line, Miss., for the use of the Postal Telegraph company, made a decision Monday assessing the damage at $5. It is stated that the railroad company claimed $200 per mile as the value of the right af way. The Postal company intends to build a line from that city to St. Louis.

Will Not Accept a Reduction.

The miners at Broodside, Brazil, Cardiff, Blossburg, Blocton, Adger, Johns and Sumter coal mines are idle, having refused to accept a reduction. Three hundred coke ovens at Johns have been shut down and notice given that work is indefinitely postponed. In Birmingham and Gate City two rolling mills have closed, awaiting the signing of the scale of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.

Pension Scheme Swindle.

An article in a recent issue of the Montgomery Journal says that the old fraud of swindling ignorant negroes on the promise of a pension is being worked near that city. The headquarters of the swindle is in a hut some two miles from the city and those who conduct the duping scheme are said to be a white man, a woman of the same color, and a negro man. The people claim to be "right-hand bowers" of President McKinley, sent there to "register" all negroes for the purpose of securing pensions for them. The charged for being registered is 25 cents.

A CALL.

All former members of the Farmers' Alliance and others interested are hereby requested to meet at Clanton on Saturday, July 24, 1897 at 11 o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the Chilton County Alliance. It is particularly desired we have a full meeting.

Signed. A. G. DAKE,
FRANK CRICHTON.

SPECIAL State Examiner J. G. Cowan, of Bullock county, is now busily engaged overhauling the books of the county officers. He expects it will occupy him four or five weeks. We shall be surprised if he discovers any discrepancies, but nevertheless hope he will enjoy his stay here.

THE Nashville conference has come and gone and the earth rolls round as usual. No one has been decapitated and no one hurt. At the present we have only the reports in the daily press, which we are assured are not correct, and therefore refrain from comment on the meeting. We think, however, no particular harm has resulted, save to the pockets of the delegates.

How Clanton is Growing.

IN these dull times it is quite refreshing to see the progress Clanton is making. It is true a little more enterprise might be shown in some things, but on the whole our forward movement is eminently satisfactory.

Mr. Sampey's new brick store is now finished and he will open up with a new stock about August 1.

Mr. Abe Kantner, of Troy, has rented the old court house building, which is now being altered and put in thorough repair, while he has gone to New York to buy a $20,000 stock with which to open in a few weeks.

Mr. C. J. Stewart's new ginnery is being rapidly pushed forward and will be in readiness for the first bale. He also will run a woodyard.

Ice is plentiful and cheap, and our summer visitors, who are now filling our boarding houses, enjoy the finest well water in the State, cooled with ice. Mr. John Gullahorn has just laid in stock of two tons.

Mr. Albert Headley is considering plans for the erection of a brick store on his lot adjoining the depot.

Destructive fire at Clanton.

The midnight slumbers of the good people of Clanton were rudely disturbed Sunday night by cries of fire and the clanging of the fire bell. Shortly before twelve o'clock Mrs. M. M. Smith discoved the rear of the house occupied by Prof. McMorries to be on fire, and raising an alarm the neighbors soon congregated, and arousing the Professor and his son Bascom, who were the only inmates, succeeded in saving most of the furniture. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue in the kitchen. Mrs. McMorries was staying with friends at Verbena, and, consequently was spared the pain of seeing her home desolated. The building was the property of Mr. Lee Bivings of Birmingham and we believe was partially insured. Professor McMorries carried no insurance. He lost his library as well as considerable bedding, etc. The Professor has rented the Morgan house and moved into it yesterday.

"Last summer one of our grand children was sick with a severe bowel trouble," says Mrs. E. G. Gregory, of Fredericksburg, Mo. "Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which gave very speedy relief." For sale by J. S. Johnson, jr., Clanton.

Verbena.

On Thursday night last the residence of Dr. G. W. Dawson was destroyed by fire. The Doctor was unfortunate enough to lose nearly the whole of his furniture, the fire spread so rapidly it was impossible to save anything.

Rev. Hardy Jones, who has been in bad health for the last four or five years is somewhat improved. The reverend gentleman would feel it a boon to be able to mingle with his fellow-citizens again. We hope he may soon be able todo so.

Reasons Why Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy is the Best.

1. Because it affords almost instant relief in case of pain in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus.
2. Because it is the only remedy that never fails in the most severe cases of dysentry and diarrhœa.
3. Because it is the only remedy that will cure chronic diarrhœa.
4. Because it is the only remedy that will prevent bilious colic.
5. Because it is the only remedy that will cure epidemical dysentry.
6. Because it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon in cases of cholera infantum.
7. Because it is the most prompt and most reliable medicine in use for bowel complaints.
8. Because it produces no bad results.
9. Because it is pleasant and safe to take.
10. Because it has saved the lives of more people than any other medicine in the world.

Rockymount.

The health of this community has not been very good. Grain is all harvested; dry weather seems to prevail notwithstanding so many local showers.

Our prayer services, Sabbath-schools and singings are progressing nicely. Prayer-meeting every Wednesday night, singing every 2nd and 4th Sunday evenings, preaching every 4th Sunday and Saturday before.

Two Mormons preachers have visited us again. When will these pests cease to come? When will they quit sowing seeds of discord in our county? When will they seek peace and pursue it? Did you ever read their articles of faith? My, my! you just ought to read them.

Rev. W. M. Green recently visittd us.

Political Pointers.

Secretary Sherman has been showing further signs of what Hanna et al regard as senile debility, by stating, to an interviewer, in New York city, that he regards all trusts and combines as distinctly wrong in principle although they may lower prices and that we are in need of stronger anti-trust laws. The fact that Mr. Sherman supplimented these statements with a prophecy of returning prosperity by the last of July takes very materially from its merits and makes one lean to Hanna's opinion of the aged Ohioan.

President McKinley has issued peremptory notice that no further appointments will be made until the tariff question is settled. No such hungry hordes of office seekers ever infested the capital as now. Clamorous constituents are making life a burden to Republican senators and congressmen; notably among these is Senator Mason of Illinois who recently gave a very amusing statement of the number of visits he had made to the White House as one hundred and three, and appointments secured three small consulships.

Matt Quay's son, who is in the army has been promoted, by President McKinley, over the heads of 728 other lieutenants, to a captaincy. The ratio of 728 to 1 is rather high even for this administration.

Recent discussion of the lobby scandal in the senate so offended several notorious lobbyists, among them several ex-senators, that it is said they remained away from the senate chamber for several days. Senator Allen pointed out that his resolution, offered some time since, was aimed at this abuse.

Senators Carter, of Montana, and Shoup of Idaho have signified their determination to break with the Republican party.

Chairman Marion Butler in his paper "The Caucassian," says in reply to the oft repeated attacks of the middle-of-the-roaders and the N. R. P. A.

"Newspapers, claiming to be Populist are pursuing a policy which all true Populists have denounced vigorously and justly. We refer to those which have announced that the national people's party committee has formed a conspiracy to sell out the party to the democrats. They know their statements are basely false, but they have a base motive. If there is a single Populist in the United States in favor of disbanding the peoples party or merging it into the democratic party we do not know him. It is the class of so-called Populists who wanted to see McKinley elected, for reasons best known to themselves, who are now trying to cover their tracks and calling attention from their own questionable conduct by lying and denouncing the national committee."

Side by side with the accounts of the Diamond Jubilee observances are stories of revolt and bloodshed in India. One told of dazzling uniforms, of diamonds without stint, the people bent on pleasure; the other told of taxes too heavy to be born, of poverty and starvation a people dying like rats of the plague. In Ireland also, demonstrations of displeasure were not wanting. In some places decorated and illuminated houses were attacked.

Grand Master Workman James Sovereign in the Journal of the Knights of Labor expresses disapproval of the social democracy and of the Debs letter to Rockfeller. He characterizes the plan as "a half-baked scheme of European socialism."

The Ohio democratic state convention held last week declared unanimously for free silver and emphasized the fact that McKinley was elected by coercion and the use of money.

A meeting of free silver republicans, democrats and Populists was held at Lincoln, Neb., June 28 at which terms of fusion were agreed upon. After some grumbling among the democrats, the head of the State ticket was conceded to the Populists This was done on the advice of Bryan. Another meeting will be held in July to agree upon time and place for holding the State convention. A.R.

is starved blood. It shows itself in pale cheeks, white lips, weak digestion, no appetite, exhaustion, lack of nerve force, soft muscles, and, chief of all, weak muscles. Your doctor calls it Anaemia. He will tell you that the weakening weather of summer often brings it on.

Jemison, Ala., July 6, 1897.

Editor BANNER: We noticed a communication in a recent issue of the BANNER from Hon. S. M. Adams which he closes by manifesting a strong desire to see the Farmers' Alliance revived in Alabama and again brought into active, energetic and effective work as in days of yore, and at the same time calls for a second to his motion. Yes, Bro. Adams, I, for one, second your motion, and would be ready for the vote to be taken. But one second is not enough in his case We want a score of seconds in every county in the State. We want those who are willing to make sacrifices, if needs be, to aid in resurrecting the noblest and grandest organization known to the world. No man need be told of the good and grand results of the Farmers' Alliance while in its glory. All can see it now, and it is as clear as a noon day beam that had the Alliance held its ground and moved on as it was want to do, it would ere this time have crossed the Jordan and been safely at home in the promised land. How many in Chilton county and in the State will respond to Bro. Adams' move and get ready to go to work. You all know what it means, you all know the principles of the order. We have been asleep long enough. Let us wake up and go to work and regain as near as possible what we have lost. Let us have music in the air once more. Let none be discouraged. Let no man be afraid. Let no man's heart fail him, but work, work for self-preservation ever remembering that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." UNO.

Stands at the Heal

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cured my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I can not say enough for its merits." Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and to-day stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottle at Dr. J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

Jemison, July 6, 1897.

Editor BANNER: To revive the Farmers' Alliance is a present necessity. Some may say that old thing is too dead, it has run its course and finished its work. May we say its race was not out nor its grand work completed. Come together and re-organize in the name of humanity and harmony. There is no mistake nor doubt about this. Realizing by previous experience that the principles of the Alliance are as high as Heaven, as broad as the earth, as limitless as space, and will anchor in glory. There should be no time lost in refreshing the mind. Let this holy work be continually permeating in the thoughts of the better thinking people. Think what might have been gained ere this time, but for the carelessness of our people. Let us resolve to get in line, raise our banner and die at our post. The righteousness of our cause, the present need for reform and for justice, to satisfy the incessant cravings of the toiling millions, call for action.

Mrs. IRA. CAMPBELL.

Ennis, Tex., July 3, 1897.

Mr. Editor: Will you please find space in your valuable paper for the following.

Bethel church, Texas. The 3rd Sunday in June was day set apart for the dedication of a new church. The church and congregation assembled at 9:30 o'clock. Messrs. Gid McNab and A. L. Vines were appointed ushers of the house. T. S. Vines was requested to lead the singing with Miss Mattie Sanders as organist. They rendered their part with much earnestness and enthusiasm. The choir was composed of about forty, all of whom were excellent singers, prayer services held 30 minutes and a sermon by Bro. Selvedge a very able preacher. After all had taken refreshments the audience was again called by singing. The choir was engaged half an hour in blending their voices together in praise and honor to Him who gave that precious gift of song. Will say that T. S. Vines led some very excellent music which was attentively listened to by the large audience. At 2 p.m. had another sermon by Rev. Selvedge, benediction song, "Blessed be the name."

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Singing at Maple Springs.

Some of the leading singers of Chilton county met together with Maple Springs church, on the 1st Sunday in July. R. T. Grant was elected chairman, J. W. Kicker, Assistant; Watts Moore, secretary. Committee on Program: D. F. Jacks, W. W. Devaughn and W. F. Jones. The following leaddrs were present: R. T. Grant, Watts Moore, P. R. Devaughan and J. W. Kicker.

The first lesson was conducted by Watts Moore and R. T. Grant. Reces after which we heard a very able sermon by Rev. R. L. Long, pastor, after we retired to the grove and partook of a bountiful repast, prepared by the good people of the church and its surroundings. Then we were called in by the chairman and were entertained by P. R. Devaughn, J. W. Kicker and Watts Moore. Recess. After which we were called in and entertained by R. T. Grant. Then we closed. The singing was a grand success and we hope it was to the honor and glory of God and to the up-building of His blessed cause not as one of our correspondents regarded it a holiday and picnic.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

Ministers Should Use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

THERE IS NO PROFESSION, whose labors so severely tax the nervous system, as that of the ministry. The derangement of the nerve centers of the brain by over work, frequently brings on attacks of heart trouble, and nervous prostration.

Rev. J. P. Kester, M. D., Pastor U. B. church, London Mills, Ills., himself a physician, writes Feb. 22, 1895: "Heart affection and nervous prostration had become so serious last fall that a little over work in the pulpit would so completely prostrate me that it seemed certain I must relinquish the work of the ministry entirely. Heart palpitation became so bad that my auditors would ask me if I did not have heart disease. Last November I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure alternately with Dr. Miles' Nervine and derived the greatest possible benefit. I have just closed a revival work of 10 weeks, preaching nearly every night and twice on the Sabbath. I can speak for hours without suffering as I formerly did. Hard working ministers should keep Dr. Miles' grand remedies on hand."

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Lumburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populist and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan. 25, 1897.

Dear Sirs—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 8th of January last I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism, so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was absolutely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours, J. P. LUMBURNER.

Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

Dear Sirs:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and I had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so crippled, that I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable, and I believed him. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I have got felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 30 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It puts off Croup and cures and relives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.

Yours respectfully, WM. M. KELLEMS, Siberia, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and receiving the above letter which was published in twelve, doubting of his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwarded as Kellems, doubting of his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwarded as

MR. J. J. WILSON.

Dear Sir:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published my testimonial just as I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain. Dr. S. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

MR. W. M. AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS

A New Missing Word Contest

THE CONTEST BEGAN JUNE 1---ENDS SEPT. 1

THE SENTENCE IS TAKEN FROM THE WORKS OF A STANDARD AUTHOR, AND IS AS FOLLOWS:

"We Have Not '_____' Enough, and Are Put to Very Awkward Shifts For Want of Some."

The book containing the sentence has been sealed and placed in the hands of Mr. W. A. Hemphill, President and Business Manager of Constitution Publishing Company, who has it in a safety vault, and who will give it sealed to the committee that makes the decision on September 1st, 1897.

THIS CONTEST is the Fourth of a Series of Extraordinary Interest, NEARLY $4,000 in cash having been distributed in the three preceding Contests, the first of which was announced last November. In the first Contest, ending Jan. 1st, Mr. M. L. Brittain was the only person to supply the correct word of the sentence then announced and he received $1,033 in cash. The next Contest closed March 1st, and there were a great many successful guessers, among whom was divided $1,700 in cash. The third Contest brought many correct answers, $1,000 in cash being divided among them.

This Contest Lasts Three Months and the Amount to Be Divided Will Be Large. There may be one correct answer, there may be a dozen; there may be more, but remember it costs nothing to supply a word, and you may get it correctly. Whether you do or not, you get

KEEP THAT IN VIEW AND SEND YOUR GUESS, WITH YOUR DOLLAR FOR A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION.

Ten per cent of the Guessers' Subscriptions goes to the Fund to be divided. In other words, if this Subscription Fund amounts to $20,000 for the three months, the Fund to go to the successful guesser would be $2,000. Following are the conditions of the contest:

We Propose to Put 10 Per Cent Of the amount we receive for subscriptions, wherein the party subscribing enters the Missing Word Contest, into a fund for distribution among those who name correctly the missing word. For instance: If only one contestant gets the word right, he or she, as the case may be, will have all the money. If more than one strike it, the sum will be equally divided, each correct answer receiving its proportionate share of the money.

The Condition Precedent for Sending a Guess At the Missing Word is that each and every guess must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution; the guess must be sent in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it, or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the guess at the time you subscribed, or any other reason will not entitle one to send a guess afterwards. The guess must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one guess, he or she will be entitled to a share of the fund for each correct guess sent, there will be no capital prize—every one will get a first prize; if more than one person names the missing word properly, the money will be equally divided and all stand exactly on the same footing. Persons may guess as many times as they send subscriptions.

The Contest Began June 1. We began then to keep accurate account of the subscriptions received with guesses, and on July 1 we will publish how much is to the credit of the subscribers guessing, and during July and August we will publish each week how the fund has grown.

The Contest Closes Sept. 1. At which time we will pay out to the successful party or parties the full prize amount that has accrued in the contest.

In Making Your Answer You need not write the sentence out in full, just state simply the Missing Word for September 1 is "_____."

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that come under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

LONG LIST OF APPOINTMENTS

Sent to the Senate by the President—Japanese Minister May be Recalled—Receipts and Expenditures for Month of June.—Other Items of Interest.

An Embezzler Pardoned.

The president has pardoned Charles R. Fleischman, sentenced in Illinois to five years' imprisonment in the Milwaukee house of correction, December 8th last for embezzling the funds of the National bank of Illinois.

Comparative Statement.

The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that during the month of June the receipts from eleven sources amounted to $36,584,708, and the expenditures $22,934,694, leaving a surplus for the month of $13,650,014. The surplus during June, 1896, was $2,340,400. The statement shows that the deficit for the fiscal year closed Wednesday, last week, was $18,623,108, a reduction of $31,821,985, since March 11 of the present year.

The receipts from customs during last June aggregated $21,560,152 as compared with $11,351,803 for June, 1896.

The receipts from internal revenue sources during the last month were $12,887,085, a loss as compared with June, 1896, of $500,000.

Congressman Knowles Hot.

In the house one day last week Mr. Knowles (pop., S. D.) rose to a question of personal privilege, and sent to the clerk's desk and had read an Associated Press dispatch dated Lewiston, Me., in which Prof. L. C. Bateman charged, on the alleged authority of Mr. Knowles, that the "middle-of-the-road populists had accepted $1,500 from the proceeds of Mr. Bryan's book, with the understanding that nothing should be done to prevent fusion in 1900." Mr. Knowles denounced Mr. Bateman's statement as a wilful falsehood. Mr. Dingley objected to the airing of private grievances in the house. He said the gentleman might "hire a hall" if he desired to make a personal explanation. Mr. Knowles, however, insisted that he had a right to denounce a statement that was "false as hell," and the speaker allowed him to proceed. Mr. Knowles read letters in vindication of himself.

Threatened With a Deficiency.

For more than a month all pension certificates issued by the government have been held up in the pension bureau. The suspension ended last week when an immense batch of certificates was mailed to the various agencies. This terminates the operations of an order which taking effect on May 31 last was designed to avoid increasing the existing deficiency in the pension applications by crediting the payments which would follow the issuances of these certificates to the new fiscal year instead of to the fiscal year ended Wednesday of last week. The pension bureau was threatened with a deficiency of about $300,000 in its appropriations, and the discovery of the threatened deficit by Commissioner Evans led to the suspension. The prompt action saved the office in this respect, and it is stated prevented a deficiency being recorded against the past fiscal year.

A Novel Scheme.

Representative Shafroth, of Colorado, introduced in the house the other day a novel measure, entitled "A bill to encourage the economical administration of the government." It provides that "in order that each officer and employe of the United States shall have a direct interest in the economical administration of the government, the secretary of the treasury is directed for each month the expenditures of the government are greater than the receipts to deduct and retain in the treasury from each salary in excess of $200 per month 20 per cent. thereof, and from each salary under said amount 10 per cent. thereof." It further provides that in no case shall the amount so deducted be repaid unless at the end of the fiscal year the receipts for the year have exceeded the expenditures. The president and justices of the supreme court are the only officials exempted from the operations of the act.

Likely to be Recalled.

Toru Hoshi, the Japanese minister, is likely to be recalled at an early date. While officials at Washington of the Japanese legation claim to be in ignorance of any such probability, well-informed opinion in state department circles inclines to the belief that Mr. Hoshi will ask for his papers within a short time.

The reasons for the minister's recall are two-fold, not the least potent of which is said to be the feeling of the Mikado's government and the minister personally toward this government's policy in Hawaii. The minister himself feels insulted because the state department did not apprise him of the negotiations which led to the signing of the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii, and while the Japanese home government is incensed on account of this and what it termed a lack of consideration of its rights in Hawaii in the framing of the treaty itself, the condition of Japanese politics affords a second reason for the minister's recall.

List of Appointments.

The president last week sent the following nominations to the senate:

Treasury—George C. Bidwell, to be collector of customs for the district of New York.

Wilbur F. Wakeman, appraiser of merchandise in the district of New York.

Justice—Henry P. Closs, attorney of the United States for the northern district of New York.

State—John F. Gowey, of Washington, consul at Kanagawa, to be consul general at Yokohama, Japan.

George N. West, of the District of Columbia, now consul at Picton, to be consul at Sydney, N. S. W.

To Be Consuls—Oscian Bedell, of New York, at Fort Erie, Ont.

John C. Higgins, of Delaware, at Dundee, Scotland.

Interior—C. Sanford Russell, of Missouri, to be receiver of public moneys at Ironton, Mo.

Lee Patrick, of Oklahoma, to be agent for the Indians of the Sac and Fox agency, Oklahoma.

Postmasters—Jerome E. Poche, Washington, Ga.; Sebastian Anderson, Jasper, Ind.; Abel Landrich, Napoleonville, La.

State—John Russell Young, of Pennsylvania, to be librarian of congress.

Bernard R. Green, of the District of Columbia, to be superintendent of library building and grounds.

Francis B. Loomis, of Ohio, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Venezuela.

To Be Consuls—Henry Rordewick, of Minnesota, at Christiana, Norway.

John C. Caldwell, of Kansas, at San Jose, Costa Rica.

Philip C. Hanna, of Iowa, at Trinidad, West Indies.

Louis Lange, Jr., of Illinois, at Bremen, Germany.

Joseph J. Stevens, of Indiana, at Plymouth, England.

War—Col. Henry C. Merriam, Seventh infantry, to be brigadier general.

Justice—John R. Thomas, of Illinois, to be judge of the United States courts in the Indian Territory.

Treasury—Thomas J. Yandell, of Kentucky, to be collector of internal revenue for the Second district of Kentucky.

John W. Yeakes, of Kentucky, to be collector of internal revenue for the Eighth district of Kentucky.

William Woodville Rockhill, of the District of Columbia, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary and Consul General to Greece, Roumania and Servia.

Arthur S. Hardy, of New Hamsphire, Minister Resident and Consul General to Persia.

Abraham E. Smith, of Illinois, Consul at Victoria, B. C.

Asa W. Tenny, United States District Judge for the Eastern District of New York.

Richard W. Austin, Marshal of the Eastern District of Tennessee.

George W. Allen, Collector of Customs for the District of Key West, Fla.

Mr. Rockhill, the new minister to Greece, was until recently Assistant Secretary of State. His appointment is not a party one in any sense, but is based entirely upon his experience as a diplomat and his excellent work while in the Department of State. He entered the diplomatic service as far back as 1884, being appointed from Maryland to be Second Secretary of Legation at Peking. In 1886 and 1887 he acted as charge d'affaires at Seoul, the Korean capital.

In 1788 he resigned with a long leave of absence, which he devoted to an exploration of Thibet, then an almost unknown country. One result of this journey was a most interesting contribution to the scientific literature of travel.

In 1893 Mr. Rockhill, who had then returned to the United States, was appointed chief clerk of the Department of State, a post he relinquished in the following year to become Third Assistant Secretary of State. At the personal request of President Cleveland, Mr. Rockhill in 1896 relinquished this place, which from custom had come to be regarded as non-political and safe from the vicissitudes of changes in the administration, to accept the place of Assistant Secretary of State vacated by the appointment of Mr. Uhl as Ambassador to Germany. He continued to hold the place under the present administration until the appointment of Judge Day, and remained in the department until some time after the accession of the latter to close up the Cuban correspondence of the last administration.

DURRANT'S APPEAL.

Papers Received by the Clerk of the United States Supreme Court.

A telegram from Washington says: The papers in the appeal of W. H. T. Durrant, under sentence of death in San Francisco for the murder of Blanche Lamont, were received by the clerk of the United States supreme court last Thursday. The appeal is from the decision if the circuit court of the United States in the Ninth district in refusing to grant Durrant's application for a writ of habeas corpus. In his petition Durrant alleges that the irregularity and illegality of the proceedings against him in the California state courts in that trial "was conducted upon information not in accordance with the equal protection of the laws and not by due process of law," and that testimony was introduced and conviction secured without any process of law and without trial by an impartial jury, and without process of law. As the supreme court will not sit again until October 12, the application cannot be argued before that time.

UNABLE TO CONTINUE.

Third Building and Loan Association in Kentucky Fails.

The Globe Building and Loan association of Louisville, Ky., went to the wall last Thursday afternoon, finding itself unable to carry on business under the state law as construed by the appellate court. The assets and liabilities are estimated at $400,000 each. L. O. Cox is president. The managers of the other building and loan associations have issued cards calculated to restore confidence, claiming that the ruling of the court did not affect them. This makes the third corporation of this character that has gone under during the past two days.

More War Possible.

A pessimistic view of the negotiations for peace between Turkey and Greece are taken at Athens and even the resumption of hostilities in the near future is regarded as possible. It is stated that in such an event King George will command the Greek troops.

In Chicago Men Sickened.

Chicago, July 3.—The highest temperature recorded in the annals of the weather bureau for the month of July in ten years was reached today, when for two hours the thermometer registered 95 degrees.

But the mercury did not keep there. It went up and down, until it finally made one supreme jump in an hour's from 89 to 97 degrees.

On the business streets men reeled and sickened as in a plague-stricken city and in the tenement districts women and children huddled, seeking in vain, relief from the heat that prevailed everywhere.

It was the hottest day of the year and the hottest July that Chicago ever knew. There were many prostrations, police and hospital ambulances being kept busy all day caring for those who sank under the scorching rays, but up to midnight but one case had proved fatal.

100 in the Shade at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., July 3.—An even 100 degrees in the shade is what Observer Frank Burke read on his thermometer when he made his observation at 12.30 this afternoon. Ten minutes later it had dropped to 99 where remained for an hour, a gradual drop following. This breaks all records for years. The hottest day last year was July 28, when 98.5 was registered. At 11 this morning 98 was registered. At noon a slight drop was noticeable, but thirty minutes later the mercury took a final upward spurt and broke all records. There are a dozen or more prostrations, but so far none have resulted fatally. Horses and mules fall on the streets, and twenty or more have been killed during the last twenty-four hours on account of the excessive heat.

Two Deaths at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 3.—Two deaths and a number of prostrations from heat were reported today. This was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 91.3 at noon. The highest yesterday was 91. The indications are for continued high temperature.

Preferred Death to Heat.

St. Louis, July 3.—Because he could not sleep, owing to the heat, William Marzlaud, one of the four grown brothers who live together in a comfortable home at 1023 Morrison street, killed himself last night. His body was found hanging in the cellar today.

Death Caused by Heat.

Aurora, Ill., July 3.—Robert Hillocks and his wife were found dead in their home in this city today. The body of Mr. Hillocks lay upon the floor and that of his wife on the bed. Each was 30 years of age. It is believed the strange fatality was caused by the intense heat.

Hot Winds Wither Crops.

Kansas City July 3.—According to specials received by the Star the worst damages suffered by Kansas crops within the last week from hot winds has been in the southwest from Great Bend west and south. There is a strip of country running through Marion and Dickinson counties where the weather has been unusually dry and wheat as well as corn has been damaged and severe damage has been done everywhere west of Marion. But taking the state as a whole it appears according to these specials that the corn crop is still in condition to yield more than last year.

Condition at St. Louis.

St. Louis, July 3.—The thermometer this afternoon registered 94 degrees. On the stone pavements in the streets below the heat was at least 4 degrees greater. There is very little humidity and consequently few prostrations.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 3.—The hot wave in this section continues, the mercury recording 98 degrees again today. Numerous prostrations have occurred, but none of a serious nature.

Hot in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 3.—This has been the hottest day of the season, the thermometer marking 96 degrees on the street. At Lacrosse and other points 99 degrees was reached. Three letter carriers were prostrated by the heat in this city, none of them fatal, however. Thunder storms and cooler temperature are predicted.

Denies There Is Damage.

Lincoln, Neb., July 3.—Reports have been sent throughout the country to the effect that hot winds were causing great injury to the crops in Western Kansas and parts of Nebraska. The fact is there has been nothing whatever of that nature. On the contrary the conditions are exceptionally good. There has been an abundance of rain through Nebraska, northwest Kansas and Colorado.—Corn is in excellent condition and the outlook is most encouraging. The above statement is made by the officials of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad.

Snow in Colorado.

Leadville, Col., July 3.—The Fourth of July season was appropriately inaugurated here this morning by a severe snow storm. At this hour a heavy snow is falling, and the ground is covered to a depth of 1 inch.

Denver, Col., July 3.—Snow fell this morning at Gunnison, Tellerude, Creed and Leadville.

SUFFERING AND DESTITUTION.

Senator Mason Told of the Condition of 40,000 of His Constituents.

W. D. Ryan, secretary of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, has written an open letter to United States Senator Mason, in which he says:

"The stand taken by you in behalf of the patriots in Cuba deserves the commendation of all liberty-loving people, but let me call your attention to the condition of 40,000 of your constituents—the coal miners of Illinois. The competition inaugurated by the coal operators has brought about a condition of suffering and destitution which was never equalled. We have been forced to accept reduction after reduction until the price now paid is so low that miners cannot earn an average of 75 cents a day, and the mines work only half time. Taking an average of $1 a day and three days' work a week, a miner earns $12 a month. With a family of five—a fair average—the wife has less than three cent for a meal, to say nothing of clothes, rent, etc. I doubt if any more lives have been lost in Cuba since the insurrection commenced than in the mines of Illinois during the same time; and I am certain that there are no more women and children hungry in Cuba at present than among the families of the miners of Illinois. Do something to put the idle miners of Illinois to work at a fair rate of wages and I will guarantee that every miner in Illinois will contribute at least one days' wages every month for the benefit of the down-trodden people of Cuba."

EX-QUEEN LIL'S SUBJECTS

Have Not Forwarded a Petition in Her Behalf.

Capt. Charles A. Palmer, private secretary to ex Queen Liliuokalani, states that there is positively no truth in the rumor that a monster petition was being forwarded to Washington from Hawaii by the ex-queen's subjects in her favor.

"The people of Hawaii," he said, "have as yet learned nothing about the treaty having been signed. We were not expecting such an act on the part of the administration, so a petition of the kind mentioned was not deemed necessary. Communication is bad between the islands. It is not as it is in this country, and even after the news reached there it would take several days to circulate it among the people."

FAMILY EXTERMINATED.

Suspicion That They Were Poisoned, and Arrests Will Be Made.

The vicinity of Belmot, Brown county, Indiana, is greatly excited over the extermination of the family of John Stephens. The mother and five children were taken suddenly ill with what was thought to be flux Monday afternoon. That night the infant died. Tuesday morning the little 4-year-old boy died. This morning the mother died and an hour later the 6-year-old boy died. Two little girls are all that are left of the family, and they are dangerously ill. One is dying and the other will not recover. Physicians thought it was flux, but now the general suspicion is they were poisoned. Investigation by the coroner will follow, and probably arrests will be made.

WILL RETAIN THESSALY.

So the Turkish Cabinet Announces to the Ambassadors.

A dispatch to the London Times from Constantinople dated Wednesday says: Tewfik Pasha will announce to the ambassadors of the powers tomorrow (Thursday) that the cabinet maintains the indefensible right of Turkey to retain Thessaly by right of conquest.

Thousands Homeless.

A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from Brail, the principal port of Roumania, says that 20,000 inhabitants, of Galatz, in Moldavi, on the left bank of the Danube, are homeless as a result of the recent floods.

An Old Minister.

Many stories are told of Dr. Gad Hitchcock, who was a minister in Pembroke, Mass., before and during revolutionary times. He was noted for his patriotism and the fearless expression of his views when opportunity offered. He was chaplain in the army at one time, and preached many a stirring sermon to the men.

The first sermon he published was addressed to a military company at the time when the French were making inroads on the northern frontier. The year before the breaking out of the revolution he preached his famous "Election Sermon," which roused Gov. Gage to great wrath, and struck even the minister's stanchest friends as ill-advised. It is said that when Doctor Hitchcock wrote it, the Governor was not expected to be in the audience at the time of its delivery.

When it was found that he was there, one of the minister's friends suggested that a slight modification of some of the strong expressions in the sermon would perhaps be advisable; but Dr. Hitchcock was of another mind.

"My sermon is written," he calmly said, "and it will not be altered."

On his journeyings to and from Boston he usually fell into conversation with any one with whom he was thrown. One day he traveled to Boston in company with a sailor of whom he asked many questions as to his name, residence, habits and tastes.

At last the sailor began questioning in his turn: "What is your name?" he asked.

"I am Gad Hitchcock from Tunk" (the name of his parish.).

"Three of the worst names I ever heard!" cried the sailor, bluntly, greatly to Dr. Hitchcock's delight.

A London cablegram says that "Queen Victoria is greatly embarrassed by riches." Her eldest hopeful seems to be embarrassing others by his lack of riches.

The maid from Boston swept the street with her glance. It was noticeable that the asphalt was covered with a glare of ice.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

VOL. V. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1897. NO. 38

THE GUERNSEY PLAN.

TRUE FINANCIAL SYSTEM HAS BEEN TESTED.

The Guernsey Market Money Should Be Kept Before the People As An Object Lesson—Bonds Are Worse Than Needless.

"The best money in the world," says America's greatest political economist, Henry George, "is the money that costs the people the least, and is the most convenient. The best money in the world is the greenback."

Greenbacks may be defined as paper money, issued by the government in payment of public expenses, and receivable for all taxes. How this paper money can be used in making necessary public improvements without selling posterity into slavery by the issuance of interest-bearing bonds was shown in the island of Guernsey, and it cannot be too often retold. It is thus recounted by the Pittsburg Kansan:

"In view of what was said last week in the Kansan about the possible building of a city hall for the city of Pittsburg on the Guernsey market plan, quite an extensive interest has been created, and we have been urgently requested to restate what is meant by the Guernsey plan.

"It may not be amiss to say that Guernsey, one of the Channel islands, in the bay of St. Michael, is 30 miles west of the coast of Normandy and 50 miles south of Portland on the English coast. It has an area of 16,000 acres, and a population of 30,000. The natives speak the old Norman French to this day. St. Peters is the only town of consequence on the island. About a hundred years ago, when the population on the island was about 20,000, and that of St. Peters about 5,000, the burghers did their marketing around the church square, in the open air, but concluded it would be much better to put up a building that would serve as a city hall and market house. That had been concluded by their fathers and their grandfathers before them, but there they were, still exposed to the weather in doing their marketing, and without any roomy place to hold public meetings. A bright young man who had studied architecture whiled away his spare time drawing the plan of a possible market house, city hall and auditorium for St. Peters and the parish councillors were greatly pleased with it. What a splendid addition such a building would be to St. Peters and Guernsey. The more they thought of it the more the need of such an institution grew upon them, but alas, the young architect figured out that it would cost not less than £4,000—$20,000. There was no money on hand. Peter de l'Isle Brock was governor of Guernsey, and was a man of great resources and good judgment. He was a descendant of Norman Rollo, in whose heirs the governorship had been vested for a thousand years. If anybody could devise ways and means to put up a $20,000 market house Peter was the man, thought the people. A deputation of the councillors, accompanied by several substantial burghers called on the governor, told him what they desired, showed him the plan of the proposed market house and asked him what he thought about it.

"'I think this is a very good plan,' said Pete, 'why don't you build it?'

"'We have no money, and in these troublous times we do not think we could borrow it.' It should be remembered times were hard at that time.

"'Well, that is rather bad,' responded Peter, 'but perhaps we might contrive to get over the difficulty. Let me see,' and he glanced again at the imposing looking from elevation, side elevations, plans, diagrams and specifications, prepared by the young architect.

"'Tell me,' he continued, 'have we the necessary rock on the island to build it with?' 'Yes, plenty of it.' 'And brick?' 'We can make them.' 'Lumber, sand and lime?' 'Enough to put up a hundred such buildings.' 'Have we the mechanics, and teams and laborers?' 'Certainly.' 'But no money?' 'No money.' Peter took a few minutes to think and then in a quiet but positive tone said: 'I think we can manage it. After all, money don't quarry rocks, nor burn bricks, nor chop trees nor saw it into lumber, nor haul nor build—it is men who do these things, and you say we have the men and material. I think we can manage without money. Come back to-morrow and we'll talk it over again.'

"In the interval the governor held several session with his council, and next day when the big deputation came he laid out the plan that had been approved provisionally by his advisers. It was this: 'The market house will be itself tangible value for all the labor and cost of material. After being completed it will be a source of revenue. In view of these two facts,' said Peter, 'we can proceed to build it by issuing market house notes to those who furnish the material and service as the work progresses. If you take these notes and hold them till the market house is completed, we, that is, the council, will receive them in payment for rent and dues from the market house until they are all taken up, after which the market house will be our own, everybody will have been paid and you will have good paying property to turn over to your children. In the meantime, you can use these notes for trading purposes among yourselves, as everyone of you know they represent actual value and will in time be redeemed.'"

"Bravo! we'll do it," and soon the glad word was sent over the island of Guernsey that a grand new $20,000 market house was to be built at St. Peters. The proper committees were appointed by the council, the bright young architect was given general supervision of the work and soon the Guernsey islanders were as busy as bees on their new market house. Every Saturday at noon the accounts for labor and material were made up, laid before the council, the notes bearing good Governor Peter de l'Isle Brook's signature were issued and everything squared up. There was a noticeable increase in business all over the island—not an idle or unemployed man on it. Those who had been in debt got out of it, and by the time the $20,000 in notes were out there was a feeling of general prosperity. The building in all its stately proportions was finally completed. The market was divided into 80 stalls. Each stall was leased at $25 a year—making an annual income of $2,000. The notes were accepted as payment, and in ten years the last one was taken up and cancelled. That market house stands there to this day, and is still bringing in revenue to the burghers of St. Peters and Guernsey. It never cost a single penny in what is known as money, and yet every claim that could possibly be satisfied by money was met. No bonds, no coupon, no interest, no taxes—and there you are. Does this example of what a few isolated islanders accomplished a century ago yield no lesson of value to the people of Pittsburg or the nation? Can we not build a market house and auditorium on the Guernsey plan? Can we not issue greenbacks on the same plan? If not, why not?

PEN POINTS.

It will get so, after awhile, that the taxpayer will insist on being put in prison, and compel the convicts to go out and go to work to support them.—Representative.

What an awful fix the country would have been in but for the present extra session of congress.—Farm, Stock and Home.

In his "creeping paralysis of business and bitter want of the unemployed" Mr. Wanamaker is rather besting Mr. McKinley, who is not a business man, but just an ambitious politician.—Toledo News.

It is said that a dragon fly can fly backward as rapidly and easily as forward; so can some politicians.—Commonwealth.

The American people need to make an uprising against the autocratic power of the speaker of the house of representatives. It is useless to talk of a house of representatives where there is no such thing as honest, untrammeled representation.—Manitou Enterprise.

One fundamental cause of hard times is that there are too many men who don't get what they earn.—Farm, Stock and Home.

Before election the Republican party knew all about the money question and knew just what to do to restore prosperity. It's different now, and the President wants a commission authorized to go in search of that wave of prosperity we've heard so much about and seen so little of.—Aspen Tribune.

The armies of the world number about 5,000,000 men. These soldiers, if engaged in the production of wealth instead of the destruction of wealth—property and life—could, with modern machinery, produce enough wealth—homes, food, clothing and other necessaries—to make comfortable and happy 75,000,000 people.—Rights of Man.

Dun & Co., the commercial agency humbuggers, declare that the people are doing a larger volume of business than they realize. That's it! Just as clear as averaging the bank accounts of ten men, for example. One man may have $1,000 and the other nine nothing, but in the average each man has $100, and therefore people may have money or be doing business of which they have no knowledge. Now you see it, and now you don't.—Cleveland Citizen.

Nearly 1,600 business houses and corporations, including more than 150 banks and public depositories of money, have failed since McKinley was elected. Probably 90 per cent of these clear-headed business men voted for McKinley and talked much about people who wanted to pay their debts in 53-cent dollars. They would now confer a great favor on their creditors, and hasten the belated dawn of prosperity, by paying even 50 cents on a dollar. The average business man should attend night school for a time and swear off on reading newspapers.—Erie People.

The unthinking, the ignorant, the prejudiced and the bigot have ridiculed and fought every reform, social, religious or political, calculated to better the world, since the beginning of history. They have denounced, abused and persecuted every man or woman who has spent his or her life to elevate the race. Ignorance and bigotry combat intelligence and progress at every turn, and always will. Yet intelligence and progress advance slowly but surely and steadily all along the line.—Real Republic (Amarillo, Tex.).

Remedy for Poverty.

Give no bounties, make equal laws, secure life and property, and you need not give alms. Open the doors of opportunity to talent and virtue and they will do themselves justice, and property will not be in bad hands. In a free and just commonwealth property rushes from the idle and imbecile to the industrious, brave and persevering.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

M'KINLEY OF YORE.

HIS RECORD AS AN ADVOCATE OF SILVER.

Senator Stewart of Nevada Shows Up the Good Side of the Chief Executive's Life—Admirers Don't Like It—Goldocrats Badly Chagrined.

During the debate on the tariff bill in the senate a number of senators were criticised by Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, for supporting Mr. Bryan at the late election who had once voted for free wool. Mr. Stewart, among others, defended the position of Mr. Bryan, and said: "Mr. President: I think that the criticism which has been made on Mr. Bryan is very unjust. I can give an illustration of its injustice. When the Bland act was under consideration, in 1878, in the house of representatives in its original form, it was a free-coinage act pure and simple, and it passed the house by an overwhelming majority, without any qualification, before the Allison amendment was attached to it. Mr. McKinley voted for free coinage pure and simple by the United States alone, independent of other nations, without any qualification whatever. After the Bland act came to the senate and was amended, he voted for it as amended. Then it was vetoed, and he voted to pass the Bland-Allison act over the veto of the President. He voted for it on every vote. During that contest he voted with the most radical silver men. Further, since 1890 he made a speech at Toledo, Ohio, which I have now before me, in which he denounced President Cleveland for discriminating between the two metals. He denounced President Cleveland's policy. In the Republican convention of 1888, the last Republican convention I ever attended, I was upon the committee on resolutions. Mr. McKinley was chairman of that committee. After a whole night's discussion we adopted unanimously an amendment which I drew and proposed, Mr. McKinley voting for it, the amendment declaring that the Republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, and condemns the action of the Clevelandite administration for its efforts to demonetize silver. He stood on that plank. Then when the St. Louis convention met and he became a candidate he accepted the nomination on a very different platform, one declaring that the Republican party will adhere to the present gold standard until we can get an international agreement. Upon the theory of the senator from Massachusetts, if Mr. McKinley follows the logic of his former position, he would sign a free-coinage bill, and he would aid in its passage so far as giving it his general approval. He would be as good a free-coinage man as he was in 1878, and as good a free-coinage man as I am. He was as radical in his votes and actions then as I am to-day or my friend from Missouri or anybody else. If that is the principle, if free-coinage once it is free-coinage always, if it is impossible to be a backslider from that doctrine, then it may be impossible that there shall be backsliders from extreme free-trade doctrine. There are many men of extreme free-trade notions, and they may believe it yet, but they have been forced to modify their opinions, because we are obliged to have a tariff to put the products of our labor in a condition to compete with foreign articles."

Mr. Allen—Will the senator permit me to ask him if it is a fact that the recent President of the United States advocated and voted for the passage of the Sherman act?

Mr. Stewart—He did; and he afterwards referred to and boasted of it in a speech.

Mr. Teller—He voted for the Sherman law.

Mr. Teller—The Sherman law of 1890?

Mr. Stewart—Yes; he voted for the Sherman law and the Bland-Allison act.

Mr. Allen—As I recollect from reading his speech, he advocated strongly the passage of that act in the other branch of congress.

Mr. Stewart—He advocated the passage of the act in congress, and he spoke of it and denounced Mr. Cleveland when he was President for the position he occupied on the money question, as late as 1891 or 1892. I read a great deal of his speech the other day, and if any one doubts my statement I can bring it in and read it again, to show how very denunciatory Mr. McKinley was of Mr. Cleveland's gold policy. Now it is claimed by our Republican friends that he is par excellence. These changes do occur. So far as Mr. Bryan is concerned, he made speeches on the tariff when he was in the other house. But his party declared that the silver question, the money question was paramount. He was, however, in favor of a tariff which did not discriminate. He accepted the platform of his party and went before the country, and if any man can find in his speeches anywhere one sentence in conflict with the principles laid down in the Chicago platform upon the tariff and money questions, I should like him to present it. It cannot be found. If we are to get men who are perfect during all their career, from their infancy up, who do not grow by circumstances, we shall have to take very young men to be Presidents, younger than Mr. Bryan and younger than Mr. McKinley. After they perform one public act, they may find it necessary to diverge from it the next day. You cannot find men who are perfect, if you study their political history. It seems to me there is nothing in the question. It is not strange, however, that Mr. Bryan should be criticised, because it is very well known that he is going to be the next President of the United States (laughter), and, of course, the opposition have commenced to criticise him.

The gold standardites in the senate will not attack Mr. Bryan's consistency again, for a long while, at least.

WORDS OF THE WISE.

Man Supreme.

I would not have the laborer sacrificed to the result. I would not have the laborer sacrificed to my convenience and pride, nor that of a great class of such as I. Let there be worse cotton and better men. The weaver should not be bereaved of his superiority to his work.—Emerson.

Oppression.

Man never fastened one end of a chain around the neck of his brother, that God's own hand did not fasten the other end around the neck of the oppressor.—Lamartine.

Liberty Knows No Defeat.

Liberty knows nothing but victories. Soldiers call Bunker Hill a defeat; but liberty dates from it, though Warren lay dead on the field.—Wendell Phillips.

Where Adams Stood.

Bonds and banks I never approved. Our whole banking system I ever abhorred, I continue to abhor, and shall die abhorring.—John Adams.

Justice Must Not Be Delayed.

But above all if we be just men, we shall go forward in the name of truth and right, bearing this in mind that when the case is proved, and the hour is come, justice delayed is justice denied.—Gladstone.

The Worth of a State.

The worth of a state in the long run is the worth of the individuals composing it.—John Stuart Mill.

Speak Out.

Any human being, however humble or liable to error, may render an essential service to society by making, through a whole lifetime, a steady, uncompromising, dispassionate declaration of his convictions as they are matured.—Harriet Martineau.

Henri Cernuschi, later before the United States monetary commission in 1877, made this statement: "With reference to paper money, another great error prevails. Many people believe that its value depends upon the promise of the government to pay them in metal one day or other. This promise does not add to the purchasing power of paper money. A promise to execute without date for executing is not a promise. The only reason why paper money has a value is that it is a legal tender; that nobody can refuse it, that the government accepts it for the payment of taxes. It is for this reason that it circulates in the same way that gold and silver circulate. Paper money is not a credit paper, but an enforced standard. Gold and silver money is also an enforced standard."—Page 95, Nomisma, or Legal Tender by Henri Cernuschi.

POLITICAL CHANGE.

Senator Butler of North Carolina has introduced a resolution directing the committee on privileges and elections to inquire into the practicability of applying the principle of initiative and referendum to federal legislation in this country. The committee has decided to make the investigation through a sub-committee.

Whether the People's party battles alone or in co-operation with the other free silver parties events daily make converts to the People's party platform.—Ex.

"If an election were held now for president," said Mr. F. Wolff, president of a big iron and shipbuilding plant at Portland, Ore., in conversation with friends, "the whole Pacific slope would vote to elect Bryan over any man the Republicans could name. It was a hard struggle to hold Oregon in line last year, but to-day it would be impossible. The continued depression in business has increased the free silver sentiment in our state to a degree that would make a silver ticket invincible in the absence of a revival of prosperity."

Ex-Senator Fred T. Dubois of Idaho has gone into cattle raising on a ranch in Idaho. All his cattle bear this brand: "16-1." Mr. Dubois' four-footed possessions, therefore, says the Silver Knight Watchman, are walking advertisements of his devotion to the cause of silver coinage.

Investigations have placed a number of Nebraska Republican officials behind the bars, and have demonstrated, to a moral certainty, that a great many more deserve to be there.

The Virginia Democrats seem to favor the selection of a Populist for second place on the state ticket.

The semi-weekly session of the lower house of congress were had as usual during the past week. With the combined votes of the Reed Republicans and the Bailey Democrats, says the Silver Knight-Watchman, legislation in that branch of congress has been effectually throttled; and the country, at the expense of something near a million of dollars a week, enjoys the luxury of a house of representatives that does not represent.

THE CROSS OF GOLD.

HOW AMERICAN PRODUCERS ARE BEING CRUCIFIED.

J. W. Porter of Virginia Exposes the Methods Resorted to by the Plutocratic Press to Hide the Cause of Falling Prices of Our Products.

(By J. W. Porter of Virginia in the Silver Knight-Watchman.)

In view of the long continued decline of agricultural prosperity, which has reacted upon all other industries, and is making commercial business hazardous, to say the least, we see men still groping in darkness as to the cause. And we see others ignorantly or wilfully misstating the cause, and declaring that it is irremediable, while chronicling the damaging evidence of the destruction of values which is due to causes which are remediable. The cause and the remedy have been long ago pointed out by some of the wisest and ablest men of the time, and public opinion would long ago have compelled the application of that remedy which consisted in a removal of the known cause, but for the determined effort to prevent public opinion by false statements, and the closure of the columns of so many of our great newspapers and agricultural journals to any fair discussion of the subject. This is no light matter in a republic, whose enlightened public opinion is our every safeguard. The power of money to oppress is nowhere more aptly illustrated than in this attempted control of the vehicles of public intelligence. Every writer against the gold standard in this country and in Europe knows how difficult it is to get any presentation of fact or argument against the gold standard before the people. The late Prof. Laveleye, of Liege university, asserted in his last days, after long and ably contending against the injustice of the gold standard, that he had to pay for the publication of his papers in the great continental journals. In a republic this is inexcusable. It is dangerous. It is the first step taken to throttle liberty. Americans should be aroused to the danger, ere it is too late. Truth and justice have nothing to fear in the arena, open to public discussion. A free and untrammeled public press was once deemed "the palladium of our liberties." Have we such now? Most assuredly not when the press is closed to those who would discuss the most important questions which ever agitated our country. One great agricultural journal which has a large circulation, formerly took great interest in this question. Its control was secured, and it was silenced, and all discussion of the subject of bimetallism as affecting agriculture was stopped, though its two editors are pronounced friends of bimetallism. Every number brings evidence of the decay of the farming interests, yet the cause must not be discussed!

It recently published the following from the Tribune (N. Y.):

"Farms in England are selling at a ruinous reduction of their former value, and in many cases cannot be sold at all. Many properties within two hours ride of London are deserted * * * In many cases farms have been sold for less than one-tenth their value twenty years ago. Well-to-do farmers are abandoning the business and going to the colonies or to the cities to start life anew. * * * Although the situation is grevious, there may be consolation in the fact it is worse on the continent. * * * We have not yet suffered so severely in this country," it continues. Now, as to its last conclusion, what are the facts?

The abandoned farms of our Eastern states are an older story than the ones in England, and so is the emigration of its yeomen, to whose sturdy manhood both owe their greatness. We can instance as great a decline in farm values in almost all the older states, and then the sequestration of all debt or interests in farms, largely or nearly paid for, which has been constantly going on. Coupled with this lot we present the following from Mr. Edward Atkinson's address recently delivered before the New Jersey board of agriculture, as published by the Southern planter (Richmond, Va.), which lauds Mr. A. as the greatest statistician and an eminent authority. He attributes the enormous losses which the farmers have sustained in the last two years in the decline of their staple crops to "the shadow of a threatened crime," and he then says: "The penalty which the farmers have paid for tolerating the effort to tamper with the standard of value of the nation has been a loss of one-third of the farm values of their great products in the returns of 1895 as compared to 1891, in the sum of $750,000,000!" Continuing, he says: "This loss has by so much reduced the purchasing powers of the largest consuming class in the country in 1896." Let the reader compare this astounding statement of the cause of the loss of $750,000,000 in one year's being "the shadow of a threatened crime," with the foregoing statement of a goldbug editor of the worse condition existing in England and on the continent of Europe, where no "shadow of a threatened crime" clouds the landscape of the fundholder. And these "outlaws to reason" presume to teach; and they find room in journals, professedly agricultural, which will not permit an exposure of its infamy to appear in their columns. Why! the above is on a par with the wolf's logic to the lamb in Aesop's fable. We must note the admission made of the impairment of the purchasing power of the greatest consuming class in our country in 1896 of $750,000,000—over $10 per capita for every man, woman and child in it; for it must comfort the men who seek relief by more taxes—more revenue—and in the opening of more mills instead of mints. Comfort them, just as their promised prosperity comforts us, as it were. This tremendous impairment of the purchasing power of the farmers of our country is the cause of manifold evils which afflict our country and the world. Instead of being caused by "the shadow of a threatened crime," as this wanton writer calls the struggle for relief, it is the result of the most gigantic crime ever attempted—the attempt to change the standard of payment after getting the nations under bonded debts aggregating certainly one-third the total wealth of the world. We may more truly reverse Mr. Atkinson's assertion, and say that our present great losses are due to our having so long tolerated the fraudulent and unconstitutional attempt to change the standard of payment, not the standard of value, as Mr. Atkinson falsely calls it, by which the spoliation of the people is permitted under forms of law! There is no standard of value. There can be none for value in a market relation, determined by the supply and demand of this thing valued in men's minds by their desire to keep it or to exchange it. A standard is a fixed quantity, or measure, under the sanction of law, or of custom. Value is subject to many changes. It is "ideals," as our supreme court once declared.

The World's Lie.

I looked from out the grating
Of my spirit's dungeon cell—
And I saw the Life-tide rolling,
With a sullen, angry swell;
And the battle-ships were riding
Like leviathans in pride—
While their cannon-shot were raining
On the stormy human tide.
Then my soul in anguish wept,—
Sending forth a wailing cry:
Said the World "This comes from heaven!"
Said my soul, "It is a LIE!"

I looked from out the grating
Of my spirit's dungeon cell—
And a sound of mortal moaning
On my reeling senses fell;
And I heard the fall of lashes,
And the clank of iron chains,
And I saw where Men were writhing
Under Slavery's cruel pains.
Then my soul looked up to God,
With a wo-beclouded eye:
Said the world, "This comes from heaven!"
Said my soul, "It is a LIE!"

I looked from out the grating
Of my spirit's dungeon cell—
And I heard the solemn tolling
Of a malefactor's knell;
And I saw the frowning gallows
Reared aloft in awful gloom,
While a thousand eyes were gloating
O'er a felon's horrid doom,
And a shout of heartless mirth
On the wind was rushing by:
Said the world, "This comes from heaven!"
Said my soul, "It is a LIE!"

I looked from out the grating
Of my spirit's dungeon cell—
Where the harvest wealth was blooming
Over smiling plain and dell;
And I saw a million paupers
With their foreheads in the dust—
And I saw a million workers
Slay each other for a crust!
And I cried, "O God above!
Shall thy people always die?"
Said the world, "This comes from heaven!"
Said my soul, "It is a LIE!"

Wholesale Robbery.

The New York World has this to say about the Carnegie extortion business:

"The government is now building three warships. The last congress found out that the Carnegie works had been selling armor plate to Russia at $249 a ton. It could not see why Carnegie should charge our own government more, but to be liberal it fixed upon $300 as the maximum price to be paid for the armor for these three ships. But Carnegie and the Bethlehem Iron Works are the only concerns in the country that have facilities for making armor plates. They were not content to rob the government of only $51 a ton, over and above the legitimate profit of the market price. They conspired to extort more, and gave notice that they would not furnish plates for less than $425 a ton, or $176 a ton more than the price at which they did a profitable business with Russia. For a time there was talk of setting up a government plant, or of giving such a contract to the Illinois Steel Company as would justify it in adapting its machinery to the purpose. But the Carnegie combine has a 'pull,' and it has succeeded in bringing the nation to terms. The senate committee on appropriations has decided to fix upon $425 a ton as the price to be paid for the armor needed. That is to say, the senate committee has aided the Carnegie conspirators to 'hold up' the government and rob it of $176 on every $249 worth of armor it needs for its ships. And this, after the company had been detected in palming off plugged and imperfect plates on the government."

Land of the Slave.

The following is a press dispatch from St. Louis:

So weak from starvation that she was unable to walk, Mrs. Kate Haffner, aged 63 years, was taken to the hospital to-day. She had been trying to earn her living by making jean trousers at 15 cents a dozen. She could only earn 8 cents a day, and was starving when discovered by the neighbors.

ANTI-BRITISH.

An Understanding Said to Exist Between Russia and Germany.

AN ENTENTE WITH FRANCE

Is Also Being Considered by the Czar—The Princess De Chimay Creating Sensations—Destructive Storms—Liberal Newspapers and the Tariff.

A telegram from Berlin says: The main business of serious import to be transacted during Emperor William's visit to the czar, the correspondent of the Associated Press here learns, will be the formulation of a distinct understanding between Russia and Germany in regard to a frankly anti-British policy in the Orient, especially in connection with Japan and China, and in the event of possible complications arising from the critical situations in Greece, Germany will agree to support Russia's interest in that part of the world. Russia on her part is to promise to exert her influence in favor of Germany elsewhere. The emperor, notwithstanding the natural jealousy of France, growing out of this plan, believes that an entente with the French republic in most cases will be also possible.

Physically, the emperor is well. When he started from Luebeck on his northland trip it was being generally remarked how healthy and sunburned he looked.

The empress, with her seven children, at Tergiuso was well received by the simple Bavarians. She and her children were the objects of continuous ovations. The elder princes are being inducted into the myteries of chamois stalking and grouse shooting by veteran mountain hunters.

Terrible thunder storms, hail storms and cloud bursts have devastated large districts of Wurtemburg, Baden and Alsace.

In the district of Oehringen, Wurtemburg, alone, the damage is computed at 10,000,000 marks, with no insurance. At Buchsweiler, Alsace, the hail destroyed everything growing, killing many cattle and injuring scores of people. During the hurricane which prevailed the largest trees were uprooted and hurled long distances.

The Princess De Chimay, formerly Miss Clara Ward, of Detroit, and who eloped with James Rigo, a Hungarian gypsy musician, is now at Matre, in the Tyrol, where she has caused a great sensation. She wears the Tyrolese costume when driving and her maid accompanies her on horseback.

The German exports to the United States during the past three months show, with few exceptions, a large increase over those of 1896. The newspapers are full of dismal forebodings in regard to the United States tariff.

The liberal newspapers, however, for instance, the National Zeitung, Tageblatt, Boersen Courier and others warn the government against entering forthwith into a tariff war with the United States, though they have no doubt the pending bill will become law substantially as passed by the senate, and that German industry, notably woolens, will be gravely injured.

A PARISIAN HORROR.

Four Dressmakers Commit Suicide by Inhaling Coal Fumes.

A great sensation has been caused in Paris by the discovery that four dressmakers have committed suicide by inhaling charcoal fumes in a flat belonging to the well-to-do Mme. Marechal, in the Faubourg Person Rere.

Mme. Marechal had long suffered from melancholy because of the insanity of her husband, and it is supposed she instigated the act and persuaded the others, who were either deserted by their husbands or their lovers. The four met in the evening, partook of a sumptuous dinner with wine, sang and smoke until late, and concluded life with the statement in writing signed by all; "We die deliberately and without any regret."

When the bodies were discovered the tables and floor were strewn with cigarettes and cigar ends. On the center table were letters addressed to their relatives. In the room with them a pet dog was found dead.

Blown to Atoms.

While a gang of workmen were making excavations along the Long street railway in Lexington, Ky., one of them struck what appeared to be a piece of pipe, but which proved to be a sixty-four pound dynamite cartridge. A fearful explosion followed and five negroes in the gang were blown to atoms

SHORTAGE SHOWN.

County Dispensers in South Carolina Behind in Their Accounts.

A telegram from Columbia, S. C., says: Shortages amounting to $15,000 of the moneys due by county dispensers to the state were brought to light by the dispensary board of control today. The books are in such a state that no record can be made of all the shortages, but it is probable that the total sum will be much larger. For the period between March 23, 1896, and November 30, 1896, the shortage is $12,702.82. Examination reveals the fact that the bonds given by the dispensers who have fallen behind in their accounts are in each case worthless, and that no steps have ever been taken to punish any of the offenders. The showing has created a sensation.

A CALL.

All former members of the Farmers' Alliance and others interested are hereby requested to meet at Clanton on Saturday, July 31, 1897 at 11 o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the Chilton County Alliance. It is particularly desired we have a full meeting.

Signed. A. G. DAKE,
FRANK CRICHTON.

☞NOTICE. The date of the Alliance meeting called for Saturday, July 24, conflicting with the annual meeting of the Second District of the Mulberry Baptist Association, and other church meetings, it has been decided to postpone the Alliance meeting until one week later, and all friends of the Alliance are requested to make their arrangements to attend the meeting at Clanton on Saturday, July 31.

U.S. SENATOR Isham G. Harris, of Tennessee, died at Washington last Thursday.

THE BANNER is the people's paper, and we are delighted at receiving so many communications but we hope our correspondents will forgive us when we are obliged to hold communications over.

THE Birmingham State-Herald makes another change in its management. J. Asa Rountree retires and E. W. Barrett, formerly of the Atlanta Constitution, assumes control.

THE weekly crop bulletin says cotton continues clean and healthy and is fruiting well. Old corn will hardly be more than half an average crop, owing to damage by drouth, but late corn has improved very decidedly and will probably be an average crop.

WE are glad to learn that some of our most influential citizens are bestirring themselves in the matter of the proposed railroad from Atlanta to Selma passing through Clanton. With all due deference to those of our esteemed citizens who seem to think all that is necessary to be done is wait until the road is built, we desire to say now is the time to work before any arrangements as to the route are made by the company. A public meeting to discuss the question would be popular with ninety-five per cent. of our citizens.

FULLER particulars of the Nashville conference now to hand emphasizes the fact that the program originally prepared for the conference was not carried out, and, in fact, from that point of view was a flat failure. Cooler heads and wiser counsel prevailed, and the result was practically nil. It is true a national organization committee was chosen, but we fail to see what good purpose is to be accomplished by it. The existing organization of the People's Party was not interfered with in any way and will continue its functions until endorsed or superseded at the next national convention of the party. The Democratic press are diligently endeavoring to prove the Nashville conference means a division in the Populist ranks, but we are happy to state the division exists only in their imagination and desires. The People's Party is alright and as strong, if not stronger, than ever.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Institute was promptly called to order by Supt. Moore on the morning of the 9th, at Coopers, Ala., July 9, 1897.

Mr. P. C. Dennis delivered an address of welcome in which he assured the teachers of the high appreciation in which they are held he hospitable entertainment given was a conclusive proof of such

The subjects were taken up in their order and ably discussed by those present. The following are a few of the best thoughts that were expressed:

"Do not teach your pupils in one branch to the exclusion of others." "Make the opening exercises especially interesting." "Open with devotional exercises." "Have scripture verses in response to roll." "A man never rises higher than his ideal." "We want to stimulate a spirit of generous rivalry among our pupils." "Mathematicians, like goats, are born and not made." The 19th century has shown woman to be capable of learning mathematics." "It is said that curiosity is the secret of learning mathematics, then that solves the problem as to women's learning the science." The following resolutions were adopted:

Our much needed rain fell the 5th. Though not a sufficiency was very beneficial; early corn was more injured by drouth than late.

Our community is under lasting obligations to the ladies who, at the request of our best citizens, were instrumental in removing an unlicensed bar-room from our law-abiding town.

On the 9th, at midnight, the angel of death hovered over our town and bore away sweet little McDonald Minton, aged eight months. Our deepest sympathies are tendered the bereaved parents. None but those who have suffered likewise can feel the loneliness of the house when the sweet little prattler's voice is hushed forever and his sparkling eyes can no more look joy into ours. Let it be a consolation to the bereaved that though he cannot come to you, but you may go to him and have endless bliss.

We are pleased to state that our friend and neighbor, Mrs. A. S Foshee, has recovered from a very serious illness and is now visiting Mrs. Parnell, her daughter at Stanson.

Many laborers are daily expected here to work on our new railroad.

Mrs Sullivan, of Dayton, has treated Mrs. Glover to a visit.

Mrs. Gus McGee has visited her niece, Mrs. R. H. Martin.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis Mo., July 14, 1897.

At the recent People's Party State convention in Iowa, Gen. Weaver, the Chairman, was offered the nomination for Governor, but declined it. Among the other good resolutions adopted, was the following:

Resolved, That there is no intention to surrender the Populist name or the populist organization and that the officers of this convention be instructed to place the ticket nominated here to-day on the ballot under the name of People's Party ticket in case it can be done in conformity with law and that it is understood by this convention that a failure to place a regular people's party ticket on the ballot is because of recent Republican legislation that interferes with the right of the free ballot, and shall in no way affect the resolution of the party.

Japan still objects to the annexation of Hawaii by the United States. Japanese laborers have been refused admission to Pearl Harbor. The minister of that county at Washington has asked to be recalled, alleging discourteous treatment by Secretary of State Sherman and the Jap papers speak threateningly of war.

To avoid the impending high tariff, the importers of New York city, have been rushing in enormous amounts of goods. The collections at the custom house on July 1 amounted to $1,902,200, a record only broken by that of March 15, when the receipts were $2.600,000. The vast sums thus saved by these wealthy corporations are made possible by the delay of the legislators in passing laws that all have known from the beginning, were a certainty. The people will pay high tariff prices for these goods.

At a recent meeting of the Illinois Bar Association, Pres. Hamilton declared that the State legislature had imposed upon the cities, a street car monopoly to last fifty years and a gas monopoly to last forever.'

Simeon E. Balwin of the Supreme court of Connecticutt in a recent address before the bar association of that State, designated the government of the United States as a "modified despotism" and classed this country with Russia 'where the principle of absolutism is represented and enforced by one man's hand." The greatest strike in the history of the world has recently been made by the miners of this country. It is said that nearly a half million men are involved and 3,000,000 directly effected. The strike originated with the miners of Pennsylvania and Ohio and has spread to all the eastern central coal states. Workers in the iron and steel mills " whose wages have been steadily reduced have deliberately set in for a three months fight for living gages. There are men in the Hocking Valley who have not eaten a full and satisfactory meal, although at work daily, for three years. In a circular issued by the miners at Columbus, Ohio, pertinent claim is made for a share of the prosperity promised by the mine owners and which some assert has arrived. The men have been urged to remain quiet and inoffensive. Some of the Republicans claim the strike was precipitated by the Democratic leaders —notably McLean of Ohio.

A convention of thirteen "middle-of-the roaders" called at Chillicothe, Mo., recently was broken up by a call for cash to defray the expenses of Paul Dixon of the "Missouri World" to the Nashville convention.

Five self-styled "middle-of the road" populists in Kansas, failing to agree among themselves, sent a divided delegation to the "roaders" convention at Nashville July 5. The motto, "every fellow for himself and the devil take the hindmost" would be very appropriate for the Kansas brethren.

Editor BANNER: Observer seems to think that when one's sympathies go out for the poor laboring man that he is a queer fellow, and has nothing nor wants nothing. I do not say it in a way of boasting, but as he has expressed himself as being very independent, I will say I have some property that I pay taxes on and also, as he says, plenty of vehicles, and I am willing to be taxed to help keep up the roads to run said vehicles on instead of men who own none having to do the work. Such fellows as Observer, and even myself, ditch them with our vehicles, while they only pack them with their feet. I am a little sorry that I sized Observer up wrong, for it is a little risky to come in contact with such a big fellow who needs nothing but good roads. I will say that I want good roads too, but will not complain so long as they are as good as they are at present and kept up as they are, but it is a pity that he (Observer) can't have good roads for then he could fold his arms and say "Soul thou hast much goods laid up for many years, take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry." Now he has it before the people let them settle it at the ballot box.

I close with good wishes to the BANNER and its readers.

THE PET ADMIRER.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief, spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by the use of two bottles. 5 DROPS

49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases, and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure.

DEAR SIR:—Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Martinstown Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since, and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and began taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 49 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and I owe it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is all you claim it to be and more.

Sept. 9, 1896.
Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

DEAR SIR:— JANUARY 2, 1897.

Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed WONDERFUL. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me, is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Lichfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 16 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heavenly remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. F. M. COOPER, Washington Center, Mo.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS; NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an incurable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism. Just think, for eight years a total cripple not able to earn a penny nor able to walk or step on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and able to work. I have only taken two-thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $1.00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE.
1005 Wall Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

DEAR SIRS: SEPTEMBER 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down bedfast with Inflammatory Rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was getting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON, McCracken, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

A WIDELY known Wisconsin publisher, who resides at Green Bay, writes March 6th, 1895, as follows:

"Five years ago I became so nervous that mental work was a burden. I could not rest at night on account of sleeplessness. My attention was called to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and I commenced to use it with the very best effect. Since then I have kept a bottle in my house and use it whenever my nerves become unstrung, with always the same good results. My son also takes it for nervousness with like never failing success. I have recommended it to many and it cures them. All who suffer from nerve troubles should try it. It is free from narcotics, perfectly harmless, and yet soothes and strengthens. MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Great Men's Last Words.

Anagoras, the philosopher, who maintained himself by keeping a school, being asked if he wished for anything, replied: "Give the boys a holiday," and died. St. Lawrence the Martyr, who was broiled alive on a gridiron, A. D. 258, may be said to have spoken the most strangely recorded dying words. Having laid for some time upon the gridiron, the martyr addressed the Emperor, who was present, in a kind of jocose Latin couplet, which may be thus translated:

"This side is broiled sufficient to be food
For all who wish it to be done and good."

On this the executioner turned him, and yet he triumphed over the tyrant by telling him, with great serenity, that he was roasted enough, and only wanted serving up. The next moment he died.

A Courteous Retort.

One may be excused for feeling a little joy when the man who goes out of his way to make a rude remark in order to show his wit receives a rebuke that is as courteous as it is effective.

The retort given by a certain learned scientist must have been more amusing to the onlookers than to the learned gentleman's antagonist.

It happened at dinner that one of the guests began to deride philosophy, and went on rudely to express the opinion that philosopher was but another way of spelling fool.

"What is your opinion, Professor?" he asked. "Is there much distance between them?"

The Professor, with a polite bow to his boorish vis-a-vis, responded gravely: "Sometimes only the width of a table."

THE AMERICAN HORSE.

He Finds Favor in Several Foreign Countries.

There has been a remarkable increase in the export of horses from the United States during the last few years, writes W. E. Curtis to the Chicago Record. In 1893 the total number shipped to foreign countries was only 2,967. In 1894 it increased to 5,246, in 1895 to 13,948, in 1896 to 25,126, and during the first six months of the present fiscal year, ending Dec. 31, the total was 14,232; so that if the same proportion is continued during the remaining six months the total for the year will be 28,464. Nearly half the entire exports in 1896 went to Great Britain, the exact number being 12,022; but it is believed that 1,000 or more additional were sent through Canada, the exports to the dominion being 5,305 horses. The trade with Great Britain in horses has shown a remarkable increase, for in 1893 the total exports were only 564 head. The increase in exports to Germany was even greater, notwithstanding the laws of that country, which are very annoying to importers of live stock and quite expensive. In 1893 we shipped only thirty-three horses to the German empire. In 1896 we shipped 3,686.

Among other countries now receiving American horses is Belgium, which imported none in 1893, and 1,134 in 1896. France took very few, only 397. Italy bought one of our horses in 1893, two in 1894, three in 1895 and four in 1896. We sent 887 to Mexico last year, and a good many to the West India Islands, with the exception of Cuba, where, strange to say, we sold none at all. Two American horses went to Japan, four to China, one to Samoa and one to Africa.

New York is the largest horse market both for the export and the domestic trade, but a good many are shipped from Baltimore. Exports of mules have increased in a corresponding ratio, the number for the last few years being as follows: 1893, 1,634; 1894, 2,063; 1895, 2,515; 1896, 5,918, and for the first six months of the present fiscal year, 3,854.

So far as the Department of Agriculture is aware there has been no special effort on the part of American horse breeders to extend their foreign trade. The growth has been natural and the result of low prices in this country.

How Old are You?

You need not answer the question, madam, for in your case age is not counted by years. It will always be true that "a woman is as old as she looks." Nothing sets the seal of age so deeply upon woman's beauty as gray hair. It is natural, therefore, that every woman is anxious to preserve her hair in all its original abundance and beauty; or, that being denied the crowning gift of beautiful hair, she longs to possess it. Nothing is easier than to attain to this gift or to preserve it, if already possessed. Ayer's Hair Vigor restores gray or faded hair to its original color. It does this by simply aiding nature, by supplying the nutrition necessary to health and growth. There is no better preparation for the hair than

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Mobile Man's Discovery.

C. W. Stanton, well-known among grain men in Mobile made steel from red homatite Alabama ore at first hand, without the aid of skilled labor or expensive machinery. The process is said to be based upon an entirely new discovery of natural laws

After Tax Dodgers.

Back Tax Commissioner H. P. Turner, of Huntsville, will suggest a raise in value of a vast deal of taxable property in Madison county. If sustained the county treasury will be enriched by many thousand dollars with the property which he discovers that escapes taxation altogether

Industrial Society.

Hale county negroes have begun organization of an industrial society. The following were named a committee on permanent organization: Elder Cole, H. P. Thurman, Elder Gulley, Phil White, Ad Wimbs, Tom Ruffin and John Lewis. The next meeting will be held at Cedarsville, Ala., on August 14.

In St. Clair County.

Back Tax Commissioner D. D. Gopde, of St. Clair county, has about completed his work and reports quite a lot of property assessed. He assessed $25,000 of coal land against the East & West Railway Company of Alabama for five years, besides other assessments that amount up into the thousands.

A Murderous Assault.

The prisoners in the county jail at Gadsden made a murderous assault n Jailer Bolen last Thursday and struck him with a bottle through the bars. The prisoners refused to tell who struck the blow, and Jim Ward and Ed Walker are in the straight jacket and being dieted on bread and water until they tell who did the work.

Big Order for Cars.

A Gadsden special says: Capt. J. M. Elliott, Jr., president of the Elliott Car company in this city, announces that he has secured contracts to build 520 railroad box cars, 450 for the Louisville & Nashville and seventy for another road. This means immediate employment for 600 men now idle in Gadsden, and nearly $200,000 turned loose here for labor within the next eight months. The news is received here with elation.

Insurance Figures.

The Insurance Commissioner, in his report of the business in the State of Alabama in 1886, based upon the sworn testimony of each company, sums up the totals as follows:

Total amount of risk in the state ...ns, $1,120,430.

Total losses paid, $330,766.

Rates of losses to premium, 29.52 per cent.

Sugar Mill Machinery.

Good sized shipments are being booked for the erection of sugar grinding plants in the South. One New Orleans firm has contracted for the erection of twenty-five of these plants. Each calls for some $15,000 of machinery. Birmingham firms will erect five of these plants in Louisiana, and nearly all the iron used in their construction is from the Birmingham district. One machinery firm in the city reports that during the past two months it has sold more machinery than it has during any other two months of the past five years.

Depredations on Farmers.

Considerable trouble has been experienced by farmers in the northwestern part of Madison county by miscreants cutting wire fences. Recently the legislature passed an act making a three-wire fence lawful and a vast amount of land heretofore lying out has been enclosed, thus shutting out a number of people who are in the habit of herding cattle and sheep during the summer months in that section on other people's land. The last fence cutting occurred last Friday on the plantation of Capt. D. H. Turner. A close watch will be kept from now on and the intruders will be dealt with according to law when apprehended.

The Judge's Decision.

In the United States court at Montgomery Judge Bruce rendered his decision in the case of the administrator of Col. Robert E. Withers against the order of Knights of Pythias, involving the sum of $3,000 insurance. Col. Withers was a member of the order and died, and during his last sickness an assessment fell due which the order claimed was not paid in the time required by the rules of the order. The plaintiff claimed the payment was made at Greensboro, Ala., and was received by the authorized agent of the order at that place, and failure to reach headquarters in time should not affect his rights.

The University of Alabama.

The new President, Dr. Jas. K. Powers, reached Tuskaloosa at noon on the 1st day of July and went immediately to work. He called the faculty together, and appointed a committee to revise the courses of study, for presentation to the board of trustees for approval on the 8th. These courses as arranged and approved are up to date in every particular. While certain things are required for any degree, considerable latitude is allowed in the matter of election. This latitude increases as students advance in the courses.

EXPENSES REDUCED.

The fees were materially reduced. A year's expenses were cut from $172.50 to $130, exclusive of uniform.

YOUNG LADIES

PROF. M. C. WILSON

Elected President of the State Normal College.

A meeting of the trustees of the State Normal College was held here Wednesday afternoon, the chief business being the election of a president of the college to succeed Prof. J. K. Powers. Those present were: Hon. Geo. P. Jones, of Florence, Chairman; Hon. W. I. Bullock, of Russellville, Secretary; Gen. John D. Rather, of Tuscumbia; Hon. Chappel Cory, of Montgomery, Hon. J. Kirk Jackson, of Montgomery, Hon. John. F. Proctor, of Scottsboro.

There were a number of applicants for the presidency, including prominent educators outside of the state. After mature deliberation, the board selected Prof. M. C. Wilson, of Florence, to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and has filled a chair in the faculty of the college since 1881. He is an accomplished scholar, a polished gentleman and possesses the necessary qualifications to maintain the high standard of the school and further advance its usefulness. The fact that he was chosen out of the number of prominent educators whose names were before the board is, of itself, ample evidence of his eminent fitness. The Standard-Journal, from the first, urged his election, and we are confident that under his wise, prudent, progressive management, the institution will extend its influence and usefulness, and continue to grow in popularity.

The chair of mathematics will be filled later on.—Florence Standard-Journal.

WRECKED RAILROADS.

More Receivers Appointed Than in Any Previous Six Months.

The Chicago Railway Age in a recent issue says: "The number of railroads for which receivers were appointed in the first six months of 1897 has been greater than for the corresponding period of 1896, although the mileage of the roads which have passed under the control of the courts is not as great as last year by considerable. During the last six months nineteen roads with a total mileage of 1,314 and $85,622,000 of capital stock, have been placed in the hands of receivers. "Two elevated roads, the Metropolitan of Chicago, and the Brooklyn elevated supplied $68,000,000 of the capital stock of the roads which went into the hands of the courts. A total of twenty-four roads have been sold under foreclosure during the first six months of this year. Their mileage was 3,882 and their capital stock $153,630,000.

Judge Thorington.

Judge Thorington's selection as dean of the University of Alabama will no doubt give general satisfaction.

William S. Thorington was born in Montgomery July 30, 1847. His father was Col. Jack Thorington, a distinguished citizen of Montgomery. William Sowell Thorington was educated at the private school of William F. Slaton at Oak Bowery, at Auburn, and at the State University. While he was still at the University the corps of cadets of which he was adjutant, took the field for active service. Colonel Thorington served about a year, being stationed principally at Mobile, at Blakely, and at points in north Alabama. He was engaged in forming a company of cadets to join the army of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, when the war came to a close. Immediately after the war he began the study of law under the late Chief Justice Chilton, and in January, 1867, was admitted to the bar of the supreme court after passing an examination whose excellence is still a tradition of the court. He was associated at various times in practice with Judge W. P. Chilton, with Senator John T. Morgan, Hon. W. L. Bragg, and Hon. Lester C. Smith. Col. Thorington has held various offices of dignity and profit. He was for many years a trustee of the University of Alabama. He was judge advocate general on the staff of Gov. O'Neal during that governor's administration, 1882-86. In 1886 he was elected city attorney of Montgomery, and by continuous re-elections held the place until 1892, when he resigned to accept a much higher post. When Justice David Clopton, of the supreme bench, died in the early part of 1892, and Gov. Jones saw fit to appoint Col. Thorington to fill out his unexpired term, the appointment was received everywhere througout the entire state as an eminently proper one to have been made. Judge Thorington's discharge of the duties of this high office was marked by his customary devotion to a high ideal of duty, and his work marked him out as one who is more than likely to be called upon to assume judicial honors in the future. He was not a candidate to succeed himself, and after the expiration in November, 1892, of the term he was fulfilling, he returned to the practice of the law in Montgomery. His services on the supreme bench merely followed repeated designations of him by various governors to act as special judge of the court where one of the judges was disqualified to hear the particular cause. Judge Thorington was married on October 24, 1867, to Miss Chilton, daughter of the late Chief Justice Chilton. He has a large family of children.

This brief sketch ought not to be brought to a close without a tribute to Judge Thorington's exceptionally high character. He is a man of scrupulously sensitive integrity, and is universally esteemed for the entire probity of his nature. He has throughout life acted on the knightly principle that, when his honor was concerned, a stain was a wound. No man in Alabama is better entitled to the designation of being the state's Chevalier Bayard, sans peur et sans reproche.

TROY STATE NORMAL COLLEGE.

The Commencement Exercises This Year Eclipsed All Former Efforts.

The decennial year of the State Normal College at Troy was undoubtedly the most prosperous in the history of that institution, and it is but natural that the commencement exercises this year should eclipse all previous efforts. The programme which was of unusual interest, was carried out in a manner that reflected much credit on the president, Dr. Eldridge, and the students.

On Saturday night Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president of the college tendered the graduating class a supper at his residence. This was quite a pleasant occasion and the evening spent was a fit token of the high esteem in which the class is held.

Dr. Eldridge being called on to respond to the toast "Ante-and-Post-Decennial Times in the College History," was full of his subject and gave an unanswerable defense of the "College Rank and Character" of this training school, claiming it as a necessity to the wants of the Teacher's Profession and the State's needs." That the course of the college was as high as the best in the state and because of it, graduates fo every other college in the state were taking our "Professional Course," a thing they would not do if our institution were simple "College Preparatory," as some other institutions glory in. Dr. Eldridge said: "Let them make their courses of study small and glory in their brevity, and littleness—it is their right if that is all they can do; but we want to do something to lift the teacher's profession to a plain as high as the highest. If the physician should have a "College" course, why not the teacher? If a lawyer or preacher, why not the teacher that teaches them all? As long as you be little the teachers' course and work, you belittle all who are taught. Elevate the teacher's course and study and you lift up the standard of education everywhere in the state.

Dr. Eldridge made an impassioned appeal to the board and faculty to sustain the college character and rank and to the new class to join the former classes in raising high the teacher's standard for the sake of the boys and girls of Alabama, now or to be, in the schools, to be taught, and board, faculty and alumnus cheered him to the echo, time and again, and stamped their approval on every sentence as it poured from his lips, ruddy and sometimes, even candescent.

The class of 1897 (29) showed very plainly that they drank in the sentiments of advocacy and defense of the State Normal College at Troy built upon the "New Education" and "Free Public School Idea" and College Rank for our Teachers' Training Schools.

On Sunday morning, an immense crowd assembled at the opera house to hear Rev. J. L. Brownlee, pastor of the Presbyterian church, preach the commencement sermon which was pronounced by many as one of his best efforts.

On Monday the day was turned over to that noble band of sons and daughters, the College Alumni association. There was a most excellent turn out the hall being filled with members and friends. A most interesting programme, well prepared, was rendered.

At 8 o'clock at night the association was addressed by Hon. Chappel Cory, Private Secretary of Governor Johnston. His address was a masterpiece of thought, clothed in the purest English and as smooth and chaste as learning and talent could make it. He showed that he had completely grasped the broad subject of education in the line of its utility.

At the chapel exercises on Wednesday, seating room was at a premium. President Eldridge asked the students and professors to speak their sentiments in regard to the works and status of the college. The professors and a number of students spoke, the professors all agreeing that this had been the best and most satisfactory year's work since the college began, 1887.

Many students expressed themselves as highly pleased with the school, the work in general and the session as a whole. All the professors received their due thanks, but it could be seen in the mind of every pupil that there was a special love and admiration for that scholarly man, Dr. E. R. Eldridge, president of the college, who had been of so much assistance to all of them in their work. He is being appreciated for his deep devotion and ability to direct a student to get the most out of a thing.

Then followed the graduation of twenty-nine young people.

There have been thirty-six counties represented in the college attendance and nearly every other county upon extension course.

The summer school attracted many excellent students from various sections of Alabama and outsides and the grade of talent added was high indeed.

The scholarships issued by senators and representatives to this State Normal college, are bringing the cream of Alabama studentship. It is a grand feature of the college.

The State University.

If tha tone of the State press is any criterion, the selection of Dr. J. K. Powers as President of the University seems to meet the approbation of the whole people of Alabama.

As President of the State Normal School at Florence, Dr. Powers displayed an energy and administrative ability that have no parallel in the educational annals of the State, and the result of his well-directed efforts has placed the State Normal in the very fore-front of schools of its kind in the South.

The friends of Dr. Powers, and the News feels honored in having been one from boyhood, believe that he will achieve a similar triumph in the management of the affairs of the State University.—Oakman News.

It is doubtful if a choice to any public position in Alabama ever commanded such universal commendation. So far as we are able to judge there has not been a discordant note from any quarter. Such confidence must be highly gratifying to President Powers. It certainly argues well for the University.

WILLIAM GROESBECK DEAD.

Was Counsel for President Johnson in the Impeachment Trial.

William Groesbeck died last Thursday at his home near Cincinnati, aged 82. He was elected to congress in 1857 and held many public positions after that time. He was counsel for President Johnson in the impeachment trial of 1868. He was very wealthy and highly educated.

When a man reaches one age when he has time to be gay, his liver refuses to let him.

Has Changed Its Meaning.

The word "belfry" had originally no connection with bell, an idea which is now intimately associated with the term. The first meaning given is "watch tower," from the Middle English "berfry," a watch tower. The first part of this word is connected with borough, the second with free. As the practice grew of hanging bells in such towers, people reminded themselves of the fact by changing the word berfry into the modern belfry.

CURRENCY REFORM.

HON. C. J. HILLYER ON THE SITUATION.

The Tariff Not for Protection but for Reward—Contraction Will Reward the Contributors to Mark Hanna's Campaign Fund.

(By C. J. Hillyer.)

Is it possible that the tariff bill is to be permitted to pass the senate without a provision for checking the accumulation of currency in the treasury? If a majority of senators were in favor of a gold standard I could understand such action or inaction. A gold standard requires a contraction of currency volume and a corresponding reduction of prices, otherwise, except by perpetual bond issues, it cannot be maintained. A senator, therefore who believes in a standard of gold can consistently and should logically seek a curtailment of the volume of money in circulation. But only a small number of senators profess to be gold monometallists. A majority profess to be in favor of free coinage, and yet it seems, judging from the record of debate, that these silver senators are about to accept silently or with feeble protest the most stupendous scheme of money contraction which since 1873 has been proposed as an approach toward a gold standard.

I see it constantly asserted by Republican and Democratic senators alike that this tariff bill will not produce a surplus of revenue, and many even prophesy that it will result in a deficiency, but I have never seen any figures upon which this opinion is based. Those that are given are all in the other way, and point, not merely to a surplus, but to a surplus of most significant proportions—sufficient to swallow up by sequestration in the treasury the entire volume of our United States legal tender currency. Consider first the fact that the present surplus is two hundred and thirty-seven millions, while in March last it was only two hundred and twenty-two millions, showing an increase in three months under the present tariff of fifteen millions. Take next the figures of Mr. Dingley, showing an annual increase of revenue of one hundred and thirteen millions under the house tariff bill.

Take then the figures of the experts, upon which the house committee's estimates were predicted, and also the latest expert of the senate finance committee showing an increase of one hundred millions, and against all this observe that you have nothing but the opinion of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Allison, without support of any detailed statement and expressed in such loose, general way as to screen them from any responsibility for its accuracy, I assert that no intelligent man, let alone a senator of the United States, can carefully consider the calculations and estimates which have been made public, and upon which the finance committee profess to have made their recommendations, and entertain a reasonable doubt that on the first day of March, 1901 (before which no repeal of the proposed legislation is possible), all of our greenbacks and nearly all of our treasury notes will be safely entombed in the treasury and as effectually retired from circulation as by a law requiring their cancellation.

This is not only the effect, but in my judgment the design of this tariff bill. Two classes of contributors to the McKinley campaign fund were to be rewarded—one, the manufacturers by a monopoly in the sale of their products, and the other the money loaners by such contraction of the money volume as would enable them to confiscate the property of the debtors. As to the first class, it is fair to conclude that the people, saying nothing as to the methods employed to influence them, declared in favor of a protective policy. Therefore, let a protective tariff be enacted. But there was no vote for a contraction of the currency, except, perhaps, the few cast by Palmer and Buckner. Had such an issue been openly made Mr. McKinley would not have received a respectable minority of votes. Here and there some gold organ demands recognition for the support which secured to the President his election by positive direct action towards the money contraction essential to the establishment of a gold standard.

But these clamorers, if sincere, have no political sagacity. The shrewd managers of the gold standard scheme know better than to ask for impossible direct action. They want the greenbacks retired, but they have no squeamish sentimentality as to the method of retirement. If it can be done under the disguise of tariff legislation they will be satisfactory and they will hold Mr. McKinley equally discharged of his obligation as if he had been able to procure direct affirmative congressional action.

So we have this tariff bill, nominally for protection and revenue, but containing in its schedules a scheme for currency contraction vastly more important than any of its professed purposes. I wish to utter a note of warning to silver senators. Upon this feature of the tariff bill to which I am directing attention you cannot escape responsibility. No fault finding as to details, no general criticism of the protective policy will be accepted as a discharge of your duty by those who look and have a right to look to you to prevent an aggravation of the money famine which will follow the passage of this bill in its present form. I will not do to say, let the people have another object lesson, and the more severe the better—the more they suffer the more likely they will be to vote the Democratic ticket. In the present situation no such selfish suggestion can be tolerated.

A shrinkage in the next two years of $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in our money volume will cause such a fall in our present low prices as to sweep the whole class of property-owning debtors into hopeless bankruptcy. These struggling debtors constitute the most energetic and enterprising class of citizens, and it is as foolish as it is outrageously unjust to permit their property to be confiscated. The remedy is very simple. There is certainly no difficulty in fixing the amount of treasury balance and practically maintaining it by the purchase of bonds with any considerable excess, and the issuance of treasury notes under proper regulations as to redemption to meet any accidental deficit. What objection can any silver senator have to the purchase of bonds? We complain very bitterly of Mr. Cleveland because he issued them. Why should we hesitate to reverse his policy?

Experience has shown that the purchases can be made under proper treasury regulations safely and economically, but were there a job in every transaction the injury would be infinitely less than the disastrous consequences entailed by a contracting money volume. As to a provision for authority to issue short time obligation in case of a deficit, since this should not or need not be made obligatory but left to the discretion of the secretary, it is impossible that there should be any serious objection. Whether these obligations should be legal tender United States notes or simply redeemable certificates is immaterial. The secretary is not deprived of any of his present authority and the additional authority would, even if unnecessary, be harmless.

It will be no excuse for a senator to vote against this amendment that he believes there will be no surplus. Unless he has some private information and figures which have not been given to the public, he has no valid reason for this belief. But concede that he is right; if there is no surplus there will be no purchase of bonds. The provision could only become operative in case there should be surplus, and because a senator may rely upon the guesses, or, at least, unsupported assertions of opinion of the senate committee furnishes no reason why he should refuse the precaution of a proviso based upon the hypothesis that they may may be mistaken.

I have read carefully the amendment proposed by Senator Stewart, and it seems to me well adapted to accomplish the purpose and otherwise unobjectionable. But if it is not properly framed, let it be amended or superseded by a substitute. The thing to be done is to prevent the people from being deprived of the money which is still left them, and which they need as perhaps never before, by this sequestration in the treasury under a bill whose authors disavow any such purpose. If silver senators neglect this I firmly believe that within two years they will be hunting for apologies for their oversight in no very different way from those who voted to demonetize silver, supposing that they were merely enacting technical changes in the operations of the mint.—Washington Times.

Making Golden Handcuffs.

After looking the senate over and having discovered that a cut-and-dried goldite monetary commission could not be appointed this session, the administration has determined to have a currency bill prepared to be presented at the December meeting of congress. The secretary of the treasury, assisted by all of the ablest gold monometallists in this country and England, will devote the summer and autumn months to the concocting of some sort of measure that that can be railroaded through congress and that shall snap the golden handcuffs on the wrists of American commerce. The contemptible hypocrisy of the Republican party has nowhere a stronger illustration than in its treatment of the currency question. As long as the goldites could do so they smuggled measures secretly through congress that had in them the deadliest enmity to silver. When this secret method could no longer be pursued, then came the era of lies and false promises. A pretended desire to secure international bimetallism has been urged by the Republicans as an excuse for delay and as a sop to silver men. The utter insincerity of such a claim is now made manifest by the talk about a currency bill and the form which that bill is going to take. Now the time has arrived when all disguise is going to be thrown aside. The fact that 6,500,000 men voted for free silver at the last Presidential election served notice on the Republican plutocrats that the people could no longer be fooled, deceived or cajoled, and now the money sharks are going to try coercion.

It is well. We are glad that the issue has at last been made. Too long have the friends of silver delayed and doubted. The plutocrats have ever had one purpose—the slaughter of silver. This fact is now apparent. There is no longer any disguise. Silver men should realize that the struggle is to the death, that compromise is cowardice, and cowardice is defeat.—Chicago Dispatch.

Speech Not Always Silver.

"In these times campaign speeches are only empty shells, without kernels. However well meaning, or whoever it is who thinks he does good by them must be forgetting that a million of workmen and their children are hungry. The man who looks for bread in such speeches will not have much to eat." (With the compliments of J. Wanamaker to the man who was elected to be president, but puts in his time making speeches.)

THE PARTY HARNESS.

IT IS NOW GALLING REPUBLICAN VOTERS.

American Citizens Cease Being Potter's Clay in the Hands of Political Bosses and Trimmers—The Curse of Clevelandism.

One often hears the expression, "If times remain this way until the next election I shall change my vote," says the American Standard. Now, why will you change you vote? If you don't know any more at the next election what the trouble is than you did at the last election, what are you going to vote for? People are sorely distressed and know there is something the matter, and the principal reason so many do not know what the trouble is, is because they are trusting to party leaders and have not themselves taken the time to find out. To even talk of having better times without removing the cause of the depression, is a waste of energy. A large majority of the people today honestly believe that there is something wrong with our money system and yet they cannot claim to know or even to have tried to find out what is the matter. They have been willing to follow their political leaders who for selfish reasons are generally ready to do anything that will keep them in harmony with the next boss above them.

The people must think for themselves and then act before there will be any better times. As long as the people allow themselves misled to believe it is wrong to have an opinion that would put them out of harmony with their party, so long they will be as potter's clay in the hands of political trimmers. Republicans have believed in John Sherman and followed him blindly, with the result that he has put burdens on them, by the manipulations of the bond and dollar, many times greater than Jeff Davis did by the War of the Rebellion. You say: Now, is not this exaggerataion? We answer you no; it is not even an immoderate statement. You only feel it to be so because you have not investigated, and because the leader named is of your party. When Cleveland was elected many unwise Democrats were wild with joy.

Now, what do you think of him? You have no language that would express your contempt for and hatred of the cowardly conspirator. In fact none are left to do him honor except the gold and bond gamblers and the people who bow to the money power and are willing it shall rule the nation. The masses of all parties are honest. Do not we as American citizens owe it to ourselves to wear our party harness a little more loosely? Shall we not be better citizens to honestly investigate both sides of the question which, disguise it as cunning demagogues may, is, after all, simply neither more nor less than this: Shall the money power rule, or shall the people be the government? Gold and bonds in one end of the scale; the wealth-producer in the other.

What Makes Wages Go Up or Down.

Gen. A. J. Warner recently made a silver speech out in Ohio, in which he made some bulls-eye shots. Among other things he said: The problem before us is how to recover ourselves from these changed conditions. The difficulties which must be overcome are increasing. The gold standard has been established in Russia and Japan. You may look any day for another step in India. Gold will continue to rise, and prices will fall. Our task is becoming harder. To restore prosperity in this country you must get down nearer the soil. If the prices of products continue to fall and money to rise, think what will soon be the result. By the time we have a population of one hundred millions, less than five per cent will have all the wealth. You cannot have a high order of civilization when wealth is concentrated into a few hands. What we want is not so much to start the mills, as to start the markets. When everybody is employed, you can't keep wages down; when only half are employed, you can't keep wages up. In the last year, we exported $320,000,000 more than we imported, of goods and manufactures. That did not balance our account. We are now exporting gold to balance up. Our policy for years has been to increase the value of that which we agree to pay, and lower the value of that we have to pay with.

The Conspiracy Has Begun.

The kind of "currency commission" to be operated by Lyman Gage is shown by the letters he has sent out for "suggestions." They have gone, for instance, to J. Edward Simmons, Frederick D. Tapppan, George C. Williams, George F. Baker, Henry W. Cannon, and J. T. Woodward. Now a perfectly responsible public man, in a pamphlet entitled "The New York National Bank Presidents' Conspiracy against Industry and Property," has definitely and specifically charged that these six men, in conjunction with Grover Cleveland and some others, organized and percipitated "the panic of 1893," which broke ten billions of values and made two million tramps. If Capt. Kidd were alive, Gage would doubtless write him, too, for "suggestions."—Ex.

Gage Is Also a Counterfeiter.

The arrest of those counterfeiters in Arkansas suggests that counterfeiting is certainly a crime, and morally, as well as legally, in most circumstances. But the demonetination of silver, which makes counterfeiting easy in a small way, is a much greater crime than the counterfeiting itself.

POINTS FROM THE PRESS.

The idea of a "gold basis" for a civilized nation is an unmitigated confidence game.—San Francisco Star.

The many produce, the few enjoy. Why? Because the many are led by the few, and refuse to read up on the subject of sociology.—Appeal to Reason.

The opening of the barrels of senatorial candidates may create a little temporary prosperity in Ohio, but will not last after the fall election.—Journal of the Knights of Labor.

The railroad magnates all over the country are smacking their chops in anticipation of the lion's share they are soon to receive of the bounteous crops ready to be harvested.—Southern Mercury.

A furniture worker who was laid off the other day told the foreman that he had been assured of permanent employment if McKinley was elected. "Did you vote for McKinley on such assurance?" asked the foreman. The man aswered "yes." "Then go to McKinley and get a job," said the foreman.—Grand Rapids Workman.

At first flush, it looks a little unreasonable to expect prosperity at the hands of the Republican administration before it gets laws into operation in line with its policy, but it should be remembered that we were assured all the while that it was not laws, but confidence, that was needed. It looks to us that it is about time for the first installment of confidence to arrive.—Living Issues.

Don't say it is human nature to monopolize land while thousands are denied the right of homes. There is nothing human about it; it is inhuman. It is hog nature, not yet civilized or Christianized out of humanity or its laws and institutions.—New Dispensation.

Col. Kerens has had himself interviewed by the New York Mail and Express and he gives it as his opinion that the party of gold is soon to win a grand victory in Missouri. Well, the colonel may be right, but the election in the first district a few days since is no indication in that direction. The returns do not go to prove that the drift of public sentiment is that way. If the colonel would put his pass in his grip and walk over into southwest Missouri and interview the farmer, he might go back thinking that the farmer was a fool, but he would have no reason to believe that there was going to be any alarming exodus of the men who till the soil in the direction of the goldbug camp.—Carthage (Mo.) Silver Review.

Cyprus is as much Greek as Crete, but is held by the British government for the same reason that Cuba is held by Spain—for "all that the traffic will bear" in taxation. But so dominated is the American daily press by British and Wall street gold that the fact is studiously suppressed. "Zaptiehs" are Turkish troops in the British service to suppress otherwise possible revolt of Cyprusites. Jamaica is governed in the same way, solely in the interest of British office-holders and financiers, there being some 750,000 of colored Jamaicans and only 15,000 English in that island.—San Francisco Star.

GENERAL REMARKS.

(By General Remarker.)

The desire to abolish the Fourth of July because it is sometimes desecrated by orators like David B. Hill is carrying reform too far.

There can be no doubt that John Russell Young will make a good librarian of congress, for the New York Evening Post is against him.

New York excels in everything. That city will soon have the biggest bridge in the world, as she now has the biggest and craziest goldbugs.

A South Carolina man who a year or two ago named his baby "Grover Bissell" has committed suicide at the thought of it. The punishment fits the crime.

After August Belmont, of the Rothschild family, has erected the statue to his favorite horse, the Reform club should borrow the model, lengthen its ears, and set up a statue to Bynum.

When a Mr. Stealey undertakes the job of defending John G. Carlisle and Cleveland's civil service, the first syllable of Stealey's name naturally suggests all his reasons and motives.

The administration is said to have hired "a bill-poster of prosperity" in the person of Mr. Wilbur F. Wakeman. Civil service was no trouble in his case. A bill-poster of prosperity goes anyhow, because he is so awfully needed.—Silver Knight Watchman.

Poverty and Abundance.

In the states in the west farmers burn corn because there is too much coal. Miners go hungry in Pennsylvania because there is an over-supply of pork and beans. Men, women and children are clothed in rags because too many clothes are made. Children go barefooted because of an over-production of hides. There is no lard in the workman's hovel because of an over-production of hogs. Too many streets are unpaved because of an over-supply of brick.

Funny, isn't it?

Millions go hungry every day because there is too much bread.—Warren Worth Bailey.

PRICES STILL FALL.

THE BONDHOLDER AFTER THE PRODUCER.

Nothing Makes a Man So Homesick in His Own Home As to See Everything Shrinking from Year to Year Except His Debts and Taxes.

(By Solon Chase, of Maine.)

Bryan fired a gun in the Chicago convention that was heard around the world. It was a long-distance shot. It hit 'em in Wall street; it hit 'em in London, in Paris, and in Berlin.

The question that Bryan thrust into the face and eyes of two continents is the question of higher or lower prices. The millions who voted for McKinley voted for lower prices, and they have got what they voted for. The millions who voted for Bryan voted for higher prices, and we did not get what we voted for, but we are going to pick our flints and try again. The battle of the standards is a battle for higher or lower prices, and nothing else.

The conflict is between the bondholder and the producer. The term producer includes every man, woman, and child engaged in or dependent on the productive industries of the country. The term bondholder includes the money-lending fraternity of every stripe and feather.

If the money lender loans money that is worth ten pounds of pork to the dollar and gets his pay in money that is worth twenty pounds of pork to the dollar he gets his pork without feeding any corn to the hogs. If on the other hand the farmer borrows money that is worth ten pounds of pork to the dollar and pays the debt in money that is worth twenty pounds of pork to the dollar he loses the corn he feeds to the hogs. This illustrates how falling prices benefits the money lender and works injury to the producer.

Last year I bought a new hoe for twenty-three cents. This year I can buy the same kind of a hoe for twenty cents. My last year hoe is not worn out. It has got rusty, but I could take it down to the mill and grind the rust off on the emery wheel and make it do quite well for another year. If I use the old hoe the twenty cents I should save would buy three pecks of Western corn or six yards of New England calico. Judging the future by the past, if I hoard the twenty cents for a year, I can then buy a bushel of corn or 8 yards of calico. If I let the twenty cents lie idle for a year I shall gain a peck of corn or two yards of calico by the rise of money—that is I shall take a peck of corn from the farmer or two yards of calico from the manufacturer without money and without price. If I use the old hoe I restrict the consumption of hoes and restrict the production of hoes and thereby restrict the opportunity of employment for labor. I use the old hoe because the price of a new hoe in money under the effect of the "existing gold standard" will take on a streak of fat while I am using the old hoe.

After 16 to 1 hoes and hogs will rise. There will be confidence in hoes and in hogs. If I hoard in money the price of a hoe for a year that money will take on a streak of lean. There will be confidence in business men and confidence in producers, because there will be dividends in business and dividends in production. But now under the "effect of the existing gold standard" the money lender gets richer by diminishing the value of the property of the producer and the dark pall of falling prices hangs like the gloom of midnight over the face of our fair land.

We are told by the financiers that we are all going to get rich by buying cheap, and what a good thing it is for the crippled pensioner, the poor widow who is living on her small savings, and to the laboring man to increase the purchasing power of the dollar. If the purchasing power of the dollar is increased until the shoemaker can buy his meat for a cent a pound the hog raiser would not wear shoes half the year round, but the bondholder would get 100 pounds of meat for his dollar, and the country would be filled with tramps who could not get so much as marrow bone to grease their "chops."

If low prices is a good thing, haven't we received about all the benefit we can from falling prices, and wouldn't an upward turn of values be a healthy change? Every laboring man sixty years old who has earned his living by the sweat of his brow knows that the good times come with high prices and hard times with low prices. The rise of prices that followed the discovery of gold in California and Australia lighted the torch of civilization in dark places and raised the standard of living of the toiling millions the world over. If the new mints had been silver instead of gold the result would have been the same. At that time silver and gold at 16 to 1 were both standard money. The silver dollar would buy as much merchandise as the gold dollar the world over. When new mines of silver were discovered in our own country the American congress and the great commercial nations of Europe took the monetary function from silver and the silver dollar was made a debt. The effect has been to make gold a rising dollar and keep prices on the fall.

The free coinage of silver would raise prices. If free coinage should squeeze the gold dollar enough to bring prices up to the gold level of 1850, would any injustice be done? The bed rock upon which is based the opposition to the free coinage of silver is the fear that free coinage would raise prices and diminish the purchasing power of gold.

The gulf between the men who are getting richer by the rise of money and the men who are getting poorer by the shrinkage of productive property, is widening from year to year. These conditions have built in this country a moneyed aristocracy. Many of these gentry in New England are men of not very large means. When prices were high they turned their property into money, and are now living an idle life on the rise of money. They seem to think that the lack of foresight and the want of business ability is the reason why business men and producers do not make money. They loaf around where workingmen are trying to earn the "honest dollar," hunting for a chance to buy cheap. When one of 'em goes to the grocer to buy meat for his dinner he must have the best cut there is in the "critter" at the lowest price, because he is a financier and pays cash down. The workingman who is working for the best "money in the world" and has to wait for his wages, pays more for his meat and gets a cheaper cut. After 16 to 1 these moneyed aristocrats will put their money into business and find profitable employment in taking care of it.

After fifteen years of falling prices the people find no profitable employment at their homes and most all of them are office-seekers if they belong to the party in power. All the small postoffices are eagerly sought after. If the salary is small everybody understands that salaries have doubled in value by the rise in money and still rising. Falling prices has driven thousands of merchants out of business through bankruptcy. There are many thousands of other merchants who have large stocks of goods on hand bought at very low prices, which they are now selling at retail at 33 per cent of cost in order to get out of a losing business and nobody is taking their places.

Nothing makes a man so homesick in his own home as to see everything he possesses shrinking from year to year except his debts and taxes.

Aftr 16 to 1 the sunshine of rising prices will bring hope and joy into many lowly homes where there is now sadness and sorrow. The rise of prices would be gradual and on the higher plane all interests would adjust themselves without doing injustice to anybody.

The Angel of Discontent.

When the world was formed and the morning stars
Upon their paths were sent,
The loftiest-browed of the angels was named
The angel of Discontent.

And he dwelt with man in the caves of the hill,
Where the crested serpent stings
And the tiger tears and the she-wolf howls,
And he told of better things.

And he led man forth to the town,
And forth to the fields of corn;
And he told of the ample work ahead,
For which his race was born.

And he whispers to men of those hills he sees
In the blush of the misty west;
And they look to the heights of his lifted eye—
And they hate the name of rest.

In the light of that eye doth the slave behold
A hope that is high and brave;
And the madness of war comes into his blood—
For he knows himself a slave.

The serfs of wrong by the light of that eye
March with victorious songs;
For strength of right comes into their hearts
When they behold their wrongs.

'Tis by the light of that lifted eye
That Error's mists are rent,
A guide to the table-lands of Truth
Is the Angel of Discontent.

And still he looks with his lifted eye,
And his glance is far away
On a light that shines on the glimmering hills
Of a diviner day.

Tom Reed's Confession.

Jerry Simpson is as full of humor as these days are of sunshine. He has a good deal of faith in humanity in general, but not much in Tom Reed. "Do you know," he said to a St. Louis Republic correspondent the other day, "that Reed is a cynic, without sincerity in anything? He does not possess a serious conviction. The first term of my service in congress I made a speech on the tariff and had a good deal to say about principle. After I had finished, Reed rolled over to me, congratulated me and drawled out: 'That was a good speech, Jerry, but you shouldn't lay so much stress on principle. After you've been in congress a few years you will come to the conclusion that there isn't any such thing as principle in anything.' Reed was perfectly serious, for once. He has been long enough in congress so that he hasn't got any principle himself."

The Whole Science of Money.

"What good is the Atlantic ocean anyhow?"

"My dear boy, it sustains the money standard."

"No!"

"Yes. If there were no Atlantic ocean gold couldn't be sent across it to Europe."

"What of it?"

"Why, when gold is crossing the Atlantic ocean in this country we're prosperous. When it's crossing to Europe the silver agitation is throttling the honor of the nation."—Twentieth Century.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Corn Crop in St. Clair.

Late corn in St. Clair county gives promise of an extraordinary yield. The farmers say the crop never looked better.

Work Resumed.

Mr. E. Lewis, who has recently returned to Anniston from a trip North, has started up his foundry and machine shops in Oxanna. These have been idle since he went away about two months since.

Veterans' Basket Picnic.

Huntsville Will Lay Sewers.

Huntsville has $42,004 in her city treasury as the result of a bond sale to W. R. Rison, and will at once build sewers. William Meyers will superintend the work, which is to be completed by December 1st.

Opening Gold Mines.

Mr. A. L. Higginbotham has a large force at work under direction of expert miners opening up his gold mines near Chulafinnee. They have struck a broad and rich vein. If it holds out according to present indications it will prove to be the richest gold mine ever found in this State.

A Valuable Relic.

W. D. Campbell, of Geneva, has a paper printed on wall paper, claiming to be the last issue of the Vicksburg Daily Citizen, dated July 2, 1863, with a final note bearing date July 4, that year. It is a valuable relic, full of crisp items, that sound strange after the lapse of years.

A Profitable Enterprise.

The secretary of the Southern Building and Loan Association of Huntsville recently published his semi-annual report showing the resources of the association to be $1,004,943.47. During the past twenty-four months the members of the association have been paid profits to the amount of $736,813.11.

Stockholders Meeting.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Sheffild Land, Iron & Coal Company, of Alabama, will be held at the office of the Sheffield City Company, in Sheffield, on the 10th day of August, 1897, at 11 a. m. for the purpose of selling, assigning or mortgaging a part or all of said company's property to settle its indebtedness, and for such other business as may come up.

Defaulter Located.

It is reported that W. W. Kidd, the defaulting superintendent of education of Marshall county, has been located at Monterey, Mexico, and that his family has gone there to join him. He is said to be bossing a squad of hands on some railroad construction works. No effort will be made to have him returned to Alabama, it is said.

Hand Book of Alabama.

Commissioner Culver is preparing a hand book of Alabama for distribution at the Nashville Centennial. It has been gotten up with a great deal of care and it is said that one of the most attractive features is the article on the educational system of the state, prepared by Superintendent of Education John O. Turner, who presents the advantages of the school system and the great work it is doing in an able and attractive manner.

Reorganization.

According to a statement in a recent issue of the Guntersville Democrat a reorganization is on the tapis for the Tennessee River Transportation Company. President Williams, of Waterbury, Conn., and Messrs. Bohl and Pierpont, heavy stockholders, bought all the property of the company for $23,620 and claim they will put the boats on a basis of profitable operation. Receiver Watt Wilkey is now in charge.

Alabama's Gold Mines.

It is stated that Hon. T. H. Aldrich and associates are making a good thing out of their gold mines near Goodwater. A good authority recently stated that there had been gotten out of these mines specimens of ore that assayed $75 per ton. Some of this ore has been shipped to Charlotte, N. C., where stamping machines are being built for the mines, to be tested and also to show what kind of machinery is best needed for this particular kind of ore. It is understood that Mr. Aldrich and his associates are going straight ahead on developing their properties and that the prospects are excellent.

A CALL.

All former members of the Farmers' Alliance and others interested are hereby requested to meet at Clanton on Saturday, July 31, 1897 at 11 o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the Chilton County Alliance. It is particularly desired we have a full meeting.

Signed. A. G. DAKE,
FRANK CRICHTON.

☞NOTICE. The date of the Alliance meeting called for Saturday, July 24, conflicting with the annual meeting of the Second District of the Mulberry Baptist Association, and other church meetings, it has been decided to postpone the Alliance meeting until one week later, and all friends of the Alliance are requested to make their arrangements to attend the meeting at Clanton on Saturday, July 31.

SMALL-POX is abroad in the land some twenty cases being reported in Birmingham.

WORK was commenced this morning on the new storehouse for Mr. J. W. Edwards. This makes six additional stores to Clanton's business section this year—almost one for each month—Kantner's, Gullahorn's, the office building, Sampey's, Stanfield's and Edwards. A vacant residence can never be found in Clanton, and anyone would find it a profitable investment to build half a dozen convenient sized houses. They would readily be rented at a remunerative price. There is also a splendid opening for a first-class hotel, which properly managed would do a fine business.

AN epidemic of lynching seems to have broken out in various parts, with Alabama and Georgia in the lead. If the published reports are correct the victims of lynch law fully deserve the fate they met. In cases where the culprits are taken red-handed in the commission of fiendish crimes, and there is no mistake as to their identity, a short shrift and a long rope about meets the requirements of the case. But in many instances where these crimes have been committed, as soon as the facts are known, men in the passion of the moment jump hastily to conclusions, and upon slight evidence a victim is strung up while the real criminal escapes to again commit another crime. This must inevitably occur in some lynchings and is greatly to be deplored. The case of Dr. W. L. Ryder who was lynched at Talbotton, Ga., Monday night is not of this kind, and is attributable to the deficiency of the law. Over a year ago Dr. Rider murdered Miss Owen at Talbotton, and has been on trial in various courts ever since. On Monday his case came again before the court and was continued until next fall. Possibly next fall it would have been again continued on some legal technicality. It was a perfectly plain case. He undoubtedly killed the young lady. Was he to be held accountable, or not? The law should be able to decide that in a much shorter space of time than has elapsed since the murder. The people of Talbotton were evidently of this opinion, and the result was he was lynched Monday night while he was being carried from the court room to the jail. Had the law been carried out and a verdict rendered that he was mentally unsound at the time of the killing there would have been no lynching. But so long as the law by various trivial technicalities neglects to render a verdict the people are more than apt to take affairs in their own hands and deal summary justice, and by so doing discredits the entire State. The moral is execute the law impartially and with all possible dispatch consistent with justice.

A meeting of the Alliance of Chilton county has been called for Saturday, 31st inst., at Clanton, for the purpose of reorganizing the Alliance in that county. Several distinguished speakers have been invited and the meeting will no doubt prove successful. This is a move in the right direction. It would require very little effort for such a meeting to be held in every county, and there would be no difficulty in securing two or three prominent Alliancemen to be present and deliver addresses. The Alliance is too noble an order and capable of too much practical benefit to farmers for it to remain disorganized in any county in Alabama. Get a move on yourselves and set the ball in motion.—Monitor.

South Chilton.

Farmers of this section are in good spirits this morning, over the refreshing shower, which fell last night. The cloud moved with great rapidity. The wind was strong enough to blow some timber down in places. After the wind ceased, it rained for one half hour steady. Crops are good but small. If we can get two or three more such rains as fell during the past night will come forth in the time of harvesting all O. K. But there are some farmers in our section who say they have not had enough rain yet. But the crops speaks for themselves. Watermelons are plentiful but small.

We are glad to see the M. T. M. railroad so nicely constructed and rapidly going up for our convenience. It has been needed for a long time.

Mr. J. Y. Propst, one of our most energetic business men has been in Birmingham on special business for a few days.

Prof. H. A. Askins has a full school at Center Point, and is giving good satisfaction.

Prof. E. B. Deason, one of our self-made young men, is teaching near New Prospect; we need more such energetic young men in our community.

Mr. Walter Mills has been very sick for some time with malarial fever, but we are glad to see him up again.

There was an all-day singing at Pilgrim's Rest Sunday last, was well attended. R. C. Kendrick was appointed chairman; Profs. J. C. Veazey and F. M. Foshee were the leaders for the day. The refreshments were plentiful; many thanks to the people of that community.

Best wishes to the BANNER and its readers. SUB.

Rockymount.

Two preachers have been going around and preaching in this community. Their articles of faith seem very weak indeed. They claim the Bible to be the word of God so far as translated correctly; the book of Mormon to be the word of God; that the church exists to-day as it did in the days of Christ and his apostles; the laying on hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost; baptism for the remission of sins, and that the ten tribes of Israel will be gathered together and Zion will be built on this continent. How it is that the ten tribes of Israel which have been out of existence for centuries will be gathered together on this continent is more than I can understand. In regard to the laying on hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost, what about the first four verses of the 2nd chapter of the Acts of the Apostles? If you believe in baptism for the remission of sin, why was Christ baptised? and why it is you take a novel called the book of Mormon written by an educated crank called Joseph Smith to be called the word of God is more than I can understand. You go from house to house scattering your literature, letting the Lord pay your bills, imposing yourselves upon our Christian people. Now then, what we Southern people want is evidence and facts and that we will have. If you can't heal the sick, restore sight to the blind, cause the lame to walk, raise the dead, you are not living up to your profession, and if you are not living up to your faith you have got no business in the pulpit. We would suggest that you quit visiting us and teaching your doctrine and go to your homes in Utah and settle down Remember what happened to six of your brethren a time ago down in Taylor county, Florida, and two others over near the line of Georgia last winter.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis Mo., July 21, 1897.

The wearisome tariff debate is over and we now know what we have to expect and can compare the Dingley with other tariffs. In 1862 in the midst of a terrible war, the average tariff was but 32 per cent. The McKinley tariff raised the per cent. to 49. The Wilson bill lowered the rate to 39 per cent. Now comes the Dingley bill and raises the average tax to 58 per cent; this too in time of peace and abundant crops. Will the people stand this? It is estimated that this bill will pour into the treasury $230,000,000 a year; $60,000,000 more than the Wilson tariff. At the opening of the last day's debate on the tariff the Chaplain prayed "that the tariff bill may disappoint the fears of its opponents and excuse the hope of its advocates in the effect upon public prosperity and activity."

Although there has been much discussion of arbitration no settlement of the coal workers' strike has yet been effected. The labor commissioners and governors of the states affected, viz: Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia met and agreed on plans that they hope may avert the disaster of a prolonged strike. A number of the metropolitan dailies have sent correspondents and artists into the mining districts and they reveal a degree of suffering that should make all honest Americans sympathize with this poorly paid class of laborers. Men with their families have lived on 60 cents a day; the father who must have strength to work, consuming the only meat that could be bought, the women and children doing without. A coal famine is threatened and the prices have gone up.

Chauncey Depew, post-prandial orator, society man, diplomat, anglomaniac and railroad attorney, has been "jacking up" his party. He says, "Republican promises of better times must be fulfilled and quickly fulfilled or the party will be swept off the face of the earth." We venture to hint that Chauncey, like the Irishman's chicken, spoke too late. He also defines "Bryanism" as "but another name for discontent." If this be true then his assertion last winter that Bryanism was a thing of the past, must be false.

Gov. Altgeld has given out eight reasons for McKinley's administration being a total failure. He denounces the president as a "false prophet" who allowed himself to be advertised as the "advance agent of prosperity," "a man who would rather be president than right," "who must reap what he has sown," who sees to-day a quarter of a million starving miners whose condition is the result of men and methods approved by him and his party. He closes with a comparison of McKinley and Bryan, showing the one over powered by office seekers, a tool of trusts, and surely, day by day, losing the esteem of all the people; the other brave and free to stand for principle, the idol of his party and growing daily in popular esteem.

The Nashville conference has met and parted. The credentials of three hundred and fifty-five delegates were accepted. The usual policy of reaffirming the Omaha platform and then tacking various vagaries thereto was gone through with. The committees were crowded with leading malcontents and ex-fusionists of the party. A fight between two of the brethren who called one another "a red headed sap sucker" and "a political buzzard" respectively, was the event of the meeting. The meeting of the Reform press July 2, was devoted to abuse of Chairman Butler, Robert Schilling of Wisconsin, being almost alone in the defense. After this they resoluted that theirs was a mission of education and peace and that they were "deadly" in earnest. The conference appointed three committeemen from each state to organize a national committee and elect officials.

President McKinly has asked the Senate for authority to appoint a currency commission but it is not apt to be granted.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, can be taken as easily in summer as in winter. Unlike the plain oil it is palatable, and the hypophosphites that are in it aid in digestion and at the same time tone up the system.

For sickly, delicate children, and for those whose lungs are affected, it is a mistake to leave it off in the summer months. The dose may be reduced if necessary.

We recommend the small size especially for summer use, and for children, where a smaller dose is required. It should be kept in a cool place after it is once opened.

Highly Prized Relic Lost.

In our fire on the night of the 4th inst. there was destroyed a large solid silver table spoon that was 96 years old. On the flat part of the handle was engraved the monogram, J. & N. M. (John and Nancey McMorries) On the neck of the spoon was stamped, J. Stevenson & Bro., Philadelphia, 1801. My grandfather, John McMorries, of Newberry, S. C., bought this set of spoons when he married and began house-keeping in 1801. When my grandmother died in 1863 this set of spoons fell to my father's family, and there happening to be just six of us each got one of these spoons as an heirloom.

I regret the loss of this relic more than any article lost.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE and their marvelous cure.
Science of the 19th Century looks on with amazement at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Longhurner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication: Jan. 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 4th of January 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism, so severe and painful was the attack that within 48 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 Drops and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was also free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The completeness of my cure was my marvel. I now know for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours, J. P. LONGBURNER.
Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so poorly that I lost the use of my legs and arms and could not move without pain. I was so crippled that I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable and I believed him. But now, after using "5 Drops" only two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It wards off Croup and cures the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.
Yours respectfully, WM. M. KELLEMS, Liberta, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.
We received the following letter from Mr. J. F. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published needs Mr. Kellems asking of his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwarded us.
MR. J. J. WILSON.
DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published my testimonial just as I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you such as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain. Dr. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.
KR. W. M AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS

Let The Whole World Know The Good Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Does

HEART DISEASE, has its victim at a disadvantage. Always taught that heart disease is incurable, when the symptoms become well defined, the patient becomes alarmed and a nervous panic takes place. But when a sure remedy is found and a cure effected, after years of suffering, there is great rejoicing and desire to "let the whole world know." Mrs. Laura Wineinger, of Selkirk, Kansas, writes; "I desire to let the whole world know what Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has done for me. For ten years I had pain in my heart, shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in my left side, oppressed feeling in my chest, weak and hungry spells, bad dreams, could not lie on either side, was numb and suffered terribly. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and before I finished the second bottle I felt its good effects, I feel now that I am fully recovered, and that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure saved my life."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Restores Health.....

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on guarantee that first bottle benefits, or money refunded.

Expert Opinion.

Physicians as a class are supposed to be indifferent to poetry. They have other and more important things to think of.

"What do you think of my poems?" inquired the young man.

"They betray an astonishing ignorance of anatomy," replied his medical friend.

"But they are not supposed to be scientific, you know."

"That may be the case, but it affords no excuse for your saying they 'spring from an aching heart,' when it is so apparent that they proceed from a deranged liver."—Washington Star.

In the Eastern situation Greece today is the only nation which has dared to take a stand for civilization and progress, and if she is vanquished in the impending struggle it will be to the everlasting disgrace of the six big bullies who are handicapping her.

Several young ladies living on Kissam street, Cleveland, have petitioned the City Council to change the name of the street. They'll continue to reside on that street, however, just the same, no matter what it is called, and the boys will continue to—well, to justify the present name.

Another Vanderbilt scion has married a chorus girl. The trouble is not with the rich young men of New York, but with the rich young women. They must be hopelessly homely or hopelessly stupid, else they would never be cut out by chorus girls.

Woman in the East.

An old Arab proverb declares, "The best son-in-law is the grave." You cannot insult a Moslem more than to ask after the health of his wife.

If a woman is so much as mentioned in conversation, even though she may be the speaker's own wife, politeness requires one to add the words, "May God elevate you"—that is, above the contamination of such a subject. The same expression is used after the mention of a dog, a donkey, a pig, or a shoe, all of which are held vile and unclean. Nor is this feeling confined to Mohammedans. Doctor Jessup tells how a Greek Christian in Tripoli came applying for help to an American physician. Said he:

"There is a woman here who is ill. I beg your pardon for mentioning so vile a subject to your excellency."

"Who may it be?" inquired the doctor.

"May God elevate you, it is my wife."

Dr. Jessup also tells of overhearing the following conversation between a Mohammedan and Doctor Van Dyck:

"Your excellency must be aware that I have a sick man at my house. May God grant you health! He has pain in his back, headache, and he will not eat."

"Has he any fever?"

"A little."

"I will come and see her this afternoon, perhaps."

"May God increase your goods."

The Monthly Statement of the Exports and Imports.

VERY REMARKABLE SHOWING

General Wilson, Chief of Engineers, States That the Canal From the Great Lakes to the Hudson Would Cost $200,000,000—It is Not Likely to be Built.

Brought to Terms.

The difficulty in Morocco over discrimination against the Americans employing native labor has been settled, and Uncle Sam's war ships have moved on. Americans were given their rights.

Gold From Alaska.

Mr. Preston, the director of the mint, has received a telegram from the superintendent of the San Francisco mint stating that $500,000 in gold had arrived at that port from Alaska and that an equal amount was expected to arrive next week.

Would Cost $200,000,000.

The secretary of war has transmitted to congress the report of chief engineers on the preliminary examination of a ship canal from the great lakes to the Hudson river. Gen. Wilson, chief of engineers, says in the report that it is the opinion of the local officers that the best route for a ship canal is that by way of Niagara river, Lake Ontario, Oswego, Oneida lake and the Mohawk and Hudson rivers and that this would cost at a rough estimate $200,000,000. Maj. Symonds further expresses the opinion that the construction of such a ship canal is not a project worthy of being undertaken by the general government, for the reason that its benefits would not be commensurate with its cost.

Don't Believe It.

At the Japanese legation no credence is given to the report cabled from London that the Spanish and Japanese governments have entered into an alliance against the United States. It is pointed out that the Spanish newspapers are nearly as bitter in their denunciations of the Japanese, whom they charge with giving material aid to the Philippine insurgents, as they are against this government for permitting arms and men to be sent to Cuba. It was stated in most positive terms that there was absolutely no truth in the rumor, and it was explained that the presentation of the chrysanthemum decoration to King Alfonso had no significance whatever, so far as the United States is concerned, and does not imply any change in the relations between Japan and Spain.

The state department has no information whatever of any alliance between Spain and Japan.

Exports and Imports.

The monthly statement of the exports and imports of the United States issued last week by the bureau of statistics makes the remarkable showing that never before in the history of the country has the exports of merchandise, which include practically all the exports, except gold and silver, reached so high a figure as during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1891, nor has the excess of exports over imports ever been so large.

The only time these figures were approached was in 1892.

The statement for 1897, with comparisons, is as follows: Exports of domestic merchandise, $1,032,998,880, increase over 1896, about $170,000,000; total exports of domestic and foreign merchandise, $1,051,987,091, as compared with $882,606,938 for 1896. The total imports of merchandise during the fiscal year just closed amounted to $764,373,905, of which $381,942,605 was free of duty. The total imports were about $15,350,000 less than last year, and the excess of exports over imports for the year was $287,613,186. This is an excess of about $185,000,000 over last year and an increase of about $23,000,000 over any previous year.

Presidential Nominations.

The President has sent to the senate the following nominations:

Interior—Roland T. Rombauer, of Montana; Edwin S. Mathaway, of Montana, and Wm. V. Tompkins, of Arkansas, to be commissioners to examine and classify lands within the land grant and indemnity land grant limits of the Northern Pacific Railroad company in the Missoula land district in Montana.

To Be Receivers of Public Moneys—C. Frost Liggett, at Lamar, Col.; Alvah Eastman, at St. Cloud, Minn.; Richard H. Jenness, at O'Neill, Neb.; Wm. Q. Ranft, at Missoula, Mont.

Charles S. McNichols, of Illinois, to be agent for the Indians of the Colorado river agency in Arizona.

Joseph C. Auld, of Montana, Jas. A. Johnson, of Montana, and Watson Hoyle, of the District of Columbia, to be commissioners to examine and classify lands within the land grant and indemnity land grant limits of the Northern Pacific Railroad company in the Bozeman land district in Montana.

Cyrus Leland, Jr., to be pension agent at Topeka, Kans.

Justice—Isaac E. Lambert, attorney of the United States district of Kansas.

War—Lieut.-Col. Daniel W. Henham, Seventh infantry, to be colonel; Maj. G. S. Carpenter, Fourth infantry, to be lieutenant-colonel; Capt. S. Baker, Sixth infantry, to be major; First Lieut. L. W. V. Kennon, Sixth infantry, to be captain; Second Lieut. H. J. Hunt, Fifteenth infantry, to be first lieutenant; Frank L. Chambers, of Kentucky, to be civil engineer in the navy.

THE DIPLOMA INDUSTRY.

Want to Fix a Minimum Standard of Requirements.

Washington Letter Boston Transcript.

"Resolved, That the state should exercise supervision over degree-conferring colleges, through some properly constituted tribunal, having power to fix a minimum standard of requirements for admission to or graduation from such institutions, and with the right to deprive of the degree-conferring power such institutions not conforming to the standard so prescribed."

This resolution is to be considered by the National Educational association. It is intended to curb the passion of obscure institutions of learning for conferring degrees. There are now 460 so-called colleges in the United States where United States Commissioner of Education Harris says there should be forty; and some legislation is wanted before the number increases to 1,400 or 1,500, and the entire country is overrun with half educated "bachelors of arts." The resolution will be presented by President Rodgers, of Norwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and will be discussed by President Jesse, of the University of Missouri, and President Baker, of Colorado.

There will be a discussion on the same day of a paper on "The Practical Value of a College Training," which is to be read by Dr. Canfield, of the Ohio State university.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION.

Opening Meeting of the Great Methodist Gathering in Toronto.

A telegram from Toronto, Ont., dated July 16 says: The Epworth Leaguers have been coming for two days until today they number 20,000 and carry everything by storm. Meetings are being held in profusion and delegates from Greenland's icy mountains to India mission fields are all mingled. Today the meetings numbered not less than eighteen, and there are anything up to a dozen speakers who were limited to five minutes at each meeting and it is impossible for any one delegate to imbibe more than a certain part of all the good things going. However, they did their best. Note book in hand they rushed from meeting to meeting, only stopping to show their appreciation of element of sentiment by spontaneous applause.

The music is perhaps the most pleasing feature of the convention. Choirs of 150 to 200 voices are at each meeting and as the good old hymns are sung and a few thousand extra voices help out the choruses, the effect is inspiring. The theories under discussion today were spiritual, literary and social work. The Junior league and missionary conferences were also held.

THE LADIES SHOCKED.

They Object to an Order Compelling Women to Work in Overalls.

The order of the police commissioners of Kansas City, Kas., that women prisoners must work on the stone pile along with the men has caused a great commotion and has not been put into effect.

The Current Events club, an organization of women, has expressed itself as immeasurably shocked and has called an indignation meeting to protest against the "threatened disgrace and degradation of womanhood." Their principal objection to the rock pile plan is that part of the order compelling the women to work without skirts and to wear overalls instead.

Challenged Prince Henry.

When the Italian officers who were recently released from captivity in Abyssinia, arrived at Para and heard of the reports that had been made against the Italian army of cowardice, they drew lots as to who should take the matter up, and the man who drew the lot sent a challenge to Prince Henry.

Wonderful Memory

It is said Vice-President Hobart has a wonderful memory and has studied the present tariff bill and the Wilson bill so closely that he can name instantly the number of the paragraph in which any article is mentioned in either of the bills.

Will Pray for Money.

At Chicago the efficacy of prayer is to be tried by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the matter of raising the $250,000 necessary to clear the Women's temple from debt. The union has set aside Monday next as the special day of prayer. Should the debt not be paid before January next the building at Monroe and La Salle streets will pass into the hands of Marshall Field. The amount owed is about $300,000. Marshall Field has promised to give $50,000 if payment is made before the first of the year.

Goes to Corea as Missionary.

A telegram from Columbia, S. C., says: Dr. Mattie B. Ingold, of Rock Hill, expects to set sail from San Francisco on August 5th bound for Corea, whither she goes as a foreign missionary, being sent out by the executive committee of the foreign mission department of the Southern Presbyterian church. She has been under appointment for this work for about six years, and has been spending that time in fitting herself for the work she is undertaking.

An American flag flying at the city hall in Toronto, Ont., in honor of the visiting delegates to the Epworth league convention was torn down by an ultra-British artisan one day last week. The man was at once arrested and locked up.

Ernest R. Taylor and Will H. Tolbert, of Los Angeles, have started on a cycling trip around the world from Los Angeles, Cal. They will be without funds and undertake to return in twelve months.

TRADE REVIEW.

Dun & Co. Report the Business Outlook Very Encouraging.

CROP PROSPECTS IMPROVED.

In Many Home Industries, Particularly in Building, There Is More Activity Than in Any Year Since 1892—An Advance in Wheat.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Excepting the great miners' coal strike, which may terminate at any time, there is scarcely a feature of the business outlook which is not encouraging, the season considered.

Our prospects have been improved by needed rain in some regions and foreign advices continue to promise a large demand.

In many home industries, particularly in building, there is more activity than in any year since 1892.

The advance in wheat to 81½c was not due to the government estimate, which was followed by a decline, but to foreign advices and considerable buying for exports.

Demand is also felt from Australia, South Africa, Brazil and even Argentina, while the promise for European crops if not considered bright. The disposition of farmers to keep back wheat for higher prices may effect the outward movement, but Atlantic exports during July, flour included, have been 3,115,443 bushels, against 2,028,817 last year, although in the same weeks 4,659,315 bushels of corn went out, against 1,571,072 last year. Wheat closed 4 cents higher for the week, and corn ½c higher.

Cotton is 1-16c higher, the closing or partial stoppage of important New England mills hardly neutralizing, in market estimation, the expressions of injury from drought.

The cotton goods market does not yet reduce large accumulated stocks, as the curtailment of production shows, but is growing a little more healthy without change in prices. Woolens for the coming season have not been shown, though on some low priced goods advances of 7½ per cent. are asked, and presumably will be asked on better grades.

The output of iron furnaces July 1 was 164,064 tons weekly, against 168,380 June 1, but several furnaces have gone into blast since July 1, and the output is large for the season. Presumably an unprecedented share of it is to supply the great steel companies, which are even now putting more furnaces into blast, and have heavy orders taken when prices were dropped, while the demand for structural shapes and plates are large and for bars improving, though steel bars are now at the lowest quotation ever known in Pittsburg, 87½c to 90c, with Bessemer pig quoted slightly lower.

Tin plates are slightly lower at $3.10 for full weight, and less than $3 is paid for 100-pound boxes.

Failures for the week have been 263 in the United States, against 269 last year, and 27 in Canada, against 30 last year.

MISS WINNIE DAVIS

Invited to Be Present at the Logan Day Ceremonies at Chicago.

Efforts are being made by the committee in charge of the Logan Day ceremony and the ex-Confederates' association of Chicago to secure the presence of Miss Winnie Davis, the daughter of the confederacy, at the dedication exercises, which take place July 22. An invitation had been sent Miss Davis through Miss Lucy L. Hill, a personal friend, and ex-World's Fair commissioner from Kentucky. The formal invitation was followed by a telegram from Miss Hill and others in the Confederates' association, urging Miss Davis to come.

Theodore Noel, commander of Camp Eight, United Confederate Veterans, and a warm personal friend of General Logan, has issued a call to members of the organization urging them to be present at the ceremonies.

It is expected that at least 4,000 of those who fought under the stars and bars will be present.

PRISONERS PARDONED

By the Queen Regent of Spain—General Lee Exhonorated.

Acting upon the suggestion of Captain General Weyler, the queen regent has granted the pardon of Domingo, Castillo, Gongales, Guttermano, Flevera and Fuernte, who are under sentence of death.

Capt. Laborde, of the alleged filibustering schooner Competitor, and two of the crew of that vessel sent a communication to Consul General Lee saying that the report published in a New York newspaper that Gen. Lee was neglecting them was entirely without foundation.

Emanuel Rich, a member of the firm of M. Rich & Bros., one of the largest dry goods and furniture houses in the south, committed suicide at his home in Atlanta at 7 o'clock last Friday morning by cutting his throat with a fruit knife. The dead merchant was a native of Hungary and 40 years old. He was an equal partner with his two brothers in the firm of M. Rich & Bros. As the house enjoys excellent financial standing, no cause is known for the suicide except nervous dyspepsia, from which he suffered.

Ex-Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith has received from United States Consul Parker at Birmingham, England, a request for the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, to be placed in the Pitts Rivers museum, of which Prof. E. R. Tyler is curator. Tyler, it seems, is an authority on superstitions, and has recently received an American buckeye charm against rheumatism. He needs a rabbit foot to complete the collection and Mr. Smith is asked to supply one that has actually been worked by a believer in the charm.

CAUSES A SENSATION.

Weds His Housemaid—A Bluebblooded Philadelphian.

Dr. C. E. Cadwalader, the head of one of Philadelphia's oldest, and most exclusive families, was married last Thursday afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Philadelphia, Pa., to Bridget Mary Ryan, his former housemaid.

This marriage caused quite a sensation in society circles in the city. The bride came to this country five years ago from Tipperary, Ireland, and three years later entered the doctor's employ as housemaid.

Dr. Charles E. Cadwalader is a decendant of the famous John Cadwalader, whose geneology is replete with fame and exclusiveness, whose treasured geanological sheepskin, with lion rampant, contains the names of Lord and Lady Erskine, Gen. John Cadwalader, of revolutionary fame; the Welsh Cadwalader, who fought against Saladin under Couer D'Lion; Dr. Thomas Cadwalader, who, with Franklin, founded libraries and was prominent in early Philadelphia.

The bride comes of poor but respectable Irish parents. She is 21 years of age, while her distinguished husband has passed 50. The couple left on a brief wedding trip immediately after the ceremony.

AN ALLIANCE.

Spain and Japan Reported to Have Joined Forces.

A dispatch from Paris to a news agency in London says that inquiry at the American embassy there has elicited a confirmation of the rumors that the governments of Spain and Japan have arranged an offensive alliance against the United States. The terms of the undertaking, which is for the mutual protection of Cuba, and Hawaii, provide that in the event of an actively aggressive movement on the part of the United States tending toward interference in Cuban affairs or persistence in the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands, both Spain and Japan shall declare war simultaneously against the United States and shall make hostile demonstrations along both the Atlantic and Pacific coast lines of that country.

NOT CREDITED IN WASHINGTON.

Little credence is placed in official circles in the statement that the Spanish and the Japanese governments have entered into an offensive alliance against the United States for the mutual protection of Cuba and Hawaii.

NINETEEN MILES LONG.

Will Be the Tunnel Through Pike's Peak.

Gen. H. Proctor, president of the proposed Cripple Creek Pike's Peak tunnel, which is to be run through the mountain from Manitou to Cripple Creek, arrived at Colorado Springs, Col., the other day from New York and says he will let the contract for the tunnel, which will be nineteen miles long.

He says the estimated cost is about $9,000,000, but during his recent visit to England there was subscribed $12,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is now in bank, and the other money will be paid in installments of $1,000,000 whenever money is necessary.

Mr. Proctor says work wil be begun within sixty days after the contracts are awarded.

THE DEMANDS MODIFIED,

But Turkey Won't Evacuate Thessaly Until the Indemnity Is Paid.

At Constantinople it is understood the council of ministers agreed upon a great reduction in the demands of Turkey for a settlement with Greece, but still insists that all the passes, Elassona, half of the Trikhala district and other territory shall belong to Turkey, while Thessaly shall be evacuated gradually as the installments of the indemnity are paid.

At the last council of ministers the sultan was present and took a personal part in the proceedings, a thing never done before. His majesty addressed questions to the ministers on slips of paper and received answers in the same way.

Great Britain and Russia are opposed to the sending of Turkish troops to Crete and the other powers have assented.

RUINED BY WHISKY.

Cut the Throats of Her Four Children and Then Her Own.

In London, Eng., Emma Simonds, the wife of an engine fitter, cut the throats of her four young children and then her own last week. Simonds returned home about 1 o'clock in the morning, and as he entered his bed room stumbled over the bodies of two of his children, dead, and found his wife and the others dying. Mrs. Simonds, after a period of abstinence, broke the pledge on diamond jubilee day and had been drinking heavily ever since.

Pittsburg Celebrates.

Pittsburg, Pa., celebrated last week what it termed the emancipation of the Monongahela river. The government purchased all the locks and dams on the river owned by private parties, paying over $3,000,000, and the river is now opened to commerce free of lockage tolls. This means cheaper coal for Pittsburg and gives the coal operators of that section an advantage they have not heretofore possessed. A marine display was the chief event of the celebration.

Sold for $1,500,000.

The Ohio Valley Railroad, a branch of the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern railroad, which recently passed into the hands of the Illinois Central, was sold at public outcry last week, at Henderson, Ky., at the upset price, $1,500,000. The road was bought in by Judge A. P. Humphrey, of Louisville, Ky., representing, it is understood, the Illinois Central railroad. The road will pass into the hands of the latter corporation as soon as the sale has been approved by the United States court.

A fierce anti-Jew agitation is in progress in Austria, and it is so violent that it will probably cause a great exodus. There are at least 2,000,000 Jews in Austria, about one-fourth as many as in Russia. A few are very rich, but the masses are very poor. It is the very poor who will suffer most from the hostile legislation and action of the government now in prospect. Naturally many are trying to get out of the country and will come to the United States, where prejudices of race and religion are not so powerful as in Austria and Russia.

Had a Right To.

Office Boy—Jimmy, listen to the editor: He's swearing like a sailor.

Stenographer—He's got a right to; Mr. Longhair, the poet, was in here and left a lot of "blank" verse a minute ago.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

If you owe a man, don't imagine that he will keep the fact to himself.

Are Your Eyes Right?

You are either left-eyed or right-eyed, unless you are the one person out of every fifteen who has eyes of equal strength. You also belong to the small minority of one out of every ten persons if your left eye is stronger than your right. As a rule, just as people are right-handed, they are right-eyed. This is probably due to the generally greater use of the organs of the right side of the body, as, for example, the runner uses his right arm and shoulder, uses his right eye, thereby strengthening it with exercise. This law is confirmed by the experience of jurists. If a person who has ears of equal hearing power has cause to use one ear more than the other for a long period the ear brought into requisition is found to be correspondingly stronger than the other.

One-third of the Line Has Been Completed and Trains Are Running.

Since the beginning of the regular service between Tscheljabinsk and the bridge over the Obi, Oct. 16, 1896, trains run only thrice a week, Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. These trains accomplish the distance of 930 miles in fifty-one hours. The tickets cost: First class, $39; second class, $23.25, and third class, $15.75. Each of the three classes is provided with sleeping arrangements; yet as often happens in Russia, the travelers bring their own beds and samovars, or tea urns, with them, besides other articles. But one must not think that the cars on the Siberian railway are fitted up with all the comfort of European or American "trains de luxe." Even the ordinary station accommodation is only just being gradually completed; for example, the lack of refreshment rooms has been in many places and is still supplied by the peasants of the neighboring region, who come down to the stations with bread, cheese, butter, meat and baked fish. These small defects in the management will naturally soon vanish. For, although for the present it is but a single line of rails, yet the line is destined for considerable traffic in the future, as can be seen from the fact that as a start 2,000 locomotives, 8,000 employes and 35,000 freight cars were decided upon. This staff and rolling stock will allow, on completion of the whole line, of a train composed of one engine, one or two employes and eighteen freight cars for each mile.

As one-third part of this gigantic railway is now ready, it can be conceived that already $150,000,000 out of the estimated general cost of $345,000,000 have been spent. The line has, moreover, in this brief space, shown its influence on the colonization of Siberia, as the western portions of it have been brought, piece by piece, into working order. The colonization has greatly increased along the line since 1895, and the hope of the Russian Government is being rapidly fulfilled, that the cultivation of the swampy Taiga district on both sides of the line will proceed at a quicker rate than hitherto; the swarms of flies make this district terrible in summer. Up to the present there is no data as to the influence of the construction of the line upon trade; there can, however, be no doubt that this influence does exist to a considerable degree, as also an influence for good as regards the administrative system in Siberia. The Russian officials and soldiers, who were often hitherto month after month on the journey ere they reached their destination in Siberia, will, at all events, joyfully greet this connection by railway; its importance from the point of view of transporting troops is clearly seen from the fact that Russia at this moment has in Eastern Siberia alone an army of 60,000 men.—New York Tribune.

Keep the Mouth Shut.

If you would avoid colds, keep the mouth shut when coming out of an over-heated room, especially late at night, and breathe through the nose. Chills are apt to ensue when people talk freely while out of doors just after leaving a room full of heat, as many theater-goers who discuss the play over the play on their way home are inviting illness. It is, in fact, during youth that the greater number of those kind contract habits of inspiration which make their whole life a series of disorders.

Senator Morgan proposes a new test for the immigrant—a knowledge and understanding of the ten commandments. If he will add a provision that the immigrant shall have kept them from his youth up he will be able to put an effective check upon the incoming tide for several years to come.

EVILS OF MONOPOLY.

JERRY SIMPSON'S FOURTH OF JULY SERMON.

He Describes the Dangers That Threaten the Republic and Calls Upon the People to Rally Around the Free Silver Banner.

The members of the People's church in Washington held a Fourth of July celebration which deserved more than the passing mention it received from the daily newspapers. The principal speakers were Jerry Simpson and Senator Allen.

Mr. Simpson was the first speaker. He said:

"I suppose I am here to speak to you about the Fourth of July and things associated therewith. It is one of the days of the year when we should go over the glorious achievements of our ancestors in giving the world one of the grandest governments ever seen. Up to the time of the Declaration of Independence there never had been an attempt to give the world freedom. It was an unheard of declaration. The idea of governing by the people was an unheard of thing. Heretofore the idea prevailed that the right to govern come from on high, and that it belonged to the few. We all concede to Jefferson the authorship of that great paper. It was Jefferson's greatest declaration that 'just government can only exist by the consent of the governed.' It was launched upon an unknown sea. Has it been a success? What are the achievements of that declaration? Have people realized its full import?

"I doubt if half a dozen men at the time who took an interest in the affair really understood the full import of the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson understood it and laid it down as a cardinal principle. What little success we have achieved lies in the fact that Jefferson realized and incorporated therein equality of opportunity. Equality of opportunity for all is Jeffersonian Democracy. The progress of the new government has been marvelous. We look back! We see the colonists fight a seven years' war of devastation and devotion to their cause to a successful conclusion. We see a few settlements on the bays and inlets of the seacoast develop into the grandest nation of the world. We see them during this time conquer a continent. We see commerce and trade spring up everywhere. That increase of growth was because the declaration of equality of opportunity had been made. Under the benign influence of the same the great storehouses of wealth were opened. It is easy to account for. The same old story over again. Every government that has risen is one where the masses are given equal opportunity.

"We sometimes think that when we establish public schools and libraries that all is done. India and Spain have had public schools, libraries and municipalities, but they did not save India to Spain. In France, before the great revolution, there were all the opportunities of education and reading, but they did not save France. Fifty years before the great French revolution 12,500 persons owned all the land. No wonder the people revolted.

"I want to point out, if possible, some of the evils confronting us. We have seen the progress made and the building of the institutions. I want to ask some questions. Has this given the people equality of opportunity? Have the masses shared the blessings, or have only the few been benefited? If this is not the case we have but to make a new resolve that we will try to secure the advantages that should result. It is hard to speak on these topics without stepping on some one's prejudices. But it is the duty of every public speaker to tell the truth as he sees it.

"I hold that today the struggle for existence and the conditions of life are harder than in the days of Jefferson, and that we do not receive the full benefit of our government. What are the causes? We see the land taken up and controlled by syndicates. We ought to devote more attention to pleading the cause of the miners of the state of Idaho and should manifest an interest in the conditions under which they struggle. What is true of them is true of every laboring man in the United States. We say that ought not to be. We grand a land, with all its resources and the inventive genius of man to create machinery. Yet these are the conditions confronting us today. We are on the verge of a revolution, a political one, perhaps—a social one, perhaps. I do not believe the people who listen to annual Fourth of July orations will sit down quietly and submit to those conditions. It is the duty of every statesman to provide and point out, when he gets an opportunity, the evil he sees, however much he may, by so doing, hurt the prejudices of these fine haired statesmen.

"One of the great evils is the power of accumulated wealth. If you would use your common sense and mother wit for just a moment you would know that many of the men in congress are only developed in the faculties of gaining wealth. If you point to the United States senate you will find a body of millionaires. There are not more than a dozen states that will send to the senate a man without the capacity of gaining wealth. It is the same with the house, which, I should say, has gone into the hands of a receiver. It is so that we don't even get a report from the receiver as to the assets. Oh, how far the Ship of State has drifted from its moorings! See how the representatives of the nation have surrendered the rights of the people to one Thomas Brackett Reed, of Maine. I venture to say when truth gets a hearing it will be put down as the most shameful surrender of the rights of the American people ever known.

"The leaders are shrewd—the shrewdest of the land. They put a man like Reed ahead after every election, or place in the white house a man like McKinley, who can be molded at will. I am not a pessimist, although my ramblings may lead you to think so. We have for 100 years studied to acquire wealth. Now we enter upon the new struggle—that of its distribution. There was a time, only thirty years ago, when there was a thirst for wealth. Cotton was king and slavery ruled. After riots it was actually discovered one day that there were twenty-two good men. It was a Sodom and a Gomorrah. John Brown, with twenty good men, went to Harper's Ferry, and before the end was in view the Stars and Stripes meant something. A million men were sacrificed for a principle that gave the black slave his liberty. May the time come for us when twenty-two good men will go to Harper's Ferry or some other place and fight for the liberty of the white slave.

"Let us demonstrate that the Declaration of Independence did mean something—that it meant reward for toil of labor, and not that the results of miners' hard work should go into the pockets of Mark Hana or any other plutocrat. I refer you to the last campaign when they wanted to set aside Flag day, and Mark Hanna, the patriot citizen, was to be made the banner bearer of the occasion. The sole purpose of the agitation was to bolster up the Republican policy. The purpose of Mark Hanna's flag is to cover up the dirt of the Republican party.

"I hope the day will come when that flag will mean something—equality of opportunity. I believe in the American people. I have another hope born of the fact that 6,500,000 people put up in Chicago as a standard bearer a young and a poor man. Everywhere he went spontaneous enthusiasm sprang up, born of a desire to obtain liberty of the masses. That was the grandest thing seen in thirty years.

"The people in the great cities ask why they pay such enormous sums to live in garrets, while some men own vast lots of unimproved land. Why do not the people own the land themselves? These are the questions that agitate the people's minds. We have seen only the border of the promised land, without having had even a taste of the fruit.

I hope the day will come when we can tell the glories of our land without lying about them.

"Now my remedies for these evils. I don't believe a high tariff will employ more labor. I don't believe that gold monometallism will right things. I don't believe that there is a combine not protected by law. I don't believe that people will receive full fruition of the principles of Jefferson's declaration until the people own the land. We can't live without land. If you deprive man of it and its results you make him an abject slave. To remedy the evils you must destroy land monompoly. Let the United States senate not forget to attack land monopoly. If you love Jefferson you must hate it. Some people tell me to practice what I preach, but I must travel in the line that offers the least resistance. Such a resolution, if introduced by me in the house, would not be given a chance.

"I believe in free silver and Bryan, and believe that in rallying around the banner we should instill the idea that land monopoly must go. (Applause.)

"To sum up we have made wonderful progress and along with it there has been a very rapid concentration of wealth. We see that half our homes are in need. We see now a quarter of a million men going on a strike because they can't live on starvation wages. So I thought this a good day to point out the evils that surround us. I believe that some time in the future there will be a sweet bye and bye when we will reap the benefit of our forefathers' sowing; that we will have a government where life will not be a mere struggling for animal existence—a government of equal opportunity."

Agitate, Agitate, Agitate.

James Bryce in his American Commonwealth points to the fact (page 331), that under the European legislative system, "which may be dissolved, and ministries which may be upset at any moment" * * * the persons who move in the inner sphere of politics give unbroken attention to political problems, always discussing them both among themselves and before the people." In the United States, with its presidential election once in four years, the education on matters of public policy is intermittent, and during the intervals not enough is done towards the formation of political thought and the solution of political problems. A little later in the same chapter he says that what is wanted is "a more sustained activity on the part of the men of vigorously independent minds, a more sedulous effort on their part to impress their views upon the masses; and a disposition on the part of the ordinary well-meaning but often inattentive citizens to prefer the realities of good administration to outworn party cries."

Is a Liar a Thief?

According to Edward Atkinson, our farm values fell seven hundred and fifty millions of dollars in 1896, not from the contraction of the currency, but from fear of the remonetization of silver. On the same principle, Atkinson's lies have done no harm; but, if he should ever repent of them, he would fall seven hundred and fifty millions of miles into the bottomless pit.—Ex.

THE GREATEST CRIME.

PLUTOCRACY IS HOLDING THE EDUCATIONAL FORTS.

Every University in the Country Enlisted on the Side of Mammon—The Conditions Are Almost Revolutionary—Gold Their Idol.

(By George Canning Hill.)

The new curriculum of university studies is to be a revision of liberal studies to conform to a gold basis. The money dynasty means to direct and govern everything from life's beginning to its end. President Andrews, of Brown university, in Providence, is to be bidden by a select committee to resign his office or else have it peremptorily taken from him on account of the views he holds on bimetallism. His views on tariff taxation are also alleged against him, in order to serve as a sort of buffer to the main charge. He is to be driven from his high office of an educator of youth, however, for presuming to hold and teach what conflicts with the present interests of those who are themselves in the toils of a power they are helpless to resist.

And such a system goes by the name of the higher education. It presumes to claim the title of liberal, when it exemplifies only the intensest bigotry. A handful of men set themselves up to exclude from the studious pursuits of a large body of youth what they choose to regard as improper because their own personal interests are to appearance antagonized by the teaching.

One may well ask where the mental fibre and sinew of the coming generation is to be looked for, if education is to consist in the adoption of prevailing prejudices and thinking is to be restricted within certan permitted limits. Where is the virile strength to come from that is to give power to the advocacy of truth, and the upholding of law, if the intellectual nutrition of our youth is to be fed to them in the form of prepared pap, and in process of mental digestion or rejection is to be forbidden altogether.

It is the narrow tyranny of the act of the trustees of Brown university that chiefly excites the general sense of revolt. To think that a so-called university education is to be sifted down to a class of studies that for the time offer no contradiction to the business interests of those who presume to formulate them, is to accept education at the dictation of men who are least qualified to outline or inspire it, and to deny to the growing branch the capacity ever to bear either sound or abundant fruit.

There are two points of view in the case that are of serious consideration. One is that a system of education may be laid down and undergo alteration, addition, emendation, and grotesque combination at the hands of men who make no pretension to capacity to guide or supervise an educational method or course; the other is the growing habit, here exemplified again, of exchanging what is fundamental; and what deals with principles and laws, for what is politic and ephemeral, for what may temporarily equip, but can in no sense permanently endow. Any one of fair intelligence who is addicted to the exercise of his reason can see what a muddle and inconsequential result must be the inevitable sequel.

If this sort of policy is to be followed at Brown University, of course there will be no further use for a man like President Andrews as its directing head. The present movement is purposely designed to throw him out. The gold monometallists demand a system of education in American colleges and universities that shall teach their dishonest and revolutionary dogmas or shut their doors to the youth of the country. Who is it that would overthrow and destroy if it is not they? Who seek to destroy our free system of disciplining and developing the mental and moral faculties in the very crisis of their growth, if it is not those who would instruct in party passion, teach the scheming art of money-making for the few, and restrict the excursion of the evolving reason to policies that are as likely to be as base as they are fleeting?

The war we are now engaged in is on for the uninterrupted advance of our common civilization. There is a far greataer stake involved than the immediate prosperity of manufacturing establishments, which is evidently to be the inspiring and moving force at Brown University. The meddlers, of course, fail to realize it; they see only their own selfish interests, which are certain to disappear from their sight in the general cataclysm which a course like theirs invites. The controlling center has its seat in other countries; one may better understand the secret and subtle power it is exercising when it is thus seen in the determination to dictate our American method of public education. It strikes at the source and fountain of our independent existence. It demands the right to teach our youth that they may at last become its more efficient slaves.

The newspapers lose no time in registering their obedience to this central power by applauding the action of the trustees of Brown University and approbating their motives. They really do not see how the regents of the university could have done otherwise by its president, and cringingly anticipate the criticism it is sure to provoke by deploring it as "hot censure," and to be expected from a certain "element of Populism," etc. They indulge in the Pharaseism of the remark that "with the majority of the trustees it is possibly conscientious conviction that President Andrews' views are repugnant to the highest teaching of Brown or any other university." Very possibly, indeed!

If the teaching of bimetallic laws, which have the sanction of more than two centuries, is of so faulty and falsifying character as these wise men of the east would have it believed, it would seem that nothing would be easier than to confute it, that it would be the most vigorous exercise for healthy reasoning powers at their developing stage. But that is not the road selfish tyranny takes. It prefers to cut down, to restrain, to clap in the stocks, to immure in dungeons, to burn at the stake, to punish, to silence. The world has always got on in that way, and until we adopt a larger and entirely liberal one, we have no particular reason for boasting as we do of the wonders of our achievements or the long strides of our civilization. We must continue either wholly slave or wholly free.

CALDWELL KNOWS IT.

Emphatically Expresses a Positive Opinion On 1900.

No man in the United States deserves or enjoys the confidence of the American people more than Judge Caldwell, of the United States Circuit court. It is refreshing and instructing to listen to his wise and patriotic remarks just at this time, and we call special attention to an interview which appeared in the Denver News, and will be found below:

"I have never for a moment doubted the result of the silver fight, remarked Judge Henry C. Caldwell, of the United States Circuit court. "The cause will win. I do not say that it may win—but it will win," added the distinguished juror, with an emphasis on the "will" that resounded down the corridor. The judge was sitting in the private room of Judge Hallett, where he was engaged in friendly conversation with callers.

"The silver cause," said he, is a righteous cause, and I have an abiding faith in the final judgment of the American people. I am not a politician. I have been on the bench too long to think of ever taking an active part in politics, but my sympathy is with Bryan and the cause he so nobly represents. In my opinion Bryan is one of the most remarkable men of the times, and so is Towne. If there is a more eloquent and convincing orator in America that that man Towne, I have certainly failed to hear him. Towne leaves nothing further to be desired as an orator."

"Some people think you ought to go into politics," remarked a listener to the judge.

"That would require an entire change in my methods of life," replied the judge, with an expression on his face that indicated perhaps that the suggestion might have been followed if the person to whom it was addressed were twenty-five years younger.

"I have been very much interested in watching the course of Bryan, and I do not believe he has made any mistakes since he was nominated last fall. He seems to be growing stronger this year, and I am glad to hear that he is making money. He is a man who will make good use of money, and those are the kind of men who ought to have it. It requires a brave man to take the position Mr. Bryan has assumed, but he has never flinched. We need never fear that the right kind of timber will be found when the needs of our country call for the material with a genuine ring about it. No intelligent American citizen ought to doubt the destiny which awaits this wonderful country."

A Bimetallic Fantasy.

The Republican party of the country is gradually making bold enough to admit that the "international agreement" clause in the Republican platform was and is intended only as a trap for the unwary, says the Nebraska Independent. It is merely a confidence game. The Republican party would make the people believe that it is for the restoration of silver as a money metal, and when given power will discriminate against it more than ever. Concerning the probability of any good for silver coming from the international agreement commission the St. Paul Pioneer Press, one of the oldest Republican papers on the northwest, says:

"The report that the English government intends to give any sincere aid to the establishment of international bimetallism is absurd. All representatives of the kind, either in relation to England or any of the principal countries of the continent, do not deserve the serious attention of men at all acquainted with the nature of European opinion. So far as any sentiment in favor of bimetallism exists at all it exists outside of business and government circles."

This is a partial uncovering of the real intent of the Republican party. It is for the perpetuity of the gold standard, nationally and internationally. It is for the continued contraction of the currency and the consequent decrease in price of all products. Under such a system how can this country ever get out of debt? Our products are to grow less valuable and our obligations to increase in amount by the accumulation of interest. How will we ever make both ends meet?

Here Is Respectable Authority.

The legislatures are passing, and in many cases have passed, out of the hands of the people, and are now regularly bought up by money furnished by the corporation to a "boss," who undertakes to procure such legislation and to prevent such legislation as they desire, and who renders no account.—New York Post.

THE HONEST DOLLAR.

HOW THE BONDHOLDERS DEFINE IT.

By Unjust Legislation the Purchasing Power of the Dollar Has Been Increased and the Awful Debt Burden Doubled.

Is the silver dollar an honest dollar? There can be no question that the silver dollars now in circulation in the United States are honest dollars, because all the obligations of the United States are, by express law, payable in silver dollars; and, besides, silver dollars will buy the same amount of property and pay the same amount of debts as gold dollars.

But the goldites say that silver dollars would become dishonest dollars if the mints were opened to free coinage, says the Silver Knight-Watchman. The Republican party in its platform declared that it was in favor of opening the mints of the United States to free coinage whenever an international agreement could be obtained for that purpose. They will hardly contend that the silver dollars coined after such agreement would be dishonest dollars. If dollars coined without the agreement would be dishonest dollars, how would the agreement make them honest dollars? They would in either event be a full legal tender and would pay debts and taxes the same as gold dollars.

But they say that gold might go to a premium if the United States opened her mints without the consent of other nations. How would the vast increase in the use of silver, which would be produced by free coinage in the United States, increase the premium on gold? The premium is now about 50 per cent. Do the goldites think that the demand created by the United States for silver through free coinage would make silver cheaper than it now is? It could not increase the premium on gold over silver unless it did.

We have always been opposed to the premium on gold which was produced by doubling the demand for that metal by demonetizing silver, and we are now told that if we make any additional use of silver for coinage purposes it will make silver cheaper and increase the premium on gold. If the goldites mean that a dollar must have the same purchasing power of commodities in general at the time of payment that it did at the time the loan was made, they will prove that the gold dollar is a great thief, because it takes twice as much property to pay a debt in gold now as it did twenty years ago. If the goldites contend that it is honest to have a dollar with a constantly increasing purchasing power because such a dollar enriches the creditor and impoverishes the debtor, upon what do they base such a contention? Do they really think that no person in the civilized world has any rights except the bondholder and money lender?

But they say contracts have been made since the gold standard was adopted and that they ought to be paid in gold. Why is that? The contracts were made payable in money. Do they think that the people have no right to any other kind of money than gold? The established law of the United States and Great Britain is that the current money at the date of payment is the money of the contract, for every government has the right to regulate the quantity of the circulation which affects the purchasing power of legal tender money. All men who make contracts make them with a view of this sovereign power, and it is not dishonest to pay the current money in circulation at the date of payment. When a government fails to perform its duty in not keeping a volume of money in circulation sufficient to maintain stability of prices (which means stability in the purchasing power of money), the people must suffer.

The reason we complain of the goldites is that after both metals had been used for thousands of years and the business of the world adjusted to the volume of money furnished by both metals, they demonetized silver. It is true they got the governments to do it, thereby making the governments do a great wrong. By this scheme of legislation, which adopted the gold standard, the creditor class added to the burdens of the people more than a hundred thousand millions, because it is estimated that there was at least that amount of indebtedness at the time silver was demonetized. By this unjust legislation they made the burdens of this hundred thousand millions as great as two hundred thousand millions would have been if silver had remained a money metal equally with gold.

It is strange that men who have manipulated legislation and influenced governments, and thereby absorbed the wealth of the world, should use the term "honesty." If an intelligent goldite, whose wealth has been doubled by robbing others through legislation which he has procured, is honest, then we must have a new definition for honesty. We would suggest the substitution of larceny as a better word. If it be really true that the criminal legislation which has ruined the prosperity of the civilized world by gross and vulgar robberies has become so sacred that it is dishonest to attempt to change it, how long will it be before burglary and highway robbery will be the highest test of honesty, and that the laws against those offenses will be repudiation of the rights of man?

The architects of our present system of money desire to see the mass of our wealth-producers in the eternal bondage of debt to plutocratic classes.—Farm, Stock and Home.

Wouldn't direct legislation, with the president voted for direct, and the senate either abolished, or the members elected by the people, and the members of congress lopped off at least one-half, and the supreme court dumped into the sea, suit you far better than our present aristocratic horde of debauched nonentities? — Coming Nation.

Populists believe that law makes and unmakes money; that the value of the dollar has no relation whatever to the material out of which it is made; that the value is fixed by the number of dollars in circulation, compared with the demand by the people. Populists believe that it is the duty of congress to provide and, through the executive department, keep in circulation a sufficient amount of money at the least possible expense to the people.—Southern Mercury.

Wealthy Class Usually Wrong.

Bryce, in his American Commonwealth states the following deduction from observed facts (Page 252): "Nearly all great political and social causes have made their way first among the middle or humbler classes. The original impulse which has set the cause in motion, the inspiring ideas that have drawn men to it, have come from lofty and piercing minds and minds generally belonging to the cultivated class. But the principle and precepts these minds have delivered have waxed strong because the common people received them gladly, while the wealthy and educated classes have frowned on or persecuted them. The most striking instance of all is to be found in the early history of Christianity.

And again he says: "The chief difference between the so-called upper, or wealthier, and the humbler strata of society is, that the former are less influenced by notions, often erroneous, of their own interest. Having something to lose, they imagine dangers to their property or their class ascendency. Moving in a more artificial society their sympathies are less readily excited, and they more frequently indulge the tendency to cynicism natural to those who lead a life full of unreality and conventionalisms."

Keep It Before the People.

"In these times campaign speeches are only empty shells, without kernels. However well meaning, or whoever it is who thinks he does good by them, must be forgetting that a million of workmen and their children are hungry. The man who looks for bread in such speeches will not have much to eat. The public heart cannot be fired by eloquence in this way just now, for the powder of patriotism is wet with the tears of suffering unemployed. * * * To keep work for the thousands and more persons in my employ and turn away from the several hundred who apply daily and beg for the privilege of labor to keep the wolf from the door drives me into a fever, and I must speak out. I cannot sit on a fence with a stiff wind blowing and whistle for prosperity, vanished bird of beautiful plumage, to come back."—John Wanamaker, former Republican postmaster general.

THREE CHILDREN PERISH.

The Summer Theatre at Paducah, Ky., is Destroyed by Fire.

The Casino summer theater at Ramona park, was burned Friday night at 10 o'clock. A performance was being given to about 600 people when the fire broke out from a fireworks display on the stage.

The audience was panic-stricken. Probably over one hundred persons were injured by being trampled. Several of the actors were painfully burned. The building was covered with tar paper, and was in a mass of flames inside of a minute.

It is reported that three or four children perished in the flames, but this cannot be verified. All the doctors in the city were required to look after the injured.

KILLED THEIR HUSBANDS.

Women Sentenced to Death for Wholesale Poisoning.

The trial of twelve women and two men charged with wholesale poisoning, was concluded at Buda-Pest last Friday, and sentences were passed upon six of the prisoners.

Four of them were condemned to death, one to penal servitude for life and one for a term of six years' imprisonment.

The series of crimes which occurred in the Hodmezoevasahely district, extend over some years past. The victims were in most cases married men who were killed by their wives, the motive for the crime being generally a desire to obtain insurance money.

The insurance companies, the testimony at the trial showed had called the attention of the authorities to the suspiciously high rate of mortality in the district, a number of times before proceedings were taken to ascertain the cause.

A WARNING TO SEEKERS OF GOLD.

Great Suffering for Those Who Go Illy Prepared.

Fred Price, a Seattle, Wash., man who has returned from the Klondike with several thousand dollars in gold dust, says that there is great fear of suffering on the part of those who attempt to go into that country without an abundance of supplies of provisions. He does not believe the trading companies can begin to supply the demand which will be made on them. Price thinks the men who take up horses to cross the pass from Dykes will do well. They can get their provisions in easy that way and sell the horses for dog meat afterwards.

He also advises new comers to look for claims on other creeks besides the tributaries of the Klondike, the latter being pretty well staked out. Stewart river creek promises as well as the Klondike. He says further that gambling dens and dance halls have already opened in Dawson. Games of every description are running and some of the miners play very heavy. They go into the mining town in sheer desperation at the loneliness and gloom and winter and gamble in a reckless manner to break the monotony. Price says it is hard to get along in Dawson City on less than $50 a day, and many of the men spend ten times that much. He claims that one saloon cleaned up $30,000 in three weeks this summer.

HAVE THE GOLD FEVER.

Englishmen Are Anxious to Visit the Yukon District.

Sir Donald Alexander Smith, the Canadian high commissioner in London, has been besieged for several days past with inquiries by those who desire to go to Yukon mining district. Most of the applicants for information are young men who are employed on farms and in factories. Would-be emigrants of this class are urged to remain at home, but hardy men with a capital of 100 pounds or more are encouraged to leave for the gold fields. Several solid capitalists are interesting themselves in the mining territory and are making investigations with a view of organizing mining companies.

Experts have been dispatched to inspect the region.

Regarding the suggested exclusion of Americans from the Yukon reservation the commissioner says that there is nothing in the treaties between Great Britain and the United States to prevent this action, but as a matter of courtesy it is hardly likely this step will be taken. A few emigrants have left England for the gold fields thus far. This is probably due to the monetary situation.

Talmage Won't Leave.

At Des Moines, Ia., a few days since, Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage was asked: "Is the report true that you are dissatisfied with Washington and that you will not return in the autumn and that you will probably go to Chicago?" Dr. Talmage replied, "No, that story from top to bottom and from stem to stern is a falsehood. I have no idea of leaving the church in Washington."

Twenty-Six Dead Infants.

Special dispatches from Madrid state that the bodies of twenty-six infants in rough boxes have been discovered in the tower of St. Peter's church at Seville. It is supposed that a wholesale crime has been committed by the church warden, Orellana, and his wife, and they have been arrested.

The United Brethren conference in Indiana has refused the request of many women to strike out the word "obey" in the marriage service.

A CALL.

All former members of the Farmers' Alliance and others interested are hereby requested to meet at Clanton on Saturday, July 31, 1897 at 11 o'clock for the purpose of reorganizing the Chilton County Alliance. It is particularly desired we have a full meeting.

Signed. A. G. DAKE,
FRANK CRICHTON.

☞NOTICE. The date of the Alliance meeting called for Saturday, July 24, conflicting with the annual meeting of the Second District of the Mulberry Baptist Association, and other church meetings, it has been decided to postpone the Alliance meeting until one week later, and all friends of the Alliance are requested to make their arrangements to attend the meeting at Clanton on Saturday, July 31.

FOR the information of our Kincheon correspondent and others we beg to say the reorganization of the Farmers' Alliance is strictly for the benefit of our farmers, and is not in the interest of any office-seeker.

WE are happy to say the prospects of a big Alliance meeting at Clanton next Saturday are of the best. From all parts of the county we are assured the old guard is coming and will start up the Alliance with such a boom as will reverberate all over the State. Several prominent Alliancemen are expected and a big time looked forward to. Let every old Alliancman be on hand, and those who desire to join the noble brotherhood are invited to come right along, the door is wide open—come in!

FROM a reliable source we learn that Professor E. Y. McMorries of Clanton will be a candidate before the Democratic State convention for the office of State Superintendent of Education. As all our readers well know the learned Professor stands very highly in this section of the State as an educator, and we are satisfied that if there is to be another Democratic administration (which we very much doubt) it will be to the best interest of all that Professor McMorries should be the successful candidate. He is a pronounced free silverite, and unless our Populite convention puts up a better man we hope he may be successful.

Death of Mr. Kineon Wells.

Another of Chilton's oldest and most highly respected citizens passed away last Thursday. For fifty years Mr. Kineon Wells had been a prominent person in this county esteemed by all with whom he came in contact. Born in Shelby county in 1828, he came to Chilton when he was twenty years of age and settled at Verbena, where he resided until about two years ago when laying aside all business cares he came to spend his declining years with his beloved daughter, Mrs. W. I. Mullins. For forty years he was a faithful and zealous member of the Baptist church, and was treasurer of the Unity Baptist Association for twenty consecutive years. He served his country in the Confederate army four years, during the struggle displaying those qualities of pluck and endurance which characterized his whole life. He served his county as member of the Legislature one term and also served his party as chairman of the Democratic executive committee. His life's companion and two sons and three daughters survive him, and mourn the loss of a fond and indulgent husband and parent. The remains were carried to Verbena on Friday morning and with Masonic honors were laid to rest until the last trump shall sound. His life work done he sleeps in Jesus.

THE suggestion of Hon. Sam Adams for reorganizing the Alliance is not practicable, for the reason it is proposed to reorganize strictly in conformity with the requirements of the State Alliance; otherwise the suggestion is good.

Jemison.

The farmers of Jemison all seem to be cheerful after having nice rains on their farms.

Mr. Joe Robins who was brought from Elmore county to Jemison, his old home, for medical aid, died on the night of the 20th, inst., was laid to rest by the side of his father and mother in the Jemison cemetery on the 21st. He was a man of about 38 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Miss Eliza Gay, a young lady 16 years old who lived in the country three miles from Jemison committed suicide by taking morphine It seemed that this young lady was determined to die. She took one dose of morphine and failing to take enough to kill her she took a larger dose which bought her to her death. She had been living quite a while with Mr. Henry Benson, one of the most prominent farmers of the community; they had learned to love her as one of the family and were grieved very much about her death.

Prof. C. C. Slaton who has been teaching school at Jemison has accepted a school at Calera which leaves a vacancy at Jemison for some other good teacher.

Misses Laura Langston and Mamie Woods, two of Jemison's fairest young ladies are busy getting ready to go the Judson college at Marion, where they will complete their education.

Misses Della Whatley and Allie Garner returned to their home in Birmingham Wednesday after a pleasant visit to friends in Jemison

Messrs. I. N. Langston and J. M. Langston went to the capitol city Thursday on business.

Miss Mattie Ruffin, of Helena, is visiting friends in Jemison this week.

Mrs. Woolley and charming daughter, Miss Maud are visiting relatives in Arkansas.

Turn-Round Topics.

This community about one week ago was visited by some good rains which helped all crops wonderfully, but am sorry to say we are beginning to need rain very badly again.

On Friday evening the 16th inst Mr. G. C. Norris, of Prattville, we are sorry to say, after a short visit to his parents, departed to join his wife at Bozeman for the purpose of continuing his visit here awhile longer. He being not exactly well to start with, started a foot to Bozeman, but it was all he could do to reach Mr. Manning's 2½ miles from where he started; news spread rapidly as possible. There he lingered without relief. His deathbed was surrounded with friends and relatives until 3 o'clock Sunday evening, the 18th, when the hand of Providence carried him away. He leaves a wife, two little children and many relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

Mr. F. M. Connell, jr., and wife of Cross Roads, spent Sunday with Mr. Kendrick.

On account of the sickness of Mrs. Wm. A. Connell, whose relatives were visiting here they were compelled to return to their home at Northport, Ala., much to the regret of their many friends.

Mrs. Goss spent part of last week with Mrs. H Kendrick.

Messrs. H. I. Norris, W. M. Pyron, Mrs. Sneed and Mrs. Connell we are sorry to report on the sick list this week.

Mr. H. Kendrick visited his son, W. H. Kendrick, of Elmore, last week.

Mr. T. P. Connell and family of Prattville, after a week's visit to home folks, returned home last Saturday.

Doctor Becket of Coosa county, and Mr. Kelly of Coal Springs, were guests of Mr. H. Kendrick last week.

J. C. Pattillo has a very flourishing school here, 45 pupils enrolled.

Prof. R. D. May is now teaching a singing school at Pine Level.

The water is too low to grind at Pyron's mill, so all its patrons have to hunt other accommodations.

Sorry are we to note the death of the little in ant child of Mr. and Mrs. H. Glenn the 23rd inst.

Several of our young people attended the convention at Coopers Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Walter Kendrick reports a delightful time while visiting Clanton, Lomax, Unity and Cedar Grove the latter part of last week and first of this.

Would say something on roads but think it unnecessary, so will close with best wishes to all.

OLD STONEWALL.

Political Points.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis Mo., July 28, 1897.

Mark Hanna is having a busy time of it. He is over run with office seekers who are inclined to pour out on the head of the recent campaign manager the vials of wrath that they dare not inflict upon the president. One of the recent offenders in this line was a Cleveland negro who told Mark in very plain language that he was tired of getting nothing but promises. The strike among his miners is also supposed to be giving the Prophet of Prosperity some anxiety. It is understood that Mr. Hanna has taken up his abode in the White House but there are some of us who give the President credit for too much sense to have permitted that.

The only serious bit of diplomatic work accomplished by our government so far this year is shown in the seal fishery dispute. It is understood that the communications will not be made public but English journals are most severe in their comments on what they style "the incurably bad manners of Sec. Sherman." Russia and Japan have agreed to aid the United States in forcing England to protect the seals by the use of enclosures for the male and branding for the female seals. This affair is of but little interest to the many save as a faint anti-English administration as but few of us are in a position to wear the fur of the much discussed seal.

The strike has widened in scope and no settlement is in view unless the demands of DeArmitt, a large operator who favors arbitration, are conceded to. He calls for the abolishment of company stores, a uniform screen, honest weight, 2,000 lbs to the ton, cash payments every two weeks and the price of mining to be left to a committee. Miners employed by DeArmitt say "he never lied to us and is our friend." Eugene V. Debs and Jas. Sovereign are giving assistance in organizing and guiding to a successful issue the striking miners. This great strike began the day the new tariff bill was passed by the Senate.

President McKinley has been appealed to by the Pittsburg chamber of commerce to come to the rescue and help settle the great strike peaceably.

Hopes of an international bi-metalic conference are awakened by encouraging reports from England whence our somewhat dilatory emissaries are to go from France. Some high English officials have expressed themselves as favoring silver coinage and the re-opening of the mints of India.

The Senate has reduced the price of armor plate from $550 and $600 to $300 per ton. This was hotly contested by the friends of Carnegie. This action is largely due to the active work of Populist Senators.

John D. Rockefeller has had to pay his promised $250,000 to help lift the debt of the Baptist Missionary Society. His contribution to Brown University contingent on the resignation of President Andrews still hangs fire. He has not yet replied to the letter written to him by Debs, in regard to extending aid to the Social Democracy. It is asserted that he has however found time and money to buy a controlling interest in the sugar trust.

Gov. Pingree at the national Republican league convention at Detroit, July 13, delivered a strong address of welcome in which he asserted that the hope of the country was in the common people but he was promptly called down by Col. Dallifield who stated that "the hope of the country is in the Republican party."

Fusion on county tickets throughout Iowa and Nebraska are reported in local papers.

Silver to the amount of $21,203,701 has been coined by the United States mints during the closing fiscal year.

The seignorage of $6336,104 was turned over to the treasury.

The State central committee of the People's Independent party of Nebraska met at Lincoln July 8 and called a State convention to meet at that place September 1. A.R.

Keep Up Your Scott's Emulsion In Summer-time

What are your resources for the summer? Have you an abundance of health stowed away for the long, hot, depleting days, or does summer find you low in vitality, run down, losing flesh, and weak? Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil will give you the proper reserve force, because it builds up the system on a solid foundation. A tonic may stimulate; Scott's Emulsion not only "boosts," it sustains.

It is a wise precaution always to have at least a small bottle of Scott's Emulsion in the house. Uncopened, it will keep indefinitely. Tightly corked, after using, kept in a cool place, it will remain sweet for weeks.

Editor BANNER: I desire to say to the Alliancemen of Chilton county that I had made my arrangements to meet with you at Clanton on 24th inst. and the charge to the 31st conflicts with some appointments that I have made (or rather that have been made for me) to preach in South Alabama and I have made an effort to change my appointments but have failed and for that reason will be compelled to meet them. I regret very much not being able to meet with you on 31st inst., but I can meet with the County Alliance at any time and I must meet appointments made for me to preach, now or never, so I hope that the brethren will not think hard of me for not being present. I would respectfully suggest the following plan of re-organizing: 1st, Let each primary (old primary) Alliance come together with the officers last elected and enroll the name of every farmer eligible to membership in the Alliance, taking the name and number of the original primary and do this free, make no charges for dues, invite all the old members back without money and without price, the first thing to do is to organize and when that is done then the plans for operation and the plans for work can be agreed on later. Say nothing about method now, but organize first. I find that the spirit of re-organizing the Alliance is in the air. I have received a request to meet with some other counties to assist in re-organizing, so let the good work go on, the farmers should never have given up their organization. With many good wishes I am yours in the work.

Editor BANNER: The Alliancemen of this place noticed the call for a meeting of the Alliancemen of Chilton county at Clanton on the 31st inst., for the purpose of re-organizing the Farmers' Alliance, and in persuance to that call, we met last evening about 25 or 30 of the old guard, and had it not been that your call was on our church day, 20 or 25 of us would have been on hand at Clanton, but as we can't all be there we elected 2 of the old soldiers to meet with you: E. G. Coffer and F. M. Langston. We are heartily in favor of reviving the Alliance, the farmer's best friend.

Editor BANNER: All created beings should now rejoice in the thought that man in the 19th century has discovered that woman is capable of learning mathematics. O, glorious thought; O, blessed hope. After thousands of years, curiosity has developed this previously dormant faculty in woman. It is nice to realize that feminine curiosity is catching up with male curiosity, voluminous as it is. Pity this problem had not been solved thousands of years ago. Then the anthropology of the race would not have been so one sided. Now as the subject under consideration was among the thoughts brought out at the late teachers institute as reported by the committee, we are anxious for this information, in favor of woman, to go out in all the papers, and thus inform men everywhere that they will in the future have help in solving mathematics. Better late than never.

Editor BANNER: Please allow me space in your columns to say a few words about foreign missions. Gentlemen and kind people I don't believe in these foreign missions because I think the people have the gospel in all the world. When our preachers get up in the pulpit about the first thing they ask for is money to send preachers to the heathen. I think we have plenty of them here. Don't you think so?

ANOTHER OF THE BOYS.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Kincheon.

Farmers in this section have laid aside the plow and hoe to rest, and big meetings are in vogue.

Crops look promising. It has been a week since we had any rain—the last July 18.

The Sunday-school picnic at Davis school house last Saturday was a success in point of good speeches plenty of dinner, melons, lemonade, etc., the absence of whiskey proves what we said in our last letter about all-day singings being a place where more whiskey is used than at a picnic during the week.

Several of the young folks took in the singing convention at Chestnut Creek last Sunday. That body will meet at Pleasant Grove next year.

Mr. W. C. Atkinson and family of Fayetteville have returned home after a lengthy stay with relatives in this community.

We are listening every week to hear the merry gingle of wedding bells at more than one place—"that is no joke"

There has been some talk through the BANNER about public roads. Observer says the cause of our bad roads is because the apportioners and overseers fail to do their duty. We will admit that to be a fact as far as it goes. There are other reasons besides that. Other counties have a full supply of all kind of tools kept at the court house to keep up the roads with and it is a fact beyond dispute that in the counties where there is plenty of tools the public roads are in better conditions than they are in Chilton. I, for one, am willing to be taxed to buy the tools to work the roads with. We will say to the Overseers in the county to take our advice and stop putting the big piles of dirt and brush across the road called a break, they do more harm that good.

What does Freethinker mean when he says let us be from under bondage, does he mean that it is not his duty to work the roads or what?

We notice that the Alliance is to be brought before the people again in this county. We want to ask the question will it be the Alliance of men wanting office, or is it the Farmers' Alliance? We are asking for information.

Success to the BANNER.

5 DROPS

49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure. SEPT. 9, 1896.

DEAR SIR:—Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Martinstown Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and begun taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 49 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and I owe it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is all you claim it to be and more.

Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

JANUARY 2, 1897.

DEAR SIR:— Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed wonderful. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me, is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 years old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 16 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your heaven-sent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. F. M. COOPER, Washington Center, Mo.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an miserable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism, and think for eight years a total cripple, not able to earn a penny nor able to walk or step on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and able to work. I have only taken two-thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first dose, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $10.00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE.
1003 Wall Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM.

DEAR SIRS: SEPTEMBER 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down bedfast with Inflammatory Rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was getting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON, McCracken, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle, prepaid by mail, 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor of Tiskilwa (Ill.) Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is safe to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottle free at Dr. J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

Almost Distracted?

DID YOU EVER suffer from real nervousness? When every nerve seemed to quiver with a peculiar, creepy feeling, first in one place, and then another and all seemed finally to concentrate in a writhing jumble in the brain, and you become irritable, fretful and peevish; to be followed by an impotent, weakened condition of the nerve centers, ringing in the ears, and sleepless, miserable nights?

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restores Health.....

Mrs. Eugene Searles, 110 Simonton St., Elkhart, Ind., says: "Nervous troubles had made me nearly insane and physicians were unable to help me. My memory was almost gone and every little thing worried me until I was almost distracted. I really feared I was becoming a maniac. I imagined all sorts of evil things and would cry over nothing. I commenced taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and four bottles of this wonderful remedy completely cured me and I am as well now as I ever was."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on guarantee, first bottle will benefit or money refunded.

An excursion train will leave Montgomery Sunday morning for Pensacola, Fla. Fare for the round trip two dollars.

For Mothers!

THE discomforts and dangers of child-birth can be almost entirely avoided. Wine of Cardui relieves expectant mothers. It gives tone to the genital organs, and puts them in condition to do their work perfectly. That makes pregnancy less painful, shortens labor and hastens recovery after child-birth. It helps a woman bear strong healthy children.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has also brought happiness to thousands of homes barren for years. A few doses often brings joy to loving hearts that long for a darling baby. No woman should neglect to try it for this trouble. It cures nine cases out of ten. All druggists sell Wine of Cardui. $1.00 per bottle.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. LOUISA HALE, of Jefferson, Ga., says: "When I first took Wine of Cardui we had been married three years, but could not have any children. Nine months later I had a fine girl baby."

Bones in a Silver Vein.

If the find of a Colorado silver miner, made half a dozen years ago, be taken into account, there is but little doubt that the human race existed on this continent as long ago as the time when the silver veins were in process of formation. In the Rocky Point mine, at Gilman, 400 feet below the surface, a number of human bones were found imbedded in the silver-bearing ores. When taken out over $100 worth of ore still clung to the bones. An arrowhead made of tempered copper and four inches long, was also found with the remains.

In granting suffrage to women, Colorado is determined to wipe out the old objection that the fair sex could never be pressed into military service. The Legislature is considering a bill making women eligible to the national guard. Having granted women suffrage, made them eligible for office and jury duty, Colorado can consistently pass this bill.

Onyx in Kentucky.

Onyx in large quantity and, it is said of good quality, has been found in Hart County, Kentucky.

There is a young woman in Dayton, Ohio, who was in love with Scott Jackson, the murderer of Pearl Bryan. There was a young man in the same town who was in love with the young woman. The young man no longer is. He called on the young woman the other night and presented his ultimatum. The young woman scorned him. Her loyal heart was in the grave of Jackson. She could not think of loving a common fellow who had never killed anybody. The jilted one determined to make himself eligible, so he went into a neighboring stone quarry and blew himself to pieces with a dynamite cartridge. It is not related whether the young woman has now consented to love him. Whether she has or not, the experience of using dynamite to make a breach in a marble heart cannot be generally recommended.

A Relic of Captain Kidd.

An ancient quadrant bearing the name of Robert Kidd, the celebrated pirate, is in possession of a family at Rockland, Me. It is more than 200 years old and it mounted with ivory which has now turned dark-brown with age.

The withered leaf is not dead and lost. There are forces in it and around it, though working in inverse order; else how could it rot? Despise not the rag from which paper is made, or the litter from which the earth makes corn.

Had Joined the Church.

Clerk—Sir, I've joined the church.

Grocer—Right glad to hear it; I've been a member for some years; it's a splendid thing, and—

"Yes, sir; and will you get some other clerk to sell those pure spices now?"—Adams Freeman.

A Prize in Either Case.

"I'm sure," said the girl that is engaged, "that Herbert is a prize."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "but in a case of this kind it's so difficult to tell whether you've won a first prize or a booby prize."

Some Things Are Better Left Unsaid.

He—How are you? Keeping strong?

She—No; only just managing to keep out of my grave.

He—Oh, I'm sorry to hear that.—Judy.

The Left Ear the Best.

It has been ascertained by experiments that a number of persons who use the telephone habitually hear better with the left ear than with the right. The common practice of the telephone companies is to place the receiver so that it will be applied to the left ear. In order to educate the right ear to the same point of efficiency it is recommended that the receiver be held in the right hand half of the time.

Let the Little Ones Sleep.

"God giveth His beloved sleep," and little children should have plenty of it. It is the tendency of the times to disregard this necessity; hence the increase of nervous diseases among our young men and women. Sleep means growth with young people, and unless there is much sleep there will be no healthy growth.

Nature teaches a little child to lie down and sleep whenever it is weary, and after a bath or after its mid-day meal, and it is only through artificial influences that a little child leaves off the habit of taking a daily nap, and it is generally due to the mother's neglect that it is finally dispensed with. Yet the world often sympathizes with the mother rather than the child when toward night baby grows cross and fretful, while the mother often grows impatient, forgetting the long, tiresome day which the little one has endured. What wonder that these little ones grow up into nervous young men and women, with no constitutions to speak of!

Many grown people are pressed for time to accomplish all that they desire, and in their march for gold or daily bread, find little time to rest, yet there is no reason why they should begrudge their children an extra hour's sleep in the morning because they have an inherited idea that it is more healthful for them to rise early, and they fear that if they are allowed to sleep until they naturally awaken, habits of laziness will be formed which will mar their after lives.

The appalling catastrophe in Paris is in some respects without a parallel in the history of human disaster. A bazar of charity instituted by ladies of the highest rank was destroyed by fire and at least 200 women of the cream of Parislan society were inclnerated in the funeral pile. Princesses, duchesses and other titled ladies, with many others of high aristocratic blood, were the victims of death by fire. Of course the poor and needy or those of average social rank feel as acutely as those of the highest blood the tortures of death in a holocaust. The sacrifice of the lives of 200 persons of any rank is a manifold tragedy, carrying desolation to homes as dear to their occupants as are the palaces and mansions of wealth and rank. But it never before happened that all the victims of such a cremation were of the highest rank. Fair Sisters of Charity died in the flames. The circumstances inspire the event with peculiar pathos. The rank, wealth and loveliness of Paris had instituted the bazar to procure money for the support and relief of the poor. The wares exposed for sale were the choicest finery, ornaments of dress, the flimsy articles of taste and fancy which are the supreme art products of Parisian skill and expertness. From recollections of the French department at the World's Fair an idea may be formed of the beauty and value of these exhibits. When fire touched the inflammable materials the wealth of beauty and values was swept away as by a breath. The world will sympathize with the grief of Paris and France in their tragic bereavement. It is not a loss that gifts of money can replace. The event is one of the most awful catastrophes that the annals of misfortune will record.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, enabling it to retain all its remedial value, and it disguises the taste for the palate. Some pill coats are too heavy; they will not dissolve in the stomach, and the pills they cover pass through the system as harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

STATE TOPICS.

Late News Items of General Interest to Alabamians.

Want a Good Road.

A subscription is being taken to build a good road from Dawson to Collinsville. The amount already raised is $813.

Killed by Lightning.

Nathan McCowan, a farmer living in Jackson county was killed in his field from a stroke of lightning in the presence of his wife, brother and little son. McGowan and his horse were instantly killed and the others present were terribly shocked.

Wholesale Vaccination.

It is estimated that more than 5,000 people in Birmingham have been vaccinated within the past four weeks. The physicians have been having their hands full performing the operations. There are no new developments in the smallpox scare.

Back Taxes.

H. P. Turner, back tax commissioner for Madison county, has served notices upon the property owners of the county, summoning them to appear before the court of county commissioners and show cause why the assessments on their property should not be raised.

Lightning Kills Stock.

A singular accident happened on the farm of W. L. Daniel, at Leesburg. The lightning struck a tree standing near a wire fence and the current followed the fence for a quarter of a mile and met Daniels stock coming in from the range. All that were on the side next the fence, ten steers and several hogs were killed.

Found Guilty.

C. W. Lowery, the ex-mail carrier, who was charged with an attempt to criminally assault little Emma Schillinger, was tried in the criminal court at Birmingham and found guilty. The verdict is that he shall pay a fine of $100 and serve thirty days in the mines at hard labor. Lowery has appealed to the higher court.

Suit for Damages.

J. N. Hall, owner of property in the western part of Montgomery, along the right of way over which the Louisville & Nashville and the Mobile & Ohio Railroad companies have had such a scramble, has brought suit for damages against the Louisville & Nashville company in the sum of $100,000. Hall figures that the Louisville & Nashville damaged his property to that extent.

Brief Courtship.

While out driving, E. L. Patterson, a young carpenter, and Miss Willie B. Reed, daughter of a well-known mechanic, of a Huntsville, decided to surprise their friends by getting married without warning them. At the nearest minister's house they were made man and wife. It is said that neither of the young people had any intention of marrying before going out to drive.

Jumped From a Fast Train.

Mazie Mitchell, a negro woman in charge of Bob Carroll, a deputy sheriff, jumped from a Birmingham Mineral train near Blue Creek, twenty miles below Birmingham, while the train was going forty miles an hour. She got up to get some water, and darted out of the door and off the platform. Her skirts served as a parachute, for she landed safely, and when the deputy got back to where she left the train, the woman was nowhere to be seen.

Decapitated His Wife.

On a charge preferred by a 7-year-old boy, his father, George Anderson, and brother, Wesley Anderson, were arrested and jailed at Tuskaloosa last week. The boy avers that while on a trip though Jefferson, Shelby and Tuskaloosa counties, his father and brother murdered Mrs. Anderson, who was George Anderson's fourth wife, he holding her while Wesley Anderson chopped her head off with an axe. The boy in his affidavit could not locate the place where the deed was done, but stated he could show where the body had been cast into a hole. George Anderson claims that his wife is alive and in Columbiana, but in very poor health. Sheriff Shirley has sent a query to Columbiana to ascertain the truth of this statement.

The Association Solvent.

The directors of the Southern Building and Loan association, of Huntsville, held a meeting recently in reference to the reported suit against the association brought in Macon, Ga., and gave out the following statement:

"We do not owe Milo Abel $2,000 or any other sum due and demandable. Even if we did we have in bank over $8,000 with which to pay it. The association is absolutely solvent. All obligations due and demandable are paid to September 10. We have anticipated withdrawals to that date. The balance of July receipts will be about $7,000 and the August receipts about $20,000. The telegram sent out is an infamous libel. The first National bank of this city will furnish information as to the correctness of this statement made by the association."

To Increase the Capital Stock.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Birmingham Rolling mill company, last Thursday, authority was granted to increase the capital stock of the company from $500,000 to $600,000. This is done for the purpose of doubling the capacity of the company's new steel mill. The mill made its first run of steel late Thursday afternoon before a large number of prominent citizens, the officers and stockholders of the company and several experts. The run was a pronounced success. The mill has a daily capacity of eighty tons. Before the beginning of next year the capacity will have been doubled. The steel is made direct from Alabama low silicon iron turned out of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's furnaces. This is the first successful effort that has yet been made in this district to make steel on a commercial basis, and it promises to open a new industrial era for Alabama. Experts who witnessed the first run pronounced it a thorough success in every detail. Superintendent John Dwyer says the cost of steel making here will not exceed $12 per ton and may be reduced to $10 or even $8, which will enable Birmingham to undersell Pittsburg manufacturers in the home markets of the latter. A prominent capitalist who witnessed the test says he stands ready with $1,000,000 to erect a mammoth steel plant in Birmingham.

State Normal College Board.

The recent meeting of the Troy State Normal College Board was characterized by intense interest in the College's growth, and perfect harmony of sentiment and action prevailed. Provisions for the College's ordinary needs and constant growth were made, and steps were taken to meet extraordinary demands, now imperative, likewise, to provide fully for the College as indicated by the prospects as seen from the many scores of letters from young people wanting to prepare for teaching.

Dr. E. R. Eldridge was unanimously re-elected President, and entering now the tenth year of his work, is the ranking College President in Alabama as to length of tenure, except Dr. Brouse, of Auburn A. & M. College, who has served about twice the time of Dr. Eldridge.

As "Teacher Training" is the special purpose of this College, the board seeks to emphasize more and more the S., Physical and Vocal Culture; Miss Elizabeth McMillan, Drawing and Painting; Miss Daisey Brenner, Phonography; —— ——, Penmanship and Book-Keeping.

It was the sentiment of the Board that the expenses of the attendance should be the lowest possible, and in this line the Senatorial and Representative scholarships were commended as the best medium to equalize the advantages of the College to all sections of the State alike. Nominations of candidates for Teacher Training by Senators or Representatives, in their respective districts, approved by their respective County Superintendents as worthy, appointed by the State Superintendent of Education, are entitled to scholarships as per the regulations governing, made known on the application to the President.

The State Superintendent, (like the Governor of the State) is ex-officio a member of the Troy State Normal College Board, and while attending a meeting of the Board requested that all students capable of passing the examination for a State certificate, good in every county of Alabama, be certified at any term ending, on passing said examination, that he might issue to all such, from his office at Montgomery, such State certificate, and this certification was ordered by the Board, at any term ending, commencement, or otherwise, the effect of which is to grant to Normal students the immediate advantages in the way of State certification to teach, a great recommendation to any teacher. School officers desiring such "Trained Teachers" can be put in communication with such by addressing the President of the College. Many such calls are filled annually.

NO. 41

VOL. V. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1897.

DEFINITION OF MONEY

SHOWING IT A CREATION OF LAW.

Gold Is the Money of the Bondholders—In Times of Great Emergencies Both Metals Disappear—Ten Times More Debt Than Money.

What is money? A creation of law. Would either gold or silver be money if there were no law making them such? No, they would no more be money than lead, iron, paper, or any other commodity.

If neither gold nor silver were used as money in any part of the world, asks the Silver Knight-Watchman, would they be worth the same as they are now? No, neither of them would be worth five per cent of their present value. With fifty years of supply on hand the demand for them for other purposes would not make them worth ten cents a pound avoirdupois.

What does the stamp on gold or silver or paper which passes as money signify? It signifies the will of the sovereign power of the government authorizing the stamp or superscription which appears on the gold, silver or paper, and also designates the number of units or parts of units of account which the particular piece of gold or silver represents.

Did any country ever use any gold or silver in war where the existence of the nation was involved? We know of but one instance where such was the case. Germany in the Franco-Prussian war continued to use silver supplemented by paper and did not suspend specie payment during the war.

Was gold ever used as a medium of exchange during any great war of any of the great commercial nations of Europe? It never was. Every great nation has been compelled, with the single exception of Germany, in the Franco-Prussian war which used silver, to suspend specie payment and used paper to designate the will of the sovereign power of the nation.

If the nations in great emergencies, such as war, are compelled to stamp the flat of the government on paper to prevent dissolution and destruction, why may not that be done in time of peace to rescue the country from universal distress? There would be no difficulty in the exercise of the sovereign power of the government to create money in times of peace as well as war if money dealers and usurers did not get control of all governments in times of peace.

For whose benefit is the United States confined to the use of one commodity, gold, upon which to stamp its paramount authority designating it as money? For the sole and exclusive benefit of those who own that commodity and those who have bought bonds which are gold futures and require the delivery of the commodity gold.

Is it true that the gold combination has a corner on the gold of the world? It is most emphatically true. That combination has induced the monarchies of Europe to purchase more than half the gold of the world and hold it in reserve for military purposes. The other half is either held or controlled by the combination.

On what terms and conditions can those who have no gold obtain it? Upon such terms and conditions as the owners of gold may prescribe.

How much gold have the people of the civilized world agreed to deliver, that is to say, what is the amount of their gold obligations? This question cannot be accurately answered. The amount is variously estimated from one hundred to one hundred and fifty thousand millions.

How can the people obtain gold to deliver to their creditors, in other words, to pay their debts? They must buy it from those who have it, and if they can not get it in any other way they must be sold into slavery as the Romans were when that grand civilization was decaying and falling into barbarism.

Why do the Republican party want a conference in Europe to decide what laws shall be passed in this country? Because they know that legislation in this country for the benefit of America is deprecated by the crowned heads of Europe and they desire to please the sovereigns on what they term the most civilized nations, however much it may displease or injure the American people.

How long has the United States been sending delegates to European monetary conferences to ask permission to legislate in this country? More than 20 years.

Do the people of the United States think it a wise thing to allow European jurisdiction over our domestic affairs? Some of them do. The banks, the gold-bug politicians, and the gold-bug press have preached loyalty to Europe and our dependence on the smiles of monarchy so long that they have converted the weak and vain and caused them to look to Europe and not to this country for law and government.

What excuse do the advocates of foreign aid in our legislation make for departing from usages of the early days of the republic? They have several excuses. One of them is that all the world must have the same kind of money.

Did all the world ever have the same kind of money before? Never but once. In 1863 France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Greece agreed to have the same kind of money and formed a union called the Latin Union.

Is it true that international trade has been carried on during all the centuries without the same kind of money? It certainly is.

Is it the policy of the government to export its money? No; the export of money is an unmixed calamity. It produces contraction and financial ruin at home.

Why do the goldites say that we want money that is good in Europe? Because they want the United States to make all its money out of the commodity gold on which Europe holds a corner.

Is our gold money good money in Europe? No, it is not money at all any more than our wheat is money in Europe. It is simply a very dear commodity which Europe has cornered to make us sell our commodities for less than the cost of production to obtain it.

Could civilization exist if the government should put its sovereign stamp upon anything besides gold and make it a full legal tender? Yes, the governments of the world have existed for thousands of years and they never were confined to the use of gold alone until the dealers in money and bonds conspired to deprive the civilized world of the right to use silver as well as gold.

THOUGHTS BY YOUR UNCLE.

Uncle Sam Reflects Upon Industrial and Political News.

London has an army of 100,000 pickpockets. Now if some one will only tell us how many useless officeholders we have, born of political necessity, we can compare notes and inform London how many pickpockets we have.

The 50 cents a day a man is offered as a wage in the truck raising portion of this state is almost enough to keep any man from engaging in "honest" labor, and now that a negro has been killed by lightning, attracted by the hoes he was carrying, the incentive to work is still smaller. It is hard to tell which is the most deadly—lightning or wage slavery.

The Tribune of Scranton, Pa., says the presence of 20,000 alien paupers in that state is a good reason why congress should pass laws to prevent additional ones from coming in. This would be a beautiful theory to work upon were it not for the sad truth that these aliens have been made paupers since they came to this country.

A girl out in Indiana was struck on the foot by lightning the other day. She was stunned, but soon recovered, the only injury being the raising of several small blisters on the soles of her feet. There are about 3,000,000 men in the United States who can show similar injuries. They were not caused by lightning, however. They got them tramping around after that job they were promised last fall if McKinley were elected.—Cumberland (Md.) Uncle Sam.

Original Sin.

There was once a prosperous city, in which poverty, disease, crime, prodigality and parsimony were almost absent. Their state was said to be too millennial to last.

This city had a splendid water system, bringing abundance of pure water from the only available source. This had become a commonplace, so that the people hardly ever even mentioned it. Therefore, nobody ever dreamed of stealing water.

Now a conscienceless company, having acquired a monopoly of the springs, and wishing to assert their claim and to put a price upon it, suddenly cut off the supply. Within 24 hours, water was the only subject mentioned in the city. Everything else sank into insignificance. Everybody tried to secure a monopoly for himself, and the people began lying, fighting, stealing and murdering for water. They became diseased, insane, and died for lack of water. Hundreds committed suicide to escape the pangs of thirst.

"This," said the directors, "is the natural result of the growth of population."

Those who had no water stored up sold themselves body and soul to those who had secured a surplus of the life-giving fluid.

The teachers and preachers lost control of the people and warned them in vain against neglecting the gods and drinking foul and poisonous liquids.

The water company said: "This is indeed a dishonest and anarchic city. We must hire police and courts and soldiers to protect our water rights from these robbers."

The president and stockholders said that was just, so the company raised the price of water to pay for the expense.—Bolton Hall, with acknowledgments to Mr. Edward Irving.

Proved Her Relationship.

A poor Irish widow, her husband having died in one of the lanes of Edinburgh, went forth with her three children, bare of all resource, to solicit help from the charitable establishments of that city. At this charitable establishment and then at that she was refused; referred from one to the other, helped by none, till she had exhausted them all, till her strength and heart failed her; she sank down in typhus fever, died and infected her lane with fever so that 17 other persons died of fever there in consequence. The humane physician asked thereupon, as with a heart too full for speaking, "would it not have been economy to help this poor widow?" She took typhus fever and killed 17 of you. Very curious. The forlorn Irish widow applies to her fellow creatures, as if saying, "behold, I am sinking, care of help, ye must help me! I am your sister, bone of your bone; one God made us, ye must help me!" They answer, "No, impossible; thou art no sister of ours." But she proves her sisterhood, her typhus fever kills them, they actually were her brothers, though denying it! Had human creature ever to go lower for a proof?—Thomas Carlyle.

BRYAN ON THE COAST.

EXTRACTS FROM HIS SAN FRANCISCO SPEECH.

Lucid and Powerful Arguments in Favor of Bimetallism—Bryan Aroused Great Enthusiasm in California—A Clinching Illustration.

Notwithstanding the great number of speeches Mr. Bryan has made and the Republican assertions that he simply repeats himself, he continues to supply new material. In his recent address in San Francisco he said:

"We want 16 to 1 because we own property and owe debts, and we don't want to decrease the value of our property and increase the value of our debts by changing the ratio of 16 to 1. By opening our mints we can raise the value of silver. When India closed her mints it drove down the value of silver in this country and thereby decreased the value of our products. Thus by the legislation of England the value of our silver product was affected. Yet they tell us that legislation cannot do anything for silver. We has history, we have experience to justify us in the opinion that the opening of our mints would raise the price of silver."

He said the government would not be criticized for deepening the harbor of San Francisco, even though thereby the value of real estate in the city would be increased. For the same reason he thought there should be no objection to the free coinage of silver because the silver mine owners would be benefited by it.

"De la Vola has said that if a river is fed from two sources it will be more uniform in volume than if fed from one source, his explanation being that when one feeder is swollen the other may be low and vice versa. Therefore the volume of water in the river will change less than if it is fed from one source, and must change with the change in one feeder. This illustrates bimetallism. In bimetallism the volume of money is derived from two sources—the gold mines and the silver mines. In the beginning of the century we were producing $3 of silver to $1 of gold. Fifty years later the world produced $3 of gold to $1 of silver. Then silver increased, and within the last two years gold has increased in production. But if the volume of money is fed from two sources that volume is less changeable and the value of the dollar is less fluctuating than if the volume of money is fed from one source, whether it be gold or silver. On this point, however, I want to remind you that it is necessary that the debtor shall have the option in order to maintain bimetallism."

He riddles the absurdity of sending commissioners to induce foreign nations to accede to an international agreement for free coinage, by thus outlining the line of argument such commissioners would be compelled to adopt, if they work in good faith:

"The American people want bimetallism. The American people are tired of the gold standard and want to get rid of it. The American people have suffered from falling prices, and while they have suffered from falling prices, you, the financiers who hold the notes and mortgages, have profited by the rise in the value of the dollar. We want you to join with us in restoring bimetallism. We want you to help us to stop the advantage you have been getting, and to stop the laws from which we have been suffering, but before you give your answer we want to tell you that if you refuse to join us, we will stand by you as long as the world lasts.

"Isn't that the substance of it? Isn't that what the platform says when it declares that we must maintain the gold standard until they join with us? It is giving them notice in advance that we will stand in with them if they refuse to listen to our petition."

It would, we know, be a positive advantage to our commerce and business for the gold standard nations to keep on that basis, if the United States had free coinage of silver; for so long as they did so, this country would capture the commerce with all silver standard nations, seeing they could buy our manufactures, etc., with silver, but would have to pay the premium on gold in dealing with Europe. Following is another brief extract, which contains a volume of truths:

"A land of landlord and tenant, my friends, is not the land in which a free government grows. A land of home owners is the land where such a government grows and prospers. I want you to study conditions and then try to find the cause, because every bad condition has its cause. Do not lay it to the Almighty. Do not say it is unfortunate. It is not his fault. It is not misfortune. It is vicious legislation that has done more than anything else to make the last twenty years a period in which wealth accumulated in the hands of the few with more rapidity than ever before in the history of the world."

Bryan's reception from all classes, regardless of politics, was hearty and enthusiastic, and his speeches were splendidly reported by the Examiner. Californians, Republicans as well as Democratic papers, instinctively recognize that he truly represents the American people, with whom he is proud to be a "commoner."—National Democrat.

"He who aids in increasing landlordism in this country hastens the overthrow of the republic, for free government will not long survive when a few own the land and means of support, while the many are tenants at will."—Wm. J. Bryan.

THE POPULIST FIELD.

Nebraska's Populist legislature, besides much other meritorious legislation, enacted a law reducing stock yard charges at Omaha about 40 per cent. Such measures as this, and, in fact, Populist state government in general, are supposed to drive away capital. But the supposition fails to dovetail with the facts. Armour has just let the contract for the erection in Omaha of the largest packing house in the country, and a half million dollar sugar refinery is also to be located there. And this in defiance of the fact that Bryan carried four-fifths of the counties in the state and that all of the state officials are Populists.

The Cleveland Leader sits on a fence with a stiff wind blowing and whistles the following ode:

A croaker sat upon a box
And croaked the whole day long;
"Prosperity has not returned,"
Was the burden of his song.

And so he croaked and croaked and croaked,
And never worked a stroke,
For hall he worked he'd had no time
To sit up there and croak.

The Cleveland Recorder also owns a poetry machine and grinds out this lyrical reply:

The reason that he did not work,
I'll make quite plain to you;
The advent of "prosperity"
Has left no work to do.

Charles A. Towne writes in the Arena:

"Under such disquieting conditions is it not as criminal as it is unscientific for men to go about prating of the system that has occasioned these things as "honest money" and "sound money," and denouncing its opponents as repudiators and anarchists?"

United States Senator Pettigrew has specially studied the reasons for the adoption of the gold standard by Japan, and, in a statement to the senate, says the change was made entirely in the interest of the creditor classes, whose influence has been greatly increased by the war debt. Manufacturers have been made to believe it would increase their exports, but, while farming is the paramount industry in Japan, farmers have not been considered or appealed to. He believes that if China continues on a silver basis, Japan's "wonderful industrial prosperity" will be checked and her industries transferred to China. So would much British industry and trade be transferred to this country, if we had the silver standard.

Mr. Pulitzer has a delicate job on his hands in swinging the St. Louis Post-Dispatch around for sound money, after all its rabid utterances for free silver coinage, says the Indianapolis News. The task has been begun by studied silence on finance and editorial allusions to the state of the weather, north pole expeditions, and the probabilities of the canals of Mars being controlled by syndicates. P.S.—The News tried goldbugism for a while but had to quit it.

Nebraska Populists, Democrats and silver Republicans will hold their state conventions at Lincoln, September 1. A mass convention will be held in the evening, says the Advocate, and Bryan, General Weaver and ex-Congressman Towne will be invited to make addresses.

It is amusing to observe the dodging and squirming of the corporation attorneys in the senate when urged to put themselves on record as regards the strike. The proposition has been made to have the government exercise its undoubted prerogative and compel the warring factions to settle their differences by means of arbitrators appointed under national laws. Secretary of State Sherman has come to the aid of these corporation attorneys in an interview. He does not believe in any governmental interference in disputes between employers and employees. The parties to such a conflict ought to be left to settle it between themselves. It does not occur to the secretary of state, says the Twentieth Century, that every great strike is settled by the government which sends troops to the aid of the capitalists. The theory of arbitration under governmental authority, he remarks, is good, but the execution would be difficult, if not impossible. He does not say that the theory of governmental aid by means of military power to enforce the conditions of the capitalists is bad, but the execution thereof neither difficult nor impossible. Arbitration with England is a very good thing, but arbitration between employer and employed is something the government can take no cognizance of. The bishops and college professors who were such enthusiastic friends of arbitration a little while ago, when the arbitration treaty was in the senate, have not a word to say at present when hundreds of thousands of men are pleading for arbitration. There is now nothing to arbitrate. Meanwhile the strike is spreading in all directions. The men seem to be very well organized and their leaders report that the prospect of success is encouraging. It is likely that the troops will be sent to the front if no other way of giving victory to the capitalists can be found.

One of the Gravest Problems.

The important thing about the whole matter is that the farmers are awakening to the necessity of state control of those means of transportation which in their nature are monopolistic. The ownership and control of the railroads of this country by the people through government, state and national, will settle once and forever one of the gravest problems which confront the American agriculturist today.—Farmers' Voice.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE

DIRECT LAWS—AND PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION.

An Explanation of an Important Plank in the People's Party Platform and the Arguments in Its Favor as Viewed by a Democrat.

By Francis R. Cole, LL. D.

As a tree is judged by its fruit, so a government may be judged by its laws. Why is there so much special legislation on our statute books, and so much corruption in office? Because the people have little to say about it. Their representatives are the masters and do as they please; no matter how treacherous to their constituency, or to what extent they violate the pledges on which they secured election, they cannot be removed. When another election comes around new questions arise and command attention, old wrongs are forgotten or lost sight of and other untrustworthy men sneak into office, to again do the bidding of monopoly and neglect measures that would promote the general good. In a discussion over the official conduct of a legislator, one neighbor asked of another what he really did, anyhow, and was answered, "What has he done? Why, he built two houses and started a store." Is not this about all the general run of them do? Local and special interests are served, the public domain freely granted in chunks as large as principalities without consulting the owners, the people, much less gaining their consent. The policy of government should be to make it as easy as possible to do right; to make dishonesty and bribery as hard as possible and remove unholy temptation. Our present system throws the doors of fraud wide open and sets a premium on dishonesty and perfidy. The people should have the veto power over special legislation and franchises. The talk of sending rich men to office because they don't need bribe money is all bosh. They may be honorary (onerary) and chaste, but are not the common people intelligent and chased? The patches on their trousers seem to say so. The dogs of special legislation are ravenous and cunning. Under normal conditions, such as existed in the early days of the republic, when the country could boast of a sterling charactered yeomanry, and before property was exalted and labor degraded, when wealth was fairly well distributed and ere Mammon and his withering creed held sway o'er the nation, it was not so much needed; but now, since manhood has been so undermined, wealth so centralized, and corporate interests so inimical to the common welfare, it is a crying demand of the times. There will be no bribery and deals when there are no franchises to give away, and no selling of votes when the votes do not insure the delivery of the goods. No, let people take a hand in legislation. They have been frozen out long enough. Adopt that statesmanlike, scientific, efficacious reform, the initiative and referendum, by which the people can initiate beneficial legislation by popular petition, and also, when desirable, compel the submission of any law to the great jury of the people for approval or rejection. Then no such lobby poetry as the following would be inspired:

"Midas, they say, possessed the art, of old,
Of turning whatsoe'er he touched to gold;
Modern monopolists reverse it with ease,
Touch with gold and turn 'em as they please."

Campaigns would then reach a maximum of education and a minimum of personalities. This law should be supplemented with the imperative mandate by which obnoxious officials could be recalled during their tenure of office. It should also be supplemented by civil service and proportional representation, by which the legislature and government would be a true counterpart of the people. Each party would be represented in the halls of legislation to the force and extent manifested in the elections; no more, no less. No imaginary lines of district boundaries are to be allowed to disfranchise minorities and rob them of a voice in the government. The senate committee on representation once reported, "Proportional representation is a system of great merit." Our system of districts you readily see can be so arranged by the party in power at the time of districting so as to capture for the party as many of the districts as possible. If 100,000 votes are cast and say 20 senators are to be elected, 5,000 should be sufficient to elect one. If there are four parties, the Republicans casting 35,000, the Democrats 30,000, the Populists 25,000, and the Prohibitionists 10,000 votes; the Republicans under our present system would likely elect all the senators, while the other 65,000 people wouldn't be represented at all, whereas an equitable division would be seven Republicans, six Democrats, five Populists and two Prohibitionists. Garfield showed in the lower house, in '70, the non-effectiveness of the vote and annihilation of the freeman's will: "In my judgment it is the weak point in representative government, as now organized, that a large portion of the people are disfranchised. There are 10,000 Democrats in my district voting year after year without any more hope of having a representative on this floor than the commons of Great Britain." Gerrymandering should cease. It is high time the government should cease holding up such examples of injustice to the eyes of its citizens. All these systems work splendidly in Switzerland, in several European and American cities. Wherever tried it has proven a signal success. They surely could be called the same problem of politics and legislation. When put in use the poet will feel compelled to reverse his lines about the world. After saying this is a pretty good place to live in, he went on:

"But to borrow or beg to get one's own,
It is the worst world that ever was known."

TARIFF PROBLEMS.

By Gen. A. J. Warner.

No doubt a tariff may be so levied as to remove foreign competition and thereby enable manufacturers of some things to raise prices, but it never was possible and never will be, by tariffs or any other form of taxation, to raise the prices of all things.

The prices of all things, or general prices, can be raised only by increasing the proportion between money and other things. If, with no change in the proportion of money and commodities, the prices of some things are raised, the prices of some other things will be lowered.

If by tariffs the prices of manufactured goods are raised with no increase of money in any form, the prices of other products, and especially of agricultural products, will be lowered, for it is impossible by taxation to increase the value in money of everybody's property. Hence, while some may be made richer by tariffs that give them an advantage over others, all can not be—some will be, poorer.

How much one can buy depends on how much he can sell. If he must pay higher prices for what he buys while he gets no higher prices for what he sells, he can not buy as much. How, then, are the great mass of the people, who are too poor to buy at present prices, going to buy more at higher prices under the Dingley tariff? They can't do it.

To enable people to buy more, and to increase trade, the prices of the things one buys with—the farmers' products for the farmer, for instance—must go up. This condition can be brought about only by increasing money supply; never by increasing taxes.

Debtor nations must pay what they owe to other countries with goods or with gold, if on the gold standard. They can pay with goods only on condition that they will sell as low as any other country. If, therefore, by tariffs, prices in a debtor country, are raised, and to the extent they are raised, goods will stay and gold will go. The attempt, therefore, to raise prices in a debtor country, and at the same time maintain the gold standard, is like trying to rise by pulling at one's boot straps. The evil day may be put off by increasing debts abroad, and that is what the attempt to maintain the gold standard, by manipulating tariff schedules will come to.—National Bimetallist.

Has the Debtor No Rights?

Republican partisans of gold monometallism refuse to see anything but their side of the question, says the Chicago Dispatch. In this we find a striking illustration of the proverb that "none are so blind as those who won't see."

A leading Republican newspaper of Chicago, in an attack on the silver conference, pitched in a querulous key, takes occasion to remark: "There was a time when 371 grains of silver would pay off as much indebtedness as 23 grains of gold. It takes now 780 grains of silver. The purchasing power of silver cannot be increased by law; the debt-paying power can be increased dishonestly as far as existing contracts are concerned."

Thus, in plain terms, is admitted the fact that the man who borrowed 371 grains of silver must now pay the lender 780 grains of silver in settlement of his debt. This strikes our contemporary as just and right, and it argues hotly in the interests of a monetary system that has more than doubled the indebtedness of this nation, since it has been put in force.

The rights of the creditor are sacred in the eyes of the goldites, and so far as the debtor is concerned there is nothing but reviling for his portion.

It is useless to argue with gold monopolists when they lay down a proposition so self-evidently false as that embodied in the statement that, "the purchasing power of silver cannot be increased by law." To argue on a false promise is to reach nothing but a false conclusion, and when people make a statement which is false in fact and evidently wish to make that the basis of an argument, the inference must naturally be drawn that they prefer false conclusions to those which are true.

There is one great and important truth in the statement of our contemporary, and that is the demonstration it contains of the appreciated and constantly appreciating value of gold. The debtor is suffering from a cruel and bitter wrong when he is required to pay twice and more than twice as much as he borrowed. That this should be the case is the result of forcing this nation on a gold standard. No more dishonest confidence game than this was ever played, and the abuse of debtors as dishonest men comes with bad grace from the advocates of legalized highway robbery.

Insult to Organized Labor.

"The Central Labor union of New York city have adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the appointment of T. V. Powderly as commissioner of immigration is the greatest official insult ever offered by the federal government to organized labor."

MILLIONS

Saved by Importers Who Anticipated Increased Duties.

THE YELLOW FEVER GERM.

Charles S. Johnson Who Was Recently Appointed United States Judge for Alaska, Alleged to Have Voted for Bryan and McKinley.

Anticipated Increased Duties.

The bureau of statistics, treasury department, has prepared a statement showing the estimated loss of revenue to the government on account of increased imports during the months of March, April, May and June, in anticipation of the increased duties by the new tariff, to aggregate $32,666,427.

Voted for Bryan and McKinley.

Chas. S. Johnson, who was recently appointed United States judge for Alaska, voted for McKinley at St. Louis and Bryan at Chicago. Mr. Johnson was a delegate from Alaska to the St. Louis convention, and voted for the nomination of McKinley. After the convention he went up to Chicago to see the democratic show. There he fell in with the Alaska democratic delegation. They had proceeded to make merry, and one of the democrats was laid out to sober up. Jhonson borrowed his badge, went into the convention with the delegation and voted for Bryan.

Applicants Must Be Equipped.

A statement prepared at the treasury department shows that the recent civil service order of the President increases the exemptions from the civil service competitive examination from 63 to 219 in the internal revenue service, and in the customs department 348 positions are added to the exempt class, and 150 places hitherto outside the rules have been brought within them. All of the exempt places, however, are subject to a rigid noncompetitive examination, conducted by the civil service commissioner.

Railway Mail Service.

Alexander Grant, chief clerk of the railway mail service, was today appointed assistant general superintendent of that system, succeeding Lilburn T. Myers, of Virginia, resigned to accept transfer as chief of the division of inspection of the second assistant postmaster-general's office. A. S. Roberts, of Texas, chief of the inspection division, and John A. Chapman, now in the inter-state commerce commission, have been appointed assistant superintendents of the Railway Mail service on special assignments to inspect the Star route service.

The Yellow Fever Germ.

Surgeon-General Wyman, of the marine hospital service, has translated the account written by Dr. Sanarelli, of Montevideo, of his discovery of what he claims to be the yellow fever germ. The particular germ which he holds to be responsible for yellow fever is found in the blood or tissues, and not in the gastro intestinal cavity.

NEW GOLD MINE IN MEXICO.

More Hopeful Feeling Among Business Men at the Capitol.

A telegram from Mexico City states that a new gold has been located on the famous El Grovein, in the state of Mexico, and prospects for a valuable property are excellent. The Esperanza gold mine at Tultanengo is taking out $160,000 in gold ore monthly. The goverment has taken measures which will result in economics which assure the punctual payment of the gold interest in October without in any way crippling the public service.

There is a more hopeful feeling in the business community, as it is recalled that the country has never been more prosperous than during the past few years of the declining value in silver. All that remarkable progress has been effented under apparently adverse conditions. Large amounts of exchange have been bought the last two days.

All Aboard for the Klondyke.

The steamer Excelsior, chartered by the Alaskan company, left San Francisco last week, sailing direct from St. Michael's. This is the last of the company's fleet that will connect with the Yukon river steamers this season. For hours before the departure of the steamer the wharves were crowded with people. Three times the original price was offered for passage. One passenger changed his mind, after being offered $1,500 for the pasteboard for which he originally paid $150. Many people gathered upon the wharf to bid farewell to the 110 passengers for the Klondyke.

Tobacco Packed in Logs.

An examination by custom house officials of 155 logs which reached New York last week on the steamer Segurance, and which were deposited in the custody of the police at the Tilbiddra wharf shows them to have been packed with fine Sumatra leaf tobacco. Proportionate to that found in those already examined, it is estimated that the total shipment of tobacco will reach 4,000 kilos. The logs were shipped by a Maine lumber company.

THE BANNER,
Clanton, Ala.

For several weeks a gentleman appointed by Mr. Joseph F. Johnston has been engaged in examining the books and accounts of ex-tax collector Gentry, and his report is published in this morning's Age-Herald. We have not room at this late hour to publish it in THE BANNER, but will do so next week. The examiner states Mr. Gentry is short $827.37. The gentleman has had plenty of time to find out, but we freely confess we do not believe this statement. We do not believe that Gentry is short one-tenth of that amount, and we very much doubt if he is one-hundredth part short. "Figures don't lie" is an old adage. No, they don't, but in the hand of experts they can be made to tell any tale that is wanted. That it is possible Gentry made some errors in his book-keeping is quite likely; not every man taken from the plow is capable of correctly keeping a set of books in the style of an expert accountant. But there is not a man in Chilton county, and we include the examiner himself, who believes that Gentry is anything like $800 in arrears. We would much like to know from the examiner where he found "many" of the taxpayers of the county who complained of bad management of the taxes. We only know of one and according to report he has never paid any taxes for years. As a matter of belief we do not believe a dozen persons can be found in the county who will publicly substantiate this observation of the examiner. We propose to discuss this subject further.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE OF CHILTON COUNTY.

PURSUANT to call on Saturday last a number of old Alliancemen met at the court house and organized the Central Alliance of Chilton county. Opponents of the Alliance had been industriously engaged the last two or three weeks circulating rumors of various descriptions which were calculated to reduce the size of the meeting. In point of numbers this result was partially accomplsshed. In point of material the result was exactly opposite to that anticipated by those gentlemen who are desirous of seeing the Alliance forever dead and buried. When the reqvest was made that all except old Alliancemen should leave the room, EVERY former member of the Alliance then present stayed and gladly went into the new organization.

Bro. A. G. Dake was elected temporary chairman, and Frank Crichton Secretary. Bro. Dake made the opening address, disclaiming from the outset that any political move was connected with the re-organization of the Alliance. He said that if mistakes had been made before, now was the time for true Alliancemen to avoid them, and see that the Alliance was not embroiled in politics in the future. It had been said that certain office-seekers were at the back of the movement for re-organizing the Alliance, but for his part all he had to say was if any office-seeker tried to use the Alliance as a stepping stone to aid him to office he was doomed to disappointment.

This re-organization of the Alliance was intended to benefit farmers, and no one but a farmer could expect any advantage from it

Bro. J. H. Harris, the State Lecturer, familiarly known as "Uncle Joe" then gave a lengthy address, in his usual happy manner, dwelling upon the necessity to the farmer of standing by the Alliance. He quoted (and really to his audience it was unnecessary) the numerous advantages which had accrued to farmers from the Farmers' Alliance and showed them why it was still necessary to adhere to the organization. Bro. Harris' address had its effect, and WITHOUT A SINGLE EXCEPTION every old Allianceman went into the new organization.

Chilton county, as of old, came readily to the front. Chilton County Alliance used to be the standard-bearer for the State of Alabama. Clanton Primary Alliance (No. 1) was the first Alliance organized in Alabama. We infer from last Saturday's meeting that Chilton county has aroused from its lethargic condition and again intends to become the banner county of the Alliance in Alabama. God speed the movement. It is more essential to the well being of our people now than it ever was at any time in our previous history.

Bros. J. A. Logan and L. B Pounds next addressed the meeting, then the following officers were elected:

President—E. G. Cofer, Providence.

Vice-president—H. A. J. Harris Clanton.

Sec-Treasurer—Frank Crichton, Clanton.

Lecturer—J. M. Scott, Clanton.

Assistant Lecturer—W. H. Shaw Clear Creek.

Chaplain—N. J. Calloway, Verbena.

Doorkeeper and the election of the Executive Committee was left over until next meeting.

Delegate to State Alliance—L. H. Reynolds.

It was unanimously agreed that a request be sent to President Pinckard to call the annual meeting of the State Alliance to be held at Jemison, and the Secretary was instructed to forward the resolution to the President.

The next meeting of the Alliance was decided to be held at Cedar Grove on Wednesday August 25, when State Lecturer J. H. Harris again promises to be with us. Every Allianceman is urged to be present at that meeting. It is confidently expected that fully three-fourths of the old members will rejoin.

Every Allianceman should bear in mind that if he really wants to down office-seekers, the way to do it is by concerted action, he cannot do it by his individual efforts. Our advice is use your own judgment, and when you do that we are satisfied you will at once see the necessity of joining the Alliance.

The University School.

Through the courtesy of the Editor I am permitted to present to the people of Chilton and surrounding counties some of the educational advantages of the University School.

The location was a fortunate one. It is central and equally convenient to all the citizens of the community. The campus ($3\frac{1}{2}$ acres) cannot be excelled anywhere for adaptability, comfort and beauty. It is elevated, perfect drainage, no slush, beautiful dense grove of oak for the girls, open grounds for the boys, pure air, pure free stone water.

The school building is 36 x 64. It is new, painted, ceiled, and has three rooms, each well furnished with chairs, desks, slated blackboards, etc., is well ventilated and has heating power enough to make every student comfortable at his or her desk in the coldest weather. The janitor bTilds the fires, brings the water, keeps the building neat and in order so that pupils have nothing to do but to study. Near by the main building—near enough for convenience but not near enough for study—stands the music room, a neat, cosy little building, well warmed and ventilated, where the music class will be comfortable during recitations and practice.

The Faculty. The principal has had an experience of twenty years as principal of high schools. Mrs. McMorries, an experience of fifteen years in primary teaching, and Mrs. Smith, the teacher of music, is a graduate of the New England conservatory, Boston, the highest school of music in the United States. Should other teachers be required, competent ones will be provided.

Clanton, as a community, stands deservedly high both socially and religiously. There are Sunday-schools and preaching every Sunday which boarding pupils are required to attend.

The pupils in point of morals, intelligence and esprit du corps have no better average in any school. Our pupils have pride and emulation and strive to excel, and their example must necessary exert a wholesome influence upon those who are here to pursue their studies. Their scholarly attainments would not suffer in comparison with these of the best secondary school in the South. Besides primary branches, we have classes in advanced English Grammar, Rhetoric, English Literature, English Classics, Higher Arithmetic, Elementary and Higher Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Natural Philosophy, Physical Geography, Chemistry and in Latin, Classes from first Latin Book to Horace.

The Honors offered next session to ambitious pupils and the Students Lyceum of the University School established during the last days of our last session must necessarily give a new impetus to higher achievements.

Expenses. Tuition from $2 to $4 a month. Music $3 a month extra. Board from $7 to $10 a month. Incidental fee the entire session $1.

Political Pointers.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis Mo., Aug. 4, 1897.

Senator Allen has further endeared himself to all liberty-loving Americans by openly and courageously telling Czar Thomas Reed what a despotic villian he considered him. Reed had just entered the Senate chamber and was rooted to the spot with surprise and chagrin, to be thus publicly labeled. All the senators, except a small ring of extreme high tariffites, were delighted, and Allen was overwhelmed with congratulations at the close of the session.

The infamous Dingley tariff bill has become a law and the people may now enjoy all the benefits derivable from having an average of 58 per cent. added, not only to some of the luxuries, but to all the necessities of life. The signing of the nefarious bill was made the occasion of much rejoicing in the circle of chosen spirits that were permitted to be present when the President affixed his signature. The real beneficiaries of the law are clearly designated by the enormous benefits already derived. Stocks have appreciated in value $200,000,000 since it became certain that the Dingley bill would pass both Houses. Among these favored ones, all of whom were large contributors to the Republican campaign fund, are the sugar, leather, lead and rubber trusts, besides the standard oil company, and gas and coal companies too numerous to name. It is whispered about the stock-exchange that the trusts are about to combine in one gigantic trust.

The strike has steadily spread. West Virginia is considered the most important point and here every effort is being made to make the strike general and peaceable. It is alleged that the mine-owners have, so far, made money by the strike, as they have been able to command highest prices for all coal on hand.

The American federation of labor, representing nearly every national labor organization in this country, has concluded to extend assistance, financial and moral, to the striking coal-miners in their struggle for living wages.

The Senate held up T. V. Powderley's appointment as commissioner general of immigration because of the great oppostion made by the labor unions, but President McKinley has defeated them by signing a recess appointment, thus making him commissioner general for the time being, at least.

The Populists are making arrangements for political encampments, of from two to five days' duration, throughout Texas.

Some Republican papers are again announcing the return of prosperity, but since they assert that "the farmers have had ten continuous years of prosperity," the truth of their statements can be guessed.

Realizing the vast importance of a true statement as to the value and character of the Klondyke gold fields being given to the American citicens national labor commissioner Carroll D. Wright has dispatched an expert to Alaska to report.

L. F. Laverty, of Oklahoma, has been elected chairman of the Territorial Central committee to succeed Leo Vincent, resigned. Mr. Laverty is a successful organizer and a good worker. Mr. Vincent has removed to Boulder, Colo., where he will edit the "Colorado Representative."

Speaker Reed has at last announced his committees and seven Populists are found to occupy places as follows: Appropriations, Jno. C. Bell; banking and currency, F. C. Newlands; coinage, weights and measures, E. R. Ridgely; agriculture, Jerry Simpson; public buildings, Harry Skinner; Pensions, Curtis Castle; immigration, W. L. Green.

The delay in not passing the Dingley bill has enabled all importers to stock up for a year's trade; hence no tariffs will accrue and a bond issue is suggested as the means of filling the the treasury.

The Democrats and Populists of Illinois have unofficially agreed to elect a legislature next year that will send Gov. Altgeldt to the Senate.

The resolution to investigate the sugar-scandal has been reported adversely by the Senate.

"The Foot of a Fly"

says an eminent English doctor, "will carry enough poison to infect a household." In summer-time, more especially, disease germs fill the air, multitudes are infected, fall ill, die; multitudes escape. These messengers of mischief do not exist for millions. Why not? Because they are healthy and strong—protected as a crocodile is against gunshot. It is the weak, the wasted, the thin-blooded who fall; those who have no resistive power so that a sudden cough or cold develops into graver disease. We hear of catching disease! Why not catch health? We can do it by always maintaining our healthy weight.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, is condensed nourishment; food for the building up of the system to resist the attacks of disease. It should be taken in reasonable doses all summer long by all those whose weight is below the standard of health. If you are losing ground, try a bottle now.

Jemison, Ala., Aug. 2, 1897

Editor BANNER: There are few things of more importance to the welfare of our country and government than that of every family owning a home. What a dear word home is. Home the dearest spot on earth. Around home entwines the most sacred memories of life. To have a place one may call his own, though ever so humble, helps in the making good citizens. He then haves something to interest him while he lives. He works to improve his home and takes a deep and lively interest in society. His wife, sons and daughters take a like interest in their home. This would create an improved condition for the community, the State, and the nation. To own a home, a farm or a place of business on which a man can stand and proclaim his independence from want, and to know that from that soil or business the comforts of life can be procured, and a life free from want enjoyed. We would say to all, get homes: A man with a home has something to be proud of. He wants a good government, a government that will protect his home interest. For this he would be willing to sacrafice his life if needs be. It would have a tendency to unite all the families of the country in the one idea of protecting their country and their rights in the government og the country. For every one to own a home would throw around our liberties a safe guard that no power could successfully thwart; give all our people homes and our liberties are safe, now, and for all time to come. No nation of wandering, scattering homeless people can ever long maintain a republican for government. But slavery, serfdom, and peonage will invariably be the condition of the masses. Haste everybody and get you homes. No time to lose. Every day places the opportunity further from you. A home will make you happy.

South Chilton.

There has not been any rain in our community for some time; the farmers who have such good crops in our section are wearing long faces now. It we could get two good rains more I can't see we are hurt very bad.

Our neighboring saw mill men, Messrs. J. Y. Propst and brothers, E. Pletcher and W. W. Carter, are running with full time and are working full forces of men. The unemployed of this section have plenty of opening now for employment. The forces which have been laboring on the M. T. & M. R.R. have been reenforced by new contractors, and contractors for grading are still coming.

Your correspondent was in the farm of W. H. Mills some days ago, and saw some few open bolls of cotton, the first I have seen or heard of in the county.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Robey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years he should certainly know. For sale by J. S. HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. No long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa. Sold by J. S. RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE and their marvelous cure. Science of the 19th Century looks on with amazement at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will, for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. F. Limburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 9th of January 1897, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment wore the second morning cured. My arm was entirely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours J. F. LIMBURNER.

Bureau of Populist and Reform Papers, Old Stock Exchange Building, Chicago, Ill.

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so poorly that I lost the use of my legs and arms and could not move without pain. I was so crippled that I had done but little work for seven years and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable and I believed him. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. At this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have received no hearing in any Rheumatism left and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and feel like a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give a mother who has a young child for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It starts off Croup and cures the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.

Yours respectfully, WM. M. KELLEMS, Liberia, Perry Co., Ind.

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published where Mr. Kellems is doing of his endorsements genuine, and received this reply, which he for one does.

MR. J. J. WILSON.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I sent it to them last January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. Tell all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain. Dr. W. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

MR. W. M AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS

Sept. 21, 1896

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its worth. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred Diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and close. Large bottles (300 doses) $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle prepaid by mail 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

A Railroad Official's Experience.

MR. EDWARD EDMONDS, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My heart troubled and pained me for 19 years. Shortness of breath was the constant and most common symptom. Intense, excruciating pain, generally followed any severe exertion. Faintness, hunger without any appetite; fluttering that made me clutch my breast, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall, were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I arose from a stooping posture quickly. Sleepless nights with their prostrating unrest were numerous and I could get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They gave me no relief. One of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I hope every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full details of my experience." EDW. EDMONDS, P. O. Box 65, David City, Nebraska.

The State of Alabama } In the Chilton County } Probate Court

To W. L. Wells and John T. Wells, residents of Vicksburg in the State of Mississippi, and Paralee Cook and her husband, John F. Cook, residents of Brooksville in the State of Mississippi

You will please take notice that on the 24th day of July, 1897, a certain paper in writing, purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Kincon Wells, deceased, was filed in my office for probate by William L. Wells, and that the 1st day of September, 1897, was appointed a day for hearing thereof, at which time you can appear and contest the same, if you see proper.

Given under my hand this, the 27th day of July 1897. R. M. HONEYCUTT, Judge of the Probate Court.

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "females diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardul has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

Washing a Fine Art.

Ever since spinning was a type of womanly industry, from age to age it has been expected that beautiful apparel should clothe women. To keep dainty belongings in good order it is necessary to have them properly laundered. This is especially true in the laundering of pretty summer gowns, which is now quite a fine art. To do the work properly, fill a tub two-thirds full of warm water, dissolve the fourth of a cake of Ivory Soap (which will not fade the most delicate colors), add it to the water; wash the articles through it, rinse first in clear and then in blue water; wring, dip in thin starch, shake out and hang on the line in the shade. When dry, sprinkle and iron. Gowns thus laundered will retain their freshness the entire season.

Jests and Yarns Made and Told by Funny Men of the Press.

REASON ENOUGH.

"This horse looks very sickly and delicate, almost dissipated."

"Well, you see, he's a fast horse."

THE ONE EXCEPTION.

"You shouldn't believe a word Miss Longbow says. She exaggerates everything so horribly."

"Even her age?"

REMARKABLE CASE.

Justwed—I found a gray hair in this butter.

Mrs. Justwed—That's strange. The groceryman told me it was only two days old.

ALMOST AS BAD.

Eastern Boy—"Did you ever play football?"

Western Boy (watching the game)—"No, but I once got caught in a drove of stampeded mules."

A HAPPY ESCAPE.

Mansard—Well, there's one trial Andree doesn't have to contend with at the Pole.

Mrs. Graball (suspiciously)—What is it?

Mansard—Soft, oozy butter.

HAND IN HAND.

Finnicus—The first thing civilization teaches the savage is outward cleanliness.

Cinnicus—And the next is inward cussedness.

TOO FUNNY TO BE HUMOROUS.

Editor—Mr. Cose, your jokes have lost all their humor of late. What's the trouble?

Joe Cose—I guess I'm not well. I've felt rather funny for a week past.

WOMAN'S WAY.

He—When women get to voting, if they ever should, they will be found wearing the party yokes as meekly as the men.

She—They won't if yokes are not in style.

NOT IN THE SAME CLASS.

"I wonder," said the fair-haired maid, "if there will be any more love when woman is the acknowledged peer of man in intellect?"

"What," asked the rheumatic bachelor, "has love got to do with intellect?"

A LEGAL DILEMMA.

Judge—Who owns the mule?

Casey—I own wan half ov him an' Fogarty owns the ithur, yer haner.

Judge—Then what's the trouble?

Casey—Fogarty won't let his half work.

Judge—Court's adjourned. I must look up the law.

AN EXCITING MOMENT.

"Here, come away from there," said Perry Patettic, as Wayworn Watson started to enter the barroom. "They're on to me there. Last time I started in the barkeeper throwed a half glass of dead beer right in me face as soon as I stuck me head in the door."

"Did did you have time to git your face open?" asked Wayworn, stammering in his excitement.

A BASE DECEIVER.

Nellie—Have you seen Clara lately, since she got married?

Jennie—Yes, I met her the other day.

"Is she happy?"

"No, she isn't."

"Didn't she love him when she married him?"

"No. She married him because he kept an ice-cream parlor, and he basely deceived her a few weeks later by selling out and starting a livery stable."

"The wretch!"

TIMELY WARNING.

Husband—What did you do with that comic paper that the newsman left here yesterday?

Wife—I left it up in the nursery.

Husband—For heaven's sake run and get it before the children get hold of it. It's a dangerous thing for them to handle.

Wife—You don't tell me! Why, what's the matter with it?

Husband—It's full of old saws.

Bicycle Prices Fall.

After several years of exorbitantly large profits the manufacturers of bicycles have been compelled to very largely reduce their prices. The public actually refused to longer pay $100 for a machine which can be built for one-quarter that amount.

A few makers saw this some time ago and put on the market cheaper machines at very greatly reduced prices which so cut into the business of the higher priced manufacturers that in pure self-defense they were compelled to bid good-bye to their old high prices.

Why should not the same thing occur with type-writing machines? They no doubt cost considerably less to produce than bicycles, and yet some of them are selling at the ridiculously high price of $100. It is fair to infer that a machine which sells at $50 costs close to $15 to manufacture.

If a few large department stores in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, etc., would arrange for large quantities to be manufactured for them by some one outside of a Trust the prices would come down to reasonable figures as have those of bicycles.

INDIGNANT GOLD SEEKERS.

They Don't Like the Idea of Canucks Collecting Customs.

There is a crowd of indignant gold seekers in Victoria, B. C. Two hundred of them are from Seattle with their outfits to take the steamship Islander for Dyea. Arriving in Victoria they found that not a pound of goods would be allowed to enter the Klondike district without paying the regular Canadian duty. Some of them decided upon payment of the duty, but others are going with the expectation of evading the customs officers. This is hardly possible, as the customs officers are going upon the Islander, accompanied by a force of constables, who will assist the mounted police now there to enforce the law.

CAPITOL ITEMS.

Reported That Whitelaw Reid May Succeed Secretary Sherman.

GREAT BRITAIN ACCEPTS

The International Conference on the Question of Pelagic Sealing in Behring Sea, to be Held in Washington During the Coming Autumn.

Great Britain Accepts.

The British foreign office notified Ambassador Hay last Friday morning that Great Britain has accepted the proposition of the United States for an international conference on the question of Pelagic sealing in Behring sea, to be held in Washington during the coming autumn.

Their Offer Rejected.

Secretary Long has rejected the offer of the armor company to supply the diagonal armor for the three battleships, Alabama, Wisconsin and Illinois, now building, at a price to be fixed hereafter by the navy department itself. The secretary felt that there was a doubt as to his authority to commit the government in this way to an indefinite expenditure.

Nicaraguan Canal Commission.

Admiral Walker, Captain Carter and Professor Haup, the new Nicaraguan canal commission, held a preliminary meeting in the engineer's office at the war department a few days since. There is no present intention of visiting Nicaragua, but before a final report is made the commission will make a personal examination of the route and its surroundings. Admiral Walker, by virtue of his rank and being named first on the commission, will be president.

Amuses Washington Officials.

The dispatch from Washington to the effect that a convoy of revenue cutters would be detailed to accompany the steamer Portland out of the Behring sea when she leaves St. Michaels with $2,000,000 of Alaskan gold for this port in September next, because her owners feared that she might be attacked by pirates, created considerable amusement among San Francisco shipping men. No credence is given to the story of an alleged piratical project, nor is it believed to be possible that any such project could be carried out, even if conceived.

Reid May Succeed Sherman.

A report, the circulation of which is apparently inspired by the belief that prevails in diplomatic official circles that Secretary Sherman may not much longer remain at the head of the state department, is to the effect that Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune and special ambassador to the queen's jubilee, will succeed to portfolio of that department. Mr. Reid, who is now on the ocean on his way to this country, is declared to have opened negotiations for the lease of the Washington residence of Ambassador John Hay for a number of years.

The Republic of Central America.

A report has been received from William Meyers Little, consul at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, enclosing a copy of the treaty that has been signed by the representatives of the five Central American states or republics of Guatemala, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador. It goes into effect September 15.

The union is named the Republic of Central America, and the countries forming it will now take the names of states. Last year when the republics of Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador formed themselves into the "Greater Republic" of Central America, provision was made for the admission of Guatemala and Costa Rica, which has now been accomplished.

The treaty is similar to that made last year, except that its provisions are extended and considerable legislation is enacted in it for the government of the new republic.

Shipbuilders Off for Alaska.

The navy department has felt the evil effects of the gold craze. The firm of Moran Bros., at Seattle, is building the torpedo boat Rowan and had made good progress until the Alaskan exodus began. Now they have informed the navy department that so many of their workmen have dropped their work to go to Alaska that they are obliged to appeal to the navy department for an extension of time in which to complete the boat. The land office is receiving many applications for copies of the public land laws by persons who intend going to Alaska.

Our Minister to Spain.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, United States minister to Spain, sailed from New York last week for the scene of his future duties. Gen. Woodford was accompanied by wife and daughter and by the members of the legation. The latter were John R. MacArthur, Capt. Lasker Bliss, U. S. A., military attache; Lieut. George S. Dyer, U. S. N., naval attache. There also sailed with Gen. Woodford his nephew, Stewart Woodford Capen, his niece, Miss Mary Claflin Eames, and Miss Isabella Hanson.

Monetary Conference.

Official information received in Washington indicates that Great Britain will consent to join an international monetary conference to be held in Washington next winter says the correspondent of a New York paper. This report comes through official channels.

Reports received from special envoys also state that France practically accepts the proposal to join in a conference and abide by its results, provided Great Britain could be induced to do likewise.

Not New or Uncommon.

Secretary Long has decided to send the big battleship Indiana to Halifax to be docked and cleaned.

While all of the naval officers deplore the necessity of thus sending our finest ship to a foreign dock, they say the practice is not new or uncommon. The department would have much preferred to send the Indiana to Port Royal, S. C., for this purpose, but the opinion of the best navigators in the navy department was that it would be decidedly risky in the present unsatisfactory condition of the approaches to the dock there.

The Portuguese Flag Incident.

The incident at Monterey, Cal., on the 4th of July, involving the destruction of a Portugese flag, is well on toward a settlement. A report has been received at the state department from the governor of California upon the results of the investigation made by the state authorities into the case at the request of the department. This shows that the affair was the work of some irresponsible person whom it has not been possible to identify and punish, and the people of Monterey are unanimous in condemnation of the insult. With a proper expression of regret on the part of our government and the enclosure of this report, it is believed the incident will be closed satisfactorily.

Internal Revenue Report.

The preliminary report of the commissioner of internal revenue for the year ending June 30, shows the total receipts during that period were $146,619,508, a decrease as compared with the previous year of $211,106. The receipts from the several sources of revenue with the increase or decrease as compared with the fiscal year 1896 are stated as follows: Spirits, $83,008,558, increase $1,338,487; tobacco, $80,710,297, decrease $1,341; fermented liquors, $32,472,162, decrease $1,312,073; oleomargarine, $1,034,129, decrease $185,302; filled cheese, $18,992 (law not in force in 1896). miscellaneous, $357,283, decrease $69,829; bankers and banks, $57, decrease $49. The amount of withdrawals for consumption during the last year is given as follows: Fruit brandy, 1,146,131 gallons, decrease 294,679; whisky, 68,833,445 gallons, increase 1,783,235; beer, porter and ale, 24,24,094 barrels, decrease 1,404,004. Number of cigars and cheroots weighing over three pounds per thousand, 3,063,169,097; number of cigarettes, 4,153,153,470, increase 109,543,733; snuff, pounds, 13,268,645, increase, 720,041; tobacco, chewing and smoking pounds, 260,784,812, increase 7,057,675; oleomargarine, pounds, 42,584,559, decrease 5,089,214. The states from which the larger collections were made during the period are given as follows: Illinois, $31,152,122; New York, $16,320,760; Kentucky, $15,657,957; Ohio, $12,748,987. Speaker Reed Criticised.

Many democratic members of the house are inclined to criticise Speaker Reed for his distribution of committee assignments. They say that the speaker should have recognized the authority of the leader of the minority in making the assignments of democrats. Mr. Reed was apparently anxious to aggravate the dissensions among the democratic members. This fact is shown by his selecting for promotion on many of the committees men who have heretofore been openly opposed to Mr. Bailey and his policy as leader of the minority.

The recognition of Mr. Bailey's enemies has been so general as to attract attention even among republicans. Representative Terry, who opposed Mr. Bailey's position on the question of free raw meterials from the beginning, was made the leading democrat on the judiciary committee. Representative DeArmond, of Missouri, who led the revolt against Mr. Bailey at the opening of the extra session, was made the second democrat on the same committee. Representative Catchings, of Mississippi, who is also classed as an opponent of Mr. Bailey, was given first place on the list of minority members of the rivers and harbors committee. In fact, an inspection of the whole list shows that Bailey's opponents in his own party fared better than his friends in the committee assignments.

A SMALL OIL COMPANY

Succumbs After Antagonizing the Standard for Twenty Years.

The Buffalo, N. Y., Refining company, of which C. B. Matthews is president, has made a general assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

While the company is a comparatively small corporation, being capitalized at only $15,000, still it has been one of the few independent refiners of the country and under various names, for more than twenty years maintaining existence in active antagonism to the Standard Oil company.

Serious Railway Wreck.

One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Central Pacific railway occurred last week. Twenty-five Mile Hill, just west of Reno, Nev. The engine was derailed and thrown to one side of the track. The track and roadbed were littered with debris of baggage, express and mail car, reduced to kindlingwood. Of fifteen Indians who were riding on the blind baggage six were killed and nearly all the remainder were more or less injured. Several others were hurt. The wreck was caused probably by rails spreading.

Polish Roman Catholic Union.

At Chicago the special convention of the Polish Roman Catholic Union of America adopted the new constitution. The amount payable to a woman on the death of her husband was fixed at from $250 to $1,000; that to a man on his wife's death $250.

Mrs. J. Z. George.

Mrs. J. Z. George, wife of United States Senator George, died at Carrollton, Miss., last Thursday morning. Mrs. George was in her 64th year.

Illicit Distillery Destroyed.

Deputy Marshals Skelton and Arnold made a raid in Jones' Cove, near Bridgeport, and captured Sam Erwin and destroyed a twenty-gallon still and 200 gallons of beer.

Sunday School Association.

The eighth annual convention of the Madison County Sunday School Association met in Huntsville last Thursday night in the Presbyterian Church. D. A. Grayson delivered the welcome address. A beautiful response was made by Dr. T. W. Ayers, of Anniston. President Joseph Sloss resided. D. A. Grayson was made temporary secretary.

Brewton's Water Works.

Work will soon begin on the water works and electric light plant at Brewton. The Blachsher Miller Lumber Company donated a suitable lot near the mill and offered fuel free of charge. Plans and specifications are being made, and contracts will be let to the lowest bidder. The plant will be owned by the town, and will be first-class in every respect.

Coroner's Verdict.

After two days of investigation of the killing of Rev. P. P. Patterson, who was shot in front of the altar in a negro Baptist church in Montgomery on Wednesday of last week, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by the hand of George W. Pritchard, and that Rev. A. J. Stokes, Rev. P. T. Brown, William Gracey, Mace Coleman and Calvin Micou as accomplices. The grand jury returned indictments against the same parties on the same charges.

Locomotives Burn.

Fire broke out in the roundhouse of the Western railroad at Montgomery a few nights since, and in less than an hour it was a complete wreck. The roundhouse was full of engines. It is said eleven engines were destroyed, some of them the finest on the road. The machine shop attached to the roundhouse is a complete wreck. The building was principally of wood, and being very dry, burned like pine lightwood. The damage is heavy, but fully covered by insurance.

Back Tax Due.

The Back Tax Commissioner of Limestone county has been instructed to assess the Middle Tennessee & Alabama, formerly the Decatur, Chesapeake & New Orleans road, and to return the assessment to the Board of Appraisers of that county. The road in question is still incomplete in Limestone county, no work having been done there since 1891, owing to financial difficulties. This will entitle the commissioner to assess the property for five years and to enforce the collection of the amount due the State and county.—Huntsville Mercury.

Thompson's Accomplice.

At 7:35 o'clock Saturday night, in Decatur, after being out three hours, the jury in the case of Walter Neville, accomplice of Lewis Thompson in the assault on Nellie Lawton, brought in a verdict of guilty and fixed the penalty of death as in Thompson's case. This case lasted only one day and a half.

The sentiment was about evenly divided as to death and life imprisonment. There was some doubt as to whether Neville was really an accomplice in fact or merely in a circumstantial way, but this was set at rest when when the testimony of Nellie Lawton was heard. The feeling is strong against Rosa Buford, the negro woman who instigated the crime and decoyed the little girl. Her trial began Monday.

The Penalty is Death.

Louis Thompson, the negro rapist, who has been on trial before a special team of circuit court, at Decatur was on Friday night of last week found guilty of rape as charged in the indictment. The death penalty was recommended. The trial has had the interest of Alabama. Thompson, together with Walter Neville and Rosa Binford, committed a criminal assault upon Nellie Lawton, a 12-year-old white girl, and public sentiment was aroused to such a pitch by the brutality of the crime that a lynching was narrowly averted. Thompson's accomplices will be tried, and as the evidence in all the cases are nearly the same, the same result may be expected.

Birmingham Merchant Swindled.

One of the slickest forgeries ever worked in Birmingham came to light one day last week. Emil Loveman, of the big dry goods house of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb, noticed a man in his shirt sleeves and bare-headed walk out of A. C. Reckling's harness store across the street. The man came over to Mr. Loveman and ask him if he would cash a check for Mr. Reckling. Mr. Loveman replied affirmatively and the man went back to Reckling's and soon came out with a check in his hand with Reckling's name signed to it. It was for $45 and Mr. Loveman promptly cashed it. The fellow then went back towards Reckling's and down an alley.

It was found later that the check was a forgery and that Reckling not only did not have the man in his employ, as Mr. Loveman supposed, but did not know him. Reckling's clerk told the actions of the forger in coming in and asking twice to be allowed to look at the city directory. It seems that the forger got a copy of Reckling's rubber stamp used on his checks and made one like it. This made the forgery easy. The man's identity is unknown.

Rosa Buford Must Hang.

Rosa Buford, the 18-year-old woman conspirator in the rape of Nellie Lawton, stands revealed, after the criminal court investigation Monday, the star among criminals in the history of crime in these cities. When court opened an immense crowd filled the room. The testimony of the victim of the crime, which had proven impregnable to the cross-examination of counsel in two previous cases of Thompson and Neville, was again rehearsed in detail by Nellie Lawton to the court in which Buford, as her protector in her father's absence, had prepared the way and assisted Thompson in its perpetration. Solicitor Sawtelle and W. W. Callahan, for the state, brought out the facts of the crime with which the child's testimony had connected the woman, Rosa, in the most revolting features. Mr. Matthews gave up his hopeless fight for the woman's life. The jury retired at the noon hour and at 2 p. m. returned a verdict of guilty, affixing the death penalty. Judge Banks then sentenced Thompson, Neville and Rosa Buford to be hanged on September 7, next.

The University of Alabama.

(A supplement to the catalogue.)

The President and faculty of the University have issued an academic supplement to the catalogue setting forth new and up-to-date courses of study. These allow many options to students, while maintaining a high standard by requiring certain essentials of an education of all applicants for a degree.

Students who have already entered upon one of the old courses may continue without prejudice. But they can choose as others as far as the schedule will allow. It is the purpose of the faculty to cause no man to lose his class by reason of the change, however desirable.

This evidence of life will be gratifying to all the friends of the University.

A RAGING TORRENT.

The Beautiful Blue Danube Sweeping Everything In Its Mad Career.

A telegram from Vienna says: Reports from the flooded district show that the situation is even worse than at first expected. The greatest damage has been done in Bohemia.

At Trautenia thirty houses have been destroyed and thirteen persons drowned. Corpses were to be seen floating down the streets with every kind of debris, even a cradle with a crying infant, which fortunately was rescued.

At the village of Freihet a house was swept away and its seven occupants were drowned.

Almost the whole town of Reichenberg was submerged, and there, too, many were drowned. The loss to mill owners in that district is estimated at millions of dollars.

At Vienna the damage already done to public sewers, gas mains and bridges is estimated at 2,000,000 florins. The Danube is now double its ordinary width and still rising. According to reports from higher up the river, the waters are not likely to reach their highest point until tomorrow.

At Gmunden, Ishal, Isshaeo and other health resorts, enormous damage was done. The people were compelled to flee for their lives.

The emperor is personally inspecting the efforts of the troops to palliate the disasters, and the government is preparing estimates as to the amount of state aid required. In many places the troops have been entirely cut off, and in many places provisions have become scarce.

Short of Cotton.

A telegram from Fall River, Mass., says: At a recent meeting of the directors of the Wanpamoag Cotton mills it was voted to close the mills for two weeks during August. The Stevens mill shut down for a month and the Richard Borden mills will begin a curtailment this week. These factories employ about 1,800 hands and it is understood that they are short of supply cotton.

Yellow Fever on Board.

The surgeon general of the marine hospital service has been advised of the arrival of the Norwegian bark Nore at Cape Charles with a suspicious case of yellow fever on board. He has also been informed that two cases of fever developed on the vessel at Kingston, Jamaica. The bark was sent to the quarantine station on Fisherman's island.

There Was One More.

The delivery clerk with the pink cheeks was fondling his blonde young moustache when a young woman stepped in front of him.

"Plaze," she said with a soft smile, "is there anny letthers here for pap' by the name of Murphy?"

The young man with the pink cheeks stopped playing with his moustache and looked through a pile of papers.

"No," he said, brusquely, as he shoved them back into their pigeon holes again. "There's nothing here for the Murphys."

"Is there anything here for James Murphy?" persisted the maiden.

"No."

"Is there anything for William Murphy?" she pleaded.

"Nothing."

"Is there anything for Michael Murphy?" almost tearfully.

"Nix."

"Is there any——"

The young man with the pink cheeks deemed it high time to exhibit his powers of persiflage. And he did so.

"Madam," he said, raising his voice, "there is nothing here for Peter Murphy, or Paul Murphy, or Larry Murphy; Oscar Murphy's correspondents have forgotten him; Lewis, Samuel, Terence, Patrick, Thomas, Clarence Robert and Joseph Murphy are neglected by their distant relatives. Sadder still, there is not a single letter for Mary Murphy, nor so much as a postal card for Agnes, Bridget, Clarinda, Augusta, Ida, Ellen, Susan, Mamie or Gladys Murphy."

The young man with the pink cheeks paused and looked behind him for the applause of his fellows. But the maiden stood her ground, and softly said:

"Plaze, sor, I didn't hear ye mintion the name of Mortimer Murphy. Might there be anything for him, sor?"

Fireproof Paper.

Fireproof paper for writing and printing purposes is now manufactured in Berlin by a new patented process. Ninety-five parts of asbestos fiber of the best quality are washed in a solution of permanganate of calcium, then treated with sulphuric acid as a bleaching agent. Five parts of wood pulp, as used in paper factories, are added, and the whole is placed in the agitating box with an addition of lime water and borate of soda. After being thoroughly mixed, the material is pumped into the regulating box and allowed to flow out of the gate on an endless wire cloth, where it enters the usual papermaking machinery. It is easy to apply water marks to this paper, which ordinarily has a smooth surface, which can be satin finished for writing purposes. Paper thus produced is said to resist even the direct influence of flame and remains uninjured, though subjected to a white heat.

Food and Odor.

Food that has little odor and food that readily absorbs odors should be placed at the bottom of the refrigerator. All foods with a strong odor should be kept on the top shelves.

"I was thinking, dearest, that this was the last evening that we could be together until to-morrow."—Trifles.

Soap Producing Trees.

In the West India islands and in South America grows a tree whose fruit makes an excellent lather and is used to wash clothes. The bark of a tree which grows in Peru and of another which grows in the Malay islands yields a fine soap.

VOL. V. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1897. NO. 42

RUSKIN'S BELIEFS.

RELATIONS OF GOVERNMENT AND PEOPLE.

The First Duty of Government Is to See that the People Have Food, Fuel and Clothes—Sixteen Principles of Civilization.

The following sixteen principles of [illegible] were founded by John [illegible] philosopher and thinker:

[illegible] form of government will [illegible] the governors are real, [illegible] people obey them; and none [illegible] that the governors are unreal, [illegible] people disobedient. If you mean [illegible] for kings, no quantity in [illegible] choice of wood will be of any [illegible] to you, nor will the wisest or [illegible] governor be able to serve you, if you [illegible] to discuss his orders instead [illegible] them.

[illegible] first duty of government is to see that the people have food, fuel, and clothes. The second, that they have means of moral and intellectual education.

Food, fuel, and clothes can only be got out of the ground, or sea, by [illegible] labor; and no man has any business to have any, unless he has [illegible] if able, the muscular work necessary to produce his portion, or to render (as the labor of a surgeon or physician renders), equivalent benefit to life. It indeed saves both toil and time that one man should dig, another bake, and another tan; but the digger, baker and tanner are alike bound to do their equal day's duty; and the business of the government is to see that they have [illegible] before it gives any one of them their dinner.

4. While the daily teaching of God's truth, doing of His justice, and heroic bearing of His sword, are to be required of every human soul according to its ability, the mercenary profession of preaching, law-giving and fighting must be entirely abolished.

5. Seniors, painters, and musicians, may be advisedly kept, on due pittance, to instruct or amuse the laborer after, or at, his work; provided the duty be severely restricted to those who have high special gifts of voice, touch and imagination; and that the possessors of these melodious lips, light-fingered hands, and lively brains, do resolutely undergo the normal discipline necessary to insure their skill; the people when they are to please, understanding always, that they cannot employ these tricksy artists without working double tides themselves, to provide them with beef and ale.

6. The duty of the government, as regards the distribution of its work, is to attend first to the wants of the most [illegible], therefore, to take particular charge of the back streets of every town, leaving the fine ones more or less according to their finery, to take care of themselves. And it is the duty of magistrates and other persons in authority, but especially of all bishops, to know thoroughly the numbers, modes of subsistence, and modes of life of the poorest persons in the community, and to be sure that they at least are virtuous and comfortable; for if poor persons be not virtuous, after all the wholesome discipline of poverty, which may be the state of the rich under their perilous trials and temptations. But, on the other hand, if the poor are made comfortable and good, they each have a fair chance of entering the kingdom of heaven also if they choose to live honorably and decently.

7. Since all are to be made to labor for their living, and it is not possible [illegible] without materials and tools, these must be provided by the government for all persons in the necessary conditions. If bricks are to be made, only good straw must be provided; if sheep are to be kept, grass; if [illegible] are to be made, cloth; if [illegible] to be picked, oakum. All these materials, with the tools for working in them, must be provided by the government, at first free of cost to the [illegible], the value of them being [illegible] to them as the first fruits of the land, and no pawnbrokers or [illegible] may be allowed to live by [illegible] to fishermen, air to fowlers, [illegible] to farmers, crooks to shepherds, [illegible] to smiths.

8. When the lands and seas belonging to any nation are all properly divided, cultivated, and fished, its population cannot be increased, except by [illegible] food in exchange for useless [illegible] that is to say, by living [illegible] manufacturers of some indescribable nation, which can both feed [illegible] and afford to buy toys besides. This nation can long exist in this [illegible]—it must either emigrate, and [illegible] colonies to assist in cultivating the land which feeds it, or become [illegible] slavish and debased. For [illegible] any nation begins to improve [illegible] its political power and moral [illegible].

9. All the food, clothing, and fuel required by men can be produced by the [illegible] of their own arms on the earth and sea; all food is appointed to be [illegible] produced, and must be so [illegible] at their peril. If instead of taking the quantity of exercise made necessary to their bodies by God, in the work appointed by God, they take it in hunting or shooting, they become ignorant, irreligious, and finally insane, and seek to live by fighting as well as by hunting.

10. The use of machinery in agriculture throws a certain number of persons out of wholesome employment, who must thenceforward either do nothing or mischief. The use of machinery in art destroys the national intellect; and, finally, renders all luxury impossible. All machinery needful in ordinary life to supplement human or animal labor may be moved by wind or water; while steam or any mode of heat power, may only be employed justifiably under extreme or special conditions of need; as for speed on main lines of communication, and for raising water from great depths, or other such work beyond human strength.

11. No true luxury, wealth or religion is possible to dirty persons, nor is it decent or human to attempt to compass any temporal prosperity whatever by the sacrifice of cleanliness. The speedy abolition of all abolishable filth is the first process of education.

12. All education must be moral first; intellectual secondarily. Intellectual, before—(much more without)—more education, is, in completeness, impossible; and in incompleteness a calamity.

13. Moral education begins in making the creature to be educated, clean, and obedient. This must be done thoroughly, and at any cost, and with any kind of compulsion rendered necessary by the nature of the animal, be it dog, child or man.

14. Moral education consists next in making the creature practically serviceable to other creatures, according to the nature and extent of its own capacities; taking care that these be healthily developed in such service. It may be a question how long, and to what extent, boys and girls of fine race may be allowed to run in the paddock before they are broken; but assuredly the sooner they are put to such work as they are able for, the better. Moral education is summed when the creature has been made to do its work with delight, and thoroughly; but this cannot be until some degree of intellectual education has been given also.

15. Intellectual education consists in giving the creature the faculties of admiration, hope, and love.

These are, to be taught by the study of beautiful nature; the sight and history of noble persons; and the setting forth of noble objects of action.

16. Since all noble persons hitherto existent in the world have trusted in the government of it by a supreme Spirit, and in that trust, or faith, have performed all their great actions, the history of these persons will finally mean the history of their faith; and the sum of intellectual education will be the separation of what is inhuman in such faiths, and therefore perishing from what is human, and for human creatures, externally true.

These sixteen aphorisms contain, as plainly as I can speak it, the substance of what I have hitherto taught, and am now purposed to enforce practice of, as far as I am able.

In the Land of Hard Times.

From the palace of Ease my lady set out,
Her carriage wheels shone in the light;
Her fields lay fertile and green about
And she wondered how any blind soul could doubt
That God rules ever in might,
And she marveled greatly how sin and shame
To this fair world came.

There gazed from a window across the way
A creature pallid and gaunt;
Her cheeks were hollow, her face was gray;
And hard, deep lines by the hard mouth lay,
For she dwelt in the House of Want.
And a look like a curse came into her eye
As my lady rode by.

She hated the world that had used her ill,
She was bitter with discontent;
She was weary of toil in the dull treadmill
Where she wasted her life in the effort to fill
The mouth of that monster Rent.
She hated the owners of acres abroad.
And she doubted God.

Oh, woman, weary of toil and pain,
No wonder your heart is gall.
God gave His people a wide domain.
He gave us the seasons, the sun and the rain,
And room and food for us all.
It is man, the author of selfish crimes,
Who brings hard times.

Oh, Lady Fair, in your Castle of Ease,
You are happy and well content;
But what would you do were you one of these
Who toil and suffer and starve and freeze
To fatten the monster, Rent?
Yet God rules ever, and right some day
Must have its own way.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Hard Trial for Reform.

My God! when I read o'er the bitter lives of men whose eager hearts were quite too great to beat beneath the cramped mode of the day, and see them mocked at by the world they loved, haggling with prejudice for pennyworth of reform which their hard toil will make the common birthright of the age to come—when I see this, spite of my faith in God, I marvel how their hearts bear up so long; nor could they but for this same prophecy, this inward feeling of the glorious end.—James Russell Lowell.

Debt Is Danger.

I am not amongst those who fear the people; they, and not the rich, are our dependence for continued freedom. And to preserve their independence we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debts.—Thomas Jefferson.

There is no longer any doubt that prosperity has hit the country and hit it hard. The 200,000 coal miners did not strike, they simply quit work to enjoy the luxuries of life, theirs by virtue of beneficent republican legislation.—Burlington Courier.

By all means let us have a "monetary commission." Let it be formed from Wall street brokers and the speculators in corporation stocks and trust securities. But by all means allow no representative of the productive industries of the country to be appointed.—Columbus Post.

President Andrews, who recently returned from Europe, says there is no need of a monetary conference to restore silver. "If the United States were to insert in the Bland act the omitted clause providing for the free coinage of silver," says he, "international bimetallism would be accomplished for the other nations would follow the lead of this country." There is no doubt whatever of this being true, and every one who knows the prevailing sentiment in Europe is aware of the fact.—Chicago Express.

The way the prosperity wave works in Columbus, Ohio, the capital of McKinley's own state, is shown by the following item of news sent from Columbus to a Cincinnati paper the other day, which relates that: "Warden Coffin, of the Ohio penitentiary, has ordered that all fragments from the prison tables shall be collected and given to the poor. Each morning there are from fifty to a hundred people on hand with baskets to get crumbs from the prisoners' tables.—K. of L. Journal.

Our government is republican only in theory. It is a constitutional monarchy in fact. The monarch's throne is vacant. His functions are performed by the heads of our civil administration. The provisions of our federal constitution are no longer sacred to protect our individual rights, nor to fix the boundaries of legislation. Our judiciary rides rough-shod over its provisions with impunity.—Winters Independent.

Virtue is its own reward. So, at least the workers in the Crescent Tin Plate mill have discovered. They have voted to protect the mill, but the mill votes against protecting them. It imports workers to take their places. If virtue is not its own reward, these Cleveland tin workers have no reward at all for their votes.—Cleveland Recorder.

Four thousand buildings are said to be vacant in Milwaukee. Concentration of wealth and business isn't making life a perpetual picnic to the landlords there. In order that we may have more big capitalists, many small capitalists must be squeezed out.—Star and Kansan.

The idea of municipal ownership is becoming more and more popular in American cities. The main question is whether municipal factories can be honestly and economically operated. The theory is exceedingly attractive, but with parties and spoilsmen continually changing the personnel of such works there would be small hope for their honest administration. When genuine civil service reform is applied to all public works then we may talk to some purpose about municipal ownership.—Baltimore Sun.

Shearman estimates that the wealth created by ground values reaches the enormous sum of $32,000,000,000. How is that for a trust—the great Landlord Trust! That beats the water and the gas trust and all the other trusts. Every dollar of that sum was earned by the people and should belong to the people.—Fresno Expositor.

The coal mine owners have a few senators and any number of congressmen and legislators always on the floors of congress and in the state legislators to look out for their interest. UPON A FALSE BASIS.

THE HORRIBLE KLONDYKE CRAZE A LOGICAL RESULT.

Of the Financial Policy Which Makes All Human Energies and Industries Subservient to Gold—Clinton Furbith Writes His Views.

Gradually the whole picture of the new El Dorado is being revealed. At first we read of returning heroes who had "struck it rich" up in Klondyke. They came back to civilization with such treasure as would enable them to let others toil while they enjoyed all the delights and distinction that come to men of wealth and intelligence. There were hints of hardships endured. But these were only such embellishments as are given by heroes modestly and with reluctance. One of the fortunates told of the fate of his partner. He had been for three years enduring the extremes of Arctic winters when the Klondyke craze was new. He was, therefore, of "little more use for active work." He had been left to care for the camp while the stronger came down with the dust to secure supplies for the coming winter. In view of later details it is easy to see why the worked out partner was left to "care for the camp." Noting the contents of rough bags, cans, and other convenient receptacles borne by the adventurous ones, thousands are rushing to Klondyke. Steamboats are crowded to overflowing, and still the multitude presses, mad with the one desire to reach the frozen gulches. Nor has this wild contest been diminished by later details. In some degree it seems that the more horrible the picture the more intense the craze becomes. There are others who would "care for the dying" and then "divide the dust."

And what are these later lights thrown on the picture? We knew in a vague way of the dangerous water voyages in such craft as might be found in that section. We had been told of the hundreds of miles of mountain passes over which the pilgrims must climb. It was no new thing that bitter cold prevailed through the long winter season. But gentle woman had endured these hardships. Young brides had followed their husbands, and lived in such habitations as might be expected where palaces boasted of two rooms. One such had returned satisfied to leave her husband in the ditch while she would spend at home what he could make. But now come stragglers with no thought of retracing their steps over those horrible mountain passes, and in giving advice and warning to intending explorers make clear what should have been known before. In preparing for Klondyke one must provide himself with "one suit of the very heaviest underwear." No need of two suits. Winter comes suddenly up there, and when once you have put on winter clothes they can not be taken off till the summer sun shall have removed the danger of such imprudence. If cleanliness be next to godliness, then there must be little of the latter on the Klondyke, where a bath during the nine months of winter means death. But it is also hot up there among the glaciers. No night blesses the toiler under the summer sun. And the thermometer takes rest from the winter cold by climbing a hundred degrees above zero. And these are the months when man must work washing out what he has dug during the winter.

From such variations of heat and cold there must be logical results. Nature's laws are the same in Alaska as in South Africa. Looking up at each end of the Brooklyn bridge we see two of those long arms that reach down from above differing from the others in that they are wider apart at the base during midsummer than in the colder months. The explanation is found in the necessity for an expansion joint to allow for the effects of varying temperature, and we are told that the structure would not last long without such appliances. The range of heat and cold is far greater in Klondyke than in Brooklyn. Up in those frozen regions the same causes produce the same effects. And so we learn that the gulches are becoming one great graveyard of exhausted humanity. In their wild eagerness men have neglected to consider their strength and have yielded to the inevitable, while their treasure "has been divided among those who cared for them." In better phrase it would be said to have been divided among those who watched for them to die. But what chance would there have been for a return in their weakened condition? Hundreds of miles of mountain passes where the guides force the impatient traveler to camp for a month at a time in snow and sleet, because of the danger in those indescribable storms. The paths are icy and, save in good weather, walking is impossible, while vast abysses yawn for those who can not stand in slippery places. No matter how impatient the prospector, the guides are inexorable. They know the dangers and will not risk their lives, even at the high wages they command. Surrounded by the luxuries of civilized life, we stand appalled at dangers that have been surmounted by thousands, and are now contemplated by other hosts. But we have not the fever, or we, too, would be preparing a "grub stake" for Klondyke.

There must be some all-powerful motive to account for this wild craze. There can be no result without an adequate cause. Men will lay down their lives for various reasons. But for this rest from the winter cold by climing widespread frenzy many causes and those the most powerful must have combined. And there is reasonable explanation. The people have been reading the literature of the Reform club and Sound Money league. They have learned that civilization depends on the maintenance of a solid basis of gold. They have heard Bynum say that the national honor depends upon a "gold basis." They read appeals from the sage of Princeton that all followers of Jefferson should stand together for the protection of the national honor against the assaults of those blind fanatics and theorists who would destroy the "gold basis." And there are many patriots. They love their country and account him a coward who reckons the cost of its defense. And these patriots know there is gold up in the Klondyke regions. They have seen wan faced pilgrims returning, hugging their thousands and boasting of the millions "left in sight." The increasing multitudes of the earth must have a "sound basis" for their money, lest Bynum and statesmen of his ilk be torn in spirit because of impending national dishonor. Here lies one important factor in this Klondyke craze. And there are others.

Under a civilization "based on gold" honors must necessarily be heaped upon those controlling a generous share of the "basis." Desire for ease and comfort is natural to man. Love of admiration is its fellow. All laws are irksome to some people. The power of defying all law is, therefore, a potent factor in influencing the action of mankind. It has happened that under the civilization of the nineteenth century the very rich find no limit to their powers. They command the nomenclature of the hour. Soft phrases are made to dignify their doings. If they would rob their fellows under cover of law, they secure the passage of a new tariff, and call their plundering "protection." Or if they would prosper under a more dainty industry than vulgar manufacturing, they bribe legislators to give them exclusive monopoly of public rights and flourish as bankers, or owners of trunk lines of railroads, and call it "financiering." And with the wealth thus gained they guide the consciences of judges and priests, breaking ties that bind the pauper class. They trade wives and part with a portion of their gold in the purchase for their daughters of a foreign dude with a title, and the world calls both transactions "marriage." They build charnel houses of civilization and install therein learned men whose reason must not operate, and whose convictions must be stifled, and call these institutions "universities." Heat and cold are as nothing to those favored of Providence who have contributed to the support of the nation's "gold basis." In the winter they may seek the everglades of Florida and give many of their less intelligent fellow beings a chance to work by cutting up into small holdings the monopolized natural opportunities of that region. Or when summer heat spoils the zest of the opera or of bestial dinners, they can cross the ocean and dazzle foreigners with the magnificence of the defenders of the honor and prosperity of this republic.

The whole system is a miserable fraud. Unless we may gather grapes from thorns, and figs from thistles, unless wrong is right and right is wrong, then a system that unsexes woman and unmans man is established in iniquity. Unless there be fault in every natural law, it is the grossest absurdity to suppose that the more scarce the commodity the more necessary it is for the welfare of mankind and the honor of nations, or that civilization may not be, save as it rests upon an exploded theory and a barbaric fetish. It is doubtless true that invention of money has been of great benefit to the world in extending productive possibilities. But the maintenance of the gold basis by civilized nations has been productive of more misery and injustice than any other single cause. It is a system defended only by false statement and absurd sophistry. But its most ardent advocates admit that the world will outgrow it only when peopled by citizens who equal these wiseacres in economic lore. This is an assumption not sustained by facts. The great plain people of the land have already learned the absurdity of seeking to erect a sound structure upon a constantly shifting and decreasing basis. It is for their benefit to overthrow it. But it is for the benefit of greed and corporate wealth that the producing class should be held in slavery, and no more potent weapon for this purpose can be found than the coin basis.

Christ and Christianity.

Would Jesus Christ fence in broad acres of land and demand rental from God's miserable poor for the simple privilege of living? Would he loan money and demand usury? Sell household goods to pay his demands for rent? Beat down the laborer in his wages, and force him and his family into rags? All these things which Christ would not do are the crimes I lay at the door of our pretended Christians. How dare they do them day after day—the very things Pharisees did—when they know that Christ abhorred and condemned them?—Ink-Face.

History's Warning.

This is the sequel to all human tales,
'Tis but the same rehearsal of the past:
First Freedom, and then glory; when this fails
Wealth, vice, corruption, barbarism at last,
And history with all her volumes vast Hath but one page. —Byron.

FINANCE.

The county commissioners, we think, made a great big mistake in issuing bonds to fund the county's indebtedness. While it is true that the bonds will draw less interest than do the outstanding warrants still, in the long run, there will be more interest paid on the bonds than there would have been on the warrants. The issuing of bonds invariably entails profligacy and carelessness. The bonds can be paid in ten years; if not, they are to run twenty, and we warrant that every dollar of them will. There is another principle involved that we consider very wrong, and that is making obligations for the unborn to pay. True, the obligations were already made, but instead of putting off paying the whole thing for ten or twenty years, every effort ought to have been made in the direction of paying it off at once and as fast as possible. We are opposed to the issuing of bonds.—Salt Lake Living Issues.

The kind of "currency commission" to be operated by Lyman Gage is shown by the letters he has sent out for suggestions." They have gone, for instance, to J. Edward Simmons, Frederick D. Tappan, George G. Williams, George F. Baker, Henry W. Cannon, and J. T. Woodward. Now a perfectly responsible public man, in a pamphlet entitled "The New York National Bank Presidents' Conspiracy against Industry and Property,' has definitely and specifically charged these six men, in conjunction with Grover Cleveland and some others, organized and precipitated "the panic of 1893," which broke ten billions of values and made two million tramps. If Captain Kidd were alive, Gage would doubtless write him, too, for "suggestions."—Silver Knight.

"You folks show no sense," exclaimed a goldbug to a Cincinnati Bryan man the other day. "You want prosperity in a week. Now, if your boy had typhoid fever, you wouldn't expect the doctor to cure him in an hour, would you?"

"No," said the Bryanite, "I shouldn't expect the doctor to cure him at all, if he swore that the boy would be well the minute he wrote him a confidence prescription."—Cincinnati Common Cause.

Which has got the best title, Russia to China, or Great Britain to Japan? Great Britain's title to Japan is the best title, because it is a perfect one. She has extended her gold and banking policy over Japan, and if Japan has any rights left, there will be something new under the sun.—Silver Knight.

The intrinsic value money idea, if carried out—would mean that the material—wood and iron—in a wagon ought to be worth just the same before it is made into a wagon as it is afterward. The spokes of the wheels ought to be worth as much for stovewood as they are as wagon spokes.—Salt Lake Living Issues.

If only things were called by their right names, nearly all wrong would fail. If every time the word "sound money" were used, "scarce money" were substituted, the gold standard would be overthrown. Nearly all bad pills are sugar coated.—Cleveland Press.

Prosperity at Canton, Ohio.

The following is from the mayor of Canton, Ohio, McKinley's home:

"There never has been anything like this in Ohio before. There are hundreds of families in Canton today who are suffering for want of food and clothing. Things are getting worse. In three months this year I have spent out of my private purse for food and coal and clothing to give away more than my year's salary as mayor. The factories are cutting down wages and reducing their forces. Many of them are not operating more than three days in a week. Most of them are running without profit. Farm land that has been worth $100 an acre cannot be sold for $30 an acre. It is almost impossible to borrow money on real estate because prices sink, sink, and sink. I know of scores of men who are insolvent and who continue to do business simply because their creditors do not dare to act."

The Railroad Trust.

The New York Journal has unearthed the astounding fact that J. Pierpont Morgan has now in his grasp and absolute control (until socialists carry the country) 89 lines of railroad, comprising over 20,000 miles and capitalized at 1016 millions of dollars, and is reaching out for more. That is good. There ought to be but one system of railroads—for there is no competition anyhow and the sooner they are all in one system, the sooner the people will realize that they are more powerful than a king or emperor, and do with them as they did with King George's political power—take it and give it to all people and thus prevent its concentration in the hands of a few. It will be easy to convince the people that it is best that the people take the roads when only one syndicate stands in the way. Hurrah for Morgan!—Appeal to Reason.

That school teacher down in Virginia, who was mobbed and held by twenty-five of his girl pupils while each and every one deliberately kissed him, probably felt as much surprised as a workingman who has not had his wages cut since McKinley's election. Wonder if there are any more vacancies in Virginia for one or more teachers.—Oakland Industry.

FRANK CRICHTON, Sec.

TOM WATSON and Congressman Howard are expected to address the State Alliance at Jemison on September 22 and 23. We confidently predict a big meeting and a glorious time.

BUSINESS with Montgomery is greatly retarded by the inefficiency of the mail service. It now takes at least 48 hours to send a letter to the capitol city and get a reply. A letter written and mailed one morning is delivered in Montgomery the next morning. If a reply is written and mailed immediately it has to remain until the following morning before it leaves town, and gets delivered here at 10 o'clock We believe if the towns between Calera and Montgomery would petition the post office authorities a mail car would be put on the accommodation, then Montgomery and Birmingham would be on the same footing. A reply to a letter to either city could be received here the same day—a consummation devoutly to be wished.

THE report of the special state examiner of accounts, to which we briefly referred last week, will be found in the next column. We hope every man in the county will carefully read and study it. It is unfortunate these reports should be published on Thursday, because no matter their import, and who has to suffer from whatever charges are made, the report gets a full week's circulation before any criticisms can be made upon them. We do not pose as the defender of Mr. Gentry—we think he is capable of attending to his own business, and will do so at the proper time, entirely disproving the charges made against him. A week's reflection and a more diligent study of the report causes us again to say we do not believe it. By this statement we have no desire to reflect in any way upon the Examiner—our theory is he has himself got in a "mass of tangled confusion;" or in other words "don't know where he is at," and has piled up charges which can very easily be explained, having really no basis in fact. The report is, to say the least, ambiguous, with the exception that $827.37 is definitely stated to be the amount of the shortage. The report insinuates the commissioners either through "ignorance of law or wilful disregard of same" have been negligent in their duties, but does not attempt to show they could have done otherwise than they did. We know for a fact the commissioners have often hurried through with their work in order to save another day's expense. If this is willful disregard of the law, the taxpayers are not apt to complain, although we are of the opinion it is mistaken economy. We really would be glad of more information in regard to the "complaint of MANY of the taxpayers in the county." The registration list last year contained the names of about 2400 voters. How many of that number made any complaint to the Examiner? Was it 1200, or 12, or was it 2? Surely among the "many" some one will come forward and state publicly what they have to complain of, and not hide themselves behind the Examiner.

Report of the Special State Examiner of Accounts.

From the Age-Herald, Thursday, Aug. 5, 1897.

Montgomery, Aug. 4.—(Special)—Assistant Examiner of Public Accounts, Mr. J. G. Cowan, has filed his report on the office accounts and books of B. M. Gentry, ex-tax-collector of Chilton county.

The report says a thorough examination was made of the books for the years 1893, 1894 and 1895, so far as the examiner was able to get possession of them. The examiner says: "I called upon the probate judge for the abstract and stub books of the ex collector for the years mentioned. He replied he was unable to supply all, as the collector had only left a few of them with him; he had demanded them of him a number of times. I took possession of those found in the probate office and made a demand upon Mr. Gentry for the balance and had a great deal of trouble getting him to comply with my demand. I learned that some of the books were with his deputies throughout the county and I began to write to them. After much delay I succeeded in getting the abstract books and all of the stub books with the exception of two for the year 1893 and two for the year 1894.

"I found the books in a 'mass of tangled confusion' and I have had the greatest trouble to adjust this confusion. I found many stubs with receipts detached, many receipts loose and some for the year 1895 in the books of 1894. Many of these stubs were not dated and some of the loose receipts bore different dates from the stubs. I found many of the stubs bore dates of taxes having been paid, yet on their faces were marked the words 'Insolvent' or 'Error.' In every instance of this character I have charged it to the collector and from the evidence derived from a thorough inspection of the stub books, I have thought it right to charge the collector in every instance where the receipts have been mutilated or destroyed, unless I had a doubt as to an error or insolvency, and then I gave the collector the benefit of the doubt. The chief shortage lies in the poll tax and interest accounts. In the matter of allowances for errors and insolvencies he has been ably assisted by a commissioners' court, whose ignorance of law or willful disregard of same must stand without a parallel. Upon an examination of the lists of errors and insolvencies allowed by said court, some of the poll tax-payers appear both as errors and insolvents, and in some instances the same parties appear twice on the insolvent lists. Some who have paid their polls, as the stub books show, yet the collector has been allowed credit for the same in his settlement with the auditor. In some instances the collector is allowed a greater credit than the stub books calls for.

"I summoned before me the commissioners and put the question to them, if they had made a careful and rigid examination of these lists as the law requires. They replied that they had. I asked them if they had before them the collector's stub books. They answered no, but they had tried very hard to get these books, but that the collector had failed to produce them. One of the commissioners swore that he knew of poll taxes having been collected in his beat and wanted to compare the lists; but after making repeated demands upon the collector, he had never been able to get the books. I asked them how they could make a careful and rigid examination of these lists without the stub books, and they replied that they had looked over the list and did the best they could. It is proper to state in this connection that only two of the present commissioners, Messrs. Moses Robinson and Alex Glasscock, were commissioners during the time of Mr. Gentry's holding the office of collector. The other two were elected in 1896.

I summoned before me a number of taxpayers, who had been reported as errors or insolvents and allowed as a credit to the collector. In most cases the parties who answered to the summons held receipts, some of them signed by Mr. Gentry and some of them by his deputies. In the matter of interest I find that for the year of 1895, he collected interest from some parties, making no report of same, as the law regarding interest was not passed until February, 1895. I have charged him with all the amounts appearing upon the stub books for the year of 1896 and credited him with the amounts reported. My suspicion was aroused upon noticing that some of the stubs upon which were the names of some of the largest taxpayers in the county bore no dates. There being so many irregularities and suspicious circumstances of seeming crookedness, coupled with the complaint of many of the taxpayers in the county, of bad management of the taxes, especially the polls, and so many of them being allowed as a credit to the collector, either as errors or insolvents. I am forced to the conclusion to adopt the plan of charging with all those polls, where the receipts have been detached from the stubs and throwing the responsibility upon the collector of showing what has become of the receipts. On footing up the abstract books for each year I find them correct and corresponding with the abstracts on file in the auditor's office.

Total amount due from Gentry for the years 1893, 1894 and 1895, $827.37."

A modification of the Chautauqua plan is to be used and many of the most able men of this country are interested not only in the establishment of such a university but in giving Dr. Andrews that recognition that he deserves for his manly stand against the blandishments of Rockfeller and the entreaties of the board of curators that he should make principles subservient to policy. The faculty of Brown's University have sent a formal protest to each member of the board of directors who accepted Dr. Brown's resignation.

The miners are gathering in huge camps and are the recipients of many kind donations from merchants and the farmers of the surrounding country. Eugene V. It is generally believed that White law Reid will soon succeed John Sherman as Secretary of State. Mr. Reid, who is a lily-handed eastern aristocrat (?), has just returned from his errand as Special Envoy to represent this country at the Queen's Jubilee, where he is supposed to have done this country tremendous credit to tune of a fifty thousand dollar appropriation. It is believed that his appointment will not only be highly satisfactory to all Anglomanicas, but will secure to the tail of the British lion immunity from twistings, however slightly. The dinner given by this Mr. Reid while in London, to Albert Edward, Prince of rous, was acknowledged to be the most elegant affair of all the many jubilee fetes..

Hot weather won't cure weak lungs. You may feel better because out of doors more, but the trouble is still there. Don't stop taking your because the weather happens to be warm. If you have a weak throat, a slight hacking cough, or some trouble with the bronchial tubes, summer is the best time to get rid of it. If you are losing flesh there is all the more need of attention. Weakness about the chest and thinness should never go together. One greatly increases the danger of the other. Heal the throat, cure the cough, and strengthen the whole system now. Keep taking Scott's Emulsion all summer.

Jemison, Ala., Aug. 10 1897.

Editor BANNER: Crops are fine, plenty of rain and farmers feel good, and by the way, every one of them seem to be glad of the reorganization of the Alliance, and surely there is no one but what feels the necessity of the organization, but if there are any that think we don't need it, let them go to the probate judge's office and look over the record, see where the debts are climbing up too. See again at what a low ebb the social feeling has fallen to. Yes, farmer, the organization is worth every dollar it costs—by way of training your boys to be social, and it will not be out of the way for some old men it this line. Just reflect for one moment and see the difference in the social feeling of the country now, than when the Alliance was in full force. Take the experience of the past, profit by all the mistakes of the past, reorganize every community, and I assure you there will be nothing lost. I have just received a letter from Brother Pinckard and he informs me that the State Alliance is called to meet at Jemison, September 22nd. Organize your primaries and send a good delegation to Cedar Grove, August 25th, and let us organize a strong county Alliance. Yes, if we are going to do anything let us do it in good order. I hope the people of the county will give us a good turn out; it is a leisure time and we will try and take care of all. Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. 5 DROPS

49 YEARS OF SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATISM.

Read carefully this testimonial found below, also letters from those who have been cured of other diseases, and remember that "5 Drops" has and can never fail to quickly relieve and permanently cure. Sept. 9, 1896

DEAR SIR:—Your bottle of "5 Drops" received. It was for an old friend, Mr. Wm. Edwards, of Marlinstown, Wis. He has had Neuralgia in his chest, suffering a great deal of pain, so much so that it affected his heart and he could not sleep on account of a smothered feeling. He has been under the care of the most eminent physicians, but found no relief until I gave him a dose of "5 Drops." The very first night he rested well, and has ever since, and is gaining daily. I myself am 67 years old and began taking your medicine last April for Rheumatism, which I have had for 49 years, also for a weak heart. Since taking "5 Drops" the Rheumatism has all disappeared, the stiffness is gone from my joints, and my heart never misses a beat. I am to-day a well, strong woman, and I owe it to "5 Drops." I only wish I could sound my bugle of praise loud enough to be heard all over the world, and could convince every one that "5 Drops" is all you claim it to be and more.

Mrs. D. T. Carver, Winslow, Stevenson Co., Ill.

34 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

DEAR SIR:— JANUARY 2, 1897.

Over 34 years ago, I had Typhoid Fever, and barely escaped with my life. It left my system so shattered that I have had ever since, Rheumatism and Throat Trouble, which gave me a terrible Cough. I had been unable to find any relief for these diseases, until I learned of your "5 DROPS", which I commenced taking only two months ago, and my cure has been indeed WONDERFUL. Already my cough has entirely disappeared, and the Rheumatism which for a few years past has threatened to make a cripple of me, is cured, and I am free from pain. This is the most wonderful and the cheapest remedy ever discovered. I am more thankful to you than words can tell and I want everybody to know what "5 DROPS" has done for me. Although I am over 70 YEARS old, I am feeling better than I have in years.

I shall be glad to answer any questions regarding my case from anyone enclosing a two cent stamp. Gratefully yours,

MRS. SAMUEL RIBLET, Litchfield, Mich.

CATARRH AND HAY FEVER.

I find the bottle of "5 DROPS" to be very good and just what you claim. My wife has been suffering with Catarrh and Hay Fever over 15 years. She has tried everything and doctored much, but no cure until she tried "5 DROPS" which completely cured her.

Yours truly REV. L. VON WALD,
March 31, 1896. Milbank, S. D.

NEURALGIA AND SCIATICA.

For twenty long years my wife suffered untold tortures from Sciatica and Neuralgia, and I thank God for the day that your benevolent remedy fell into my hands, for it completely cured her. I am a minister of the Gospel, and when I find any who suffer, cannot help but recommend "5 DROPS", for I know it will do more than you claim for it.

REV. P. M. COOPER, Washington Center, Mo.

PARALYSIS AND RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: NOVEMBER 9, 1896.

It is with pleasure I speak of your priceless remedy and of the good it has done me. For the last eight years I have been an incurable cripple from paralysis and rheumatism. Just think for eight years a total cripple not able to earn a penny honorable to walk or step on the ground without the aid of something to lean on. Heaven bless the man who discovered this remedy, for, thanks to him and to God, I am able to walk and able to work. I have only taken two thirds of a bottle, but have not had any pain in my back since I took the first one, and after the second I walked across the floor, which I have not done in years. I have thrown away my cane and shall never need it again. To any one sending me a two-cent stamp I will send my affidavit. I have another bottle of "5 DROPS" and value it at $1.00 per drop.

Thankfully yours, EDWARD CASTLE,
1005 Wall Street. Sioux City, Iowa.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

DEAR SIRS: SEPTEMBER 24, 1896.

I wish to tell you and suffering humanity how much good "5 DROPS" has done me. On the beginning of this year I took down in bed with inflammatory Rheumatism, and I was doctored by as good physicians as this country has, but they could not cure me. On August 4, I began to take "5 DROPS." At that time every joint in my body and my limbs were stiff, so that I could not be moved. Even my tongue was getting so that I could hardly speak so any one could understand me, but to-day, only seven weeks from that time, I am absolutely cured, and thank you and God for my recovery.

Gratefully yours,
HORACE F. ANDERSON, McCracken, Kans.

If you have not sufficient confidence after reading these letters to send for a large bottle, send for a sample bottle, which contains sufficient medicine to convince you of its merit. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief, and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism Neuralgia, Sciatica, Catarrh, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Backache, Hay Fever, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and kindred diseases.

"FIVE DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottles (300 doses), $1.00. Six bottles for $5.00. Sample bottle, prepaid by mail, 25c. Not sold by druggists, but only by us and our agents. Agents appointed in new territory.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physicians said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I would have throbbings in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for sleep, and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 40 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

The smallpox question is much discussed on our streets, mainly by those having nothing else to do. All the medical men in the State are of the opinion that at the worst it is only a very mild form of the disease, while many contend it is not smallpox at all. If everyone will keep their premises thoroughly cleaned up, there seems to be not the slightest cause for alarm.

You will please take notice that on the 24th day of July, 1897, a certain paper in writing, purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Kincon Wells, deceased, was filed in my office for probate by William L. Wells, and that the 1st day of September, 1897, was appointed a day for hearing thereof, at which time you can appear and contest the same, if you see proper.

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. ROZENA LEWIS, of Genzville, Texas, says: "I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

Acetylene.

"The Explosion and Detection of Acetylene in Air" is the title of a paper recently read before the Chemical Society; and as many persons are interested in this new illuminating gas, a short account of the results arrived at by this experimenter will not be out of place. A mixture of acetylene and air becomes explosive when as little as three per cent. of the gas is present, and the tendency to explode persists up to eighty-one per cent. This range is extraordinarily wide, and exceeds that of any combustible gas known.

Exit Tompkins.

Tompkins is one of those gentlemen of kind disposition who are ever on the outlook for a chance to improve their neighbors' mind. Seeing a man, apparently a country fellow, sitting on the fence, regarding the telegraph wires carefully, Tompkins approached and said:

"Watching the wires, eh?"

"Yes."

"Waiting to see a message go by, eh?"

"Yes, sir," the man replied, smiling.

Then Tompkins spoke kindly to him and explained the mystery of the electric current, and that the messages were invisible, and finished up with:

"Now you know something about it." Then, as he was going away, he said, by the way, "What do you work at?"

"Me and my mate over yonder are telegraph workers, and we've just finished putting up a new wire."

He Made a Bale.

He was a very small boy and very ragged, but there was a look in his eyes of shrewd intelligence beyond his years. His left hand he held behind his back, but his right was extended, and between two grimy fingers he held a half-smoked stump of a cigarette. He had his eye on a well-dressed man who was walking jauntily along the street swinging his cane.

"Say, mister," said the boy, "gimme a match, will yer, please."

The man stopped good-naturedly and smiled when he saw the dirty cigarette stump. He made a pretence of searching his pockets for a match, and finally said:

"I haven't one, bub."

The boy hastily slipped the stump into his pocket, and withdrawing his left hand from behind his back displayed a large box containing an assortment of small boxes.

"If yer ain't got no matches," said he, "now's a good time for yer ter buy. I got 'em all, wax and wood, and some what won't blow out in the wind and udders what will. Yer takes yer pick."

He sold two boxes for a nickel.

Thus They Escape.

The reason why ships are not struck by lightning is attributable to the general employment of wire rope for rigging purposes, as well as to the fact that the hulls of ships are usually constructed of iron or steel. Thus the ship forms an excellent and continuous conductor, by means of which the electricity is led away into the ocean before it has time to do any serious damage.

You can always pick the winners at the races when your pocketbook is empty.

Cheap Method of Renewing Worn Out Railroad Tracks.

A new method of treating worn out steel rails, and one that has received the indorsement of a practical steel rail maker, Capt. R. W. Hunt, is described by him in Cassier's Magazine. This is the invention of Mr. E. W. McKenna, for years identified with large railway systems. His idea was to heat the worn rail in its entirety and cause as little reduction of weight of section as possible, and restore it to perfect section and make it suitable for its original main track use. Experiments with the renewed rails in actual service proved eminently satisfactory.

SECTIONS OF OLD AND REROLLED RAILS.

In the accompanying illustration are shown three sections of worn rails. The sections given show the different ways in which steel rails wear, together with flowage of metal—i. e., excessive curve wear, ordinary curve wear, and tread wear. The fact that these different forms of worn rails, varying in weight from 54.6 pounds to 55.6 pounds per yard, were all renewed to the standard C, weighing 53 pounds per yard, demonstrates that the maximum reduction due to the process need not exceed 2.5 pounds per yard and the resultant product of any lot of worn rails will be within five pounds of the original weight.

In section 2 of rails shown in the second illustration the original rail was of English make, and was in the track twenty-nine years. In the rerolling process the rails were altered to admit the use of modern joint material.

In operating the process the rails were charged into a furnace that was sufficiently long to accommodate the whole rail. After being brought up to a bright red heat the rails were drawn from the end of the furnace opposite to that used for charging, and carried by a steam-driven carriage to the back side of a three-high set of rolls, and entered between the top and middle rolls. After passing through they fell upon driven rollers, and by them entered into the final or finishing pass between the middle and bottom rolls. They were then carried to the hot saws in the usual way, and after being cut to the desired lengths, were put on the hot bed to cool, subsequently being cold-straightened and drilled for splice bolts. The loss in heating and rolling ran from .05 per cent. to .08 per cent. With one heating furnace the product was over 100 tons per turn. A plant is being built at Joliet, Ill., to renew rails by this process.

A REFOLLED ENGLISH RAIL.

"I lost my wife and two children from the effects of hereditary scrofula. My third child was dangerously affected with scrofula. He was unable to walk, his left foot being covered with running sores. Physicians having failed to relieve the others of my family, I decided to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I am pleased to say the trial was successful, and my boy was restored to health. I am confident that my child would have died had he not used Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—JAS. M. Are The Reports That Fabulous Sums Are Paid for Claims.

LATEST KLONDIKE NEWS.

Provisions are a Scarce Commodity.—It is Said Stores are Already Short.—Suffering and Death Will no Doubt Occur During the Winter.

The latest news received from Dawson City, center of the Klondike diggings, comes in a private letter, and it is not cheering to those who are making to the frozen north.

It states that the reports of fabulous sums paid or to be paid for claims are greatly exaggerated. The writer says one claim was sold for $100,000. However, this was an exception, for the prices generally range from $2,000 to $10,000. Any figure above the latter is very rare.

The news has the opposite effect to that expected. It has encouraged many, and there are not a few who are going to the diggings with considerable money and with the object of getting good property cheap

The other side of the picture—that if the claims are not bringing more, it is probably because they are not worth more—does not seem to be given full consideration.

The letter also confirms previous reports that provisions are a scarce commodity. It is said stores are already short, and that most of the newcomers flocking in are all provided with food and clothing for the winter.

This, in view of the fact that the real rush has not reached the place yet, means that the Klondike will be a synonym for suffering and death before the next ten months have passed.

However, it is pointed out that when this letter was written the companies on the Klondike had not yet gotten in their winter stores.

Of course these are much larger than anyone up in that region knows yet, and it is hoped they will be sufficient to ward off actual suffering, though it is entirely probable short rations will be the rule for a time.

TOOK THE GROOM'S PLACE.

Kansas Man Determined That the Bride Should Not Be Disappointed.

A telegram from Topeka, Kans., says: Hutchinson society has just had the greatest surprise that has ever visited the town. Thursday night was to have been the occasion of a wedding in which a large circle was interested. A. D. Yoder, a clerk in a dry goods store, had a house furnished and all preparations made for his marriage with Miss Hattie Hutchinson. Because his intended has persisted in taking a buggy ride with Jesse Cook, a handsome young grocer, on the evening before Mr. Yoder decided Thursday morning that the marriage should not take place.

Mr. Cook was one of the first to hear the report and he immediately called upon Miss Hutchinson and asked her for her hand in marriage. He was accepted and the two were married at the same hour that the Yoder-Hutchinson marriage was to have taken place.

SPRECKLES SUGAR COMPANY.

Capital of the Big Concern Five Million Dollars.

Articles of incorporation of the Spreckles Sugar company have been filed at San Francisco. The capital is $5,000,000. Of this amount the organizers of the company, J. D. Spreckles, A. B. Spreckles, A. E. Morrison, M. H. Weed, A. O. K. K. Gibson, have each subscribed $1,000. Producing beets and manufacturing sugar therefrom is to be the primary object of the company, and incidentally they will engage in agriculture, will build, equip and manage factories and refineries, deal in real estate, construct railways, build ships and do all other things necessary to the development of the sugar-making business.

Sherman Denies the Story.

Secretary Sherman arrived in New York city the other day from a short outing on the Long Island coast. He appeared greatly improved. Mr. Sherman denied the statement that Minister Sewall had been instructed to proclaim a protectorate over the Hawaiian Islands in the event the senate failed to approve the annexation treaty. Secretary Sherman said the United States would not guarantee the carrying out of the agreement between Japan and Hawaii if the decision of the arbitrators was against the latter. That was a matter between the countries concerned.

FOREST FIRES IN ARKANSAS.

Started to Run the Hunters Out of the Mountains.

Forest fires are raging in the Maumelee mountains in Perry county, Ark., and much damage has been done in destroying the range, grapes and timber. A large number of non-residents went into the mountains a few days ago on a hunting and fishing trip and it is alleged the fires were started by some miscreant for the purpose of running the strangers out.

Tobacco Moving in Carolina.

A telegram from Columbia, S. C., says: The first tobacco "brake" of the season has been held at Timmonsville, Darlington county, and proved very successful. There was not sufficient room in the two big warehouses to store all the yellow leaf that was wagoned to town. In the first day's sale 73,000 pounds of tobacco was disposed of, averaging 8½ cents.

WOULD MAKE ARMOR PLATE.

Birmingham Working to Secure a Government Plant.

Birmingham will make a big fight for the location of an armor plate factory to be erected by the government.

Congressman Oscar W. Underwood, of the ninth district, is working the movement with much vigor, and has hopes of having a committee make investigations of the section, and the opportunity the government has in placing a plant for the manufacture of the plate.

A few days ago Congressman Underwood, in order that Birmingham might put in a bid for the proposed plant, wrote the secretary of war to know what steps would be necessary for this city to present and urge its claims in the premises.

Last Friday morning he received the following reply from Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy:

"Navy Department, Washington, D. C., August 3, 1897.—Sir: Referring to your communication of the 31st ultimo, addressed to the secretary of war, but forwarded to this department, stating that you desired to lay before the board on government armor factory certain facts showing the advantages of your section of the country for the establishment of an armor plant, I have the honor to inform you that said letter has been referred to the bureau of ordnance to be layed before the board when convened, and that said board has been instructed to communicate with you in the matter. Very respectfully, T. ROOSEVELT, "Acting Secretary."

"Hon. O. W. Underwood, House of Representatives."

The plate manufacturers have refused to bid at the prices fixed for the armor plate. The maximum price fixed by congress was $300 per ton for the plate, and congress decided that in case this price was refused a special board is to investigate the cost and feasibility of establishing a government armor plate factory and report to congress in December.

WOULD-BE KLONDIKERS.

The Decision of the Insurance Companies Will Save Many Lives.

The determination of the leading life insurance companies to carry no risks on Klondike explorers has fallen with dampening effect on the co-operative companies which were forming in Indianapolis, Ind., and upon a number of men who are preparing to start for Alaska during the coming winter.

One of the companies intended sending ten representatives, each insured for $10,000, giving each man $1,000, besides money for contingent expenses, all of the men to co-operate in the search for gold, dividing equally with the company, and in case of death the insurance money to be paid to the company. On each death the company stood to win $8,500, on the basis that not more than $1,500 would be spent on each representative.

Another company simply designed carrying sufficient insurance to reimburse for actual outlay. It is not thought that any of these comanies will proceed further with the organization.

COTTON MIGHTY SCARCE.

St. Louis Cotton Firm Said to Have a Corner on the Fleecy Staple.

Cotton is said to be cornered in St. Louis, and is likely to remain so until September 1, when the official cotton year opens and the new crop begins to move. Statements of local warehouses show that the total number of bales in storage aggregates 9,682 bales. Last year at this time there were 25,235 bales.

Of the 9,682 bales now on hand 9,000 are held by one firm, the Allen West Commission Company. James F. Allen, of the latter company, when asked if there was a corner, replied:

"This is the end of the cotton season of 1896-97," said he, "and cotton is mighty scarce at all the leading points between New Orleans and St. Louis. We have over 9,000 bales in the warehouse and we are holding on to it, as nearly half of that cotton is two years old. It is well seasoned, and then the crop of two years ago was finer than last years growth."

He would not admit the existence of a corner.

DECLINE IN SILVER.

Will Have No Serious Effect on the Mines.

The effect of the decline in silver and the probable further fall to as low as 50 cents, which seems to be conceded by those in the best position to judge, is current topic of conversation among mining men at Denver, Col., and while some are greatly discouraged at the outlook for mining in Colorado, the general opinion seems to be that the decline of silver will have no very serious effect upon the mines, because there is comparatively little silver mined in the state except in connection with copper, gold and lead.

COTTON RATES.

The Georgia State Railway Commission Declines to Order a Reduction.

The Georgia State Railroad Commission has rendered its decision on the petition of W. H. Brewer, of Griffin, D. G. Purse, of Savannah, and others for a reduction of 25 per cent in all cotton rates. The commission refuses to petition and declines to reduce rates. Commissioner Allen Fort filed a dissenting opinion.

Attacked by Mad Son.

At English, Ind., George, the 15-year-old son of Jesse Morgan, was adjudged insane last week, but his mother refused to permit the boy to be taken from home. This morning, while she was trying to soothe the boy, he attacked her and chewed nearly all the flesh off one of her arms. The doctors fear blood poison and death.

TRADE REVIEW.

More Encouraging Features Than For Previous Five Years.

TRADE MOVEMENT GOOD.

Farm Products Are Realizing Good Prices And the Possible Decrease in Yield of Corn May Help to Market the Enormous Surplus Brought Over From Last Year.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Four years ago, Aug. 5, 1893, the first edition of Dun's review was issued with failures in that month amounting to over $60,000,000, while in the month just closed failures have been only $7,177,172, the smallest of any month since 1892. The statement of failures by classes for July and for forty-six months shows that those in manufacturing failures have been smaller than in any other month of the entire period; in trading smaller than in any other month except one, and in many branches of each department smaller than most months of which record exists. The pessimists who pronounced reports of gain fictitious and misrepresenting have grown weary of their dismals, and begin to see the dawn of better days. Last month was the first for four years in which the volume of business reported by clearing houses was larger than in the same month of 1892 and the telegraphic dispatches from all parts of the country given this week show a gratifying improvement. This is partly due to a large yield of wheat and good prices, though the crop is probably not as large, nor are prices thus far as high as in 1892, but of cotton the price is higher and the yield probably larger than in that year. Other farm products are realizing good prices and the possible decrease in yield of corn may help to market the enormous surplus brought over from last year.

Liquidation of a powerful combination in wheat brought a reaction of 3 cents on Thursday, but a gain of 1½ cents occurred the day following. It is the wrong year to expect much from industries and yet there has been material increase in the number of hands employed in the manufacture of iron because of the satisfactory adjustment of wage disputes with the Amalgamated association and the opening of numerous establishments which have been waiting, while the coal miners' strikes seem more likely to end in a permanent settlement beneficial to both parties. Meanwhile the demand for most of the finished products is steadily increasing, the feature being large contracts for the Russian oil field, Sumatra and Germany.

While consumption does not yet equal the capacity of the works in operation, and prices of iron and steel products average slightly lower, the situation is altogether more hopeful.

In the minor metals, the consumption of this equals the outcome and the visible is practically the same as a month ago, while the exports of copper have been heavy and prevent a decline of lake below 11c., and realizing in lead has caused only a slight decline to 3.80c.

The sales of wool, as comparative returns by months show, bear little relation to the actual consumption in manufacture, but heavy liquidation since the new tariff was enacted gives the impression that some dealers are no longer confident of a speedy advance. Nevertheless prices have risen during the past few weeks nearly 1 cent per pound. Manufacturers are buying but little, though they are rapidly increasing the output, and are able to obtain an advance of about 10 yer cent in prices of the goods, with rapidly increasing orders. The temporary curtailment of the output of cotton mills continues, but does not yet bring improved prices for products, although the demand is generally gaining.

NO. 43

VOL. V. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1897.

A VIEW OF THE FIELD.

THE PEOPLE ARE GETTING TOGETHER IN EVERY STATE.

Activity and Room for More Activity Within Party Lines and Without—McKinley's Prosperity of the Invisible Sort—Democrats and Populists.

In a recent issue of the Omaha World-Herald a correspondent remarks upon the Populist revival in central Nebraska, and especially in Buffalo county, where the agitation, he says, is similar to the conditions that prevailed in the summer of 1890.

Previously Buffalo county was as solidly Republican as one can imagine. During that memorable campaign the Republicans of the county adopted the idea that the alliance had no any figure in the campaign. In Kearney the Republican leaders laughed cheerfully at their bright prospects. It is asserted that the alliance movement consisted of one part voters and ninety-nine parts wind. One day it was announced that in the latter part of August the alliance forces would hold a grand rally on the banks of the lake in the northwest part of the city and that the rally would be preceded by a parade. The Republican leaders smiled and said that the parade would consist of a few battered wagons and a dozen or two calamity shrieks and disgruntled office seekers. The day before the rally reports came to the city that there were a number of people camping out in the country north. Wild guesses were made as to the cause of this, but none of them were right. The next day showed that these camps had been pitched by farmers, who had come 30, 50 and even 100 miles to participate in that alliance parade. The streets of Kearney were filled with Republicans on the day of the rally. About 10 o'clock in the morning the head of the parade came down Central avenue. The parade went south to the court house, doubled back, and wound its way to the lake. But over the hill to the north still came wagons and carts and carriages and buggies. Reapers and mowers and cultivators were in that parade. The farmers kept coming until it seemed as if every farm in Northwestern Nebraska was represented. As it kept winding its way length through the city the faces of the Republican leaders grew longer and longer.

The New York World forgets itself long enough to print the following editorial paragraph:

"Nearly all of the gold discoveries in the Klondyke region have been made on Canadian territory, but there is every reason to believe that discoveries equally rich will be made on the American side of the line. In either case the land is public land and the gold found on it belongs naturally to the state—which is the owner of the land. But both in Canada and in the United States this valuable asset of the treasury, this common property of the whole people, is allowed to be appropriated by the first adventurer who happens to be able to stake a claim. We do not even get a decent royalty out of it. As a result of our old mining laws Klondyke will produce a few hundred millionaires enriched at the public expense, while the representatives of the remaining forty odd millions of people in this country are struggling and scheming to devise new methods of taxation to meet the necessary expenses of the government."

As an evidence that the cause of free silver is not dying out by the passage of the Dingley bill tas was hoped and expected by the monopolistic (blog press) attention is called to the Grand Rapids Workman to the bi-metallic picnics being held all through Michigan, to be attended by the brainiest and best silver men of the country. A series of these picnics has already been arranged for in Ingham, Eaton, Jackson, Calhoun, Kalamazoo, Van Buren and other counties are coming off. Our own county of Kent will give at least six so distributed as to give an opportunity to every citizen within its borders to hear the doctrine of bimetallism expounded by apostles of silver having a national reputation as leaders and great orators as well. One of these picnics at Sparta last week was addressed by ex-Gov. St. John of Kansas, and one on the South End fair grounds the week was addressed by the Hon. Chas. A. Towne. An interview with T. F. Kinney and L. K. Salisbury, president and secretary of the Kent county Bimetallic Picnic association, shows that these men come at the request of and at the expense of the directors of local organizations. The method of advertising in this county is by small hand bills to be placed in every house. Each contains a paragraph explaining that this course is made necessary from the fact that the bulletin boards, posts and fences are all occupied with posters, advertising mortgage, assignee and closing out sales.

As usual, the bright newspaper writers who have been trying to provoke a laugh at Jerry Simpson because he got a tooth filled with gold instead of white metal, find that the laugh is on themselves. Mr. Simpson's colleague, Mr. Lewis of Washington, has taken the wind of these funmakers' sails. "It is true," he says, "that Mr. Simpson has had but one of his incisors tipped with gold, but far from being inconsistent, he has been a very model of consistency. I am reliably informed that this is the only gold filled tooth he has, while he has sixteen other teeth each one of which has been filled with silver."

One paper away down east, the Johnston, Rhode Island, Beacon, refuses to join the trained chorus set up by the plutocratic press, that prosperity has already arrived, and says:

"The wave of McKinley prosperity arrived with such force that it caused a reaction. The business world was not prepared for it, the shock was too great, and therefore factories and mills are shutting down just to make sure we are not dreaming."

The beneficence of the absolute reign of gold is illustrated by the latest report of the Pennsylvania bureau of labor statistics, which shows that not only average wages of laborers actually employed have fallen 13 per cent since 1892, but the average number of men who are getting any wages at all has fallen 24 per cent.

McKinley's Prosperity.

The babies cry in the darkness
And the wantons ride in the light,
And the workless workman walks all day,
And goes to his home at night,
To find the landlord at the door
With the rent bill in his hand;
And to hear the wife and children pray,
"God, give us where to stand."

Oh, the spindles rust in the factory
And the foodstuffs rot on the farm,
And the hungry laborer cannot lift
His starveling babe on his arm.
His wife goes out to the washtub
And his daughter goes to the bad,
And he goes down to the cheap saloon—
There's drink, at least, to be had.

The merchant goes to the assignee
And the banker goes to the Lake;
And all of the gold and the land it buys
Goes under the croupier's rake.
For the gold-bugs go to the Temple,
And the workman goes to the Cross,
And the profit goes to the financiers,
And the game—to the People's loss.

Oh, the cottage goes at the "sheriff's sale,"
And the farm to the money king,
And the virgin prairie the good God gave,
It goes to the land-grab ring.
And the boy goes out to Cuba,
That once would have gone "out West,"
For a few of us own the whole wide world,
And there's no room left for the rest.
—Virginia M. Butterfield, in San Francisco Star.

"Unconstitutional."

When the law exempting from taxation $500 of improvements and $500 of personal property was pending in legislature of the state of Washington last winter, all the leading lawyers said it was certainly constitutional. About two-thirds of the land values of Washington are owned by speculators, mostly non-residents, whose taxes would be increased by such exemption—the pressure of great wealth—was brought to bear on the supreme court of the state, and it decided the exemption unconstitutional. It also decided the old law, in force for years, by which $300 to each head of a family was exempt, to be unconstitutional. The court held that even the clothing on the back was not exempt, and that assessors had the right to examine and see if the undershirts, drawers, etc., worn by men and women were of cotton, wool or silk, and assess them accordingly—at least this is the interpretation made by the attorney-general to the assessors.

This decision has at least the merit of consistency, though there's nothing in the text in the constitution of Washington to justify it. The people of the state were practically unanimous for the new law and are very hot in the collar over the decision. Fortunately the same legislature submitted a constitutional amendment to be voted on in 1898 for local option in taxation, and it is sure to carry.—Mound City (Kan.) Standard.

Then and Now.

When commissioners were sent from England to enforce the stamp act in the colonies, those commissioners were glad to escape being ridden on rails in a coat of tar and feathers. When a cargo of tea was taken into Boston harbor in pursuance of the navigation act our fathers made a tea-pot of the harbor. When a squad of British soldiers fired on the citizens of Boston, these same patroits armed themselves, and soon showed those soldiers how much virtue there was in American lead. But now we can be impoverished and enslaved by bonds; our transportation and commerce can be taken away from us, and our citizens shot down in the streets by order of the government soldiers, and these things are endured by a majority of the citizens. The answer to this statement of alarming and disgraceful facts is: "What can we do? We've got to submit." Glorious citizens we!—E. J. Shellhous, in Tulare Citizen.

The Patriotism of To-day.

President McKinley has sent a message to congress urging an appropriation of $50,000 for the starving Americans in Cuba. That is patriotism. A proposition to appropriate money for the starving Americanns in America would be called demagogy. "Patriotism" has evidently come to mean "love of some other country."—Coast Seaman's Journal.

Preventable misfortunes consist, chiefly, of manifold things, little to do, but immense things to have done.

A SIMPLE QUESTION.

A CHILD COULD UNDERSTAND FINANCE.

When the Money Standard Appreciates While the Value of Products Depreciates the Masses Suffer for the Benefit of the Few.

The relation of the volume of money to the welfare of the people is so plainly shown in history that "he who runs may read," says Thomas C. Hodgson, in Farm, Stock and Home. Our greatest money volume, in proportion to business done, was at the close of the war. At that time prices ran up, values of real estate—especially farms—increased phenomenally. The 7-30's were retired; between one and two hundred million of greenbacks were destroyed. Then followed the panic of 1873 and a depression of several years, during which the greenback party arose and stayed the hand of slaughter—even forcing the government to issue greenbacks in place of a part of those destroyed. Then followed the Bland bill and resumption of specie payment, which threw a large majority of gold and silver into circulation, followed by an era of prosperity. The business of the country expanded so rapidly as to create a scarcity of money, which resulted in another depression and the expansion of the currency through the Sherman law. Then followed a brief revival of prices which caused business to vastly out-run the trifling increase of currency, and the result was the panic of 1893. There was another cause for this panic, and perhaps a greater one. During the decade of the '80s the great shortage of money was supplemented by a resort to credit. The real estate debts of our state increased 300 per cent in those ten years. By the early '90s our credit was exhausted, "confidence" was crippled. The great producing classes found themselves with a big business on their hands with small capital and no credit, hence the panic. Congress assembled in extra session, and after a gigantic battle nullified the Sherman act. These "statesmen" believed, like some physicians, that "like cures like." We were suffering from want of blood. The cure proposed was more bleeding. Stagnation does not describe the result; stagnation (if I may coin the word) expresses it better. It would be a boon if the experience of these four years could be blotted from our history.

Congress called an extra session to deal with the tottering patient. What is the proposed cure? Tariff! More taxes. More staggernation blood! Phlebotomy is their only science. Fleams and the leech their only instruments What else could be expected? They are the children of their alma mater, business!

I do not agree with some. The farmer is not the greatest sufferer now. He was eaten up years ago; they are not making fortunes out of him now. They are devouring one another. Your city papers are full of advertisements in display type—Half Price. The stronger eating up the weaker. Oh, the cannibalism of business! And the biggest cannibal is actually believed by the American people to be the right man to manage the public business, to preside over the destinies of the people to be eaten! Does it take a spoonful of brains to see where all this must end? It is not lack of intelligence that permits this sort of thing to prevail. It is lack of moral sense—spirit. What we need is more manhood. More of that spirit which insists on human rights regardless of consequences. When one reflects how simple the essential principles of all the sciences are especially the science of government it is impossible to excuse the people on the ground of ignorance. Take the tariff. Shrewd minds can spin out theories so fine, so involved, so intricate as to baffle the intellect of an angel. But the whole system is swept away like a cobweb by the simple statement of Henry Watterson: "If taxing the whole people for the benefit of a part of the people be not wrong nothing is wrong." Take the money question and just paraphrase Mr. Watterson and you have it all before you: "If a constantly appreciating money standard be not wrong, nothing is wrong."

The principles of the gospel were announced by its founder to be so simple that even "babes and sucklings" apprehended it readily. Blinded by arrogance and selfishness the "wise and prudent" entirely overshot the mark. The longer such men study a question the further they go astray. "If the blind lead the blind both shall fall into the ditch." Stay by the first principles. Use your own intelligence and your own conscience. If you are short of money, and everybody around you is short of money, and everything is cheap except money, you can reach the conclusion that money is scarce, without any great mental effort, and then use your influence and vote to make it more plentiful, just as you would if any other necessary article was scarce. You certainly would encourage the production of it. Uncle Sam produces all the money. Why don't you encourage him to produce more of it? Is it because you lack intelligence, or because you lack manhood? Decide for yourself.

Cold Facts.

Do we not owe it as a duty to our children to leave to them as good a government as our fathers left us? If, as we are about to pass off life's stage, we find conditions much worse than when we came upon it, who can our children blame but us? We may be able to hog it through some way, but how about those who follow us—our children, for instance?

In every race the loser finds but a few friends.

PEFFER ON TAXATION.

A Town Lot Should Pay as Much as a Farm.

Two men, Messrs. Herman and Mobius, are canvassing Kansas in the cause of the "single tax." The Advocate welcomes an invasion of this kind under direction of persons authorized and delegated to represent the views and present the arguments of those that have given time and study enough to the subject in hand to systematize its details and make of them a symmetrical whole.

Taxation, both local and national, is increasing steadily from decade to decade. This fact will, sooner or later, force itself on the attention of the people. It is well known also that our present system, if anything so incongruous may be called a system, is not only unjust in its best operation, but that this injustice is growing fast and to the disadvantage of farmers and of men generally who toil with their hands. The personal property tax lists in the several states show remarkable shrinkage in late years. Bonds, stocks and other evidences of debts escape taxation in large degree; and so it is with all kinds of movable property that is easy to conceal. Paintings, statuary, curtains, ornaments and other articles used only for the purpose of display and ornamentation—these rarely get into the tax rolls at all.

But as to land, that is always in sight. It cannot be moved or hidden from view. Nor is it combustible, and it is the source of all sustenance. Besides, it was here when we came, it is ours of right. It belongs to the people. Not only does everybody use land, but nobody can get on without using some. And it is the only thing of which all these things can be said, for the earth includes water and air.

Then why not adopt a system of taxation based on land alone—a single tax? That would simplify things greatly. And in adjusting details, we should soon find that justice would require that we levy our tax not on the land itself nor on its estimated value, but on the value of the land's rental—that is to say, on what a renter would pay for the use of the land. That would be fair to all users of land. If the rental value of a town lot is equal to that of a farm, it ought to pay as much tax. This, as the Advocate understands it, is the idea of the single taxer, and we think that as the people study the question it will grow on them.—Ex-Senator Peffer in Topeka Advocate.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE.

It Perpetually Rivets New Chains Upon Society.

The bane of the country is special privilege. Every one denounces, yet it clings to us, and perpetually rivets new chains upon society. Bring the subject home a moment, says the San Francisco Social Economist. John Smith gets from the city a franchise giving him sole right to furnish the citizens of San Francisco with groceries. No other person shall have the right to furnish or deliver groceries to your family. Of course, there would be immediate outcry against such a measure if it were to be newly inaugurated. But why? Would not such a privilege for John Smith be exactly the same in principle as that given to the Spring Valley Water Company? Suppose John Jones were to get a franchise allowing him the sole right to transport coal on our streets, and the sole right to sell coal in the city, and that at such a price as he may deem best. There would be rebellion against such special privilege. But why? The monopoly of coal gives just such a privilege. Our astute business men argue for the principle of competition in business. But while they argue for others, for themselves they gain, if possible, a franchise, or special privilege, or monopoly that destroys competition. Special privilege is legalized aristocracy in business.

An Incumbrance.

WDth the combined votes of the Reed Republicans and the Bailey Democrats, legislation in that branch of congress has been effectually throttled, and the country at the expense of something near $1,000,000 a week enjoys the luxury of a house of representatives that does not represent. * * * At one time it was supposed that the house of representatives was nearer to the people than any other branch of the government, but that myth has been thoroughly exploded, for a more tyrannical, overbearing, and thoroughly worthless incumbrance never was fastened upon any government, than is the present house of representatives governed by Reed and Bailey.—Pittsburg Kansan.

Patience and Courage Needed.

My friends, unless our children have more patience and courage than saved this country from slavery, republican institutions will go down before moneyed corporations. Rich men die, but banks and corporations are immortal. They are never afflicted with disease. In the long run they are bound to win with legislation.—Wendell Phillips.

Ancient Wisdom.

One thing ought to be aimed at by all men—that the interest of each, individually and collectively, should be the same; for, if each should grasp at his individual interest, all human society would be dissolved.—Cicero.

The law is a web where the weak are caught and the strong break through.—Bacon.

LAND GRANTS FORFEITED.

The United States Consul to Columbia Reports to the State Department That the Case of Charles Radford, Accused of Murder, Ended in a Verdict of Guilty.

Restored to the Public Domain.

Acting Secretary Ryan, of the interior department, has re-affirmed a former action of the department in the matter of forfeited lands of the Mobile and Girard land grants in Alabama, involving about 200,000 acres. The lands of the incompleted road were forfeited under the general forfeiture railroad lands, but the law contained a provision protecting bona fide purchasers of lands which had been patented to the company. Through several alleged sales and purchases the Perdido Land company claimed to have purchased the right in the forfeited lands. The decision denies that right and holds the forfeited lands as restored to the public domain.

Radford's Death Sentence.

The United States consul at Medillin, Colombia, reports to the state department that the long pending trial of Charles Radford, a native of Alabama, accused of murder, terminated on July 30 last, in a verdict of murder. The judge pronounced the sentence of death on the 6th instant, and an appeal was at once taken to the highest local tribunal, which was granted. The sentence is regarded as iniquitous and hopes are entertained that it will be reversed. If not, further appeal can be made to the supreme court at Bogota. After the sentence Radford was placed in heavy irons and otherwise treated in a most cruel manner. The United States consul protested to the governor against such needless cruelty, but he said he was powerless to interfere with the alcade's order. The consul then telegraphed to the American minister in Bogota, hoping to obtain better treatment for the condemned man through the Colombian government. The judge who tried the case said that he did not expect the verdict, which was received with surprise and indignation by the people present at the trial. The jury was composed of three very young men, all deficient in intelligence. Jurors cannot be challenged in Colombia. Five names are drawn by lot. One is struck out by the prosecuting attorney and one by the counsel for the defense, and the three remaining constitute the jury.

Minister to Russia.

J. A. Porter, secretary to President McKinley, has sent the following dispatch from Hotel Champlain to the Associated Press:

Ethan Allen Hitchcock, of St. Louis, has been offered and accepted the ministry to Russia and will be appointed immediately.

Ethan Allen Hitchcock is a great grandson of Col. Ethan Allen, who captured Fort Ticonderagua "in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental congress." Mr. Hitchcock's father, Henry Hitchcock, was born in Burlington, Vt., from which place he went to Alabama to practice law, in which he was eminently successful, being at the time of his death in 1839 the chief justice of the supreme court of that state. Mr. Ethan Allen Hitchcock was born in Mobile in 1835, where he remained until 1840, when he removed to Tennessee. After taking an academic course in New Haven, Conn., he came to St. Louis in 1851, and engaged in business up to 1860, when, at the urgent request of relatives in China, he left for that country to accept employment in the old established firm of Oliphant & Co. Mr. Hitchcock remained in China for twelve years. Returning to St. Louis in 1874, Mr. Hitchcock has since been actively engaged in business as president of several large manufacturing and railway corporations, which position he has resigned in order to accept the appointment abroad.

Third Assistant-Postmaster-General Merritt has called attention to a growing practice of certain business concerns which in extending their trade send registered parcels containing their goods to the smaller postoffices addressed to fictitious or otherwise unknown persons. The concern then makes some plausible excuse to the postmaster and asks him to examine and dispose of at a reduced price rather than return the parcels. The opening of a package other than by an addressee or on his written order is forbidden by the postal regulations, as has been frequently pointed out by the department, and postmasters are again warned to return them to the sending postoffice.

American Tobacco.

The state department is informed that the sections of finance, war and navy, representing the council of state of the French West Indies, have passed a law, which went into effect May 11 last, admitting manufactured tobacco from Algiers free of duty into Martinique, Guadaloupe, Cayenne and Reunion. This has had and will continue to have a tendency to curtail to a considerable extent the importation of tobacco manufactured in the United States.

British Carry Our Merchandise.

According to the records of the treasury department British vessels are carrying over 55 per cent. of the merchandise of the United States, both of imports and of exports. Examinations of figures for the first six months this year show the total imports in vessels has been of the value of $432,680,987, and of domestic exports in vessels $452,800,405. The percentage of imports carried in American vessels was 15.3, and in foreign vessels 84 65 of imports in vessels. The British have carried 55.9 per cent., the Germans 11.40, French 5.46; Dutch 3.3 and all other foreign 8.51. Of domestic exports only 8.19 are carried in American bottoms, 91.91 per cent. being carried in vessels of other nations. British vessels carry 68.23 per cent. of the value of exports by vessels; German, 8 92; French, 2.19; Norwegian, 2.03, and all other foreign, 9.54. The value of imports carried in American vessels for the six months ending June 30, was $66,428,149, and of carried in foreign vessels, $366,261,832, the value of exports for the same period carried in American vessels was $37,113,168, and of that carried in foreign vessels $415,687,327. The value of sugar, which has been largely brought from the West Indies in American vessels, carried the percentage of imports in American vessels higher than that of value over domestic exports. During the first half of the present year, the value of imports carried in cars and other land vehicles was $20,068,149 and of exports $27,297,619.

Anarchists Are Not Wanted.

Commissioner Powderly, of the immigration bureau, has sent the following letter of instructions to immigration officers at New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Quebec, Canada, relating to the anticipated arrival in this country of Spanish anarchists: "Information has reached this bureau to the effect that one Planas, a leader of the Spanish anarchists, hat been expelled from France, being conducted to Havre, from which port it is expected he will sail for the United States. I am also advised that Marmal, another Spanish anarchist, is believed to have gone to England en route for this country. A careful inspection should be made of arriving passengers and should any of that class be detected a careful examination can be had as to their right of admission into the United States under the existing laws." It is stated at the bureau of immigration that there is no law under which persons can be excluded on the ground that they are anarchists, nor is anarchy anywhere declared to be a crime, so that if Planas and Marmal are refused admittance to this country the refusal must be based upon the fact that they can come within the general immigration law as to paupers, criminals, etc., provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to persons convicted of or charged with political offenses, notwithstanding that such offense may be adjudged a felony, or anything else, involving moral turpitude under the laws of the country from which he came or the court convicting

Imports and Exports.

The monthly comparative statement of the imports and exports of the United States for July, issued by the bureau of statistics, shows that the exports of domestic merchandise during the month amounted to $70,203,075, a gain as compared with July, 1896, of nearly $5,000,000. For the seven months the increase as compared with the same period last year was over $49,700,000. The imports of merchandise during July aggregated $53,688,439, a gain of about $1,500,000. Over 50 per cent was free of duty. During the seven months the increase on dutiable merchandise was $19,100,375 and $65,629,918 was duty free. The gold exports for July amounted to $5,460,119 and the imports $592,147. For the seven months there was a decrease in gold exportations of $24,831,869 and a decrease of $22,263,536 in the gold importations. The silver exports for July amounted to $4,704,974 and the imports to $1,012,391. For the seven months there was a decrease of $3,706,015 in the exports and a decrease of $1,350,636 in the imports.

FELON WANTS A DIVORCE.

Wife Charged With Snoring and Excessive Use of Buttermilk.

A novel application for divorce was filed at Denison, Tex., last week. E. E. Baker states that his wife is addicted to inordinate drinking of buttermilk; that it makes him sick, and has preyed upon his mind to such an extent that he is on the verge of insanity, and it is further alleged that she snores so loud that it is impossible to live in the same house with her. It is alleged that Mrs Baker consumes a gallon of buttermilk at the three meals and on retiring at night.

Large Wheat Crop.

The wheat crop of Bradley county, Tenn., is estimated to be from 200,000 to 300,000 bushels. It is not being sold rapidly, the farmers being slow to accept the prevailing prices.

The navy department has formally accepted the torpedo boat Porter, which is now at Newport, and directed the payment of the reserve in the sum of $8,000 out of the total cost of $144,000.

ENCOURAGING.

Heavy Demand for Merchandise and Other Products.

INTERIOR MERCHANTS BUY.

They Have Thronged the Big Cities the Past Week, the Like of Which Has Not Been Seen for Several Years—Crop Conditions Improved.

Bradstreet's weekly report of trade for the past week says:

Evidences of widespread revival in demand for merchandise and other products have become so numerous as to compel general recognition. The press has therefore ceased discussing whether trade has really improved or not and has begun measuring the volume of business as compared with previous seasons. A buoyancy of feeling has appeared among buyers and sellers at New York, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, where interior merchants have thronged this week, the like of which has not been seen for several years. Interior merchants are buying dry goods, clothing, shoes and fancy articles more freely than at any time since 1892. Crop conditions have improved at the south and southwest, and merchants there are encouraged. Southern lumber mills are not able to keep up with orders, and innumerable small consumers of iron and steel throughout the central western States are buying raw material as they have not for years. A nominal advance of 75 cents a ton for steel billets is more than a feature, as it means the confidence of makers in an early revival of the demand for iron and steel, which has long been delayed. Wheat scored an advance of 7 cents on continued heavy exports, and the tendency is to decrease estimates of the size of the domestic crop.

Wood is heavy, with a speculative demand, and cotton and yarns have advanced again.

Prices for southern lumber are up, as are wheat, wheat flour, Indian corn, and last, but not least, print cloths, the market for which has been so long depressed, prices for sugar, coffee, lard and petroleum remain unchanged, while pork is almost the only important product quoted lower than last week.

Exports of the wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week aggregate 4,462,519 bushels, an increase over last week of more than 1,100,000 bushels, and compared with shipments in the week a year ago of 2,635,000 bushels 1,824,000 bushels in 1895; of 2,979,000 bushels in 1894 and of 6,129,000 bushels in 1893.

The world wide character of the demand for our wheat and flour is illustrated by the export from both coasts of this country to such far-off and infrequent customers as Rio de Janeiro in Brazil and Surabay in the Island of Java not to mention heavily increased shipments to Europe, China and the east.

Total exports of Indian corn this week aggregate 3,275,652 bushels against 3,223,000 bushels last week, 2,367,000 bushels in the week a year ago, 944,000 bushels in 1895, 166,000 bushels in 1894 and 1,734,000 bushels in 1894 and 1,734,000 bushels in 1893.

There are 214 business failures reported throughout the United States this week compared with 214 last week, 258 in the second week of August, 1896, 195 in the like period in 1895,, 234 in 1894, and 209 in the like week of 1893.

There are 231 failures reported from the Dominion of Canada this week against 51 last week, 35 in the week a year ago, and 59 two years ago.

LACK THE FUNDS.

Nashville Gold Seekers Will Wait at Least Until Spring.

WOMEN DRAWN AS JURORS.

Three Prominent Fort Scott, Kan., Women Must Serve.

Mrs. E. Ross, Mrs. A. M. Douglass, and Mrs. A. Kaufmans, wives of prominent men of Fort Scott, Kan., were drawn on the list of jurors of the September term of the district court.

It happened that their names were on the tax rolls, and Mayor Hessor included them in the list of eligible jurors filed with the county clerk. The law requires that a juror must be a qualified elector, and as they are electors in municipal government it is said they can be required to serve.

Alabama State Alliance.

The Twelfth Annual Session of the Farmer's Alliance of Alabama is hereby called to meet at Jemison, Chilton county, Ala., on Wednesday and Thursday, September 22 and 23, 1897.

J. O. PINCKARD, President.

Papers friendly to the Alliance please copy.

Clanton Primary Alliance, No. 1.

All members of Clanton Primary Alliance are earnestly requested to meet at THE BANNER office on Saturday, Aug. 21, 1897, at 2 p.m. Business of great interest and importance to be attended to.

FRANK CRICHTON, Sec.

DON'T forget the Chilton Alliance meets at Cedar Grove next Wednesday, 25th inst. Major Harris and other good speakers will be on hand.

THE proposition to change the name of the People's Party does not meet with any encouragement in this section. The People's Party is good enough in name and principle; under that name it has already accomplished much good and under that name it will proceed on its mission. No change of any sort is needed.

THE amount of enthusiasm displayed by our farmers throughout the State at the revival of the Alliance is extremely gratifying and augurs well for its again becoming a power for good. Chilton county is being commended for the gallant step she has taken, and the meeting of the State Alliance at Jemison on September 22 and 23 will undoubtedly be the best attended and most interesting of recent years.

TAX COLLECTOR T. J. Hubbard has made a final settlement with the State Treasurer. As most of the citizens of Chilton county know Mr. Hubbard and his family were sick with measles at the time he should have applied to the Probate Judge for a decree of sale against delinquent taxpayers, and this necessitated keeping his account with the State open until after the tax sale. Although practically a settlement was made in June with the exception of the delinquents.

THE Selma Times announces that Rev. A. J. Dickerson, of Selma, an intense free silver man, will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in opposition to Governor Johnston. It would appear from this that the silver Democrats are anything but satisfied with Mr. Johnston, and he will have a hard road to travel to secure a second term. Other indications are Mr. Johnston is already at work paving the way in various devious routes, but "the best laid plans of mice and men gang oft aglev" and it is quite possible they may do so in this case.

SOME of our good friends do not appear to know the meaning of "Expert Accountant." An expert accountant is a person specially trained and thoroughly conversant with the various systems of bookkeeping. A good bookkeeper in any business is not necessarily an expert accountant. A man may be an excellent bookkeeper in any business to which he is accustomed and a poor one in another business where the books are kept on a different system. A man may be a first-class salesman or drummer, and anything but an expert accountant. Few things are easier than for a man to muddle himself with accounts kept by another person—unless he is REALLY an "expert" accountant.

Planters CUBAN RELIEF cures Colic, Neuralgia and Toothache in five minutes. Sour Stomach and Summer Complaints. Price, 25 Cents.

A One-Sided Arrangement.

Governor Johnston and the silver plated Democrats are very fond of the Populist voters when it comes to election times, but at other times they have no rights which the silver veneered Democrats will respect. It may be that the Populists and the Johnston Democrats in Alabama will fuse in the next State election, but not unless, the Populist after being smitten on one cheek are so delighted that they will turn the other for like treatment. There is not much human nature in this. Hence we do not think that the Populists and the Democrats will act together in the next election. They have seen that the policy of "letting down the bars" in the primaries is only a one sided arrangement working all for the Democrats and none for the Populists. There ought to be something like mutuality in benefits as well as in votes. Democracy wants to receive all and give none in return. The next State campaign will be a hot one; Democracy will be forced to the defensive all along the line as it has never been before in this State. It will have to do some tall explaining.—Birmingham Times.

The Harvest and Its Reward.

There are some welcome signs that business conditions throughout the country are on the mend. It cannot be said that there is any prospect of a great return tide of prosperity, but the coming year promises to be better than its immediate predecessors. The American farmer is getting higher prices, and existing crop conditions are especially favorable to our own producers. This year's wheat crop will have been larger than the average in the United States, while much smaller than the average of several preceeding years in the countries that compete with us in supplying the European market. Thus it is certain that our good crop will bring relatively good prices; and this means better days for the Western farmers, whose reasonable prosperity is fundamental to the business welfare of the country at large. India, with her great famine still raging, will have no wheat to send to Europe this year. It is said that the Australian crop will barely suffice for home consumption. The Argentine exports have almost reached the vanishing point, while that of Southern Russia and the Danubian States is also, this year, a small factor. The prospect, therefore, is for a very large European demand upon the crop of the United States, which is expected to be at least 30,000,000 bushels larger than that of last year, and the average price is likely to continue at least twenty cents a bushel higher than a year or more ago. The Reform Editor.

The Reform editor is a political waif on the tempestuous sea of strife. It would have been money in his pocket if he had never been born. He has a devil part of the time, and a devil of the time all the time. The smallest thing about him is his pocket book and the largest his delinquent list. He says more kind things of other people and gets more "cussings" than any other living man. He has been pommelled so much that his hide is as tough as an alligator's. He can't kick as high nor as fast as a mule, but he can kick a blamed sight harder and keep it up until the mule is ashamed of itself. He never quits kicking until he dies and its doubtful if he does then. When he first takes the job of reforming the world he thinks it can be finished in six months or a year. Then he puts it off another year and borrows some money. Then he enlists for three years or during the war and borrows some more money. At this stage of the game he takes a new grip on the situation and starts in to finish up the job in the next campaign. But a cog slips and the dadgummed thing slides merrily down the broad road to destruction. The editor tears his hair and says some cuss words. The devil grins and throws the shooting stick at the office cat. Every opposition paper trots out its rooster, and the editor waits for the world to come to an end or the moon to turn to blood. But it don't come. Neither do his delinquent subscribers. At this point in the proceedings it is time to borrow some more money. He would quit the business but he can't. When a man undertakes to reform the world he is never out of a job. He always sees something that needs his attention. But the reform editor is made of the right kind of metal. He is always out of money but seldom out of heart.

Political Pointers.

People's Press Bureau, St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18, 1897.

Appropos of the Brown University fiasco, it may be mentioned that twenty-four out of the thirty-seven teachers have signed a protest against Dr. Andrews' resignation, which will be presented to the board of curators at their meeting in September. So much censure of the Board is embodied in the document that to sign it is regarded as a guarantee for dismissal, and superstitious people note that such wholesale changes wolud leave but thirteen in the Faculty. In the meantime Kansas newspapers are urging that President Andrews be offered a chair in the University of that State.

The Pacific railroad swindle, not having been carried out during the session of congress, is now being pushed through the various departments at Washington. Thurston, of Nebraska, and Ex-Governor Flower, of New York, are the leaders in this stupendous scheme of robbery.

The states on which public attention is most centered at present, on account of elections to be held this year, are Ohio, Iowa, Virginia and Maryland. New Yory City will elect a Mayor, and a Clerk of the Court of Appeals is to be elected in Kentucky. In every instance, the Republicans and gold Democrats have endeavored to make the issue purely local, but have failed utterly. "Bryanism," they lament is everywhere, and a man's atitude far or against silver, decides his standing.

Editor Stead, of London, ventures the prediction that Governor Pingree, of Michigan, will be the next president of the United States.

Gen. Paul VanDervoort, leader of the "middle of the road" Populists, urges that the name of the party be changed to "American," and that it be merged into the A. P. A., and "other patriotic organizations." The article setting forth this surprising plan, is published in Tom Watson's paper with favorable comment.

It is given out that President McKinley will make "a few modest speeches, from the rear platform of a private car, during the Ohio campaign." Reed and Foraker and all the big guns are to be called out to help Hanna.

Cuban liberty has been rendered more probable by the assasination of Canovas del Castillo, who, as Prime Minister and the most powerful man in Spain, has held that country to the task of conquering Cuba at any cost. The most feasible solution of the Cuban difficulty that has been proposed is its annexation to Mexico. The people, language and religion, all render such a union much better than the introduction of such elements of discord into the United States. The war has cost Spa in $200,000,000 and many men. The socialists of that country oppose the war tax, the raising of troops, and are trying to bring about a collapse of the Monarchy and the establishment of a Republic.

T. V. Powderly having received from President McKinley a "recess" nomination, has been commissioned and entered upon his duties, as Emigration Agent. Time alone can tell whether organized Labor will resent their insult.

All over the west and south, political picnics and barbacues are the order of the day. The silver orators offer their service free and the enthusiastic crowds appear more like those of a presidential, rather than an "off" year. The Dingley Bill has offered inexhaustable material for derision and invective.

Judge Jackson's recent injunction forbidding Debs and others to speak in West Virginia and gagging all mine agitators, is disproved almost universally by the press and denounced bitterly by all the friends of labor.

Those who wish it was so, are whispering it around that Jerry Simpson will not be returned to congress next year, but those who have watched his career in Washington and want a brave and brainy man where he is needed, believe that he will be easily re-elected.

Large numbers of silver mines are being closed in the west. At Park City Utah, 680 men have been thrown out of imployment for an indefinite period.

so common in summer-time, accompanied by loss of energy, lack of thought-power, means a deficient supply of nourishment. The vital force is lost. It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. GET READY FOR SCHOOL.

Wednesday, September 8, is the day. You are not ready. Your children haven't got their books and stationery. School day will roll around and you will still be without them, and then your children must lose two or three weeks. This is inexcusable on your part. Send your children to me; get a list of your books and have the order filled at once. It is only one trouble and one expense—what is the use of putting it off?

I will meet your children at the School building, 8 a.m., Monday, Aug. 23, and give them a list of books. Again, if you intend sending to school next session, have your children there the first day. The loss of a week or two at the beginning is against your child the whole session.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $100 per bottle

The Montgomery Weekly Crop Bulletin says: Cotton is generally very promising and while rust and shedding are reported in central and southern counties it is not of serious importance as yet, while over the northern half of the State the crop promises a very good yield; cotton is fruiting heavily, but is opening slowly and picking is only being done in spots and is not well started as yet. Fodder saving is progressing and a large crop of this forage will be saved; early corn proves about half an average crop though late corn is filling out rapidly and promises to mature a good yield. Sorghum and cane will be a fairly good yield and millet is still being saved in good condition, while a good hay crop will be made. Irish potatoes are poor in some northern counties, 2d crop irish potatoes about planted in Gulf counties and sweet potatoes will be a fairly good crop as will peanuts; a large crop of turnips sown and making good stands; fall fruit better than was anticipated and pastures are very good.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE BANNER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhœa.

In 1862 when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhœa. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent relief. Not long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa. Sold by J. S. RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA, HEADACHE and their marvelous cure.

Science of the 19th Century looks on with amazement at the most remarkable record of cures ever known in the World's history.

5 DROPS

Hundreds of thousands of Sufferers cured without a single failure by "FIVE DROPS."

Though so universally used and tested did you ever hear anyone speak ill of this great remedy? No, you never did and never will for if taken as directed and in the proper quantity "5 Drops" cannot fail to cure any of the diseases for which it is recommended. What it has already done to relieve the suffering is told in thousands of letters of grateful praise.

Mr. J. P. Limburner, widely known for many years as the special representative of the Populists and Free Silver Press of the United States, has kindly forwarded the following letter for publication:

Jan 25, 1897.

DEAR SIRS—I am anxious for the sake of the suffering and out of gratitude to you to give my personal endorsement of your wonderful remedy. On the 8th of January last, I was in Washington and was suddenly seized with an aggravated case of inflammatory rheumatism; so severe and painful was the attack that within 24 hours my left arm was paralyzed and I was only able to dress with assistance. I secured a bottle of 5 DROPS and took a dose that night, rubbing some on externally as directed. The following morning I was surprised to find myself immensely relieved, and continuing treatment woke the second morning cured. My arm was absolutely free from pain, and all swelling and stiffness had disappeared. The quickness and completeness of my cure was remarkable. I have known for over a year of the great curative properties of your medicine and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh and Asthma, and have several friends who have been cured by it of Neuralgia, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, "La Grippe," Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis and Kindred Diseases. Wishing you every success and trusting that those similarly afflicted will at least give this remedy a trial. Sincerely yours J. P. LIMBURNER

CURES THE INCURABLE.

DEAR SIRS:—I would like to thank you for your great remedy, "5 DROPS," and tell you what it has done for me. I had Rheumatism in every joint and in the heart, and had Catarrh of the head for 30 years. I was so poorly that I lost the use of my legs and arms and could not move without pain. I was so crippled that I had done but little work for seven years, and our family physician, a good doctor, told me that my Rheumatism and Catarrh were incurable and I believed him. But now, after using "5 DROPS" only two months, I can truly say I have not felt so well for seven years. This medicine does more than is claimed for it. All this time my Catarrh is much better, and I have scarcely any Rheumatism at all and the heart weakness and pain are gone. My hearing is now good and my eyesight is much better. I have gained more than 10 pounds of flesh and can do a full day's work. It is the best medicine I ever saw to give to a mother who has a young child, for it has the same effect on the child as on the mother. It wards off Croup and cures the hives of the child and causes sweet and refreshing sleep to both young and old.

WM. M. KELLEMS
Siberia, Perry Co., Ind.

Yours respectfully,

Jan. 29, 1896.

We received the following letter from Mr. J. J. Wilson of Omaha, Ill. Mr. Wilson has been for many years an invalid, and reading the above letter which was published in this paper, Kellems, asking if his endorsement was genuine, and received this reply, which he forwards us.

MR. J. J. WILSON.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of recent date at hand, the testimonial you speak of is genuine. The company who manufactures and sells "5 Drops" published my testimonial in its many witnesses. The company did not ask me for this letter. I gave it to them and every word of it is true, and I could swear to it and prove it by January for publication in order that poor sufferers, incurable as I once was, and as you are, might be cured. Get "5 Drops" and use it and it will cure you as it has cured me. I have received many letters like yours, and it is a pleasure to me to answer all who write. To all your neighbors what I have written about "5 Drops." I know how to sympathize with those who are afflicted, for though I suffered so long, it is now 8 months since I have felt any pain. Dr. S. W. Kellems, my brother, uses "5 Drops" in his practice, and joins me in endorsing this great remedy. He says for a case like yours it is a positive cure.

MR. W. M. AND DR. S. W. KELLEMS
